tember, 1916.

WOBURN, MASS.—A loss of $3,500, chiefly to young cucumbers, was sustained by George Foster when the heating plant was put out of commission February 19.

MORGANTOWN, N. C.—J. B. P. Massey, of the United States weather service, writing February 20, says the work of market gardeners here is well ahead of that of previous seasons and that the same applies to all other kinds of garden work. Early cabbages were planted February 9, and the truckers are getting ready to plant onion sets and early potatoes.

Gardening Corrects Evil Tendencies.

In these days, when there are so many people who profess that they want to raise their boy to be a soldier, and would have the schools turned into miniature military camps, it is interesting to hear from a man who can talk about something else, even in a presidential year. J. Otto Thilow is quoted in the Philadelphia North American, February 27, as follows:

"Flower culture serves to soften disagreeable traits that are found in many boys and does much toward stimulating higher ideals in government and society."

This is the belief of J. Otto Thilow, expressed yesterday afternoon in a talk on "Gardens" before the Farmers' Institute meeting in Horticultural hall, which is being held under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society and the Florists' Club of Philadelphia.

"Every family in Philadelphia," said the speaker, "should have a small garden. If there is no room in the front yard, put it in the back yard. It will give the boys and girls pleasant work to perform, and in watching the development of flowers they will get an elevating viewpoint of life and become better citizens. The cost is so trifling that the poorest man may have one."

"It is not necessary to buy expensive seed because the cultivation of daisies and common flowers is just as interesting and beneficial to the mind as the growing of selected plants. It is certain that a boy who watches with care a small garden will not break windows and get into trouble."

Success with Mushrooms.

As the years roll along, there come certain changes in methods, owing to a closer understanding of controlling factors, or made necessary by closer competition. This applies also to mushroom growing. We have experimented a little along the newer lines, which recognize important changes: Lower temperature at spawning time; more moisture during growing period; less preparation of the compost. We are at present marketing the crop from beds put in January 1. This is probably the best crop we ever produced, hence is well worth a closer acquaintance. The actual performance is worth more than a lot of theories. On a test, a bed of 100 square feet has produced on an average more than 5 pounds of fancy mushrooms daily, for weeks, and the end is not in sight. It is generally conceded that a crop of 1 pound per square foot is a good crop. This particular bed has now reached that point and promises another pound per foot. Some of the clusters of mushrooms have been over 12 inches in diameter, yet solid as a fine cauliflower.

In brief, the manure used was a very strawy, dry and inferior lot. It was piled to heat, using water freely to moisten it. After the first turning we added 100 pounds of acid phosphate per ton. After that each turning was finished off with three inches of soil on top of the square flat pile. This soil was mixed into the manure at each turning and new soil added on top — each time. The manure was turned twice each week for a month and then put in the beds. At that time it presented a different condition, being dark, moist and well decomposed. The beds heated up to 110°, and after several weeks declined to 72°, at which the spawn was inserted. We used American Pure Culture Brick Spawn. As these beds were built in a basement where heating mains were carried through, it was found necessary to water the beds, walks and walls daily to retain the moisture, and also to ventilate quite freely to keep temperature moderate. After three weeks the beds were cased with two inches of garden loam and the watering continued. The crop appeared after six weeks from time of spawning. So far, we have used water quite freely, almost as much as we would in a greenhouse, and the mushrooms show no setback. The temperature maintained is between 60 and 62°. We tried to lower it by adding ventilation with the result that a drop of 5° stopped all further production. When the temperature was raised back to 60°, the production at once came back to normal.

It used to be a rule to spawn at 90°, to avoid watering; to run lower temperature, in the cellars. Our next beds were given less preparation, the manure being turned only once once and then put into the bed. Otherwise they received the same treatment. This crop is not in, and we will watch the results with interest. As regards the sale of the crop we have succeeded in selling the greater part direct to consumers, owing to the fine quality and appearance.

This is the only variety that ever won the Society of American Florists' silver medal two years in succession, which is worth considering when buying new varieties. Results count—order accordingly.

THE BEST RED CARNATION

per 100; $100.00 per 1000; 500 at the 1000 rate.

The color is the most brilliant red of any carnation on the market. The size of the flower is 3 to 3½ inches, with stems 24 to 36 inches long; strong and stiff. The calyx never bursts and all flowers grade first. Best of all it is a steady and constant bloomer giving just as many flowers as the Enchantress of which it is a seedling. We have 30,000 plants now benched in our greenhouses of which 18,000 are devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. At our Pacific Coast Branch at Hollywood, Calif., we have 1500 plants devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. Orders from the far west can be sent direct to our Mr. E. B. Washburn, 252 South Orange Grove Avenue, Pasadena, Calif., who will give them his personal attention. An inspection of our greenhouses either at Hollywood, Calif., or Hinsdale, Ill., is invited.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia., President;
John Watson, Newark, N. Y., Vice-President;
John Hall, 204 Granite bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.

Forty-first annual convention will be held at Milwaukee, Wis., June, 1916

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.—Max Watson has resigned his position as city forester.

CURTIS NYE SMITH's important paper on "State Nursery Stock and Interstate Commerce" will be found on page 321 of this issue.

Two recent farmers' bulletins issued by the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., are "The Catalpa Sphinx" (Bul. No. 705) and "The Leopard Moth," (Bul. No. 708) the latter a dangerous imported insect enemy of shade trees.

American Association of Nurserymen.

Nurserymen everywhere are reminded that the forty-first annual convention of the American Association of Nurserymen will be held in Milwaukee, Wis., June 28-30, 1916. Unusual interest attaches to this announcement. At the Detroit convention last year a new constitution was adopted, the object sought being to increase the value of the organization to members by the larger scope given to its activities, embracing increased benefits to members, not the least of which is intended a greater volume of business and better profits. In fact, the American Association of Nurserymen as it exists today, under the reconstruction plan decided upon at the Detroit meeting, occupies an unique position before the trade, and it is evident that the men which the association expects to retain or to secure as new members will think more of their membership because of the action referred to.

A very comprehensive article, written by J. R. Mayhew, answering the question, "Why should I retain my membership in the American Association of Nurserymen?" has appeared in some of the trade publications, and sets forth in simple but convincing language the claims of the association upon every reputable nurseryman in the United States.

Those seeking full information as to benefits and terms of membership are asked to communicate with John Hall, 204 Granite Building, Rochester, N. Y., secretary. The convention will be a very businesslike assembly, with a programme of great merit.

Nursery Stock in Brazil.

People of the United States, and particularly nurserymen, are apt to think of Brazil as having a tropical climate throughout its vast extent of territory. This is quite incorrect. To be sure the summers are hot, and rather torridly tropical from Rio de Janeiro northward than otherwise; but the vast extent of southern Brazil is decidedly temperate in climate in most places, and throughout the republic the hill resorts affected by people for country residence are decidedly temperate in climate. A large dealer in nursery stock in Rio de Janeiro tells that many of the "Luther Burbank" varieties of scientifically improved orchard trees are known there according to Consul General Alfred L. Mooreau Gottschalk, writing from Rio de Janeiro, who states that among other unexpected things he found that one dealer had imported a considerable number of the Santa Rosa spineless cacti.

It would, in his opinion, of course, take considerable advertising to introduce northern fruit trees in any quantity into even the more favorable localities of Brazil; but numerous Brazilians are of the opinion that it might be done successfully, and probably many more would be interested if the first experiments were at all productive. He has been told that grapevines, and peach, pear, and apple trees would find the greatest chance here among the fruit farmers of the uplands and of the south.

But on the question of fruit farming, he says, let there be no misunderstanding. There are very few fruit or truck farms of any kind here, and the attempt would be a costly one, to be carried on only in conjunction with some established trade, say in fresh or dried fruits, or canned goods. The very fact that there are few orchards or properly organized truck farms to supply the larger cities is what would open, to a remarkable degree, a trade in both fresh and dried fruits from foreign countries if the supply could be made regular, the price kept down to suitable limits, and reasonable credit extended.

MR. PETER, FISHER, Ellis, Mass.

Dear Sir:—

LIMA, OHIO, Jan. 19th, 1916.

We thought it might be interesting to you to receive a report of your new carnation "Alice" as grown in this territory.

Alice has made a wonderful showing with us. We are growing some twenty different varieties of carnations. To date we have cut more blooms per plant from "Alice" than any of the other varieties. The blooms come almost 100 per cent perfect.

This carnation has proved all that you claimed for it, and we do not hesitate to say that we believe this variety to be the very best carnation of its color, being offered the Trade today. You are to be congratulated on "Alice."

Very truly yours,

ROLF ZETLITZ.

Scranton, Pa.

Business last week was good in all lines. February was a big month for funeral work. From all reports the St. Valentine's day business was good. Stock of all kinds is plentiful. There are large quantities of jonquils, tulips and hyacinths are more plentiful than they have been. Violets are plentiful and are in good demand.

NOTES.

Mrs. M. Muir, this city's pioneer woman florist, says that business has been better than ever with her this season. She had a very attractive window display for Washington's birthday. In the center was a large American flag made out of red, white and blue immortelles. It was banked around with large Boston ferns.

B. E. and J. T. Cokely say business is very good. They are busy getting out mail orders for seeds. A card from J. T. Cokely who is traveling through western Pennsylvania and Ohio reports business better than his last trip.

G. R. Clark reports a busy month in funeral work and sick room flowers. Miss Nora Loftus and Miss Clifford, of this store, are home with an attack of the grip. Miss Kennedy has returned after a two weeks' visit at Albany, N. Y.

The New York Floral Co. reports a big increase in business resulting from larger and better window displays. I noted at the store some fine Ophelia and Mrs. Charles Russell roses and Spencer sweet peas.

Howard Royer, of H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., was in town last week with a big line of baskets and florists' supplies.

A. L. Besancon & Co. are busy getting ready to move into their new store in the new Scranton Life Insurance Co.'s building.

Baldwin is showing some fine cyclamens, tulips, azaleas, and daffodils at his store on Adams avenue.

Miss Anna Griffiths, of the West Side Floral Co., reports a busy week in funeral work and counter trade.

C. P. Becker has taken a side line, the products of the Reading Bone Fertilizer Co.

T. B. McClintock reports heavy cuts of carnations and a large quantity of funeral work.

F. J. M.

Westchester and Fairfield Hort. Society.

The annual entertainment and dance of this society was held in the Town hall, Greenwich, Conn., Wednesday evening, February 16, and proved to be a real old-fashioned social gathering. The members, their families and friends, together with a large representation from the seed and nursery trade and trade press, formed a large, happy party which filled the spacious Assembly hall to overflowing. Billy Wilding, assisted by a company of 20 star performers, gave a minstrel show that was very creditable and deserved the great applause accorded them. The original stage setting and mixed company, male and female performers, was a novelty. A fine buffet lunch was served, after which dancing was indulged in until 1 a. m. The splendid combination of good music, fine floor and a programme of both old and new dances, kept everybody happy.

P. W. POPP, Cor. Sec'y.

MT. JOY, PA.—One new house, 10 by 84 feet, is being added to the range of E. H. Zercher.

DALLAS, TEX.—Chas. C. Choler has retired from the Rische-Choler Floral Co. The business will be continued under the old firm name by Ernest Rische, Jr., who bought his former partner's interest, and assumed the obligations of the firm.

BRISK TRADE AND PLENTIFUL SUPPLY.

Trade has been unusually good, with plenty of stock coming in. Funeral work has been the main outlet. Roses are getting more plentiful every day, and the quality is good. Carnations are increasing in quantity. Roman hyacinths are good but are having no call. Daffodils are in good demand and the quality is excellent. Lily of the valley is decidedly scarce, as are also good Easter and calla lilies. There is a large supply of fine sweet peas on the market, and sales are good. Of all bulbous stock there is a large supply and a varied assortment.

NOTES.

The Rhode Island Horticultural Society announces two special meetings. Thursday, March 2, at 8 p. m., at the Elysium hall, H. A. Emerson of the New York state department of foods and markets will speak on "The Distribution of Agricultural Products for the Benefit of the Producer and Consumer." The Horticultural Society is co-operating with the Housewives' League and other state organizations in arranging this meeting, and Friday, March 3, at Manning hall, Brown University, W. N. Craig, president of the National Association of Gardeners, will speak on "Beautifying the Home Grounds," and will deal with the small home garden and the making of lawns and paths.

The Easter stock this year will be good from all indications, although the growers will have a hard time holding back some of the large azaleas that are coming in fast now.

The Flower Growers' Depot opened up its new store on Westminster street this week and is making displays of carnations and roses.

Macnair had the decorations for the Masonic entertainment and dance, and the Cranston Police Relief Association ball this week.

THE MODERN WINTER FLOWERING SWEET PEA.

Paper by Howard M. Earl, Manager for W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.,
Read Before the Florists' Club of Philadelphia, March 7, 1916.

Development Since Time of Blanche Ferry

To arrive at the development of the winter flowering sweet pea we must go back to the introduction of that fine old variety, Blanche Ferry, for undoubtedly the American winter flowering sweet pea can be traced back to that variety, or the early flowering mutations which have since arisen from it. The history of Blanche Ferry is very interesting, and, strange to say, the name of its originator is not known. Over 50 years ago, a quarry-man's wife in Jefferson county, New York, procured some seeds from a bright flowered plant of that very old, in fact, one of the original varieties, Painted Lady (this variety was introduced in 1700), and for many years after she sowed and selected the best plants from her original selection, thus carefully and painstakingly improving her stock of what was in later years to be known as Blanche Ferry.

W. W. Tracy, Sr., who was then connected with the firm of D. M. Ferry & Company, of Detroit, in passing that way, saw the plants and was immediately impressed with their distinct character and obtained a small stock, only, we believe, about 100 seeds. The variety was named by the firm, Blanche Ferry, and was introduced by them in 1889. In 1895, D. M. Ferry & Co. introduced an earlier flowering type of the same variety, calling it Extra Early Blanche Ferry; then, in 1898, W. Atlee Burpee & Company introduced Earliest of All, this being a still earlier type than Ferry's Extra Early Blanche Ferry, and this variety is what is known on the market, and grown extensively as Christmas Pink.
There is a much earlier flowering variety of the same color which blooms sometime before Christmas Pink, but the growth is smaller and it is questionable if under glass the flowers attain quite the size of its rather later blooming counterpart. Undoubtedly, all our winter flowering sweet peas have the Blanche Ferry blood in them.
Although the crosses later may not have been made on that variety, still, the originals of the type all emanated from it.

The Telemly sweet pea, which originated with Rev. Edwin Arkwright, at Telemly, Algiers, Algeria, Africa, also sprung from Blanche Ferry. Mr. Ark-wright explains that a sport from Blanche Ferry showed itself in his garden, blooming in February, when he promptly marked it, and the seed saved from this plant showed flowers the following January. From this time on he got various sports from this, and also crossed them with some of the best of the summer flowering sorts. He explains that he sows all his peas about the end of September, and while the summer flowering varieties do not bloom until May, these early varieties come into bloom from January. As soon as Countess Spencer was introduced in 1904,
Mr. Arkwright procured it and has been crossing his original type with the new waved, or Spencer varieties, and I believe he has now a number of Spencer early flowering varieties quite fixed to color.

Mention should also be made of the early flowering type known as Engelmann's, who explains that about 1903 some plants of the regular summer flowering type sported with him producing plants of the true winter flowering habit. These he grew for some years under glass in England, where he is located, but on account of the dull weather usually experienced there throughout the winter, he has ceased to grow this type, as he can get the original summer flowering Spencers to bloom under glass in April.

The first of Zvolanek's varieties of winter flowering Spencers to be introduced are, we believe, the direct results of crossing the winter flowering grandifloras with the summer flowering Spencer type, but there have also been introduced several varieties of true Spencer form, but winter flowering type, which we understand came as direct sports from the summer flowering varieties, namely, Yarrawa, Rose Queen and Anita Wehrman.

The origin of that great Australian novelty, Yarrowa, is very interesting. Arthur Yates, of Sydney, explains that for many years sweet peas were looked upon as one of the most difficult plants to grow successfully in the warmer sections of Australia. The regular summer flowering types bloomed in the late spring when they were liable to sudden bursts of hot weather and heavy winds, which often shortened their flowering season to a few weeks. Occasionally they failed to bloom at all. However, the introduction of such varieties as Earliest of All, Mont Blanc, and later, the Telemly and newer American grandiflora varieties, quite revolutionized sweet pea culture in Australia, as these early varieties flowered in the winter and early spring, giving a supply of flowers for several months when practically no other flowers were available. This was a great advance and sweet peas soon became one of their most popular flowers. However, the quality of the winter flowering varieties was so much below the standard of the modern Spencers that the Australian growers were not satisfied, and efforts have been made with considerable success by a few enthusiasts to raise by selection and cross-fertilizing a superior type of the winter flowering varieties of the grandiflora section.

However, a decided advance was in view, as in 1908 there appeared in the garden of a John Young, of Sydney, in a patch of new summer flowering Spencers, one plant of true Spencer type, but quite distinct from all others. It was different in its vigorous habit and upright growth, earliness and color, and was in full bloom when the others were only a few inches high, and had gone to seed before the normal type had commenced to show flower buds. The seeds from this plant were carefully saved and sown the following autumn, when it came quite true to the parent, and instead of remaining more or less dormant all winter, as the original Spencers do, it commenced to bloom in the late autumn and continued to flower right through the winter, going to seed in the early spring, as Telemly and American winter flowering varieties do in Sydney, the winters there being comparatively mild with only light frosts.

This early Spencer is quite distinct in habit from any of the previous early flowering varieties. It is an extremely vigorous grower, and with good cultivation will in the vicinity of Sydney top a 10-foot trellis, while the Telemly and American older varieties grown alongside only attain half the height. The Australians have been working on Yarrowa as the seed bearing parent of many crosses using the best of the summer flowering Spencers, and we believe they have now quite a family of Yarrowas in the best colors, but, so far as we can judge by reports, they are as yet far from being properly fixed, though doubtless in a year or two this will be remedied, and as we consider Yarrowa the easiest doer of all winter flowering sweet peas, if these Australian children of Yarrowa embody the characteristics of the parent, they will be well worth having. My experiences and observations have been that in all lines of plant breeding the experimenter has to admit many times that nature's own crossing produces a type that is far easier fixed than when one sets about to try and obtain a given color, or type, and to no other flower does this apply more than to sweet peas.

Florists were quick to recognize the superior qualities of the Spencer sweet pea which W. Atlee Burpee & Co. first offered in America in 1904 under the name of Countess Spencer, and with the distinct new type came an earnest desire on the part of those interested to produce, if possible, a strain of the proper growth and flowering characteristics for forcing under glass. The first to endeavor to place a type of winter flowering Spencer on the market was Anton Zvolanek, of Bound Brook, N. J., and later of Lompoc, Calif., but his experience, judging from trials I have made, must have been very similar to those which Morse, Burpee and other growers had when trying to fix crosses, or sports of the original, or grandiflora types.

As a summer cut flower, the Spencer so quickly superseded the grandiflora type that it was only natural for florists to be most eager for a winter flowering strain producing the same beautifully waved flowers that today appeal to all flower lovers during practically the entire twelve months of the year. To me it seems that this extreme eagerness was solely responsible for some selections being placed on the market in an unfixed condition. Such a demand has been created for the seed of the Spencer type for forcing that many growers were satisfied to pay what might be called fabulous prices for seed which did not represent a fixed type, realizing that the high prices obtained for the waved flowers would permit a severe roguing in the bed, or bench, or a careful assorting of blooms after they were cut. The field of sale for seedling forcing sweet peas is very limited, and while watching the work of George W. Kerr at Fordhook, I always had in mind the fact that it was better to "make haste slowly" and arrange to place on the market only those selections of a pleasing color and which came absolutely true to type.

One of the strains of the modern winter flowering sweet pea which I have had the pleasure of watching develop represents practically six years of hard and patient work on the part of Mr. Kerr, and after repeated trials we were forced to concede that it was better and more sure to start at the bottom and work up slowly in this way, rather than to attempt to fix some of the strains offered to the trade.

As in all other lines of horticultural work, the seedsman is forever on the lookout for something better, and those firms who maintain extensive experimental grounds always have a great number of selections coming on, the majority of which the public will never hear of. This applies to sweet peas as well as to other blooming plants.

To those present who are interested in the development of the modern sweet pea, whether for forcing, or growing out of doors, I extend an invitation to visit the trials at Fordhook Farms during the latter part of June next, when we should have a fine display of all types.

American Carnation Society.

The carnation exhibition at the National Flower Show in Philadelphia, March 25-April 2, will be known as the silver jubilee exhibition. A special silver medal has been struck for the occasion and will be awarded to each winner of one or more first premiums in the competitive classes. These medals will be given in addition to the regular cash prizes. Another feature at this exhibition will be the class for the 12 largest blooms. For this class the Kroeschell Gold Medal is offered. This medal is of beautiful design, is valued at $50, and should bring out an extraordinary display.

The regular A. C. S. judges will officiate, except in the retail section, which will be judged by W. J. Palmer, of Buffalo; W. L. Rock, of Kansas City, and F. C. W. Brown, of Cleveland. The regular judges are C. W. Johnson, Morgan Park, Chicago; Wm. Nicholson, Framingham, Mass.; R. Witterstaetter, Cincinnati, O.; E. Dailidouze, Brooklyn, N. Y.; E. A. Stroud, Strafford, Pa.; W. J. Palmer, Buffalo, N. Y.

All entries for the carnation exhibit must be in the hands of the secretary not later than March 20. A $2 fine will be assessed against each entry arriving after that date. Prospective exhibitors will confer a great favor on the clerical force by sending their entries at the earliest possible moment. There is an immense amount of detail work in connection with an exhibition of this size, and nothing should be left that can be done early.

All members of the A. C. S. who have paid their dues for 1916 will be entitled to a season pass to the show. Certificates are being mailed to those whose dues are paid, which will be exchanged at the show for these passes. Please send in your dues at once and a certificate will be mailed to you.

Truffle Hunter Dead:

Giacomo Giavelle, the famous New York truffle hunter, is dead at the age of 64. Giavelle was the man who introduced American sportsmen to the art of shooting truffles over dogs, and also invented the truffling iron—a sort of cross between a niblick and a sty-mie—with which the wounded truffles are dispatched. He always maintained that the American truffle (Galatinus ferox, known to scientists as Gamber's truffle) was superior both in strength and cunning to the European species which he had snared as a youth in the forests of Lombardy. — Washington Herald.

DOUBLE SPRAY OF WHITE KILLARNEY ROSES AND CATTLEYS ON CYCAS LEAVES.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Philadelphia, Pa.

The Double Spray.

The accompanying illustration is of a double spray, at all times a strong and satisfactory arrangement, suitable to cover the casket lid, in lieu of the more elaborate blanket so often used for the purpose. Its construction is very simple. Two rose sprays are tied rather loosely, the stem ends brought together and bound down to a foundation of two pairs of cycas leaves, which have been brought together and fastened so that they measure six feet from tip to tip. About six inches of the leaves project from either end of the flowers. The center space is then filled in with green and roses, stemmed on sticks and stuck into the foundation afforded by the rose stems when tied together. Violets and cattleyas, together with white roses, make a conspicuous center for this cluster which is finished with a wide orchid ribbon. This can be made with almost any kind or combination of cut flowers. The palm leaves, good heavy specimens, are not much in evidence, only the tips showing, but they form a splendid foundation for the whole, being strong and unyielding in the center, but falling slightly with the weight of the flowers at the ends. A wreath of violets may be placed in the center, being especially good when it is used as a casket cover.

Looking Ahead to Easter.

Now that the Lenten season has set in, the time will travel fast to the greatest floral festival of the year. Many will say it is too early yet to do any decisive work, but will wait and see what the prospects are, and get a line, if possible, on the volume of business, etc. Delays are dangerous, however—being prepared is half the battle, and what is done now is a foundation to build on. Look over last season's record. Every live florist will have made a record showing all the details of that busy time, the varieties of plants that sold best, where they came from, their cost, and what was left. Also the filled baskets, the shapes that were practical, the combinations that sold best, the delivery and how it was conducted, and the extra help. All the various details as shown by the last year's record are brought fresh to the mind, the successes being noted as well as the things to be avoided. This is the time to look into all these matters before any false steps have been taken or stock ordered that last season's record shows was not profitable.

With all this before one, the planning for this year's business is much simplified—more or less of this or that plant is to be ordered as proved by the experience of last year. The entire list can be made out, and is then ready to be apportioned amongst the various growers as a later inspection of their stock warrants. Care must be taken, when ordering, that a careful record is kept and checked up on the list required, or too much of this or that plant is pretty sure to come in at the last.

The store man who has no conservatory or greenhouse, will find it best to have his basket work done by a grower, he supplying the special additional plants he desires used, or he can send his own men to do the work a week or ten days ahead, the stock being then taken care of by the grower and delivered to the store as desired. It is best, if possible, to select a basket of special design and coloring and run it in various sizes, as it has an added value by being exclusive. In nearly every large wholesale house, such a line may be found and colored to order. Zinc linings are a necessity and no good plant baskets are now used without them. The open mesh design showing the enameled zinc lining colored to get the desired effect are popular and of medium price.

The importance of the Easter trade cannot be over-estimated. Men may say: "We get all we can do anyhow, why should we try to get more?" Many of the trade do nothing, save perhaps send invitations to inspect their display, towards working up the business, before the busy time arrives. Facts about all the plants of the season and the great importance of the festival; how the beautiful custom of exchanging greetings with lovely, blooming plants has grown in the past few years until it has become universal; a brief history of the most popular plants; the story of the Easter lily—all these, and other items sent out weekly, in leaflets, arouse interest in the event, calling your stock and store to mind with each visit, so that when the week of weeks arrives, the interested patron is almost sure to be on hand with a bunch of orders that amply repay your efforts.

Going through an Easter business is a great strain, but the work can be made to run smoothly and with less friction, and much more accomplished with less effort, if it is carefully thought out and systematized. Generally, there is not intelligent help enough to wait on the customers when the rush comes. In every large city there are universities, where young men, students anxious to make a few dollars, can be had for two or three days at a time during the Easter holidays. One day breaks them in, and they are a great help during the rush times that follow. This, and a good delivery system, are two most important factors in the successful handling of an Easter business. There are always a lot of out-of-town orders that require to be crated for shipping. Assorted sizes of boxes, partially crated, can be gotten ready and with these on hand, the work of packing is much easier and things go out on time.

It is the night work following the busy day, and continued from day to day, that makes the holiday business so wearing. Men become so worn out and exhausted that half their efficiency is gone. Much of this drudgery can be avoided by careful planning and looking ahead, so that when the busy time arrives, all the before hand helps are available to relieve the strain that is inevitable at this busy period.

ILLINOIS STATE FLORISTS' ASSOCIATION.

Eleventh Annual Meeting and Exhibition,
Moline, March 7-8, 1916.

The Exhibition.

The eleventh annual convention of the Illinois State Florists' Association was held at the Turner hall, Sixth avenue and Fourteenth street, Moline, March 7-8. There were quite a number of exhibits from Rock Island, Moline and Davenport, with good representative exhibits from the other sections of Illinois and Indiana. Bassett & Washburn, Chicago, exhibited three fine vases of Ophelia, Sunburst and Mrs. George Shawyer roses, and a magnificent vase of their new carnation, Belle Washburn, in addition to fancy orchid flowering sweet peas, calendulas and young rose and carnation plants. Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, staged a fine vase of the beautiful canna, Firebird, which attracted much favorable attention, and also Hydrangea Otaksa, in bloom. Arvid Anderson showed a vase of his red carnation, Mrs. C. H. Deere, and a fine white seedling, No. 100. The E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, staged a number of vases of Rainbow freesias, grown by Alois Frey, Crown Point, Ind.; a magnificent vase each of Killarney Brilliant, White Killarney, Milady and Sunburst roses, grown by Wendland & Keimel, Elmhurst, and Killarney Brilliant and Ophelia roses grown by Meyer & Dramm, Elmhurst. The floricultural department of the University of Illinois showed their new pink seedling carnation, No. 1 (12), and C. Loveridge exhibited two vases of forget-me-nots and snapdragons. A. Washburn & Sons, Bloomington, had a table of splendidly grown sweet peas and violets, and F. B. Smith & Sons, Danville, exhibited their new pink seedling carnation No. C. 208. The Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, had a large exhibit of splendidly grown carnations, consisting of their red seedling No. 24-12A, white seedlings, 140-09, 140-09A, pink seedlings No. 39-12A, and No. 1-12B. Henry Baer, Peoria, exhibited carnations, among the varieties being Benora, Enchantress, White Enchantress, White Wonder, Mrs. C. W. Ward, Philadelphia, Commodore and Enchantress Supreme. The Davis Floral Co., Davenport, Ia., made an excellent showing of Boston ferns, and Wm. Knees & Sons, Moline, had a nice display of amaryllis, lilies, azaleas and begonia plants. Julius Staack & Sons, Moline, made a splendid showing of boxwood bushes, azaleas and other flowering and decorative plants. H. G. Pauli, Davenport, exhibited a large number of miscellaneous plants, with azaleas occupying a prominent part. The City Park greenhouses, Davenport, made a big showing of cyclamens and primroses, and C. D. Wiman (Arvid Anderson, Gr.), a collection of cinerarias. Henry Gaethje, Rock Island, had on exhibition a line of flowering plants representing a beautifully laid out suburban home, with a complete landscape effect, which was easily the hit of the exhibition. The A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co., Chicago, had a fine display of folding cut flower boxes, and Kroeschell Bros. Co., of the same city, exhibited illustrated photos of their new high pressure steam boilers. The exhibit of Kohen & Hiller, New York, consisted of ribbon, chiffon, shields and Elizabeth dolls. The Ionia Pottery Co., Ionia, Mich., showed a general line of flower pots, hanging baskets and lawn vases. The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Davenport, Ia., showed paints, brushes, putty, insecticides, etc., and the Gordon Van Tine Co., Davenport, displayed hot bed sash and greenhouse material. The A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, had a large exhibit of greenhouse and store supplies, including St. Patrick's day novelties. The Ideal Lighting Co., Davenport, interested the visitors with a showing of self-watering flower boxes. I. L. Pillsbury, Galesburg, was on hand with his handy carnation staples, and the Florists' Exchange, New York, showed a collection of floral albums. Wertheimer Bros., New York, exhibited ribbons and chiffons, and the Foley Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., Chicago, greenhouse materials. The Burlington Willow Ware Shops, Burlington, Ia., used a large room to display their baskets and showed a complete and interesting line. The W. W. Barnard Co., John C. Moninger Co., A. L. Randall Co., A. Henderson & Co., Bassett & Washburn, Chicago; Gordon Van Tine Co. and the Ideal Lighting Co., Davenport, Ia., had wall space in the hall and nearly all had representatives on hand.

The Business Meeting.

Owing to the late arrival of many of the visitors, the business session did not open until nearly 3 p. m., but Secretary J. F. Ammann arranged to have Mayor Martin R. Carlson on hand to address the members in the exhibition hall previous to the meeting. He was introduced by Harry Bills, of Davenport, and I. L. Pillsbury, of Galesburg responded. The meeting was called to order shortly after by President Johnson in a large room above the exhibition hall, and was largely attended. O. E. Steinkamp, secretary of the State Florists' Association of Indiana, in a letter invited all the members to attend the next meeting of the American Carnation Society at Indianapolis, Ind., and urged all the growers to make some kind of an exhibit.

The nomination and election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: C. W. Johnson, Morgan Park, president; I. L. Pillsbury, Galesburg, vice-president; J. F. Ammann, Edwardsville, secretary; F. L. Washburn, Bloomington, treasurer.

F. L. Washburn invited the society to hold its next semi-annual meeting at Bloomington, and Professor Dorner called attention to the fact that it might be advisable to hold another meeting at Urbana in the near future.

The committee on secretary's report, consisting of W. J. Keimel, Geo. W. Jacobs and Allie Zech, recommended that an amendment to the constitution be made to the effect that anyone eligible to membership in the association might become an associate member upon payment of $1, with dues of $1 per year until the amount of $10 had been paid, at which time the associate member became a life member, and was exempt from further dues. Persons at present members of the association may become life members by payment of the difference between the amount paid into the treasury for dues and the $10 required for life membership.

The recommendations embodied in the president's address were approved by the committee, consisting of George Asmus, C. L. Washburn and H. B. Dorner.

The treasurer's books were audited and his report approved as read by the committee, consisting of A. C. Kohlbrand, I. L. Pillsbury and John Staack.

Professor E. G. Lauterbach, Urbana, read Professor Peltier's paper, who was unable to be present.

President Johnson's Address.

Members of the Illinois State Florists' Association: We are now assembled for our eleventh annual convention and exhibition. At the annual meeting held a year ago at Urbana it was proposed that we hold two meetings each year—a fall meeting at the Illinois State Experiment Station, Urbana, and the annual meeting and exhibition in March at some other point in the state, to be designated each year. It was also decided at that time to accept the invitation of the Tri-City Florists' Club and meet with them in Moline at this time. Your executive committee held a session in Peoria, August 31, 1915, at which time the secretary reported being informed by the officials in charge of the experiment station that the month of March was the most suitable time for our association to meet with them, so the fall meeting of 1915 was dropped and the committee decided to go ahead with this meeting, as proposed, and invite the Iowa florists to meet with us.

I am sure that we all recognize the good work that is being done at the experiment station and the personal interest it should have for every member, but I do not believe that the best interests of the association can be served by localizing our annual meeting at any one particular point. I therefore suggest to you the careful consideration of this matter. This is the first time that we have met in the far western part of the state, and I feel sure that the association will greatly profit by it, and that every member will be benefited beyond measure for any sacrifice he has made to attend this meeting. It will enable us to get acquainted with the florists of this part of the state, as well as those from our neighbor state of Iowa.

I know that you will agree with me in saying that a good programme has been arranged for our benefit. After the reports of the officers of the association have been given, Professor F. W. Muncie will report on the work on fertilizers which has been carried out at the experiment station and Professor G. L. Peltier will report on the pathological work. I doubt if many of us fully appreciate what is being done to solve some of the problems along these lines. They are now of great importance, and will continue to become more so as the time goes by. Investigation and research of this character require time to arrive at any definite results whereby it would be safe to advise the average florist to follow, but I firmly believe that the different lines of work now being carried out by these gentlemen are going to be of the greatest value, not only to the florists of this state, but to those who live in other parts of the country as well. Therefore, permit me to ask of each member their earnest thought and consideration of the reports presented by Professors Muncie and Peltier.

"Christmas and Easter Flowering and Foliage Plants" is the topic of a paper to be read by W. E. Tricker, superintendent of Vaughan's Greenhouses, Western Springs, Ill., and I feel sure it will be listened to with the greatest of interest by everyone present. A new era appears to have been opened up for these plants, the demand at the holidays for first class stock being greater than the supply, and I know that Mr. Tricker, with his well-known experience, will give us many helpful pointers on the growing of these plants.

Professor H. B. Dorner is to speak to us on what the division of floriculture is doing. Professor Dorner informs me that there are now more students taking up the study of floriculture than at any other time. I have had the privilege of having some of these students work with me during the summer months, and have found them to be clean cut, earnest young men, and the question that presents itself to me is—"How are these young men going to be received by the trade after they are through with their studies? Will they receive remunerative salaries commensurate to the study they have put in to have made their efforts worth while?" Surely, these young men, trained to the conditions of this country, ought to be able to show better results than men of more mature years who have not had the same advantages. A talk on "Soils" by Dr. W. E. Taylor should also prove of special interest to all growers, and I would urge that every member enter into the spirit of the meeting, take part in the discussion, and give us the benefit of their experiences.

Just a few words for the good of the association, the first matter being the non-payment of dues. The secretary advises me that he is at his wits' end to find a way to induce the members to pay their dues regularly. It certainly cannot be the annual amount of $1.00 that is standing in the way, but it seems to be just neglect on the part of the members to attend to the matter on time.

I am not sure whether our association is eligible to affiliate with the Society of American Florists under its rule of 100 paid S. A. F. members, and I would suggest that the secretary take the matter up with Secretary John Young of the S. A. F. To my mind, a representative from every state society in the union on the board of directors of the national society would be an ideal arrangement. If it can be done, let our association be the first.

As a state association I believe our work should cover a more extended field than the florists' clubs of the cities, and that we should aim to get into close relations with the commercial bodies of the state. Permit me, therefore, to suggest that a committee be appointed to bring this about. Permit me also to suggest that a certificate of membership be drawn up, signed by the president and secretary, and given to each member to hang in his place of business. There is a growing interest among improvement societies and women's clubs throughout the state to hold local flower shows during the summer months, and I believe that we as an association could help in this work by contributing a display through our membership and assist in the judging of the exhibits.

The wet summer of 1915 was a bad season for the carnation plants in the field, and to it can be traced, to a great extent, the reason of the short supply of carnation flowers during the winter, but it would seem that growers are not watchful enough of their plants and fail to govern themselves according to the conditions of the weather. The grower who brought in his carnation plants early and thus saved them from a great deal of the wet weather has been well repaid by being able to supply a good lot of flowers at a high price. I wish that every member will feel himself duty bound to give us his views on any subject for the good of the association and our work.

I wish to thank the secretary for his work during the past year, and also to thank the local committees and members of the Tri-City Florist Club who have done so much to make this convention and exhibition a success.

As a closing word of appreciation to my fellow members of the Illinois State Florists' Association, I thank you for your confidence and presence here, and trust that our association will continue to grow in strength and usefulness as the years come and go.

Secretary Ammann's Report.

Your secretary is pleased to report the addition of one life and eight annual members during 1915.

Three members have preceded us into the great beyond during the past year, namely, D. U. Augspurger, of Peoria; Albert C. Rott, of Joliet, and John Zech of Chicago. May those bereaved by their passing find solace in the words of our one great Comforter, Jesus.

The matter of delinquent dues is of such importance that your secretary feels something should be done about it. Our constitution does not provide for the suspension of any member for non-payment of dues, nor does your secretary recommend any such provision; rather, in lieu of it, I would suggest the elimination of annual membership dues altogether, and instead amend the constitution so as to have just two classes of paying members, as we now have, except that the one dollar member be an associate member only, with no further dues to pay, and all those paying in or having in the past paid the sum of $10 as dues shall be made active life members. This would eliminate the nuisance of trying to collect annual dues and still not collecting but a very small percentage of them. The interest from a life membership fund and the associate membership dues together would pay the running expenses of the association. I recommend this for your earnest consideration.

The Social Session.

The social session held at the Moline Club rooms was a great success and over one hundred sat down to the banquet tables and were treated to a number of songs, well rendered by a local glee club. H. B. Dorner, assistant professor of floriculture at the University of Illinois, gave a lengthy talk on what the division of floriculture is doing and which proved very interesting. W. E. Taylor spoke and surprised all those present by giving a history of the business from its infancy, and quoting government statistics that even the members were not acquainted with. His talk was the hit of the evening and was both amusing and instructive and led one to believe that he was a professional speaker instead of one merely being invited to speak as a guest. It was nearly eleven o'clock when the party broke up, and it is needless to add that it was one of the most enjoyable affairs that the members ever attended. On Wednesday, the visitors were the guests of the Tri-City Florists' Club and the day was spent in an inspection of the greenhouses and other places of interest. The Rock Island, Moline and Davenport florists are certainly entitled to much credit for the way they all worked together and the splendid showing that they made at this convention.

Judges' Report on Exhibits.

Davis Floral Co., Davenport, large and well staged display of well-grown Boston ferns in 4 to 8-inch pots; also table of begonias and cyclamens.

H. G. Pauli, Davenport, display of well grown plants shown in hampers and baskets.

Arvid Anderson, gardener for Deere-Wiman estate, palms, cinerarias, Primula malacoides and cyclamens, all exceptionally well grown; honorable mention. Also showed white seedling carnation, No. 100, scoring 88 points, and entitled to the association's certificate of merit; also, red seedling, Mrs. C. H. Deere, honorable mention.

Davenport City Park greenhouses, display of double Primula obconica, new to the committee and considered worthy of certificate of merit.

Wm. Knees & Sons, Moline, Lilium Formosum, azaleas, amaryllis, dwarf cedars and begonias.

John Staack & Sons, Moline, fine group of boxwood, lilacs and azaleas; special mention. Also large display of well-grown roses in the following varieties: Mrs. Chas. Russell, Ophelia, Richmond, Killarney, Cecile Brunner. Also cut tulips in all shades, white and yellow marguerites, Prince of Wales violets, carnations, lily of the valley, mignonette, daffodils, freesias and hyacinths.

Bassett & Washburn, Chicago, excellent vases of long-stemmed Mrs. George Shawyer, Ophelia and Sunburst roses. Belle Washburn carnation was shown in its usual fine form; also several vases of sweet peas with exceptionally long stems, worthy of special mention. They also showed a group of healthy young carnation plants and grafted roses in 3-inch pots.

Wendland & Keimel, Elmhurst, several vases of long-stemmed, well-grown Killarney Brilliant, Mrs. Aaron Ward, White Killarney and Milady roses.

C. Loveridge, Peoria, vase of forget-me-nots, handsome vase of well-grown snapdragons with stems fully four feet long, White Wonder and Herald carnations; also vase of well-colored Prince of Wales violets.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, cut blooms of Canna Firebird and hydrangeas in flower.

E. C. Amling Co., Chicago, highly commendable display of Frey's Rainbow freesias, sweet peas and double and single violets.

Meyer & Dramm Co., Elmhurst, vases of excellent long-stemmed Ohelia and Killarney Brilliant roses; worthy of special mention.

A. Washburn & Sons, Bloomington, Prince of Wales violets and well-grown sweet peas.

Henry Baer, Peoria, vases of Benora, Enchantress Supreme, White Enchantress, White Wonder, Mrs. C. W. Ward, Philadelphia and Commodore carnations.

H. Johann, Collinsville, vase of well-grown Enchantress Supreme carnations.

F. B. Smith's Sons, Danville, vase of Pink Sensation and vase of crimson seedling carnation, No. 208, scoring 88 points; entitled to association's certificate of merit.

Mt. Greenwood Cemetery Association, Morgan Park, vases of red and pink seedling carnations, highly commended; two vases of pure white seedling, No. 140-09, scoring 87 points; entitled to association's certificate of merit.

University of Illinois, Urbana, light pink seedling, No. 1-12, scoring 90 points, and entitled to association's certificate of merit.

A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co., Chicago, display of folding cut flower boxes.

Kohen & Hiller, New York, ribbons and chiffons, New Castle shields and Elizabeth dolls; honorable mention.

Ionia Pottery Co., Ionia, Mich., general line of flower pots and new earthenware hanging baskets; also lawn vases and wire baskets.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., Davenport, Ia., paints, brushes, putty, insecticides, etc.

Gordon Van Tine Co., Davenport, hot bed sash and greenhouse material.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago, baskets, greenhouse and store supplies, including St. Patrick's day novelties.

Ideal Lighting Co., Davenport, Ia., self-watering flowering boxes.

I. L. Pillsbury, Galesburg, carnation staples.

Florists' Exchange, New York, collection of floral albums and books on floriculture.

Wertheimer Bros., New York, ribbons and chiffons.

Foley Greenhouse Manufacturing Co., Chicago, greenhouse materials.

Henry Gaethje, Rock Island, unique display with miniature bungalow surrounded by decorative landscape effect; also group of standard geraniums, cyclamens, begonias and cinerarias; highly commended.

The members of the Tri-City Florists' Club are congratulated on the success of their efforts that made this exhibition one of the best in the history of the society.

Respectfully submitted,

Christmas and Easter Plants.

Paper by W. E. Tricker, superintendent of Vaughan's Greenhouses, Western Springs, Ill., read before the Illinois State Florists' Association at the eleventh annual meeting, Moline, March 7, 1916.

Christmas and Easter Flowering and Foliage Plants. This, practically a short title, your secretary selected as the subject for an essay, and I am wondering whether this worthy gentleman was endeavoring to select a title, or get as much instruction as possible. To capitulate at any length on this subject, would require much more time than your entire convention, and would necessarily require a different man than myself to present same.

The ordinary florist takes the matter of Christmas and Easter plants very much as a man buying a spring or fall suit of clothes. It has come to be habit in most instances without the direct forethought that should be used in so great and varied a scope as this section should be to the trade in general. When one speaks of Christmas plants, naturally they expect the usual line of poinsettias, a few azaleas, cyclamens, and the usual line of crotons and dracenas. For Easter the predominant features are lilies, roses, hydrangeas, hyacinths, tulips, etc.

I think the florists of this country should endeavor to get out of the matter of fact and deepened track of the usual stock used for these different occasions and try to present something to the public that is a novelty, that will increase the plant trade in the same way that the disseminators of new roses and carnations are at the present time doing and have been for several years, pushing forward their wares according in the same way that fashion indicates to the feminine mind. By making this statement I do not mean to disregard the old staple plants that we know are selling year by year, and that we have educated the public to call for. The main factor is as to where we have rested or stopped at a certain point, whereby the grower figures he has reached that stage when he cannot grow something different to be attractive. Perhaps it is not the growers' fault, as with the exception of one or two retail florists they are cautious of breaking into a new line. If something new is brought to their notice the predominant thought relates to price, with the purchase of six or at the outside a dozen plants, instead of more where they could make a large display and educate the public to what is really beautiful and also a novelty and something that will be considered in future years. The consequence is isolated plants among their other stock in general, and unless a live salesman pushes them, are very often left to the tender mercies of the knockout price or the garbage can. It is only a matter of 10 to 15 years ago that the general public had no idea of buying the flowers and pot plants that they do at the present time. In a sense the public have been educated to regard Christmas very differently than they did years ago, and I am very much afraid we have not taken advantage of our best opportunities to present to them other stock outside of the plants that grow with the least form of resistance.

With the pot plant business, to most florists it is discouraging for the simple and most predominant factor that it costs about three times as much to produce the same amount of money to the square foot occupied by same than is the case with plants benched and used for cut-flower purposes. There are many discouragements along the line of success in the pot plant business. Many expect all profit and no loss. There must necessarily be waste and cull plants, no matter how careful or good a grower may be. You cannot take the hose and water pot plants in the same way and manner that you treat the rose bed, and especially for all the forcing stock there are various stages to be watched with different temperatures and last, but not least, bringing forward for a certain date. So many of us look upon a plant, requiring a certain period, and say we will force it into bloom for a certain date. If we are little behind we will require a certain period, and say we will force it into bloom for a certain date. If we are little behind we will put extra heat on, and we will resort to all the tactics and emergencies that our experience may have taught us, but there is a predominating feature underlying the forcing of all plants that we must remember. That we are only beating nature on the time, and by so doing we must, to get the required success, get the natural finish to our plants and give satisfaction to our patrons, that we must keep along those nature lines and get away from the word force. It is so vague and misrepresenting that we very often forget the true nature of it which is—growing.

How many florists here have stock under their benches, or in an inconspicuous place where the thought is at a certain time,—Oh, we will place them on the bench at a certain date; we have so many days time—and the very stock never enters your mind, until circumstances compel action, or the necessary heat that is needed. The main factor and guiding rule, on all stock to be grown and finished ahead of natural time, is that root action must be healthy, vigorous and predominant before the plant may be expected to break forth. For instance, take azaleas. In many cases last season consignments were not received from abroad until December 1, and it is a fact that many growers had stock for Christmas. But what credit, what benefit, is that to the trade—such excessive forcing. The purchaser receives the plant, it lasts a few days, the customer is dissatisfied, the retailer is also dissatisfied and we are not satisfied with ourselves that we did the right thing. I believe if we could combine and determine to sell only well finished and hardened off plants that the public of today, instead of buying at Christmas, and holiday seasons, would be more intent on having flowering plants in their homes all the season and become a flower loving nation. The old nations of which we are descended from, were flower loving people, always having their windows resplendent with plants all the year around. The house-wife, society lady, and in fact every woman who took pride in her home, loved to watch the flowering and foliage plants thrive and grow under her tender care. When she bought a new plant she understood full well that they were finished, hardened off plants, ready to take their place in a home for a prolonged time. This can well be understood by the records 'all growers in foreign countries have of their productions. It is useless for me to capitulate further on what we should do and I think a brief outline of the various plants will be more acceptable and beneficial at this time.

There are many ways and methods of growing stock in these enlightened times. I think the old adage "there is only one correct way" that some of my employers, especially in my earlier days, used to try to drill into me, can safely be abolished. The old-fashioned methods while they were good, and they were productive of results, are not always best. We are moving too quickly in these times to grow the stock in the same way and manner they were grown at that time. We cannot find ourselves receiving less for the plant than what it costs to produce. One instance in particular impresses my mind—that when my illustrious parent determined that I should have a similar experience and method of gaining knowledge that he had received directed that I should enter the establishment of Veitch & Son, at Chelsea, London, England, signing up for a three year contract, it certainly seemed, after having a varied experience in this country, that I had gone back about 30 years. The fact that impressed me—the man in charge of the department instructed me to take charge over certain houses. He gave me two watering cans, a boy to carry water and a long handled wooden hammer to tap the pots to ascertain if they were dry. Imagine my feeling later, when he insisted I tap every pot, whether I thought it was dry or not! I mention this to explain how thorough the old-fashioned method was. A plant was more carefully nourished, more carefully handled, and I think we can attribute the success of the foreign firms to this fact—carefulness of handling and thinking out every means and method to further the industry, which has grown to be a trade rather than a profession, should be the foreword.

The flowering plants for Christmas—poinsettias, azaleas, cyclamens, lilliums, etc., that most any grower or florist will stock. Also begonias, but the latter, in recent years, have not been popular. They are bad shippers, and if of solanum, especially Melvini has filled the gap on the cheaper priced stock. It has been my experience with all solanums and peppers, while the planting out process to all purposes is cheaper than the pot grown, a grower is doubly repaid by growing this stock in pots throughout the season and plunging the pots in the open ground over the rim. There are very few growers who can safely lift stock and pot it without it suffering materially, and there is nothing worse than a solanum with hardly any berries and no leaves. Skimmia Japonica has come to the front again the past two years, being imported. It very seldom arrives here with the number of leaves it should have as a finished plant. Another detriment is that the berries are not bright enough to be conspicuous with the foliage carried on these plants. Ardisias are extensively grown in the eastern sections and will become popular as the various growers learn to understand the ways and methods of growing them. The probable addition that would be beneficial to the trade at Christmas is the Azalea Kaempferi. This is a scarlet Japanese variety, producing a lustrous mass of bloom and making a predominant showing in pot plants, and to the writer's mind, is very much prettier and effective than Mme. Petrick. The red tulips in pots have not gained the popularity that one would suppose for Christmas: I think possibly the fault lies in the growing. The scarlet, Duck Von Thol, if handled rightly, will finish very nicely for Christmas in pots or pans 9 to 12 inches high, and there is little trouble in getting these in on time.

It seems that of recent years there has been a large demand for 4-inch stock, nicely finished, to be used in making up baskets and various designs. This idea, providing the linings are deep enough, gives our retailer excellent scope for originality, and it should also teach the grower that there are large possibilities in the medium size plants, besides the specimen plants that are grown so extensively in some of our large plant growing establishments. At the present time, in the baskets and other receptacles that are made up, 3-inch colored dracaenas such as terminalis, Kelleriana, Whitmani and Boston ferns; Asplenium nidus in 3-inch and 4-inch pots; the variegated pineapple; Aralia gracillima; Areca lutescens; Cocos Weddeliana; marantas in variety; heaths of the Wilmorin and Hyemalis type; table ferns including Pteris Argyraea and Victoriae, and even the old anthurium and anthericum, make excellent material for this class of work. Large basket or pan effects are greatly enhanced with the gold dust plant, mixed in with berried plants.

The palm sections for decorative plants seem to vary and are now somewhat on the wane. We cannot help but think that the Boston fern has to a large degree been responsible for this change. Although large specimen plants of Asplenium nidus, phlebodium, Dracaena Massangeana, and specimen plants of the better varieties of crotons, such as Readii, etc., are used now extensively for home decorations.

Leaving the Christmas flowering and foliage plants in this unfinished condition, and before your patience is entirely exhausted, we will consider the more extensive variety, and as it were they receive the slightest check or chill at any stage they represent loss. Melior, of recent introduction, supercedes Lorraine and Cincinnati.

There are foliage plants, such as dracaenas, crotons and pandanuses in the various forms. In speaking of dracaenas, one's thought flies to terminalis, undoubtedly the most popular and easiest one to produce. There is no great variety of dracaenas grown. Lord Wolsley, providing the weather for the 10 to 20 days before Christmas is bright, is very much superior in color and general effect than the former. Amabilis is attractive.

There has always been a tendency for red berried stock for Christmas, which is natural and the various types the out-burst of plant life for Easter; everyone looks forward to Easter as a renewal, to everything that is pleasant, the summer; truly the resurrection. The public little realize the trouble the grower has had in producing stock to this stage. In all probability the grower has figured a whole year on this one feature—to finish his stock ready for this Easter. Easter being a varied holiday as to time, it very seldom comes to please all growers. It is either too late or early. For instance, this year, Easter comes just at the time when everybody is getting ready for the spring trade, as all who are interested in a catalogue trade know. It has been a serious proposition. You were unable to dispose of your Easter stock, and make room for stock to follow. It has been one continual cramp, unless a lot of foresight has been utilized.

Kroeschell's Flower Show Medals.

In the accompanying illustration are shown two gold medals donated by Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago, and which will be awarded at the Fourth National Flower Show, Philadelphia, March 25-April 2. The medals, one donated to the American Rose Society and the other to the American Carnation Society, are of yellow, red and green 14 carat gold, weigh 14 and 12 pennyweight respectively, and are valued at $50 each. They are so arranged that they may be worn as a watch charm if desired. The carnation medal will be awarded for the 12 largest single carnation blooms, any color or variety. The awarding of the rose medal has been left to President Pennock of the American Rose Society.

TOLEDO, O.—Harry Heintz is contemplating improvements and additions to his range.

SAN FRANCISCO, CALIF.—Stelling Bros. have opened a flower shop at 3235 Twenty-second street.

ELYRIA, O.—A new flower shop has been opened here under the management of F. L. Gunton.

RICHMOND HILL, N. Y.—August Millang, of New York, has opened a branch store here at 4558 Jamaica avenue.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX.—Chris. Hauser, Jr., has added a new office and salesroom to his establishment on Crockett street.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—A. J. Newsham has closed the Orchid Store and will conduct his business from his nursery on Canal street.

BEAUMONT, TEX.—The Beaumont Floral Co. has purchased several acres of land and will enter the wholesale field. Business is reported good.

GULFPORT, MISS.—The park commission, recently created, has started on its work, which will include the beautification of every wide street in the city.

JOHNSVILLE, PA.—James Moss' upper range of greenhouses was partially destroyed by fire March 4. By the prompt arrival of the local fire company from Southampton he was enabled to save part of the houses, also the main house with farm buildings, stock and implements. The wind blew a gale and the thermometer was at zero outdoors. Nearly everything in the houses was ruined.

OBITUARY.

Albert Roper.

Albert Roper, the well-known originator and grower of carnations, of Tewksbury Centre, Mass., was found murdered, in one of his greenhouses, on the night of March 1. He had been struck on the head by a heavy piece of pipe. His body was found by his son, Chester, who was making his rounds taking the temperature. The case was taken up by Superintendent Walsh and officers of the Lowell police force and by members of the State police force, and March 2 they arrested Albert J. Roper, another son, who, it is stated, had previously quarreled with his father, and who has been living away from home. He denies that he was in Tewksbury on the night of the murder, but the police claim to have found a street car conductor who recognized him as a passenger on his car in Tewksbury. At a hearing, in Lowell, March 3, young Roper was committed without bail by Police Judge

The Late August Krueger.

Enright. He pleaded not guilty and his attorney asked for a continuance to March 14, which was granted.

Though he worked in a quiet and unobtrusive way, Albert Roper was generally recognized as a carnation expert. His first production that attracted attention was Fair Maid, a light pink carnation that was introduced 12 or 14 years ago. It was grown extensively in New England up to a few years ago. Alice Coombs has of late been seen in exhibitions, taken prizes and received favorable mention.

Albert Roper was born at Wedmore, Somersetshire, England, and came to this country when about 20 years old. He worked for some time as a grower at Madison, N. J., removing later to Massachusetts. He was about 56 years old. He is survived by a widow and several sons. A. F. F.

August Krueger.

August Krueger, founder of the Greendale Conservatories at Meadville, Pa., and one of the best known and respected citizens of that city, died at his home, February 25, aged 75 years. He was born in Hohen Nieuendorf, Germany, at which place his father was a forester, and where the deceased entered the florist business at an early age. After serving his country in the Franco-Prussian war, he came to America, expecting to return to Germany after a visit, but was so favorably impressed that he decided to remain, and located at Buffalo, N. Y., being engaged on a private estate. After a short time he took charge of the Letchworth estates, and for about eight years had supervision over both of them, one at Buffalo and the other at Auburn, N. Y. While in Buffalo he sent for his sweetheart in Germany, Miss Helen Barly, and they were married in New York upon her arrival.

In 1880, he purchased a small florist's business at Meadville, owned by Henry Munz, and established what are now known as the Greendale Conservatories, and his extensive knowledge of plants and flowers, industry and upright business principles are reflected in the growth of the establishment to its present size, during a successful career of 36 years, during which time he made a host of life-long friends. He retired from active business several years ago, at which time his son, Henry J. Krueger, succeeded him, and under whose able management the business has continued to thrive.

August Krueger was a man of most kindly disposition; he loved flowers, birds, children, a man of high ideals, living an exemplary Christian life, and he merited the high esteem in which he was held by all with whom he came in contact. He is survived by his widow, one son, Henry J. Krueger; one daughter, Mrs. Virgil Stanton, and three grandchildren. He also leaves two brothers and a sister in Germany. He was a member of Zion Evangelical church and belonged to Modiste lodge No. 340, F. and A. M., of Buffalo. Funeral services were held February 28, and his remains were borne to their last resting place, surrounded by a profusion of beautiful floral offerings, final tributes of respect from many friends who mourn his death as a keen personal loss.

W. Wells, Sr.

British papers announce the death of W. Wells, Sr., the well known chrysanthemum grower of Merstham Nurseries, Surrey, Eng., February 28. Mr. Wells visited the United States some years ago, and was interested with Chas. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J., in the introduction of many highly meritorious varieties of chrysanthemums into this country.

Jesse M. Gerard.

Jesse M. Gerard, aged 80 years, for the past 34 years a nurseryman of Dover, N. J., died at his home there, February 20. He was born near Hackettstown, N. J. He is survived by a widow, one daughter and three sons. A. F. F.

AUBURNDALE, MASS.—F. W. Fletcher is in California investigating the freesia situation.

MILFORD, CONN.—Andrew MacCrea has opened a flower store in the Citizen's Art Shop.

CROWN POINT, IND.—Alois Frey left February 29 for California, where he is interested in some plantations of colored freesia bulbs.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Alex Laurie, formerly chief of the department of floriculture at the University of Maine, has taken a position at the Missouri Botanical Garden, as horticulturist.

LETTERS mailed from Holland January 26 reached Chicago March 7. Letters mailed from Chicago November 15 reached their destination in Germany January 22.

We have received the final premium list of the Fourth National Show, copies of which may be had on application to Secretary John Young, 53 West Twenty-eighth street, New York.

American Gladiolus Society.

Members in good standing will be given free season tickets to the National Flower show to be held in Philadelphia March 25-April 2. It will be necessary to have a certificate, which will be gladly furnished by addressing Secretary Henry Youell, 538 Cedar street, Syracuse, N. Y.

Society of American Florists.

The proceedings of the society for 1915, a volume comprising 364 pages, has been mailed to all members of the society. Members of the society in good standing visiting the National Flower Show in Philadelphia will be furnished with a season ticket of admission upon arrival at Convention hall. It will facilitate the work of the secretary's office and prevent confusion and delay upon your arrival at the exhibition hall if you will remit your 1916 assessment at this time. The 1916 badge button will be sent you by return mail.

DEPARTMENT OF PLANT REGISTRATION.

Public notice is hereby given that the Bedford Flower Company, Bedford Hills, N. Y., offers for registration the rose mentioned below. Any person objecting to the use of the proposed name or registration is requested to communicate with the secretary at once. Failing to receive objection to the registration, the same will be made three weeks from this date.

Description: A pink sport of Double White Killarney. Has the same habit of growth and is equal in production. Same foliage. Color is light pink, becoming deeper to the center as it opens. Flower is long and opens in perfect form. Name—Bedford Belle.

March 4, 1916.

By direction of President Daniel MacRorie, a meeting of the board of directors of this society has been called, to take place at the Hotel Walton, Philadelphia, Pa., Tuesday, March 28, at 2:00 p. m., to continue until all business to come before the board is completed.

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

National Flower Show.

PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 25-APRIL 2.

The final schedule of premiums covering the classes for competitions at the National Flower Show, Philadelphia, Pa., March 25-April 2, has been distributed, and all contemplating making entries are urged to place them in the hands of the secretary at once. The closing date for entries is March 20, and entries after that date must be accompanied with a fee of $2, and will only be received subject to acceptance by the National Flower Show committee.

Practically all of the space set apart for trade exhibits has been reserved, excepting a few blocks on the main floor extension, which will, doubtless, be taken up within a few days. Exhibits or exhibition material should be forwarded wherever possible by Pennsylvania R. R. connection to North Philadelphia station, which is two blocks from Convention hall, where the show is to be held. Arrangements have been made whereby all shipments arriving at that station will be hauled to Convention hall at the rate of 15 cents per 100 pounds, and all shipments arriving at other stations will be hauled at the rate of 20 cents per 100 pounds. Packages should be marked "Oberholzer Transfer." Shipments by Adams Express should be marked "North Philadelphia station," which is a depot of the express company.

All arrangements for the show are about completed, and at this date the prospects for the success of the undertaking are particularly bright. The show will open at 2 p. m., March 25, and the opening ceremonies will take place at 3 p. m. Anyone requiring a copy of the final schedule can obtain same on application to the secretary.

JOHN YOUNG, Sec'y.

Gardeners' Essay Contest.

Chairman William H. Waite, of the committee on essays and horticultural instruction of the National Association of Gardeners, has appointed Edwin Jenkins, Lenox, Mass.; William Downs, Chestnut Hill, Mass.; Arthur Smith, Reading, Pa.; William J. Stewart, Boston, Mass., and J. Harrison Dick, New York, judges of the gardeners' essay contest. The report of the judges will be made public at the National Flower Show in Philadelphia on March 28.

President W. N. Craig offers $25 as a first prize, $15 as a second prize and $10 as a third prize in a new contest, for assistant gardeners, on any subject pertaining to horticulture, limited to 2,500 words. The contest will close November 1 and the winner will be announced at the annual convention of the association in December. The essay committee will issue the rules regulating this contest shortly.

American Rose Annual.

The "American Rose Annual," official publication of the American Rose Society, is now ready and will prove both interesting and valuable to professional as well as amateur growers. The book, ably edited by J. Horace McFarland, contains upwards of 150 pages, is well printed and bound in cloth. We feel certain all members of the society and every friend of the rose will desire copies of this book.

The "American Rose Annual" is supplied to all members of the American Rose Society. Additional copies to members, 50 cents each, postpaid. Others may obtain the annual by remitting $1 for associate membership to B. Hammond, secretary, Beacon, N. Y.

Kewites Reunion.

There is being arranged a reunion and banquet for Kew men and their ladies, to be held in New York, April 5, 1916, during the week of the flower show. It is hoped that all Kew men will make a special effort to attend, as this is the first reunion of this character held in the United States. For full particulars apply to M. M. Tree, head gardener, Brooklyn Botanic Gardens, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ladies' Society of American Florists.

On account of the secretary not attending the National Flower Show, to be held in Philadelphia, Pa., March 25-April 2, the president has authorized Mrs. Albert M. Herr to receive dues and give receipts for same.

Foreign Mail Delay.

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

We give you copy of our letter of March 4, addressed to the Hon. Robert Lansing, secretary of state, Washington, D. C., with respect to condition of the foreign mail.

We would suggest that you give this matter some space in your next issue, in the interest of the various nurserymen, seedsmen, and florists in the United States, who no doubt are greatly inconvenienced and handicapped, owing to the late delivery of mail and which we believe can easily be remedied through your help in giving this matter further and wider publicity.

MALTUS & WARE.

Honorable Robert Lansing,
Secretary of State,
Washington, D. C.

Sir:—On behalf, and in the interest of the various nurserymen in the United States for whom we have regularly acted as custom house brokers and forwarding agents, we take the liberty of addressing you, to call your attention to the exceedingly great delay recently experienced in receiving important foreign mail.

The S. S. New Amsterdam from Rotterdam arrived at this port on Thursday, February 24 last, and had on board consigned to us about 560 cases of living plants, intended for various nurserymen which require prompt forwarding on arrival so that they can be properly watered and cared for.

The mail matter of this vessel, we are informed, was taken off the vessel by the British authorities at Falmouth, Eng., and it was not until the S. S. Cedric, arriving February 28 last, did we receive any portion of this mail, and at this writing are still without mail for over 200 cases presumably still detained in England, and now not expected until next steamer.

The S. S. Noorderdyk arriving March 1, and the S. S. Oosterdyk arriving March 2, both from Rotterdam, with approximately 300 and 800 cases and with no documents whatsoever. May we suggest, in order to overcome a repetition of like occurrence in future, which is detrimental to all perishable goods, and respectfully request that you take this matter up with the British authorities with a view of setting aside on all mail vessels a portion of the mail to be known as Consignees' Letters to contain bills of lading, consular invoices, waybills, or letter giving instructions for the disposition of the stock upon arrival.

These documents to be placed in envelopes by the various forwarding agents in Rotterdam or other seaports in the presence of the British consul at that port and to be given in charge of the purser or other officer on board the vessel carrying the goods for the immediate reinspection by the British authorities.

Boston:

MARKET CLEANS UP WELL DAILY.

Business has been very good during the past week. The trade has been brisk and the markets clean up well each day. Roses move very well at from $2 to $12 per 100 for the general line. Russell, Hadley and Ophelia bring from $4 to $16 per 100. Carnations have been in demand, $3 per 100 being received for them. Bulbous stock continues about the same in price, although it cleans up better than last week. Victorias are the most prominent in this line at present. The exceptionally cold weather has hurt the violet trade to a certain extent, but as the supply is rather short they bring 50 cents per 100. Sweet peas are arriving in large quantities and prices are steadily dropping, $1.50 per 100 being received for the very finest flowers, but many are sold as low as 50 cents per 100. Cyclamens, hydrangeas, primulas and bulbous stock in pans comprise the bulk of the plant trade.

NOTES.

Matthew F. Raune, the popular Waltham florist, was elected esteemed lecturing knight, chairman of the house and entertainment committees in the Elks' lodge last week. He reports a good business and is adding a Ford delivery car to his service.

M. Penn, the Bromfield street florist, was pinning flowers on family friends, March 1, and receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a seven pound boy—"and the mother is fine, thank you," the proud father told the inquirers.

Some of the finest shamrocks in Boston are grown by B. P. Winch, of Framingham. He also is cutting a good crop of carnations.

F. L. W.

Providence, R. I.

FAIR TRADE AND GOOD STOCK.

Business during the past week has been fair, but floral work has not been as heavy as in former weeks. Stock of all kinds is good. Daffodils in the better varieties are coming in and sell well. Carnations are very good with the prices holding firm again, good stock selling at a good price. Sweet peas are good and the demand for this flower is good. Poeticus and Paper Whites are having very little call. Pot plant sales are good and the call for this stock is very satisfactory. The azaleas are selling slowly, but the stock is fine, and the displays are good. There have been several salesmen for the Holland bulb trade in the city the past week, and they report having booked a number of orders for April delivery. Violets this year are not having the call that they have had in former years, and the growers are not growing as many violets as usual. There seems to be only one solution to this problem, and that is that the street fakirs and small stores are cutting prices so much, and the violet is becoming so common, that the better class of people will not buy them. The regular florist will not carry violets and reduce the price to meet the street man.

H. A. T.

Toronto.

HEAVY OVERSUPPLY UPSETS PRICES.

There has been a slight lull in business the past week and stock accumulated so much that March 4, was a real bargain event, and the cut-rate dealers had a gala day of it. Bulbous stock, violets, lily of the valley and carnations were sold at any price to get rid of them. The brighter weather has increased the quantity and also helped the quality, and the stock coming in is a credit to the growers. Roses still take first place in popularity, and are the bread and butter of the retail stores. These, with the exception of American Beauties, are all in fine shape. Carnations are at their best, and other varieties of flowers are equally good. The military decree having been issued that all large social functions are tabooed, it has played havoc with the decorators, as this line is absolutely flat; other social functions are being held as quietly as possible, so that, with the exception of funeral work and flowers for the hospitals, there is little doing. Even the better homes, which were formerly large users of flowers, are curtailing as much as possible, but we optimistic ones see a great future ahead, and when the boys return again there will be a gala event, which, I believe, will tax the florists to their utmost and make up for slack times.

NOTES.

J. H. Dunlop has his Richmond Hill greenhouses in the pink of condition and the stock coming in possibly averages the best he has ever sent out. There are roses, Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty, Stanley, Shawyer, Russell and double white Killarney, with strong stems and good bright foliage which would be hard to beat. Carnations have also done well, and his orchid sweet peas are a credit. Mr. Dunlop expects to attend both the New York and Philadelphia shows in the capacity of judge. At the retail store, Geo. Geraghty, the manager, has been suffering from la grippe, but is again on the job. His large and fine display window is well looked after, and he always shows good stock, but, like the others, he finds things on the quiet side.

Dillemoth, Florist, has been showing well grown lilacs, azaleas and funkia, the combination proving very effective. Eight of the former staff having joined the colors so there are few of the originals left.

Only an average business is the report from Tidy & Son. Funeral work is the chief item now, but stock of good quality is always in the show window. Some very fine pansies are a striking feature.

W. E. Calvin, of Brampton, is sending in good violets and has them in quantity. To be fashionable he had la grippe, but is again able to attend to business.

Wm. Dykes, of Jansen's, New York, is a visitor. "Good in spots, but bad in others," is his version of trade, but his geniality is always of the lasting kind.

H. G. D.

Pittsburgh.

STEADY MARKET AND GOOD PRICES.

Business continues to be quite good, the local market having remained practically steady since the memorable flower famine of January. Good prices have been the rule during the entire season, and bid fair to remain so until after Easter, which is surely a great reverse from the prices at which flowers were disposed of last season. With the advent of Lent, however, a slight depression may be expected, but hardly enough to cause any noticeable change. A fair amount of sunshine has brought an abundance of flowers into the local market, with bulbous stock still in the lead. Roses have also recovered from their recent shortage, and carnations and sweet peas of excellent quality are offered. In the latter, some very fine Spencers are featured, for some of which $2 per 100 is easily realized. The florists' supply business is in bad shape at present, owing to the fact that many staple articles cannot be obtained, and that the articles that are being handled are constantly advancing in price from day to day.

NOTES.

R. J. Daschbach had the decorative work for the Rosenbaum Co.'s spring opening, among which 30 huge baskets of artificial flowers were used, the baskets encircling each pillar on the main floor. The work kept the entire force busy every minute from Saturday evening until early Monday morning.

The florists' team of the Allegheny Market Bowling League are doing good work in their line, having won two games from the Bakers in their last match. The roster of the florists' team comprises Hoffman, Niggel, Lang, Baker and Lamm.

The Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. is cutting heavily on Killarney roses at their Bakerstown range. Leon Bergman, of this firm, is now serving in the capacity of traveling representative.

Theodore Verscharen deserves a word of praise for the good quality of tulips and other bulbous flowers that come from his Mt. Oliver range. His lilies are also of good quality.

Jack Sisley, of the McCallum Co., returned from a very successful western trip last week, immediately departing for another journey through the northern territory.

Al Niggel has left the employment of Walter Faulk and entered into partnership with Geo. Hallam, also of the Allegheny market.

Geo. McCallum is visiting friends in Buffalo, N. Y., for a few days.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—The annual ball of the St. Paul Florists' Club, held at Royal Arcanum hall, Tuesday, March 7, was one of the most pleasant events in the history of the organization. A large contingent of Minneapolis florists and their ladies were in attendance, the trip being made in private cars.

Kansas City.

GOOD SUPPLY MEETS HEAVY DEMAND.
Market conditions have changed somewhat from last week, there being a very good supply, but the demand was unusually heavy and the stock in many lines ran low. The wholesale houses as a rule sell out early in the day, the heavy run being due to numerous funerals. Roses are short and the supply of carnations also shortened. Jonquils, tulips, and hyacinths are more plentiful but sell on sight, helping to cover the shortage in other lines. Freesias were also seen in good numbers and were freely used in boxes of cut flowers. Sweet peas are more plentiful, the flowers are larger and the stems longer. Pot plants continue to sell well, many going out on hospital orders.

NOTES.

The W. L. Rock Flower Co. finds it difficult to meet the call for stock occasioned by heavy demand for funeral work. Pot plants continue to sell well here. Mr. Rock will be one of the judges at the National Flower Show, Philadelphia, March 25-April 2.

T. J. Noll & Co. report an exceptionally heavy week in funeral orders. Stock was more plentiful but still not equal to the demand. Good roses, carnations, lilies and bulbous stock were seen at this establishment.

The Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. reports a scarcity of stock. Their stock of pot plants is in excellent shape and sales are all that could be desired.

W. J. Barnes is cutting good carnations and enjoys a continued call for pot plants. Funeral work used up bulbous stock in quantities.

Orders for the large funerals kept Arthur Newell's staff busy, in addition to regular business in cut flowers and plants.

H. Kusik & Co. report shipping trade continues to increase. Their supply of stock cleans up daily.

Patrick Larkin reports an A-1 trade in both funeral work and cut flowers.

J. Austin is featuring some fine begonias and Primula obconica.

C. J. B.

Minneapolis.

Trade during the past week has been very quiet, owing to inclement weather. The market is filling up with heavy receipts of stock and prices are exceptionally low. Numerous signs are to be seen quoting roses at 60 cents per dozen, tulips 40 cents per dozen, and carnations at 25 cents for a like number, giving the appearance of a spring glut.

Rice Bros.' Bowling team defeated the Donaldson floral department team March 2. "Cap." Desmond has lost the "smile," but Art. Rice's countenance now carries a full-sized "beam."

TRADE MUCH BETTER.

Trade was quite good the latter part of last week, and stock cleaned up well Friday and Saturday, March 3-4, when certain items were found to be rather scarce. The clean-up, while due to a much better demand, can also be attributed to the sudden shortage of stock. Carnations sold unusually well and cleaned up in all varieties at good prices with the exception of Enchantment, which no one seemed to want and which were sacrificed at bargain prices. Sweet peas are more plentiful and are selling readily at prices ranging from $1 to $2 per 100, and in some instances $2.50 for extra fancy stock. Violets, both the home grown singles and the New York doubles, are very plentiful and have sold the greater part of the week at prices ranging from $3.50 to $6 per 1,000. Lilies are arriving in large quantities with a good supply of short stemmed flowers included in the shipments. Fancy lilies are bringing good prices, but the short stock is selling at much lower figures. Roses of all kinds are in good supply, but are moving well, with White Killarney and Double White Killarney having the call. Mrs. Chas. Russell roses are still in brisk demand, owing to the continued shortage of good American Beauty roses. Orchids and gardenias are in fair supply, but lily of the valley is none too plentiful. Lupines, snapdragons, anemones, daisies, calendulas, pansies, jonquils, tulips, freesias, mignonette, stocks, forget-me-nots, Romans, daffodils and narcissi are included in the offerings, and the buyer now has a splendid assortment to select from. Some of the dealers had some special orders from New Orleans, La., for Mardi Gras week, but the demand this season is nothing to be compared with that of former years. The Lenten season started March 8, and while some are inclined to think that trade will be quiet until Easter, one dealer in looking over his last year's sales found that trade was unusually good during this period. Many of the retail stores are featuring azaleas, cyclamens, tulips, jonquils, daffodils, ericas, hyacinths and other blooming plants in their window displays, all of which reminds one that Easter is the next big day and is rapidly approaching. There promises to be a good demand for white carnations for St. Patrick's day, for green dye, according to most of the dealers, is selling unusually well this year.

White Carnations for St. Patrick's Day

Kindly bear in mind when ordering that we represent a large number of the leading growers in Northern Illinois and that our line is always so complete in every respect that we seldom experience any trouble in filling any of the orders entrusted to our care.

FOREST PRESERVE COMMISSION.

Peter Reinberg, chairman of the board of Cook county commissioners, has appointed a committee of nine to prepare a plan for the Forest Preserve Park System, which was created under a new act submitted to the people in 1914. There was some question as to the constitutionality of the act and a test case was made, the act being recently confirmed by the supreme court. The newly appointed plan commission of nine contains two members connected with horticulture, Wm. A. Peterson and J. C. Vaughan. The commissioners have the right to condemn tracts of land if necessary. The maximum amount available any one year for the forest preserve is $11,000,000.

NOTES.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. is cutting heavily in roses and very fancy Ophelia are attracting the attention of the buyers this week. John Enders is still seriously ill with pneumonia and is greatly missed at the store. Harry Liebermann and Larry Martin are the latest additions to the force in the cut flower department, which is now taxed to the limit in getting out orders. In the supply department T. E. Waters has a large supply of iridescent ruscus ready for the Easter trade, which should be in good demand, owing to its prismatic display of colors.

The Raedlein Basket Co., 713 Milwaukee avenue, is preparing a new catalogue which will show many novel designs in cut flower and plant baskets, and will be ready for mailing in another week. The new catalogue will be one of the best that the Raedleins ever issued and will be mailed to anyone in the trade upon request.

R. A. McGill, for many years employed by the W. W. Barnard Co., has retired from active business and will devote himself to greenhouse work in a small way on his farm at Fredericks Hall, Va.

E. O. Orpet, it is reported, has tendered his resignation as superintendent of the McCormick estate, Lake Forest, and Wm. E. Tricker, of Vaughan's Greenhouses, is mentioned as his successor.

The Chicago Floral House has made a number of improvements at its branch store at 144 North State street, which greatly improves the appearance of the place.

Arthur Weatherwax has sold his retail store at 828 East Forty-seventh street to Arthur Ferrero, who was formerly in the employ of W. H. Kidwell & Son.

Bassett & Washburn have a large exhibit at the annual exhibition and convention of the Illinois State Florists' Association at Moline this week consisting of Ophelia and Sunburst roses, calendulas, sweet peas and their prize winning carnation, Belle Washburn. Mr. Washburn is an active member of this society and attends every meeting whenever he can possibly do so. This firm has several benches devoted to calendulas this season and is cutting some especially fine stock in this line.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. received word this week from Mr. Vaughan and family to the effect that they reached New Orleans, La., March 5 and had a splendid time on their trip on the Steamer Colonel Conway down the Mississippi river, notwithstanding the unfavorable weather conditions. A steam radiator broke in the ladies' reception room just after the steamer left Cairo when his daughter Thelma and several others had a narrow escape from being seriously injured.

The McNeff-Swenson Co., 608 South Dearborn street, is having a better demand than was expected for its Easter folders and is rapidly opening new territory where the service is not already in use. L. D. Reese, who handles the promotion end of the business, is an expert in his line and this concern is now splendidly equipped to handle any business that may be entrusted to its care.

Wietor Bros. have been in the wholesale business for over 22 years and have built up a splendid trade during that time. They have one of the three largest ranges of glass in America devoted exclusively to cut flowers, and enjoy both a splendid local and shipping trade. N. J. Wietor says the outlook is very bright for a large cut of white carnations for St. Patrick's day.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. had a good week and Manager Pyfer reports a fine demand for carnations, which cleaned up surprisingly well the latter part of last week at good prices, with the exception of Enchantress, which could have brought better prices.

Carl Bachler, the McKinley Park Florist, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis and gallstones, visited the market for the first time this week since he was discharged from the hospital. He is still very weak but expects to be fit as a fiddle soon.

At Percy Jones' store bulbous stock continues to be a leader and very fancy tulips and freesias are included in the daily shipments. Carnations are coming in crop with his growers and the receipts the past week have been the heaviest for several months.

Zech & Mann are receiving a large supply of lilies in the longer stemmed grades which are in good demand and clean up at an early hour each day. Sweet peas are more plentiful at this establishment and the shipments are steadily increasing.

C. L. Sherer has sold his stock in the John Kruchten Co. to Nic Kruchten, a brother of John and Henry Kruchten, the other members of the firm, and is now connected with Kyle & Foerster, the change taking place Friday, March 3.

Trade at Peter Reinberg's store has been very good the past week, according to Manager Reichling, who reports an especially heavy demand for Ophelia, Sunburst and Mrs. Chas. Russell roses, which they are cutting in quantity.

Joseph Ziska & Sons have a large and complete stock of supplies on hand and could use larger quarters to good advantage, for their business has increased to such an extent that they are very much crowded for room.

Schiller's downtown store has a nice showing of spring plants and the establishment under the able management of Reinhold Schiller is kept in the best possible condition and always presents a most inviting appearance.

John Risch says that Weiland & Risch will discard the roses Ophelia and Taft next season to make room for the beautiful shell pink rose Mrs. Moorfield Storey, which they are at present growing in large quantities.

At a meeting, March 6, of the creditors of the Atlas Floral Co., 32 East Randolph street, arrangements were made whereby the claims of the company will be liquidated and the business continued.

Chris Pederson has enjoyed a good business at his store at 58 East Randolph street since he opened there and Fred Klingel says that his business partner, Chas. Erne, is still in the hospital, but it will not be long before he will be in condition to pay the boys at the Erne & Klingel store a visit.

J. C. Craig and sons report a good demand for funeral work at their South Wabash avenue store and are cutting a fair supply of stock at their Hillside greenhouses.

Donald R. Livengood and H. Kriehbaum, who recently purchased the Columbia City Floral Co.'s business at Columbia City, Ind., were visitors at Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s store this week.

George Wienhoeber had a very pretty window display this week of crocus in birch bark receptacles, azaleas, ericas and other choice blooming plants.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association reports a good increase in its shipping trade and has a complete line of stock to supply its customers.

The John C. Moninger Co. has just received an order from the Labo Floral Co., of Joliet, for two new houses, one 30x200 and the other 42x200 feet.

M. C. Gunterberg is handling an unusually large supply of violets in addition to other seasonable stock and has a steady demand for same.

O. A. & L. A. Tonner were well pleased with business the opening day, March 1, in their new quarters and under the new firm name, when all the visitors were treated to a dandy smoke. Over 100 cigars were passed out and each represented a visitor to their establishment.

Simpson's Flower Shops, 3656 Ogden avenue and 432 North Parkside avenue, Austin, have a new Studebaker delivery car. C. B. Le Mer is in charge of the Ogden avenue store and Mrs. Simpson looks after the new store in Austin, which will be enlarged in the near future.

Herman W. Rogers celebrated his fifteenth wedding anniversary February 27. He has been with Weiland & Risch for many years, and is considered one of the most efficient salesmen in this section of the country.

A. E. Hunt & Co. are showing a good supply of lupines and anemones which are not seen in any great quantities in the market.

Latest reports from John Enders, of the Poehlmann's store force, are to the effect that he is progressing favorably.

A. Miller of A. Henderson & Co., celebrated the twenty-ninth anniversary of his birthday, March 4.

E. C. Pruner is back from a successful business trip through the southwest for Poehlmann Bros. Co.

GOOD TRADE DESPITE BAD WEATHER.

Notwithstanding some very bad weather last week, followed by colder temperature and snow, business has been very good. Roses are still scarce, there being practically no American Beauty roses and but few Killarneys. Carnations are not very plentiful, but

FLOWERS OF QUALITY

Mention the American Florist when writing are large and fine in quality. There are plenty of callas and Harrisii lilies, both of which are very fine, and as there has been a great deal of funeral work the demand for lilies was good. Sweet peas are plentiful, but find a ready market. Violets are also plentiful. Displays of seeds in the numerous stores herald the approach of the spring season.

NOTES.

The most interesting event of the past week was the four-day opening of the Missouri Athletic Association. A number of the most artistic floral designs ever seen in this city were made for the occasion, every florist in the city having commissions.

Charles Beyer, Bergstermann's, the Schoenle Floral Co. and Windler's Flower Shop on South Grand avenue report plenty of funeral work. All of these establishments are showing some fine spring plants in their windows.

C. A. Kuehn is showing a very good selection of spring flowers. He also has some very fine Sunburst, Aaron Ward and Hoosier Beauty roses.

Martin Reukauf, representing H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., visited the trade in this city this week and reports business good.

The Windler Co.'s establishment is always a busy place. The stock here is displayed invitingly and cleans up daily.

George H. Angermueller reports very good business. He is displaying a fine line of florists' supplies.

F. C. Weber has some very attractive windows at his Olive street establishment.

H. G. Berning is receiving some very fine carnations, violets and sweet peas. The Bentzen Floral Co. had a busy week with funeral orders. J. E. H. S.

SUPPLY SHORTENS BUT DEMAND IS BRISK.

Business has been very brisk the past week. There seems to be a shortening up in the supply of stock, noticeably in the bulbous line, while roses and carnations too are not in as large supply as the week previous. Bi-color daffodils are arriving in larger supply just now, but are not overplentiful. Good lily of the valley is still scarce. Orchids are of good quality and moving nicely. Inquiries for white carnations for St. Patrick's day and green coloring are coming in. Florists are having a hard time finding green crepe paper of good quality, especially moss green. There is a good demand for green magnolias, also for brown and red. Greens of all kinds are short of the demand.

NOTES.

Miss Ruth Mercer will be one of a party of 50 girls arrayed in the costumes of many lands to plead the cause of foreign missions in a missionary pageant at Pilgrim Congregational church, West Fourteenth and Starkweather streets. Miss Mercer will represent the spirit of America.

The florists' club dance will be held at the West Side Chamber of Industry hall, West Twenty-fifth street and Franklin avenue, Wednesday, March 15. Tickets are $1 per couple. Come yourself and tell your friends.

The Park Flower Shop was remodeled this week, making the store space much larger. C. F. B.

GOOD SUPPLY AND MARKET IS EASY.

The market is pretty well supplied in all lines and is easy. Shipping business holds up nicely. Roses are now plentiful. The carnation cut, while sufficient for present needs, still is not very large. Many fine Easter lilies are coming into the market. The sweet pea cut is large, but is not cleaning up as well as it did up to last week or 10 days ago. Violets, lily of the valley and orchids are very plentiful. Smaller bulbous stock may be had in fair quantities. Rubrum lilies and callas have a fair market. Green goods are plentiful.

NOTES.

A severe thunder storm, accompanied by hail and high wind, visited this city and vicinity early Monday evening, March 6. Up to the time of this writing, however, it is not known whether or not any damage resulted to the florists.

The regular meeting of the florists' society will be held, March 13, at Hotel Gibson.

Ed. Buschle, of C. E. Critchell's force, has recovered from his recent illness and operation and is again at his work.

Roy Rudolph has taken charge of the business of his father, the late Max Rudolph.

R. A. Kelly and wife have returned from their southern trip. H.

SURPLUS OF STOCK AND LOW PRICES RULE.

A dull streak has developed in the trade, with stock in excess of demand. Some florists are having special sales to stimulate business. The best carnations are selling at 50 cents a dozen. Cuttings are very abundant. Roses are fine in most varieties, prices ranging from $1.50 to $4 a dozen. Sweet peas are offered at 20 cents a bunch, or three for 50 cents. The latest addition to florists' displays are Prince of Wales single violets. They are of extra quality and command $1.50 per 100. February showed a marked falling off in funeral work, as compared with January, and this branch of the trade has been quiet so far in March. There has also been a letting up in the demand for pot plants for sick room and hospital purposes. Primroses, hyacinths and other spring plants are still very active, nevertheless.

NOTES.

William Spreng, of the Livingston Seed Company, who has just returned from the east, on his annual trip in selling tomato seed, reports a revolutionary state of affairs in the important truck-gardening district near Wilmington, Del. This is the seat of the DuPont Powder Company, whose works are running day and night to meet their foreign war orders. They employ 15,000 people, and the demand from them for labor is crippling the truck-farming industry, as it cannot afford to meet prevailing wages. Common laborers receive $2 a day, and one man out of every five is a foreman, at a wage of $4 per day. A number of small farmers have temporarily abandoned that pursuit, and are working for the powder people. Motor trucks call for the men at their homes and bring them back again after an eight-hour day. This great tomato territory will make a small showing on acreage this year.

The finest primroses reaching this market are grown by a woman, Mrs. R. G. Ulry, whose range is at Gambier, O. Her output is confined practically to this flower and the bulk of it is shipped to this city.

Massachusetts Agricultural College.

The department of floriculture wishes to extend a cordial invitation to all interested to attend its annual course of lectures and series of exhibitions which will be held during Farmers' week, the opening of the programme being scheduled for Tuesday afternoon, March 14, and continuing the morning and afternoon of the following day. A great deal of interest is already being manifested by the florists and gardeners of this section. An interesting programme of lectures has been arranged, and in addition to some of the men on the college faculty, several other speakers, including F. E. Palmer of Brookline; H. E. Downer, of Northampton; Maurice Fuld of New York; Mr. Sinclair of Holyoke, and Robert Pyle of West Grove, Pa., have been scheduled for talks. (An interesting feature which will terminate the programme is the question box.) The lecture programme has previously appeared in THE AMERICAN FLORIST of February 26.

In addition to the lectures the department will have an educational exhibit of spring-flowering plants. The educational exhibit, which will be held in the building, will include numerous displays of student work and in addition many exhibits of an educational value. The exhibit of spring-flowering plants will take place in the greenhouses. The department has a large collection of bulbs and other spring-flowering plants which will be at their best during Farmers' week. One house will be used as a show house and in this flowering and foliage plants will be effectively arranged. The rest of the houses will also be of interest, for the various crops and pot plants are in good shape at the present. The old conservatories with their huge specimens of palms, araucarias, bananas and numerous other tropical plants will also be of much interest.

Florist Bowlers Invited to Washington.

Washington florists, interested in the coming bowling tournament of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association, to be held in the national capital, starting April 3, are planning to interest the florist-bowlers who will attend the big flower show at Philadelphia, March 25-April 2. Florist night during the tournament will be a grand occasion. William F. Gude of Washington is president of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association. It is Mr. Gude's intention to visit Philadelphia at the time of the big flower exhibition, and explain to the florists who will be in attendance there as to Washington's big bowling tournament. Numbered among the florists of the country are a number of excellent bowlers, and these men have always been willing to enter into anything that makes for the betterment of the game.

Traditionally a sociable affair, a pilgrimage of the florists to the national capital as participants in the bowling tournament in April, will be a gala occasion, and will take its place alongside of Masonic night, Knights of Columbus night, Elks' night, and other special features of the tournament.

The mammoth building in which the bowling is to be held was the home of the Grand Army encampment, and is commodious enough to hold the equivalent of four army corps. Room for every conceivable need of the bowlers and their friends is thereby provided.

Entries in the bowling tournament close March 25, and the florists should get busy at once. As the Philadelphia flower show closes April 2, and the bowling tournament starts April 3, florists' day at the national capital could be worked in as a side trip of the convention, and allow the florists to get back to their business in ample time to care for the Easter rush.

Further information concerning the A. C. B. A. tournament can be obtained from Secretary Thos. Grant of the Chamber of Commerce, 1202 F street, Northwest, Washington, D. C.

Frederickton, N. B.

There has been a continuous run of funeral work during the past two months, and while by some this has been considered a mild winter, during the past month the thermometer has touched two extremes—25 degrees below and 50 to 60 degrees above. There seems to have been a shortage of cut flowers throughout Canada, although we have been getting considerable good stock from Ontario, and also from Boston, there seeming to be a good supply at the latter market at nearly all times. A nice supply of azaleas, cyclamens, primroses, cinerarias and hyacinths, in bloom, are now to be seen. Smilax all through the winter has been almost worth its weight in gold. Carnations are about right—one cut following another in quick succession, and the color is good. Business, however, is variable, the demand being uncertain, and it is either a "feast or a famine," as far as sales are concerned. "Dollar boxes" and a bargain offer of "$1 worth of cut flowers or plants for 50 cents," have been offered by the local trade to stimulate buying, but the public seems to hold to the principle, "Never buy what you do not want, just because it is cheap." The outlook for good spring business is encouraging.

GOOD SUPPLY AND BRISK DEMAND.

The flower shops are most inviting at present. There are fine stocks to be seen, nearly all seasonable varieties are on hand, and as trade is quite brisk, the florists are feeling fine. Roses are of exceptionally good quality, and the same can also be said of carnations, but the latter are very low in price; in fact, they are sold at the flower stands at 15 cents for 50. Forget-me-nots are becoming common and lily of the valley is seen in greater supply. It is the consensus of opinion that they will have practically disappeared by Easter, the date being so late this year.

NOTES.

Wright's Flower Shop has a grand display of roses at present, the stock being grown at their range. Their American Beauties, Prima Donna and Mrs. Aaron Ward are especially fine both in substance and color. They have recently been showing some fine Schilleriana orchids that attracted much attention on account of the immense sprays and dainty coloring.

The Broadway Florists are receiving a big shipment of supplies from the East to satisfy an ever growing demand. Funeral work is keeping the force at this establishment very busy.

Wolfskill Bros. & Morris Goldenson report the usual amount of good business. Their stock is well kept up and always presents an attractive appearance.

The California Cut Flower & Evergreen Co., besides having a big shipping trade, reports a good general demand.

G. H. H.

The Country.

Prof. Frank A. Waugh, of the department of horticulture, Massachusetts Agricultural College, Amherst, is sending out an attractive card to the Boys' and Girls' club members of that state on which we find the following:

God made the country, and saw that it was good.

Which means that it must be good for me.

Its free, honest, straightforward, open life; its friendly associations; its contacts with nature on the one side and with men on the other;

Its sanity and independence and comfortable living, without poverty and without wealth;

These are qualities which I seek for my own life. On their account I will love the country.

I will love the sweet smell of the soil, the infinite open sky, the wide fields, the solemn forests and all that grows out of the earth;

Here I would live, finding the substantial satisfactions of honest work fairly required, of neighborliness and good-will toward men, and of genuine service to my country.

Chinese Plants.

The third expedition into China to discover new plants suitable for introduction into the United States has been completed by F. N. Meyer, plant explorer of the department, who has just returned to Washington after a three-year trip in the Far East. As a result of this expedition through the center of China, and two previous explorations of similar duration covering extremely cold Manchurian regions and the arid regions of Chinese Turkestan, there have been sent to America, for planting and testing for commercial adaptability, seeds, roots, or cuttings of some 3,000 food and forage plants, flowers, ornamental shrubs and vines, shade and timber trees. The previous expeditions brought to America specimens of many cold-resistant and dry-land grains, sorghums, soy beans, alfalfas, and forage plants, and also certain semitropical plants, such as the bamboo, which are now under experimentation to determine their usefulness for the extreme south.

Of the many specimens forwarded to this country during the last expedition, the specialists regard as most significant the jujube, a fruit new to this country, which may be suitable for use in the southwest; a wild peach resistant to alkali, cold, and drought, the root system of which offers great possibilities as a grafting host; certain Chinese persimmons larger than any hitherto known in this country; a number of aquatic food roots and vegetables which offer promising possibilities for the utilization of swamp land; some 30 varieties of vegetable and timber bamboos; and a number of Chinese vegetables, bush and climber roses, shrubs, and trees.

The Nitrate Industry.

Caliche, the raw material from which the nitrate of commerce is extracted, was discovered in the great desert of northern Chile by the Indians some time in the seventeenth century. The first nitrate company was organized in 1812 with very crude reduction methods employed. The present era in the industry dates from 1855 with the introduction of steam as a means of heating and evaporating the solutions.

In 1873 the Peruvian government assumed a monopoly of the nitrate lands and made grants in a careless manner. This led to much difficulty encountered by Chile when that country was left in possession of this area at the close of the Pacific war. However, titles have since been generally cleared up and beneficial laws enacted, covering not only the matter of land disposal, but of labor and other important questions.

According to the latest official report of the inspector general of the nitrate deposits, the zone of nitrate-bearing ground comprises 200,000 square kilometers, of which less than three percent has been surveyed and prospected. In this surveyed portion alone there remains enough nitrate to supply the world for an additional 100 years, measured at the present rate of production. These calculations have been made on an extremely conservative basis, and take no account whatever of known areas of low-grade material.

The industry is divided into two principal operations: (1) mining and transportation of the crude material and (2) production of nitrate. Methods employed in both branches leave room for improvement. Under present practice, considering average value of raw material, wages, etc., the cost of producing commercial nitrate is estimated at 50 cents per quintal (101.44 pounds.)

Trade specifications require a content of nitrate of sodium equal to at least 95 per cent. This is used as a fertilizer.

KEOKUK, IA.—Francis O. Seymour of this city has been granted Patent No. 1,171,263, for a plant setting machine.

CHILLICOTHE, O.—Louis Elsas has plans for a large new store, conservatory and garage to cost upwards of $10,000.

MONTGOMERY, ALA.—Rosemont Gardens are preparing to add one house, 35x200 feet, to their range on Carter Hill road.

CHARLESTON, WEST VA.—The Charleston Cut Flower & Plant Co. will add to their new range several additional houses this season.

GOOD SUPPLY MOVES WELL AT FAIR PRICES.

For the last week of the social season, the demand has not shown any great strength. There were some important weddings and other large fashionable functions, the most notable being the second assembly ball, at which the decorations were quite elaborate. Prices hold up very well considering the time of year and the fairly good supply, which has not greatly exceeded the demand at any time this season. In roses, American Beauties are very scarce, selling as high as $1 each for the specials. Forced special teas sell up clean at high figures. There are more short and medium grades now, which move off very well at a shade lower prices. Carnations are in good supply, selling up very close at fair figures. Snapdragon is coming a little faster and in a few weeks more it will be a great factor. Sweet peas are plentiful, particularly in the shorter grades, and some tiptop stock is seen. Violets are going off, that is, those that have been producing all season. The cold frame stock will be in very soon and hold the place until warm weather. Lily of the valley continues scarce, with values about 20 per cent higher than ever before known at this season of the year. Snapdragon is a little easier and can now be had in fair quantities. Pink Japanese lilies are now a fixture in the list of winter flowers and are coming into use on all sorts of decorations. Quantities are now sold over the counter, the buyers seeming to prefer them to high priced roses.

CLUB MEETING.

The March meeting of the florists' club was another winner, there being a splendid turn out of members. It was "sweet pea night," and the essay committee is to be congratulated on the splendid exhibition of lovely flowers that were placed on view. Allan Harvey & Son, Brandywine Summit, Pa.; Scarlett Bros. and Yeatman & Way of Kennett Square, Pa.; Gude Bros., Washington, D. C.; C. S. Loeffler, Lititz, Pa., and Wm. Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa., were among the exhibitors. The paper by Howard M. Earl on "The Modern Winter Flowering Sweet Pea, Its Origin and Development Up-to-Date," was read by George C. Watson, owing to illness of Mr. Earl. It was listened to with marked attention and received the thanks of the club. A feature of especial interest to the club was the election of 27 members, the most that has ever been elected at one time. The exhibit of Gude Brothers of Washington, D. C., staged by the S. S. Pennock-Meehan Company, was a feature in itself. Eighty-one vases, each a separate variety, was a record in this city. All were splendid flowers. Their vases of roses were superb. Taft, Mock and Radiance being especially fine. Allan Harvey's vases of Lavender Orchid, Christmas Pink and White Orchid sweet peas were wonderful, with their large flowers and extra long stems. A vase of the new carnation, Cottage Maid, from Cottage Gardens Co., Inc., Queens, N. Y., was a great attraction in superb flowers and color. The "drys" won out and the banquet is to be held in Horticultural hall. It will be the greatest florists' banquet of the century. The April meeting will be known as rose night. Stephen Mortenson, Edward Tonill and Martin Samptman will be the speakers. Allan Harvey spoke of the difficulty in keeping the buds on sweet peas during the dark winter months, much loss being caused by their failure to open. M. Reed, of the Whilldin Pottery Company, gave away and made a great hit with their novelty pipe; a one-inch pot was the bowl, fitted with an amber stem. Great enthusiasm was expressed by the members for the flower show. Messrs. Farenwald, Thirkildson, Thilow, and others, spoke of the good work going on. Mr. Farenwald estimated that the attendance would run over 150,000, and Mr. Thilow spoke of the great work being done by the ladies' garden clubs large ball room was covered with flowers from floor to ceiling, which latter was canopied with southern smilax. The large windows were hidden with drop curtains depicting tropical scenes. The front of the large balcony was in blocks of color. Pink carnations in loose bunches were arranged next to pots of genistas in full flower. A block of pink Japanese lilies were showy. All of these were placed in a background of hemlock and southern smilax. A great many electric lights, with the globes covered with pink shades, gave a subdued pink tone, which was the predominant color. The electric wiring for the additional illumination is all done by their own staff of electricians, which are kept busy all the time attending to work of this character. At the stage end of the large room, pergolas had been erected and these were covered with pink Rambler roses. A large electric fountain, with changeable lights, was a feature between the pergolas. The clover room adjoining, about half the size of the ball room, was turned into a garden with summer houses, garden vases, real stumps for vase pedestals, fountains, etc., and the floor completely covered with grass mats. peacocks added their elegant plumage. Many cibotiums were used throughout the decorations. A feature was the long bunches of araucarias from Bermuda, which were used with good effect.

R. T. Brown, of the Cottage Gardens Co., who was appointed the speaker at the February meeting of the florists' club, but did not appear, writes that he has just returned from a trip south and explains that he had never been notified. This explanation is due Mr. Brown, who feels that he has been put in an unfavorable light through no fault of his own.

Everything in connection with the flower show is booming, the interest increasing steadily as the time grows near. The committee meetings are very well attended and great enthusiasm displayed. It is believed that the retail section will be very important as this branch of the trade are waking up and some wonderful creations are promised.

A concert by the musical clubs of the Wm. Penn Charter school, under the auspices of the florists' club, will be held in Horticultural hall March 11. After the concert there will be dancing. There will be no charge for admission. All members of the club are invited.

The Philadelphia Cut Flower Co. is handling the business of Walter Davis while he is under treatment for injuries resulting from being hit by a Ford car.

The H. F. Michell Co., Inc., purchased the large four-story building at 23 South Bank street to be used as a warehouse. How this house does grow!

Wm. Leonard now sells all his stock through the Philadelphia Wholesale Florists' Exchange. He is much pleased with his interest here.

At Berger Bros.' busy market, orchid sweet peas, roses and violets are first on the list. There are also spring flowers galore.

Edward Reid's Mock roses are splendid stock. His Sunburst and Marylands are also wonderfully fine.

High grade carnations are a feature with the Leo Niessen Co. Lilac and gardenias are also headliners.

RETAILERS UNUSUALLY BUSY.

The wholesalers complained that the business of the past week was dull, but there seemed to be considerable activity about the retail stores. Though wholesale prices have held up remarkably well throughout the winter, excepting a few stocks, they are now on the decline. Short roses, which earlier in the season were almost at a premium, are getting hard to move. Good American Beauties, being scarce, are holding up well at $60 and $75 per 100. Special stock of Hadley, Sunburst, Ward, Killarney Queen and some others brings fair prices, but the tendency is downward on most of the rose stock. It may be taken for granted that carnations will be cheap from now till Easter. There seems to be a surplus of lilies and some of them are poor, but even the best are hard to move. The supply of sweet peas is again on the increase. Tulips, narcissi and freesias are moving moderately well at nominal prices. Violets seemed to do a little better toward the last of the week, but there are no high prices. There is little change in cattleya orchids, 50 cents per flower being the price for the best.

March 6.—There is a fair amount of business this morning. American Beauties are holding up to $60 to $75 per 100 but excepting Hadley, other roses are declining in price. The best cattleyas are selling at from $50 to

NOTES.

The will of the late August Junge, formerly a grower of Secaucus, N. J., whose suicide was reported in our issue of February 26, has been admitted to probate by the Deputy Surrogate at Jersey City. Junge committed suicide at the home of Gustav Garreau, a Jersey City florist, February 16. For some unexplained reason, the suicide was not reported to the police, who, it is said, first learned of it from a Jersey City paper. The will is dated November 13, 1915. His estate at that time was estimated to be worth about $75,000. The will specifies twenty-two bequests aggregating $32,000. The residuary clause reads as follows: "All the rest, residue and remainder of my estate, I give and bequeath to the Imperial Government of Germany to be used for the benefit of the wounded soldiers and the soldiers' widows and orphans in such manner as the Imperial Government shall see fit and proper." Figuring on the total value of the estate, and the minor bequests, the German government will receive more than $25,000. To Maurice Garreau and Gustav Garreau of Jersey City is bequeathed $3,000 each; to Emil Savoy, a florist of Secaucus and a former neighbor, $1,000. Emil Savoy is a Frenchman, and so, we believe, are the Garreaus. A number of other bequests are to friends and relatives. To a half-brother, Paul Junge of Berlin, Germany, $2,000; to another half-brother, William Junge, $2,000. To an uncle, August Schubert of Geilitz, Germany, $2,000; to the trustees of the Presbyterian church of Secaucus, $1,000; to the Carlstadt Turn Verein of Carlstadt, N. J., $2,000. August Junge was a bachelor.

A fire of unknown origin, early on the morning of March 5, gutted the florists' supply factory of Reed & Keller, 120 West 25th street. This firm, with their store, offices, storerooms and factory, occupied two buildings, which fortunately were separated by a fire-wall. The store, office and storeroom occupying the building at 122 West 25th street escaped damage. Baskets and various other supplies were destroyed in the factory. Reed & Keller state that they are covered by insurance on the stock, but are put to great inconvenience, particularly at this season, by the delay incidental to the fire. Fortunately they have been able to secure another building and announce to their customers and friends that business is going on as usual, probably a little faster, as the whole force will be working at top speed from now to Easter.

At Ehmann's Flower Shop, 2112 Broadway, they are making a specialty of hand carved and hand painted butterflies, which are a decided novelty in the business. They are not only selling large quantities in their own up-to-date shop, but also wholesaling them to other florists throughout the country. They add much to the beauty of any flowering plant or vase of cut flowers. Until we saw them we did not believe that anybody could make such a clever imitation of a butterfly.

One of the most attractive retail stores of upper Broadway is that of the Colonial Florist, Broadway at 157th street. It is finely located and always well stocked with fine plants and cut flowers. C. Sakelos, the proprietor, has an established reputation, not only for turning out fine work, but, equally important, for fair dealing. As he has three branch stores, he is one of the heaviest buyers in the wholesale district.

John Einsel, who for the past 30 years has been employed at the store of G. E. M. Stumpp, Fifth avenue and 58th street, and for the past 20 years has been buyer for the store, has resigned and take a position with P. J. Smith, the wholesaler of 131 West 28th street. John is a high class man and has the confidence and good wishes of many substantial friends.

Harry Bayersdorfer, of Philadelphia, was in this city March 4, and visited a number of the leading retailers. Like all other Quakers he is enthusiastic over the prospects for the National Flower Show at Philadelphia, and, please don't forget the date—March 25-April 2, and the place, Convention hall, Broad street and Allegheny avenue.

We have from time to time had occasion to note the activity of ladies in the florist business of this city. One of the noteworthy retail stores of the down town district is that of Mrs. Katie Caparell, 45 Cortlandt street. She is a very clever designer and is doing a good business.

We have recently noticed fine window decorations and good arrangement of cut flowers and plants at the retail store of William H. Long, 412 Columbus avenue. He is an old hand at the business and has, in Mrs. Long, an exceedingly clever and amiable assistant.

F. Fleischman, Inc., has leased another store beside his present location in the Hudson Terminal building, Cortlandt and Dey streets, which will give him about three times the space of his present quarters.

The news of the tragic death of Albert Roper of Tewksbury, Mass., was a great shock to many who knew him. He was a hard working, industrious and useful man in the business.

George Hildenbrand, of John Young & Co., has just finished a term of jury service. In addition to a fine stock of cut flowers this store is strong on cut adiantum and asparagus.

Mrs. Roy Bailey of North Dakota, with her young son, is on a visit to her father, John B. Nugent.

The Misses Hutchinson, of Elizabeth, N. J., who buy in this market, report an excellent season's business.

Albany, N. Y.

CLUB MEETING.

At the March meeting of the florists' club the members listened with close attention to Robert Shoch, representative of the M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa., while he described the preparations being made in Philadelphia for the National Flower Show. Mr. Shoch invited the members of the Albany club to attend and said that the New York and Newark, N. J., florists' clubs are making arrangements for special trains to go to Philadelphia. Mr. Shoch went into considerable detail, describing the work done in connection with the show and the plans in hand. As a result of the address an effort will be made to have a good representation from Albany, but unfortunately all the Albanians will not be able to leave for Philadelphia on the same day.

Harry G. Eyres, who has conducted a retail store for 30 years at 11 North Pearl street, will move this spring. He has taken a lease of the store at 106 State street, a short distance west of his present location. About April 1 he will begin to renovate the new store and for Easter will conduct business in both locations. The corporation which owns the Hotel TenEyck on North Pearl street opposite Mr. Eyres' present store, will build this year a large annex on the site. The plans provide for several stores on the ground floor which will be rented when the building is completed. Mr. Eyres has arranged to take one of these new stores. Another retailer who plans to move this spring is J. M. Tracey, the North End florist, 14 Clinton avenue. He will remove about May 1 to 683 Broadway, east of his present location.

The members decided to have a show of new varieties of flowers at the April meeting. A paper on the elevation of the retail business, to be read by F. A. Danker, was laid over until the next meeting. George Nagengast, of 806 Washington avenue, was elected a member; two applications received will be acted upon in April. Adjournment was had for refreshments and a social hour.

Dreer's Famous American Asters

DREER'S SUPERB LATE BRANCHING ASTERS

The finest Asters for late August and September blooming.

The plants form strong, branching bushes, 2 to 2½ feet high bearing on long strong stems their handsome Chrysanthemum-like flowers, which, under ordinary cultivation, average 5 inches across. The form of the flowers, together with the length of the stems, places them at the head of Asters for cutting. They come into bloom from two to three weeks after the average type, usually being at their best during September, and filling in the gap between the general run of Asters and Chrysanthemums. We offer eight beautiful and distinct colors, viz.:

	Trade pkt.	Per oz.
Azure Blue. A rich, deep lavender.....	$.25	$1.00
Pure White. Extra fine stock.....	.25	1.00
Shell Pink. An exquisite shade.....	.25	1.00
Rose Pink. A very desirable color.....	.25	1.00
Deep Rose. Rich and brilliant.....	.25	1.00
Deep Purple. Royal deep purple.....	.25	1.00
Lavender. A pale grayish-lavender.....	.25	1.00
Crimson. Very rich.....	.25	1.00

Non-Warranty and Wisconsin Seed Law.

The members of the seed trade attending the meetings at Chicago last week in connection with the question of non-warranty and the Wisconsin seed law, as discussed in our issues of February 26 and March 4, included the following:

THE ATTENDANCE.

The John H. Allan Seed Co., Sheboygan, Wis. (E. M. Parmelee, C. Maynard, W. B. Lucas and D. D. Rowland); Jos. Breck & Sons Corp., Boston, Mass. (Luther Breck); H. W. Buckbee, Rockford, Ill.; The Everett B. Clark Seed Co., Milford, Conn. (E. F. Adams); Currie Bros. Co., Milwaukee, Wis.; D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich. (Kirby B. White); Hogg & Lytle, Toronto, Ont.; Iowa Seed Co., Des Moines, Ia. (E. T. Pearce); N. B. Keeney & Son, LeRoy, N. Y. (N. B. Keeney); A. C. Kendel, Cleveland, O.; David Landreth Seed Co., Bristol, Pa. (Burnett Landreth); Arthur G. Lee, Ft. Smith, Ark.; J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y.; Northrup, King & Co., Minneapolis, Minn. (L. M. King); Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y. (John Hunt); J. C. Robinson Seed Co., Waterloo, Neb. (J. C. Robinson); Rogers Bros., Alpena, Mich. (A. L. Rogers); John A. Salzer Seed Co., La Crosse, Wis. (John A. Salzer); Curtis Nye Smith, Boston, Mass.; The W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago (A. H. Goodwin); Chas. Hollenbach, Chicago; Illinois Seed Co., Chicago (Geo. S. Green); Leonard Seed Co., Chicago (S. F. Leonard, A. H. Smith, John C. Leonard and E. S. Leonard); Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago (J. C. Vaughan and Leonard H. Vaughan).

THE RESOLUTION.

The results of the discussion are summarized in the following resolution, unanimously adopted:

"The seedsmen present at a conference at the Sherman hotel, Chicago, March 2, 1916, reaffirm and endorse the non-warranty clause known as the American Seed Trade Association Non-Warranty clause and believe that all sales or agreement of sale, whenever made should contain said clause.

"In those contracts of sale, or sale of seeds, wherein, for any reason, seedsmen, contrary to the recommendation of the American seed trade, said non-warranty clause is waived, it is the opinion of said seedsmen, that for such waiver, or non-user, of said non-warranty clause, the seller should receive an additional purchase price for the seed by way of insurance and so stated as a term of the sale or agreement of sale and that the seller should be liable in any event, for not more than the purchase price of said seed."

California Rain Fall.

John C. Bodger, of John Bodger & Sons Co., Los Angeles, Calif., writes as follows under date of February 29: "In the last 48 hours we have had 1.61 inches of rain. It was said in the past that we were too far south to grow seed for the reason that we did not have sufficient rainfall. We have pleasure in enclosing herewith a table, showing the rainfall for the season. Friday night, February 25, we had half an hour's rain which amounted to 50/100 inches and over a storm of 48 hours 1.61. This is the third private storm for the benefit of John Bodger & Sons Co. and southern California in general. The first storm started our sweet peas out two months ahead of the north, and if we have another of these 'private' storms in April it is all we wish for."

Holland Floods.

In a letter received from Sluis & Groot, Enkhuizen, Holland, March 7, and dated January 27, we find the following reference to the recent floods:

"The island of Marken, as well as the towns and villages of Edam, Monnikendam and Broeck in Waterland, etc., which many American tourists have visited, were involved in the catastrophe, and although only 16 persons were drowned the population has suffered enormously, and many refugees have been sheltered under the roofs of the surrounding towns and villages. Fortunately the polder in which we live, the ground of which is very fertile and which supports a dense population, had a narrow escape, for the dikes were badly damaged in many places and even houses were partly destroyed by the big waves which came over the dams, so that people living near the dikes passed an awful night. Only one of our gardens of about 30 acres outside of the main dikes and surrounded by a lower dam has been entirely flooded, so that we will not be able to grow any flower and vegetable stock seeds in it for a year, but we have arranged to overcome this loss by securing ground elsewhere, so that our business will not be impaired in any way by this calamity."

Catalogue Postage Bill.

Chairman Therkindson of the postal laws committee of the American Seed Trade Association, advises that he had a conference with several senators and members of the post office and post roads committee at Washington, D. C., March 3, with reference to the catalogue postage bill, reproduced in our issue of March 4, page 346, and believes that with a little readjustment there will be no difficulty in securing the passage of the bill.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, March 8, were as follows: Timothy, $5.00 to $7.50 per 100 pounds.

THE Bureau of Plant Industry, Washington, D. C., desires three copies each of the catalogues of seedsmen for use in their investigation work and for the files of the bureau.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Additional equipment, which will increase the capacity 25 per cent, has been installed by the Milwaukee Seed Co., formerly the Rosenberg & Lieberman Co.

QUINCY, ILL.—The Wm. Vollbracht Company has been incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000, and will conduct a seed and implement business with branches at Camp Point, Ursa and Barry, Ill.

LATEST advises from southern France indicate that the saw mills in France have been requisitioned for the army and growers may not be able to find the necessary lumber for bulb cases. In such an emergency they may be able to use large wicker hampers. In the event the lumber is obtainable the cases are likely to cost as much as francs 3.25.

REPORTS from the great tomato growing territory near Wilmington, Del., indicate that this district will make a poor showing on acreage this year due to lack of labor, the truck farming industry not being able to meet the scale of wages offered by the powder mills.

Tomato Fruit, Not Vegetable.

New York.—A tomato is a fruit, not a vegetable, because "anything that can be eaten raw is a fruit," according to Judge Herbert. He dodged the question of classifying onions.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, March 7. — Mushrooms, home grown, No. 1, 25 to 30 cents per carton; lettuce, cases, 22½ to 25 cents, radishes, 35 cents to 50 cents per dozen bunches; celery, 10 to 25 cents per bunch; tomatoes, six baskets, $2.25 to $2.75; cucumbers, per doz., 75 cents to $1.00.

New York, March 7.—Celery per bunch of 12 stalks, 15 to 50 cents; cucumbers, $1.00 to $1.25 per drum; mushrooms, $1.25 to $1.60 per 4 pound basket; tomatoes, 10 cents to 25 cents per pound; radishes, per 100 bunches, $2.00 to $4.00; lettuce, per dozen, 15 cents to 60 cents. Rhubarb, per dozen bunches, 25 cents to $1.00.

Ground Feldspar Not Good Fertilizer.

Wide publicity has recently been given to a statement advocating the use of ground feldspar as a substitute for potash salts, and referring to United States department of agriculture Bulletin No. 104, entitled "The Use of Feldspathic Rocks as Fertilizer," published in 1907, as authority for the proposed practice. The results reached, however, were inconclusive and investigations made since the publication of this bulletin have failed to show that ground feldspar is of any general value for fertilizer purposes. The potash content in feldspathic rocks is in a highly insoluble form and to be made available for fertilizer purposes must undergo chemical treatment at high temperatures. In general, it may be said that most soils contain a considerable amount of potash in this insoluble form derived from the disintegration of silicate rocks, of which feldspar is one. The application of ground feldspar, therefore, in most instances means merely the addition of an ingredient already present in the soil in considerable quantity.

The department of agriculture has recently received many requests for copies of Bulletin 104 and many inquiries with reference to the use of feldspar as a fertilizer. The farmers of the country should be warned that the department does not recommend such a practice, and that the expenditure of money for ground feldspar as a substitute for potash for fertilizer purposes will probably not result in any commensurate increase in crop yields.

BUSINESS FAIR AND PRICES NORMAL.

CLUB MEETING.

The florists' club meeting held March 2 was by far one of the best for some time; the attendance was fine and work conducted in a business-like manner. F. Cranefield, of Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society, who was present, gave a brief history of that body, also explaining in detail what the society had done and what their intentions are, providing they meet with more support, especially from the florists in general. He made a strong plea, suggesting that the Milwaukee Florists' Club affiliate with that body, stating that as one unit, support from the state legislature would undoubtedly be more substantial for all concerned. After a short discussion, in which several of our members participated, those present voted that the club as a body make application for membership. As the florists' club will pay the dues, each member in good standing will become a member of the Wisconsin State Horticultural Society.

NOTES.

Up to the time of writing these notes the charity bazar held at the Auditorium, March 2-7, is a grand success. The whole represents a fair composed of booths in pergola style, covered with wild smilax, twigs and branches, ornamented with paper apple blossoms. The overhead decorations consist of huge baskets, some of which have a spread of 32 feet, made of wild smilax and ornamented with lights and colored shades, a huge apple tree in the center of the stage looks natural and adds the finishing touches to the decorations in general. In the basement and other smaller halls, wild smilax, boxwood and pine trees were used to good advantage. Harold Baumgarten was the right man in the right place while on duty at the flower booth. Local growers donated enough cut flowers daily to keep the group of flower girls busy all the time and enough pot plants to keep every body happy. Wm. R. Schroeder and Nic. Zweifel were good imitations as officers of the law at the city hall.

The dancing sociable given by the florists' club, March 1, at the West Side Turn Hall, owing to the good work of the entertainment committee, was a great success both socially and financially. A. F. Kellner was generous enough to donate enough palms to make several groups to give the whole the right appearance. Adam Zender of Chicago, was a visitor who seemed to have a good time.

Gust. Rusch, in talking about the quality of stock coming in at present, claims that most of the bulbous stock is not of the quality that it has been in past seasons. He thinks the bulbs, owing to the war, suffered in transit.

While returning from his garage in the rear of the store, March 1, C. C. Pollworth had the misfortune to slip, and in trying to break the fall, broke the wrist of his right arm.

The official monthly weather report for February shows percentage of sunshine .44. March came in like a lion, but we trust that "all's well that ends well."

C. B. Whitnall, at a meeting of the North Side Civic Club, March 1, delivered a very interesting address on "Tree Planting."

Henry W. Kummer belongs to the "swell set" these days—it's all on the right side of his face, caused by tooth trouble.

Walter Holton was back to work Monday, March 6, for the first time since his recent illness.

E. O.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—James Dusmanes, florist, with stores at 360 DeKalb avenue and 257 Duffield street, filed a petition in bankruptcy February 23. Liabilities are scheduled as $2,648.88 and assets $166.

DETROIT, MICH.—The Bemb Floral Co. in cooperation with the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., held an exhibition of orchids at its store at 153 Bates street, March 1-2, with talks on these plants by specialists.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—One of the most attractive decorations seen in this city for several years was an automobile transformed into a handsome floral piece by Miss Irene Crabb of the Crabb & Hunter Co. More than 1,000 carnations, in addition to other flowers and accessories, were used.

RESULTS ARE WHAT COUNT

BELLE WASHBURN won the silver medal of the Society of American Florists' at the 1915 Buffalo, N. Y., Exhibition, and again won the Society of American Florists' silver medal and American Carnation Society's silver medal at the St. Louis, Mo., Exhibition, January 26-27, 1916. This is the only variety that ever won the Society of American Florists' silver medal two years in succession, which is worth considering when buying new varieties. Results count—order accordingly.

THE BEST RED CARNATION

per 100; $100.00 per 1000; 500 at the 1000 rate.

The color is the most brilliant red of any carnation on the market. The size of the flower is 3 to 3½ inches, with stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. The calyx never bursts and all flowers grade first. Best of all it is a steady and constant bloomer giving just as many flowers as the Enchantress of which it is a seedling. We have 30,000 plants now benched in our greenhouses of which 18,000 are devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. At our Pacific Coast Branch at Hollywood, Calif., we have 1500 plants devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. Orders from the far west can be sent direct to our Mr. E. B. Washburn, 252 South Orange Grove Avenue, Pasadena, Calif., who will give them his personal attention. An inspection of our greenhouses either at Hollywood, Calif., or Hinsdale, Ill., is invited.

Controlling Caterpillars On Catalpa Trees.

While our native species of catalpa are comparatively free from insect attack, owners of these trees should watch in the summer and even early fall for the appearance on them of large yellow and black caterpillars. If these feed voraciously on the leaves, they are in all likelihood the larvæ of the catalpa sphinx, which commonly are the only ones which feed on catalpa foliage. Unless controlled when present in large numbers, these caterpillars may do considerable injury, sometimes completely stripping the leaves from an entire grove.

When only a few small trees are attacked the caterpillars can be picked off by hand, their large size making their detection easy. In the case of tall trees, or where caterpillars are very abundant and are attacking entire groves, the entomologists recommend spraying with arsenicals, or better, with a combination of arsenicals and Bordeaux mixture. The proper arsenical spray would be made with either 1 pound of Paris green or 3 pounds of arsenate of lead to 50 gallons of water. When the combined spray is used the same quantity of arsenical should be mixed with 50 gallons of Bordeaux mixture instead of the water. The danger that free arsenic may burn the foliage is lessened and the Bordeaux mixture may control leaf spot and other similar diseases which affect the catalpa. The spray may be applied with a small outfit for young trees or with a large high-power machine such as is used in spraying high trees along city avenues.

The caterpillar is attacked by a number of parasites and the entomologists advise tree owners to encourage the propagation of these natural enemies of the sphinx. One of these, a minute four-winged, wasplike fly, lays its eggs in the sphinx caterpillar. This is the same fly which attacks tobacco and tomato hornworms. The eggs of these parasites hatch into white, maggot-like larvæ which develop in the body of the caterpillar and then eat through its skin and spin little white cocoons attached to the outside of its body. As these parasites are mostly in evidence in September and October and largely destroy the last generation of caterpillars, it is unwise at these times, especially if the white cocoons are visible, to kill the caterpillars by other means.

Hydrangea Radiata.

A form of Hydrangea arborescens (var. grandiflora), with large globose heads of sterile flowers, has become immensely popular in this country since its discovery a few years ago in one of the western states, and it can now be seen in many suburban gardens. A much more beautiful American species, however, is Hydrangea radiata, which is now in flower in the shrub collection. It is a native of mountain slopes in North and South Carolina, and is a round-topped shrub with large leaves very dark green above and silvery white below, and broad heads of flowers surrounded by a ring of white neutral flowers. It is one of the handsomest of all the hydrangeas which are perfectly hardy in this climate, and although once a popular garden plant, it is now rarely found in collections.—Arnold Arboretum Bulletin.

MR. PETER, FISHER, Ellis, Mass.

Dear Sir:—

LIMA, OHIO, Jan. 19th, 1916.

We thought it might be interesting to you to receive a report of your new carnation "Alice" as grown in this territory.

Alice has made a wonderful showing with us. We are growing some twenty different varieties of carnations. To date we have cut more blooms per plant from "Alice" than any of the other varieties. The blooms come almost 100 per cent perfect.

This carnation has proved all that you claimed for it, and we do not hesitate to say, that we believe this variety to be the very best carnation of its color, being offered the Trade today.

You are to be congratulated on "Alice."

Very truly yours

ROLF ZETLITZ.

THE NEW ROSE

MRS. BAYARD THAYER

that we are offering this season, will make a fine addition to a class of large flowered roses which is rapidly coming to the front, since we introduced Mrs. Chas. Russell of which the new claimant is a sport. The color is a most beautiful clear rose pink, inside of petals a shade lighter. The foliage heavy and smooth and carried on strong stems. It won the American Rose Society Medal, over a strong class of competitors, at the Cleveland Show, scoring 90 points.

DETROIT STAND CO.
842 Grandy Ave., Detroit, Mich.

Newark, N. J.

To celebrate the two hundred and fiftieth year of its settlement, Newark will this year have a grand series of events, beginning in May and continuing until October. The program has not yet been issued, but it will necessarily be a long one, including historical parades, races, athletic games, trade exhibits, etc. We understand that the Broad street merchants, including the florists, will take an active part. A city that is two hundred and fifty years old and that is racing up to the half-million mark in population, should give us a good show, and we have no doubt that it will.

Alexander Forbes, president of J. F. Noll & Co., has been taking an active interest in the proposed seed trade legislation now pending at Trenton. One of the pet hobbies of the alfalfa statesmen of all states seems to be in annoying the seedsmen. Probably they feel that they have to do something to show cause for their existence.

At McDonough's, 376 Belleville avenue, it was stated that business had been good. Being located near a large cemetery, a large part of the business of this firm is along the lines of cemetery work. They have a great stock of bedding plants coming on.

J. H. Harvey, who has been suffering from grippe and its aftermath for the past two months, is now confined to his home with an attack of pleurisy, but it is hoped that he will soon be about.

In various retail stores we have noticed fine carnations from the Irvington range of E. W. Fengar. There is also a great stock of bedding plants at this range.

We found business active at Walfinger's, and it was stated that it had been good throughout the winter.

At Begerow's we found every evidence of activity, both in decorative and counter trade.

Philips Brothers have been quite busy of late filling both home and out-of-town orders.

A. F. F.

Oklahoma City.

We have experienced another week of real cold weather, the temperature going as low as 10 degrees on some nights, and all vegetation is very backward. Florists say that business is very satisfactory; special sales of flowering plants have been a feature of late, and they have met with a generous response from the purchasing public. A great deal of nursery stock is being disposed of by local dealers in spite of the unfavorable conditions for planting. When spring opens there will no doubt be the greatest demand for such stock that has ever been known in this city, for everybody who owns a foot of land seems to be anxious to plant something thereon.

Business has been very brisk during the past week, especially in the social line, but the dark weather has shortened the supply considerably and prices in some lines, especially roses, continue stiff. February business was excellent and the sales records for the two first months this year show an increase over the same period in 1915.

NOTES.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey have disseminated a new geranium of a dark magenta color which they have named Mrs. Vesey. A large shipment of the plants has been sent to Houston, Tex., to be planted in the S. A. F. convention garden.

The Flick Floral Co. are cutting a fine grade of calla lilies at present and are also showing a splendid variety of flowering plants. Miss Clara B. Flick is now connected with the Patten Flower Shop of Toledo, O.

There will be no March meeting of the State Florists' Association of Indiana. Plans are being made to make the April meeting at Terre Haute an especially interesting event.

F. J. Knecht & Co. are cutting a better supply of roses this week, especially Russell. Sawyer is also coming along better.

The Doswell Floral Co.'s houses are filled with good carnation stock and the sweet peas are also making a good showing.

SUGGESTIONS FOR PLANT GROWERS.

Cyclamens.

The plants of cyclamen grown from seed sown last fall will now be nice, stocky little plants if properly grown and should be large enough to transplant to 2½ or 3-inch pots. The soil should be live fibrous loam with about one-third leaf mold, and in mixing a liberal sprinkling of sand should be included. In potting, the small bulb should be so placed that the soil just covers it; many leave the bulb out of the soil, but best results are obtained with the young stock to leave the bulb in the soil. Later after the bulb has grown large and mature, this is not so necessary. The plants should be placed in a cool house and if possible near the glass and where they can have all the ventilation possible. Just as soon as safe they should be removed to frames outside and plunged in the soil even with the rim of the pot. The cyclamen will not tolerate poor drainage and if anything happens to block the drainage the plant quickly sick-ens. This sometimes happens where the pots are sunk in the soil and is often caused by angle worms. Where these are seen or the appearance of lumps on the top of the soil denotes their presence, they should be removed at once. In the final potting, be sure and place plenty of crocks in the bottom of the pot.

Salvias.

There are few more popular plants for bedding purposes than the salvia and when properly grown they are a great ornament to a garden either as beds by themselves or as an edging for cannas or other tall plants, the dwarf varieties being especially adapted for this purpose. To make a showing in mid-summer the plants should be started early either by cuttings or seeds so that the plants at this time should be large enough for a 3-inch pot and should have been pinched back at least once and beginning to branch.
These can be potted into 4-inch pots in April and will be showing bud by the time for planting them outside in June. Such plants of course cannot be sold as cheaply as the late-sown seedlings that are grown closely together, and allowed to run up to a single stem, but it will not take so many of the former plants to fill the same space and the bed will be in flower through the summer and fall while with the latter too often there is no bloom until just before frost, and when the first frosts are early the plants are not in bloom but a few weeks. The early plants are much more satisfactory to the customer and will cost but little more owing to the larger space which they will cover during the season.

Bedding Plants.

The plants for bedding out in the spring will take not only much of the plantsman's time, but will keep demanding more room, for the growth from now on will be rapid and unless constantly watched and cared for the plants will quickly get crowded and much of the stock injured. The final shift of the geraniums in the northern section of the country may be delayed until the first of April, but the plants should not be allowed to get badly potbound, and they should be given plenty of growing room. The propagating bed should be full of cuttings of the more rapid growing plants and the seedlings will have to be potted as soon as of proper size. The cannas and other bulbs that have been started should be potted and given good location for growing on. Now is the time to take account of stock and see of what kinds there is going to be a shortage and of what there will probably be an over supply and obtain the first and dispose of the second. This is the time to buy, for the stocks are large and shipments can be guaranteed, and the prices are low compared to what they will be a month hence. The amount of stock that annually goes to waste is large and a little foresight will prevent much of it. Every summer some growers throw away thousands of plants that have cost much in labor and should have made returns. Auction sales in some sections are the means of disposing of much of this stock, but this is generally at low prices. This stock can most all of it be disposed of by a little judicious advertising and letting the other fellows know where it can be obtained. An attendant at any plant sale in early spring will find many growers looking for all kinds of stock. It is often quite difficult to know just how much of each kind of bedding stock is wanted, but as soon as an over supply is noted let the other growers know where they can obtain it, and place a price on it that will guarantee a sale. It is much better to move it at some price than to throw it away. The wide-awake, up-to-date growers clean up their stock every year.

Geraniums.

At the approach of spring the geraniums and other bedding stock will make rapid growth and from those which are large enough a top cutting may be taken now. While these cuttings will not make good-sized plants for bedding out, yet they can be grown on for stock plants for another year. It is time now to take account of the stock on hand and look over the amount that has been required in the past, and if it is found that there will be a probable shortage of any varieties procure them at once. They can be obtained at this time, either small plants or rooted cuttings, at low prices. Many growers lose every year by putting off their buying too late when the prices have advanced to such a figure that there is no profit in handling them. It is seldom that one who has much bedding to do, has geraniums enough, especially of S. A. Nutt or Alphonse Ricard, and this is the time to procure the stock, and if a grower has any room to spare it is good business to stock up with these varieties, for there is a guaranteed sale for all well grown plants in May. The plants that are now in 3-inch pots will require going over often and spacing out, that well-grown stocky plants may be had. If crowded now, tall, weak, spindly plants are too often the result, and when grown in this way are not fit to make a good showing in the bed when planted.

Sweet Peas.

A sowing of sweet peas made in pots late in March which can be transplanted outside as soon as all danger from late frosts is passed, will give a crop of these flowers two or three weeks earlier than the seed sown in the ground. There is generally a time in late June and early July that the sweet peas in the greenhouse come very poor, owing to the excessive heat under glass and the infection of red spider, and the early sowings outside are not yet in flower. Five or six seeds sown in a 3-inch pot and these placed on the sill or window ledge or on a hanging shelf will make nice stock for planting out after the middle of April and the advantage of those started in the greenhouse over the ones sown in the cold ground will be quickly seen upon trial. They can be grown so that they will take but little valuable room under glass and the extra expense of this and the labor in transplanting them will be more than recompensed by having fine flowers at a time when most of the stock is in poor condition.

The plants that are growing inside will require considerable attention as the sun increases in power; the growth is very rapid and the vines must be kept erect or crooked flower stems will be the result. They should be gone over every day, and where the growing shoots are getting away from the supports they should be fastened to them.

Rose Floats.

The rose float, or shallow bowl, that has become so popular, is very good stock for any retail store that is at all aggressive and endeavoring to keep within hailing distance of the leaders. The first, or among the earliest of these flower receptacles, were those imported from Japan. The Japanese believe in displaying flowers singly, or separated, so that every particle of the foliage as well as the blossom is seen, so as to get the best and most artistic effect. The supports which hold the stems in place are of metal of many designs, such as frogs, dragons, fish, turtles and other like animals that live in water. They now have a large line of these floats in all sizes and colors, some of them very unique in coloring. The latest is a miniature bowl, three inches in diameter, with a tiny fish for a holder, in which only small flowers with slender stems can be used. It appears to catch the public fancy, being especially attractive on account of its diminutive size, especially when filled with the little polyantha pink and yellow roses. These bowls can be had in shades of green, yellow, white and blue, with fish to match.

American pottery manufacturers are now making a large line of shallow flower bowls in great variety of form and colors. They are glazed, flat finish, and iridescent, from purest white to jet black; in some of the latter it is almost impossible to see the water. Clear glass bowls are also seen, made to meet this demand for flower display; they are elegant in their crystal clearness, and can be used in many places when those of solid colors, useful as they are, striking in their color effects, would spoil the harmony.

Small china and glass birds in various colorings which can be "perched" on the edges of the bowls, are a great addition, as are also the butterflies made of glass or metal, which conform so in shape and color to the natural that they almost seem alive. A little piece of potters' clay attached to the underside of the body, enables them to be stuck on wherever desired. They can be instantly removed or changed to any angle and will hold the position as long as desired, the plastic material never seeming to lose its efficiency. Another very life-like bird of hollow glass, colored, with a few grains of small shot in its long tail feathers can be placed on a twig, or branch, where it balances perfectly and makes a conspicuous feature in these arrangements.

There is great latitude in the filling of these floats—they get the name from the rose or other flower that is floated on the surface of the water. Three or four roses in the holder, and one or two of the same sort, broken off short and floated on the water, are an added and noticeable feature.

Some of the receptacles as now offered are a combination of birds and holders, they being made in one piece, generally with two birds and holes for the flower stems in the foundation on which they stand. Flowers with reasonably thick stems can be used, such as Easter, calla and Japanese lilies, in the English glass block and other holders with large apertures. These in large bowls are very effective in table decorations. The accompanying illustrations show a number of different styles and types of these newer receptacles, together with the holders; also, birds and butterflies, which make such attractive additions.

Holding the Trade.

When new customers come into the store and desire to open an account, a distinct step forward has been taken, a business gain, which, providing the rating is good, may prove of great advantage. Satisfied customers are splendid advertisers, as they invariably speak in good terms of the house that treats them well. While as a matter of policy all customers should receive the best service, yet new trade may require a little extra attention to get their confidence and good will. How best to make and retain this kindly feeling for the firm is worth the best thought and efforts that can be given to the subject.

New customers are to be encouraged always; an occasional purchaser, if known to be responsible, is urged to open an account, as when the name is once on the books, they are apt to prefer dealing where they have credit or are known. Ordering over the telephone has become so general that customers, induced to open an account, have no hesitancy in giving their commissions in this way when they do not find it convenient to visit the store. All patrons should be asked to leave a few of their personal cards on file ready to be used with phone orders.

Every name in the list of customers should receive literature or circulars several times a year. Quite a number are but occasional buyers, requiring flowers only on such occasions as funerals or on holidays, but their orders count and every attention should be given them to encourage their continuance. When there is a marked falling off in the purchases of any particular customer, there should, as soon as this condition appears, be a diplomatic effort made to find out if there has been anything wrong with the stock or service in recent purchases; if so, it should be rectified at once. Never hold out against a complaint; the customer is "right," no matter how unreasonable the demand may be—take the loss and start over. There may be a few exceptions, but in the long run it is much better to lose the plants or flowers than the customer. Many a business has profited largely through the efforts of satisfied customers, for as a rule they will always speak well of tradesmen who have pleased them. Those recommended will refer others, and in this way the work goes on.

When an important patron has for some good or even fancied cause become disgruntled, there is nothing so healing as a box of flowers accompanying the apology. When flowers are plentiful, a box to a number of select customers is sure to bring the house pleasantly to mind. When demands for decorations to a charity bazaar or like request is made, the response should be cheerfully complied with, as it is "casting bread upon the waters" and is returned in renewed patronage.

Canadian Women to Replace Enlisted Men.

Believing that there may be need of Canadian women in floricultural work, taking the places of men who have been called to the colors, the Women's Emergency Corps of Ontario has received encouraging replies to offer of services. The Dale estate, of Brampton, have had more than 50 men enlist from their establishment, and eight or nine young women have already been engaged as helpers. The work in some departments is too heavy for women, but in others they show an aptness and deftness that makes them better than men. While the Dale estate experiences no difficulty in being able to secure all the local help required two carefully selected women are to be sent to Brampton by the corps. After becoming proficient in the work they will be sent elsewhere when needed.

Fertilizers For Roses.

Report of Professor F. W. Muncie, University of Illinois, Urbana, to the Illinois State Florists' Association at its eleventh annual meeting, Moline, March 7, 1916.

I am giving as a report to the association this year, a summary of our bulletin on "Commercial Fertilizers for Roses," which is now in the hands of our editor and will soon reach your hands.

Type of fertilizer needed.—The soil in the vicinity of the Illinois experiment station is a brown silt loam. On such a soil, applications of phosphatic fertilizer yield greatest increases in crops. Nitrogenous fertilizer is also needed, but applications of potassium sulfate not only give no increased crop but decrease the yield.

Time to feed.—The periods of heavy feeding should be during the periods of most rapid growth, viz., in fall and spring when sunshine is abundant enough not to limit growth. Fertilization is particularly needed in spring when the soil mixture is to the greatest extent depleted of its readily available content of plant food. While keeping this in mind, attention should also be paid to the periods of heavier production by the plants, when more fertilizer is needed. Phosphate gives an increase in production continuous throughout the year.

Specific kinds of fertilizer.—Acid phosphate, used in these experiments, was found a satisfactory form of phosphatic fertilizer. No comparison was made, however, between it and bone meal, basic slag and other phosphate-containing fertilizing materials. Dried blood and ammonium sulfate may each be used as nitrogenous fertilizers. The care necessary to prevent overfeeding with ammonium sulfate is so great, however, that its use is hardly to be recommended. The same precaution is necessary, but to a somewhat less degree, with sodium nitrate.

Nitrogen in manure or commercial fertilizer.—Applications of dried blood at the rate of five pounds per 100 square feet of bench space are safe, if put on only during periods of bright sunshine and of heavy production by the plants, and if not made oftener than four to six weeks apart. The amount of nitrogen in such an application corresponds to that contained in 270 pounds of manure of the average nitrogen content (50 per cent moisture); it is somewhat more readily available than part of that in good manure. These comparative figures give a basis for the use of either material, however, and show that the need for nitrogenous fertilizer may be supplied as manure quite as well as by the use of a commercial fertilizer. The symptom of nitrogen starvation (lightening of the color of the foliage) is so evident to every rose grower that there is no difficulty in determining when applications of a nitrogen-containing fertilizer should be made.

Phosphorus in manure and in acid phosphate.—Plants do not show such the need for phosphate in form of a commercial fertilizer is evident. Acid phosphate, the only form of phosphatic fertilizer used in the experiment, is, as stated, satisfactory. Since the benefit of its use is continuous throughout the year, it should be mixed with the soil before the benches are filled. Top-dressings with it are not so satisfactory, since surface root growth is stimulated in this way, resulting in the roots having contact with the soil particles only in an upper layer of the soil in the bench. There is no danger from overfeeding with acid phosphate, for four times the quantity here recommended has been applied without injury. In this respect acid phosphate possesses an advantage over bone, which cannot be mixed with soil or applied as top-dressings in excessive amounts without injuring the plants. The same is true to a greater extent with high phosphate tankage, and blood and bone.

Use of lime.—With such a need for phosphorus by rose plants, the use of lime or limestone with acid phosphate is to be discouraged, since the solubility of the phosphate would be decreased by its use. The decrease in production from sections in which limestone was used in the soil mixture, compared with that from sections receiving no lime, is fully proven by the data. The mixing of lime or limestone with the soil, though quite a common practice among growers, cannot be recommended. In case an application of lime is needed to prevent the growth of algae and molds on the soil surface, finely ground limestone applied as a top-dressing at the rate of 10 pounds per 100 square feet of bench space and very lightly cultivated into the surface will accomplish this without being carried down into the soil further than an inch below the surface, during the year.

Benefit of fertilizing.—The benefit from fertilizing is found to be in number of flowers produced and to a slight extent in the average stem length; no measurable change in length of petal follows fertilization with acid phosphate.

Comparison of soils of the state.—The soil used in the experiment described in the preceding pages was of the type known as the brown silt loam. A description of the various soil types of the state of Illinois, with their fertility, is given in Bulletin 123, Ill. Agr. Exp. Sta., which should be marked signs of the need for phosphorus, and experiment alone can determine its need. Applications of acid phosphate up to 20 pounds per 100 square feet of bench space (40 pounds per 100 cubic feet of soil), were found to give marked increases in production. The quantity of phosphorus contained in this application is equal to that contained in an application of 2,800 pounds of manure of average composition (50 per cent moisture), to 100 square feet of bench space, or twice this amount mixed with 100 cubic feet of soil. Since manifestly it is impossible to use such a mixture, studied by every florist in connection with these experiments. The significant facts of the table (page 196) giving the fertility of the different types are: Firstly, that the nitrogen content varies from 1440 to 8900 pounds per acre (6 $\frac{2}{3}$ inches deep) and, secondly, that practically every type of soil has a low phosphorus content. Peat soils alone show a low

(c) or mixed with the soil at the same rate, just previous to filling the benches.

(3) Do not mix lime or limestone with the soil. If needed for sweetening the soil and preventing the growth of algae, make a top-dressing of finely ground limestone at the rate of 10 pounds per 100 square feet of bench space.

H. R. FISHER'S, MARYSVILLE, KAS.

potassium content. The need for nitrogen may be judged from the appearance of the plants, and the loss made good by the addition of manure or dried blood. An even better method is to obtain, at the beginning of the season, a soil of higher nitrogen content, by selection of sod soil, heavy manuring, or turning under of green manure. These experiments have shown a need for addition of a phosphatic fertilizer, and with a low phosphorus content, a property common to practically all Illinois soils, the recommendations are applicable to any of these soils. Since acid phosphate produces no injury when applied in very large quantities, there is no reason to fear making an excessive application of it.

Few soils need applications of potassium.—On peat and sandy soils alone is there danger of a lack of potassium, and considerations of watering and proper soil texture prevent the use of these soils in the growing of roses.

Recommendations.—On the basis of these conclusions the following recommendations are made:

(1) Keep up the nitrogen content of the soil by turning under green or farm manure before use. If roses show signs of nitrogen starvation (a lightening of color of the foliage), make up the need with applications of liquid manure, mulches of manure, or top-dressings of dried blood, the last in applications not exceeding five pounds per 100 square feet of bench space and applied not oftener than four weeks apart. Feed only during sunshiny weather and most generously during periods of heavy production.

(2) Use generous quantities of acid phosphate in the soil. It may be added (a) at the rate of four to eight tons per acre in the field, (b) in a compost with soil at the rate of 40 to 80 pounds per 100 cubic feet of soil, Joliet Prosperity Day Decorations.

The accompanying illustration shows the decorations arranged by Heaton Nichols, Joliet, Ill., at the Masonic Temple in that city February 29, the occasion being the "Prosperity day" banquet, which was attended by over 600 merchants and their ladies. The tables were decorated with pink carnations, pink sweet peas, Asparagus Sprengerii and miniature lily ponds. Banks of palms and ferns were used throughout the hall, while the fireplaces were tastefully decorated with flowering plants and ferns. The eagle in the background was shot recently in the vicinity of Joliet. The American flag and sunburst in electric lights was a pleasing effect.

Christmas and Easter Plants.

For Easter, although we have lilies at Christmas, we still have them with us, now. This has been a predominant feature for years. It was first the Arum or calla lily. Later the longiflorum and Harrisii, formosum and giganteum, have arrived and have completely ousted the calla. There is something further interesting in the lily line. Lilium myriophyllum or Regal lily that has been introduced from China and has proven so far to be an excellent forcer and bids well to make a worthy acquisition for the Easter trade. Especially as it does not have the dead white entirely, that the other lilies have. It is white, slightly suffused with pink, and a canary yellow at the base. The perfume is not oppressive like the former lily. It is similar to the odor of jessamine. There is also Lilium Sargentea. It is a stronger grower than Harrisii and grows from six to eight feet with from five to 10 flowers on the stem. The color is a greenish white with a shading of purple, but pure white within the flower. Many people have had their troubles with lilies, and while the easiest way is the simplest, it is not always the best. There are very few growers that place their bulbs in the flowering pot who allow for the extended root action of the stem. Growers invariably pot them too high in the pot, whereby with the roots, termed the flowering roots, there is no nourishment to excite them or to help the flowers finish in good form. Very often the lily, when forced in this manner, does not get the nutrition necessary, and the tips of the leaves turn brown, the flowers are of immature size, and at once the verdict is that the bulbs were diseased, which is very often unfair to your importer and should not be deliberated on in this manner. The lily bulb should be placed practically at the bottom of a 5-inch or 6-inch pot according to the size of the bulb, just covered with enough soil so that the top of the bulb will be apparent. After root action and the growth of the stem has begun, about two to three inches above the top of the pot, the pot should be then filled up with a good, heavy, well mixed composition that is conducive to the growing of these plants. By so doing you can secure every particle of root action that it is possible to get, and most naturally have plants thereby better, and naturally, more flowers.

Also at this season a predominant feature is the hydrangea. Great work has been extended along these lines and the old Hydrangea Otaksa and Dr. Hogg, the two old-fashioned varieties serving our purpose extensively has resulted in the French varieties. We have Louis Dupuy, of Whitestone, L. I., N. Y., to thank much for his advance along these lines. There are many florists throughout the country who do not realize the value of the better varieties of this type. It is not only possible to have them in for early Easter, but also possible to produce these plants for Christmas flowering. Lily Mouilliere is in all probability the best white variety, and Mme. Maurice Hamar is a very early flowering pink. Radiant, in my mind, is the best pink, but inclined to be a poor grower if not handled in the proper manner. There has been a controversy regarding hydrangeas. So many people do not realize that the bud has to be formed the season before forcing, and if the bud is not there, it is impossible to get a flower the following season. A great amount of this stock has in recent years been imported, but our American growers seem able to produce a better grade of stock, well finished and budded plants, cheaper and delivered at a better time than the imports are. While the French varieties are indeed an acquisition I do not want to disregard Otaksa, which has served us well, and from Easter on, is really a plant that has filled many a corner or vase, either in the large size pot or tub.

Rhododendrons of various types, mostly the Himalayan have not been grown much more extensively than they are at the present time. They are not very hard to time, for the different dates of flowering along in spring, but they have a marked tendency to drop their foliage and really take bench room so that the grower cannot be compensated for handling them. The camellia, deutzia and kalmia, while in previous years have been extensively forced for Easter, are waning on account of the room they take, and too little reimbursement a grower receives for risk undergone for producing this stock. Roses are a main feature for Easter and with the advance of the Baby Rambler it appears that the demand increases very materially. The polyantha types can all be imported as late as Christmas and be brought into flower for Easter with very little trouble. The newer varieties of this type are the Mme. Jules Gouchault, Ellen Poulsen, Erna Teschendorff and Mme. Turbat. All these varieties have replaced the Phyllis and types that have not proven so satisfactory to the general public. In the various types of climbers, Hiawatha and American Belle held full sway for a season or so, but the single flowered types of this class do not seem to give the satisfaction that the semi-double varieties do. Tausendschon has without doubt been the queen of climbing roses. It is probably the best forcer of all climbers for early spring and will stand the heat from forcing much better than the other varieties and not so liable to blind growths. We all know that with the other climbers such as Excelsa, Dorothy Perkins, etc., growers can have excellent plants, but through starting them up a little too quickly, and a little too hot, they have sacrificed their speed to wood instead of buds.

In speaking about azaleas I omitted Azalea Mollis, which at one time was the predominant feature among all growers who forced stock for Easter, but have not been conducive to keeping the general public in favor with them. There is a new type of Mollis introduced, I believe by Koster, that I think will tend to reopen the demand for this class, being a very bright golden yellow that seems to be very striking and a very dark cerise that seems to be very much in favor holding their bloom for a long period.

Bougainvillias seem to be less in demand in the east than in former years. The public are tiring somewhat of them, but I find through this section of the country there is a great demand and people are beginning to call for them. Gardenias have been extensively grown in some sections for Easter trade, from eight to 10 inch plants. These require such delicate handling and have special care where the temperature can be run to them alone that there are few who experiment in trying them. Andromeda Japonica and floribunda, while to all intents and purposes hardy shrubs will enhance the variety of the Easter flowering plants considerably if only for the reason that they will last in bloom from eight to 12 weeks in as perfect a condition as when the flowers opened. They are showy and attract a great deal of attention wherever displayed. The spiraeas, asteoides and palmata have been greatly improved on by the varieties of recent introduction; also Peachblossom, Queen Alexandria, and other types of the Arendsi group. The trouble with this sort of stock is, while they do not take material room in starting them into growth and halfway to finish, they require as much as three feet square to finish an individual plant, and we can safely assert the remuneration is not enough for the production of these varieties of plants that take so much bench room.

There are also various hyacinths, tulips and other bulbs that really are a fore-runner all through the season and are generally a wind up for Easter. Included in the new colored freesias, the noted Rainbow hybrids have been exploited with great success. Also the lilacs, viburnums, deutzias, forsythias, prunus, etc., lend themselves as fillers to the variety of Easter stock.

There are also in the perennial section, stock that could be used for effect, such as dielytras, primroses, myosotis and delphiniums. In other softwood plants is the marguerite, which should be a predominant factor at Easter. It is a plant that requires very little heat, and timed correctly, can be had in good form. The Aotus gracillium; or common broom; jessamine, grandiflora and primula, and the various types of Acacia, especially cordata, Drummondii, eristemen and pimelia spectabilis, and the heaths or Ericas of the ventricosa type such as magnifica and coccinea minor, Cavendishii; also chorizemas, lend themselves as plants not only suitable, but necessary flowering plants for Easter blooming. These include boronia, serulata, megaligma, and hetrophylla.

As regards the foliage plants at this time, there are great varieties of stock. The season of the year allows for the variegated colored stock to be highly perfected under more natural conditions than at Christmas time. Funkias, that have been brought in and grown cold, make good fillers-in. Caladiums, of the fancy leaved varieties, lend a prominent and wonderful display of colors. Dracenas, and especially amabilis, terminalis and stricta grandis are in their best colors. In crotons, Readii, Robert Craig, fasciatum, undulatum and Carreeri are only a few of the varied colorings. The variegated umbrella plants, etc., are also good stock.

The collection of plants possible to be grown for Easter is so great that one cannot, in a short space of time, concentrate one's mind fully on the full details of so great a variety. One predominant feature, that while red is used extensively for Christmas, white for Easter has become a thing of the past and we find that the florists throughout the country have educated their customers to using more varied colored stock for Easter decorations and festivities.

In conclusion, the growers throughout the country should be encouraged in a general way for the production of something original, something of merit, that at the present time only happens to be brought to a certain section, through the medium of one locality instead of a general factor, whereby the whole fraternity should be acquainted with same. All our horticultural societies throughout the country should consider the appointing of a standing committee to see that meritorious plants, both decorative and flowering, should be given the proper publicity; that the man spending so much energy in forwarding the knowledge and benefits of the craft should have the proper recognition.

International Garden Club Summer Show.

Following a general meeting that was held at the residence of Mrs. Chas. F. Hoffman, 630 Fifth avenue, New York City, president of the International Garden Club, on Feb. 24, to discuss the holding of a flower show at the club house and grounds at Pelham Manor, Pelham Bay Park, New York City, a meeting of those who had been invited to join the schedule committee was held at the Hotel Breslin, New York City, on Thursday, March 9. There were present Harry A. Bunyard, New York; Julius Roehrs, Rutherford, N. J.; John E. Lager, Summit, N. J.; P. W. Popp, Mamaroneck, N. Y.; W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J.; Wm. H. Duckham, Madison, N. J.; I. S. Hendrickson, Floral Park, L. I.; Leonard Barron, Garden City, L. I., and J. Harrison Dick, New York. H. A. Bunyard was elected chairman of the committee, J. Harrison Dick, secretary.

The date of the show was very thoroughly discussed, and June 1-4 was proposed for the consideration of the executive committee of the International Garden Club. A preliminary schedule and prize list was also prepared and submitted for the approval of the International Garden Club, which guarantees a sum of at least $3,000. It is hoped that this schedule will be accepted and published at once so that growers can make their arrangements in due time. The classes call for groups of plants and cut blooms from both commercial and private growers.

Bone Fertilizer from Pribilof Islands.

In a recent report from the commissioner of the United States bureau of fisheries, it is stated that extensive accumulations of seal bones exist on both St. Paul and St. George islands, the fertilizer value of which is estimated at millions of dollars. Whether or not it would be advisable, in order to furnish work for the natives, to do the grinding on the islands is a matter which may be left for future determination. If a power grinding mill were installed, the necessary fuel would have to be transported to the islands, as no natural source of fuel exists.

SALEM, N. J.—H. E. West, formerly of Swedesboro, N. J., will open a florist establishment in this city. A branch store at Swedesboro will also be maintained.

Rock Island, Moline and Davenport.

The eleventh annual convention of the Illinois State Florists' Association, held at the Turner hall, Moline, last week, a complete report of which appeared in the March 11 issue of THE AMERICAN FLORIST, was a great success, especially as far as the number of exhibits were concerned. Three exhibits arrived the last day too late to be staged, but attracted much favorable attention and were a splendid vase of the new scarlet carnation, Aviator, from the J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet; a vase of the new red carnation, Merry Christmas, from Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Ind., and a good showing of splendidly grown Primula malacoides roses from Fred H. Lemon & Co., Richmond, Ind.

E. C. Brucker.

President-Elect Buffalo Florists' Club.

The visitors all spoke in glowing terms of the hospitality of the Tri-City florists and were entertained to a queen's taste on the last day when they were treated to an automobile ride through the arsenal, city parks and greenhouse establishments. The Davis Floral Co. and the J. W. Davis Co.'s greenhouses at Davenport were the first stops made and after the party had inspected all the houses the members were treated to a good smoke. J. W. Bettendorf's new Foley conservatory, 40x150 feet, where P. G. Pearson is in charge, was next visited and is said to be one of the largest of its kind west of the Mississippi river. Mr. Pearson had everything in fine shape, notwithstanding that the place was not finished until recently and took great delight in showing the visitors about. Julius Staack & Sons' greenhouses were next visited and the way the coffee and cake disappeared plainly demonstrated that the ladies know how to cook as well as the men know how to grow flowers. Ludwig Stapp's establishment at Rock Island was also visited and a splendid dinner was served by the genial florist who never overlooks an opportunity to help a good cause along and the way the eats disappeared was surprising although there was plenty for everyone. Arvid Anderson's greenhouses were inspected and everyone was favorably impressed with his new carnation, Mrs. C. H. Deere and fine white seedling, No. 100. C. O. E. Boehm, superintendent of parks, Davenport, escorted the crowd through the greenhouses, where everything was found to be in the best possible condition and each of the visitors was presented with a copy of the report of the Board of Park Commissioners for the past five years. Many of the visitors, especially the Chicago delegation, wanted to leave for home in the afternoon, so it was impossible to visit all the other places, as many of these would have desired to do. Every one of the florists in the Tri-Cities worked hand in hand, especially John Staack, Ed. R. Patton, D. G. Pearson, Ludwig Stapp, W. C. Wilson, Wm. Goos, Wm. Knees, Sr., Wm. Knees, Jr., C. J. Reardon, A. Anderson, Henry Gaethje, Christ. Sorenson, C. O. E. Boehm, Harry Bills and all the rest of the boys, who gave the visitors one of the best times that they ever had.

The J. W. Davis Co. has placed an order for a new cucumber house 76x600 feet, to be erected in the spring.

The Davis Floral Co. will add a new house, 43x300 feet, to its present range of 60,000 feet of glass.

F. E. Bonham, of Macomb, gave nearly every exhibitor at the convention an order of some kind. It is too bad that there were not several more hundred visitors like him.

There were 14 automobiles used to convey the visitors about the three cities.

Ludwig Stapp, Rock Island, is building three new Moninger houses, 74x300 feet.

Washington.

BUSINESS IS QUIET.

With the arrival of Lent, business has taken a quiet turn. Stock is plentiful, and with the drop in prices all of the stores are taking advantage of the opportunity to make good displays. Roses can be had at prices ranging from $2 to $12 per 100, and carnations are quoted at from $2 to $4. The market is glutted with sweet peas, the finest of the Spencer type selling for $1.50 per 100. Easter lilies and callas are about the only items that hold firm in price. They are not overplentiful and bring from $10 to $12 per 100.

NOTES.

At a meeting of the florists' club, March 7, the following officers were elected: R. Lloyd Jenkins, president; Adolph Gude, vice-president; C. L. Linz, secretary; Wm. F. Gude, treasurer. The executive committee is composed of George Field, Theo. Die-drich, Adolph Gude, Geo. H. Cooke, David Bissett and Wm. Ernest. Geo. W. Hess, superintendent of the National Botanic Garden, was elected to honorary membership. Geo. H. Cooke, the retiring president, was presented with a handsome silver platter. Wm. Ekas, of Baltimore, informed the club that a delegation of 50 from the trade in that city will join the Washington contingent and attend the Fourth National Flower Show at Philadelphia March 27. A special train has been chartered by the club for the occasion.

Arrangements for the spring rose show, which has become an annual event, were made March 11 at a meeting of the Brookland Citizens' Association. E. C. Salzmann was appointed chairman of the finance committee, and F. T. Howe, chairman of the exhibition committee.

Capt. Ernest is busy looking up his bowlers and will have the local florists' club represented in the tournament of the Atlantic Coast Bowling Association, which will be held here in April.

We are glad to be able to report that Ed Miller has recovered from a severe attack of grippe, which confined him to his home for two weeks.

STOCK PLENTIFUL BUT PRICES FIRM.

The local market has held up remarkably well of late. Stock of all kinds is plentiful, prices still remaining good. The mild weather we have had for the past few days was accompanied with a fair amount of sunshine. Both wholesalers and retailers report that sales are active, and few are complaining of poor business.

CLUB MEETING.

At the meeting of the local florists' club, March 7, the headliner, an exhibit of new carnations, proved to be a splendid and appreciated attraction. Among the exhibits and exhibitors were: Mrs. Coomby, by E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.; Belle Washburn, by Bassett & Washburn, Chicago; Morning Glow, by Edw. Winkler, Wakefield, Mass. There were also several fine specimens staged by our Sewickley growers. Suitable cultural certificates were awarded all of the above. Pasquale Fabbuzzi showed an immense seal of the City of Pittsburgh, made almost entirely of immortelles. The design measured six feet in diameter, and aroused great interest. Mr. Fabbuzzi values this piece at $300. John Jones of Schenley Park brought with him a fine collection of bulbs "to help pay the rent," as Mr. Jones put it. He also demonstrated some new experiments with radio active earth. Many other miscellaneous plants were also shown. The new president of the club, Carl Becherer, of Sewickley, got off with a good start, and gave everyone present the impression that he will be a live wire in his capacity, being greeted with an attendance of 48 members. Ex-President McCallum was presented with, what the chairman termed, a "gold medal," and upon glancing at the token, Mr. McCallum gratefully replied that the emblem, which contained the figure of a lady, appealed to him very much, the only trouble being that he couldn't look at it long enough, as directly under the figure, Uncle Sam had the figure 20.

NOTES.

Michael Kronis, the Pennsylvania Station Florist, has bought the half interest held in his place of business by Geo. Manos of Chicago, and now controls full ownership. Mr. Kronis has also acquired the lease for the shoe shining parlors located inside the station.

A few more new faces have appeared in the local wholesalers', A. F. Vick and Wm. Heinsinger having joined the forces of the Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co. and the McCallum Company, respectively.

The A. W. Smith Co. has worked up an extensive trade in artificial crepes in and around Pittsburgh and make several out-of-town shipments of these goods daily.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND BALANCE.

Trade has about held its own during the past week, with the supply about covering the demand. Roses are coming in a little better and promise soon to be abundant. Violets are plentiful and sweet peas are coming in very satisfactorily, while carnations are filling all the unoccupied places and doing double duty in all branches of the trade, both in designs and as cut flowers. There is a good deal of wholesaling being done in the out-of-town trade. Some of the dealers say they are doing more wholesale than retail business.

NOTES.

The only thing novel to be noted is the St. Patrick's day window of the Joy Floral Company. The floor of the window is bedded with the green woodland moss, evidently fresh from its native haunts, furnishing a fine setting for the mammoth shamrock in the background, which is lighted at night with electric bulbs. The Blarney castle and harp of Erin, together with numerous small pots of the American shamrock namely the white clover, distributed over the green moss with numbers of small flags of Erin, make quite a pleasing whole, and attract much attention, with good sales on both the harps and the castles.

Several of the florists are going into the market house on the public square with wagon loads of pot plants. The price here is cheaper than in the stores, and a class of patrons is reached who do not visit the stores. The five and ten-cent stores are having ferns, asparagus, hyacinths, pansies and other small plants on sale, and do a thriving business. Every country garden, which has the yellow daffodil in any kind of abundance has them on sale on the streets. They sell at 10 cents a dozen and sell rapidly. They are somewhat smaller blossoms than the greenhouse raises, which retail at 25 cents a dozen.

DULL WEATHER CAUSES SHORTAGE.

The market has advanced during the past week in nearly every line of stock. The siege of dull weather has shortened the supply to a marked degree and prices have advanced. Roses are in short crop and sell readily at from $3 per 100 to $2 per dozen. Ophelia, Russell and Hadley continue to be the leaders. Carnations have gone up to 4 cents, the demand being for Matchless on account of the St. Patrick's day trade. Red and scarlet varieties sell rather slow, but on the whole, the carnation market is better than usual for the time of the year. Yellow marguerites are more plentiful and the demand seems to increase with the supply as the flower comes into its season. Snapdragon is coming larger and with better flowers and finds a good market. There is a plentiful supply of shamrocks and they are selling very satisfactorily. The plant trade is fairly good, although there is not much of a variety just now, bulb pans being the main factor of supply.

NOTES.

M. B. Dallachie, of Newton, is bringing to the market a nice lot of double violets and English primroses. He grows Lady Hume Campbell exclusively, as he believes it to be the most profitable violet as the price remains even throughout the season and it is more prolific than the singles.

Wm. Sim, of Cliftondale, has commenced cutting a large sweet pea crop. The Spencer varieties are grown and the flowers are of his usual high quality. Pansies also are being cut in large quantities. His violets are doing well, and he is the largest shipper of popular flowers to Boston.

The bowling league banquet will be held March 23, at the Georgian hotel. Tickets may be obtained from J. Sloan at the Flower Exchange, Winthrop square, for $2.50 per plate. The banquet promises to be one of the "big events" of the season and all who possibly can should attend.

H. Johnson, of Woburn, is cutting some very fine Daffodils Emperor and Victoria. He also has some nice Spencer sweet peas. He is contemplating the construction of a new greenhouse this season, 35x100 feet, the work to be done by local builders.

W. S. Wilson, of Wellesley is cutting some very fine Spencer peas at present. He also has excellent carnations, his Beacon being especially good compared with the average.

Some of the best White Wonders seen in the market are grown by Thomas Capers of Wellesley Hills. He also has very good Pink Delight, Benora and Beacon.

BAD WEATHER AND POOR BUSINESS.

The week ending March 11 was, on a whole, very unsatisfactory to business. The last four days were practically sunless, and snow or rain fell almost incessantly. The weather was against sales, and the dark weather stopped the production of stock to an extent. The supply of roses has increased, however, and prices are lower. Carnations continue abundant and are fairly low in price. With many of the growers there is an abundance of burst flowers now. Violets are not selling well and are lower in price. Sweet peas, especially Spencers, are in good demand, as are yellow marguerites. Callas are more abundant. Dutch bulbous flowers are in good supply, but are not moving fast. There is a good stock of freezias of excellent quality. Snapdragons are somewhat scarce, and the supply of pansies is good. Lily of the valley cleans up fairly well. Cattleyas are still abundant, but meet with little demand. There is an adequate supply of Asparagus plumosus that is good. Azaleas are coming in fast and the quality is good, but the supply for Easter will be somewhat restricted here this year.

John F. Wood had several large designs, among which was a ship of flowers for a large funeral in Warwick, March 12.

H. A. T.

Los Angeles.

Local trade conditions continue satisfactory, with a good supply of stock in variety to choose from. Carnations never were better in quality, but of course they are cheap, and make up the bulk of the shipments of the wholesalers. Gladioli are now making their appearance and no doubt will meet with their usual popularity. The pot plant demand continues good, especially in rhododendrons and primroses.

NOTES.

S. Murata & Co., the well-known wholesalers, are making heavy shipments of carnations. They are prepared to make shipments anywhere.

The Redondo Floral Co. reports a continuance of good business. This establishment was the first to show gladioli in this city this year.

Wright's Flower Shop had a good supply of lily of the valley and report good sales in plants. They appear to be busy in all lines.

J. W. Wolters is displaying some fine orchids and a large variety of bulbous flowers. A good, steady trade is the rule at his place.

G. H. H.

DENVER, COLO.—Fred Hall is erecting a greenhouse, 75 x 140 feet, on Josephine street.

WALTHAM, MASS.—Pierce Bros. will add one house, 50x300 feet, to their range. They will plant 10,000 more rose plants this year than they did in 1915.

Louisville, Ky.

Charles Rayner, formerly of the Anchorage Rose Co., near this city, is now at Vancouver, B. C. He enlisted with the Canadian contingent and after being on the firing line was taken sick. After his recovery he was returned to Canada where he is a recruiting sergeant. His son is with the aviation corps.

A month old baby, which had been deserted at an interurban station March 9, was discovered by William Walker, florist, who took it to a nearby institution, where, despite the fact that it had suffered from the cold weather, it recovered.

E. G. Reimers & Son Co. are much pleased with the volume of business this season. They had the decorations for the automobile show which was held in the Armory, one of the largest buildings in the city, having a seating capacity of 12,000.

The F. Walker Co. has the orders for the decorations for two of the largest department stores in this city. Quantities of palms, blooming plants and southern smilax will be used.

Anders Rasmussen of New Albany is cutting immense quantities of roses and carnations daily. The quality is of the best. His American Beauties will be in crop at Easter.

A wind of cyclonic velocity struck Louisville and vicinity recently, unroofing several large buildings, but florists' establishments escaped without serious damage.

Jacob Schulz has a fine lot of blooming plants coming on that will be right for Easter. He is an acknowledged expert in the plant line.

The New Nanz & Neuner Co., Inc., have a beautiful display of Rhododendron Pink Pearl. Other fine varieties are also shown.

Louis Kirch, plumosus and smilax expert, contemplates changing his heating system to steam during the coming summer.

John V. Bohman, the veteran florist, has been quite ill but will soon be able to be out again.

E. C. Walker, landscape architect, is working on plans for several large estates.

The 10-cent stores are selling plants supplied by one of the local growers.

H. G. W.

Montreal.

BULBOUS STOCK SCARCE.

Business is keeping up very well, there being an extra heavy demand for funeral work. The supply of roses and carnations are about equal to the demand, but strange to say, bulbous flowers are scarce and high in price, due, the growers say to the fact that the mid-season and late varieties are not producing blooms. This is especially true with Emperor and Empress narcissi. It is thought by some that the bulbs suffered on shipboard by improper storing. Ferns are also scarce, the Christmas trade having used up all of the available supply and the growers have not been able as yet to overcome the shortage.

CLUB MEETING.

The March meeting of the local gardeners' and florists' club was the best attended meeting of the season, an interesting feature being a paper by A. H. Walker on "Flower Pots," which was read by W. H. Horobin, the secretary, and provoked a lengthy discussion. Hall and Robinson exhibited a vase of carnations, vase of tulips and a plant of farfugium. J. Travis, exhibited one plant of cyclamen and one of Begonia Glorie de Lorraine. Geo. Pascoe displayed Cattleya brassifolia orchids. E. J. Hayward staged a collection of shamrocks. The judges were C. F. Smith and J. Pidduck.

NOTES.

S. S. Bain, the well-known florist and grower, who has been seriously ill with pneumonia, died March 12. He came to Canada from Cromarty, Scotland, when a young man, and started one of the first florist stores in partnership with the late Colin Campbell; this soon was dissolved and Mr. Bain started for himself on Beaver Hall Hill, then the principal business street. Being a very energetic and far-seeing man, he opened a second store on St. Catherine street. His greenhouses are located on lower Lachine Road and are among the largest and most up-to-date in Montreal. His son, D. Bain, will succeed him in business.

Mrs. John Walsh, wife of John Walsh, gardener to W. W. Ogilvey, died March 9. The funeral was held from her late residence, 108 Redpath street, Saturday, March 11.

J. L.

Holyoke and Northampton Club.

The regular meeting of this club was held March 7 at the greenhouses of Gallivan Bros., Smiths Ferry, N. Y. There was a good attendance of members and in the absence of President Butler, Vice-President George Strugnell occupied the chair. After the business session, James Whiting read the paper, "Is Gardening a Profession?" sent by the National Association of Gardeners, which met with hearty approval. K. B. Ullman presented a paper on "Advertising", which provoked a good discussion and brought the retailers out of their shells. Exhibits made a good showing again and as usual were of high quality. Mr. Schwartz, in charge of the greenhouses, had arranged a bank of Murillo tulips, a mixed group of ericas, azaleas and ferns, and also staged plants of a crimson form of Primula obconica. G. H. Sinclair & Son had pans of a pretty lavender form of Primula vulgaris and vases of mignonette, snapdragons, sweet peas, and Carnations White Wonder, Rosette and Princess Dagmar. F. D. Keyes & Son had Carnations White Wonder, Enchantress and an unnamed pink variety of good form. H. E. Downer showed a plant of Dendrobium nobile having 150 open flowers. A specimen plant of Banera rubioides, a pot of Hyacinth gigantea and vases of Schizanthus Wisetoniensis and Tulip Flamingo. Congratulations were in order to G. H. Sinclair, that day appointed a park commissioner for the city of Holyoke.

New London Horticultural Society.

The above society held its regular meeting Thursday, March 9. Mr. Stevens, of Storrs College, spoke on "Pruning and Spraying." He told how to prune and when was the best time. On spraying he spoke at length, naming the different insects and fungi that attacked the different fruits and berries and what he considered the best insecticides and fungicides, telling why he preferred them to others. There was a good attendance and two new members were elected. The president spoke on the loss to the society in the departure of Alfred Flowers, who is leaving to take a superintendent's place near Newark, N. J. The secretary announced that Wm. A. Dawson, Willimantic, Conn., would speak on "Carnations" at the April meeting and would exhibit his new carnation, Red Wing.

OBITUARY.

Josep H. Cunningham.

Joseph H. Cunningham, one of the best known growers of primulas, pansies and ferns in the United States, died at his home, Delaware, O., March 4, aged 59 years. His first work as a florist was with Geo. W. Campbell at Delaware, O., grower of the famous Delaware grape. After seven years of work in that field, Mr. Cunningham started his present establishment, about 1885, on a small scale in a retail way, gradually increased its size and entered the wholesale line, which is now the most important part of the business. He was especially well known for his success in growing primulas. He was a man of most genial personality and generous disposition, living and believing in those principles, which are now so often termed, "old fashioned." He was a republican in politics and had served four years as a member of the city council. He was a member of Hiram Lodge, No. 18, F. & A. M.; Olentangy Lodge, No. 53, I. O. O. F., and Lenape Temple, No. 29, K. of P. He is survived by his widow, Emma J. Cunningham, two daughters, Marian L. Cunningham and Mrs. Fred Duffy, and two sons, Eugene J. and Geo. W. Cunningham.

Funeral services were held at Delaware, O., March 6, and his remains were borne to their last resting place, surrounded by a profusion of beautiful flowers, which were tributes of the high esteem in which he was held by his hosts of friends.

Asa Eldridge Brown.

A. Eldridge Brown, cashier at the establishment of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., died March 9. Mr. Brown was born in New York, September 29, 1854. In 1882, he entered the employ of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., who were then located at 221 Church street. After attaining practical experience in the different departments of the business Mr. Brown was made cashier and this position he occupied up to the time of his death. He had a wide acquaintance among the seed trade and many times represented the firm at the annual conventions of the American Seed Trade Association. Mr. Brown leaves no children but a widow and a host of friends who mourn his loss.

Charles Woodbury Northrup.

Charles Woodbury Northrup, at one time well known in the Chicago trade as a successful grower of bulbous stock, died at his home in La Grange, Ill., March 12. Mr. Northrup was a man of considerable talent and greatly esteemed by those who knew him. In later years he had been identified with the State Bank of La Grange and was collector of the town of Lyons. The funeral services were held March 14 with interment in Oakwood cemetery. Two daughters survive.

SPRING VALLEY, N. Y.—A. S. Burns is erecting two houses, each 70 by 400 feet.

JACKSON, MICH.—Henry M. Burt has opened a flower store at 108 Francis street.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.—The Viale Floral Co. has three houses at Lenox avenue and Wahconah street.

TOLEDO, O.—Miss Helen F. Patten, of the Patten Flower Shop, is critically ill. As soon as her condition improves she will undergo an operation.

FOURTH NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

At the February meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club the Pennsylvania Railroad was selected as the route to the Fourth National Flower Show, to be held at Philadelphia, March 25-April 2, the club party leaving the Union station, Canal street, on Train No. 8, Saturday, March 25, the opening day of the show, at 3:15 p. m., due Philadelphia 5:50 p. m. the following day. The individual fare in either direction, between Chicago and Philadelphia, is $19.10 and the party fare for 10 or more people on one ticket is $17.39 per capita between the same points in either direction. The Pullman fares are $3.60 for upper berth, $4.50 for lower, and $16 for a drawingroom, two tickets being required for the exclusive use of a drawingroom.

Other Pennsylvania Railroad trains for those who can not leave with the club party are: Pennsylvania Limited, leaving Chicago 5:30 p. m., due Philadelphia 3:08 p. m. (excess fare $4), and Manhattan Limited, leaving Chicago 10:30 a. m., due North Philadelphia 7:19 a. m. (excess fare $5).

Persons desiring to visit New York during the show at Philadelphia can secure one-way tickets to New York at a cost of $21.10 with the privilege of a 10-day stopover at Philadelphia.

For reservations, etc., address District Passenger Agent, E. K. Bixby, 175 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago. Telephone, Wabash 3660.

American Gladiolus Society.

Notice is hereby given that the variety, Crystal White, formerly called Paper White, is submitted for registration by H. H. Baer of New Hyde Park, N. Y.

The nomenclature committee suggests a new method of registration, viz., the publication of a brief description with the suggested names for the varieties submitted for registration. If there is no objection to this name before April 1, this variety will be registered as Crystal White.

Description.—Bloom medium size (8 cm.). Stamen filaments white, anthers bluish; perianth white, blotched Tyrian rose. Seems a compact bloom of good substance, five blooms being open at one time. It is early to mid-season, tall, erect, and bears a large number of blooms (21); is a vigorous grower, and well furnished with medium broad leaves; seems prolific.

A. C. BEAL,

Chairman Nomenclature Committee.

National Council of Horticulture.

METHODS ADOPTED BY GOVERNMENT.

Some years ago the National Council of Horticulture inaugurated an excellent press service which the trade and trade organizations permitted to languish and die through lack of support brought about by almost childish jealousies. It is an interesting commentary on the trade's action to find that the department of agriculture has considered it necessary to meet the popular demand by the installation of just such a new service which has been in operation during the past two years. Among the articles issued to the press during the present year we find the following: "Time to Plant Annual Flowering Plants in Hotbeds," "Now is the Time to Fertilize Lawns," "When to Prune Ornamental Plants,"

"Keep Your Garden Soil Busy all Season," and "Plan Your Back-Yard Garden on Paper."

Sweet Pea Queries.

The following queries answered by Howard M. Earl, manager of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., were read before the Philadelphia Florists' Club, March 7.

1. What is the best treatment of winter-flowering Spencer sweet peas, planted in a carnation bench, to produce seed?

As sweet peas grown under glass will not set seed until towards the end of April, nothing would be gained by starting the seed very early in the fall. Therefore, as there would be no advantage in allowing the flowers to remain on the vines, meanwhile would advise cutting them regularly until towards the middle of April.

2. And how soon ought they to set seed?

If the plants referred to have been flowering now for sometime, they should be given regular applications of liquid manure and perhaps a top dressing of thoroughly rotted manure, the desire being to keep them growing strongly until the period when they would be likely to produce the most seed.

3. There are a few vines I particularly want to get all the seed of that is possible.

As the days get longer and the sun, naturally, much stronger, the vines are likely to be attacked by the green fly, and, unless, this is seen to in time, the plants might be so badly crippled as to preclude any chance of seed setting. It is, therefore, well to fumigate the house at intervals of ten days or so as "prevention is better than cure."

Philadelphia Hotel Rates.

The following is a list of Philadelphia hotels and rates per day issued by the committee on information of the Fourth National Flower Show to be held in that city, March 25-April 2. Fred Cowperthwaite, chairman of the committee, Room 1205 Widener building, Juniper and Chestnut streets, Philadelphia, Pa., will be pleased to give any further information desired upon request.

Nassau County Horticultural Society.

A very severe snowstorm was in progress March 8, the meeting day of the above society and the attendance was considerably smaller than usual in consequence. The meeting, which was held in Pembroke hall, Glen Cove, was called to order by President James McDonald at 2 p. m. Notwithstanding the reduced attendance, there was a goodly array of flowers and plants on the exhibition table, and all were of first quality. John Everett, Ernest Westlake and James Duthie acted as judges and turned in the following report: For best six spikes of antirrhinum, Robert Jones, 1st; best plant of cyclamen, Robert Jones, 1st; special prize offered by Robert Jones for best 12 carnations, James McDonald, 1st; James McCarthy, 2nd. Robert Jones exhibited a bunch of violets which were of exceptional quality and for which he was awarded a certificate of culture. A vase of gardenias exhibited by Harry Jones was highly commended.

By request, Robert Jones gave an account of his method of growing violets, which was followed by an interesting discussion on the same subject. James Holloway favored us with an essay on the subject of "Outdoor Fruit", and as he is a keen enthusiast on the subject of fruit culture, and is constantly carrying on various experiments, his treatise proved to be of more than ordinary interest. An animated discussion followed, and Mr. Holloway was questioned at considerable length in regard to different points about fruit growing which he had spoken of. Martin Ebel, for the National Association of Gardeners, sent an admirable essay to be read at this meeting, the title of which was, "The Use of Native Plants for Ornamental Planting", by S. P. Jensen, of Missouri. The essay was very instructive and was very well received by the members present.

Arthur Herrington paid us a visit and spoke on the coming spring flower show to be held in New York. He described some of the prospective features which the committee expects to have this year and prophesied that this show would far surpass all previous shows that have been held in New York.

Beginning next month, April, our meetings will take place in the even-

GOOD DEMAND FOR STOCK.

The demand for stock the past week has been very good and everything cleaned up nicely each day at an early hour. American Beauty roses are more plentiful, especially in the shorter lengths, but extra fancy long-stemmed flowers still command $5.00 per dozen. Roses in general are in good supply, but the receipts this week have moved well, and at certain times it was impossible to fill all the orders on some varieties. Several of the out-of-town wholesale houses have been buying large quantities of roses here the opening of this week, according to one of the large growers who took care of part of the orders. Some especially fine Richmond, Rhea Reid, Ophelia, Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Killarney Queen, White Killarney, Mrs. George Shawyer, Double White Killarney, Mrs. Moorfield Storey and Mrs. Chas. Russell are included in the shipments and are in good demand. The small roses, Cecile Brunner, George Elgar and Baby Doll are quite plentiful and the same holds good for the other roses not mentioned in this report and grown for the local market. Carnations are quite plentiful but are clearing at good prices, with the exception of Enchantress, which seem to drag. White carnations are in brisk demand for St. Patrick's day and the best are selling at prices ranging from $5 to $6 per 100. Lilies are not as plentiful as they have been, but there are enough reaching the market each day to permit all orders to be filled in full. Sweet peas are more plentiful and choice stock is obtainable in quantity at prices ranging from 75 cents to $1.50 per 100. Violets, both single and double, are still in large supply, with no great change in last week's prices. Lily of the valley was in better supply this week than for some time. Gardenias and orchids are in fair supply and the same holds good for tulips, Romans, daisies, jonquils, daffodils, calendulas, Paper White narcissi, freesias, stocks, lupines, anemones, snapdragons, forget-me-nots, pansies, callas and mignonette. Some gladioli of the common mixed varieties are being offered, but are not meeting with very good demand. Lent does not seem to be affecting business any for trade has been better this week than anyone expected it would be. The supply of stock in general is steadily increasing, and it would not be at all surprising if a few more days will find quite a change in the market conditions. The retail stores are making a large showing of cut flowers and plants and the usual low prices especially on bulbous stock are being quoted as in former years.

NOTES.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. has a fine line of plants for Easter, including azaleas, hydrangeas, rhododendrons, spireas, lilies and rambler roses. In the palm department, where H. M. Oeser presides, everything is in splendid shape and there is enough stock on hand in nearly all the desired sizes to fill the orders that will be received. Adolph Poehlmann says he never saw a season when their young rose stock was in such healthy condition as it is this year, and that the demand is very good for all the varieties they have listed and that new orders are being received each day. This firm is cutting a splendid supply of roses, carnations and other miscellaneous stock, which is being shipped out in large quantities each day.

The Lincoln park commissioners passed an ordinance March 9 authorizing the reclamation and addition of submerged lands between Cornelia street and Irving Park boulevard to the Lincoln park system. A bond issue of $1,000,000 for the project was authorized in the ordinance to be placed on the ballot at the election April 4. The filling in of the area, which will contain approximately 90 acres and will be a half mile in length and a quarter of a mile in width, will make a total of 300 acres of made land between Diversey and Irving Park boulevards.

George Asmus, W. J. Keimel, E. F. Kurowski, A. M. Anderson, Arthur Dietsch, P. J. Foley, E. H. Goldenstein, Frank Hartwick, C. L. Washburn and wife, A. C. Kohlbrand, C. W. Reid, John Schrieber, W. E. Tricker and E. A. Ollinger attended the eleventh annual meeting and exhibition of the Illinois State Florists at Moline, March 7-8.

Bassett & Washburn never cut a finer lot of stock than they are right now, and which is in such good demand that there is hardly ever a surplus when the day's orders are filled. The shipping trade is especially brisk, with a heavy call for short and medium stemmed roses for store openings and other occasions. C. L. Washburn and wife will leave in about a week for Pasadena and Hollywood, Calif., where they visit for several days with O. P. Bassett and wife and E. B. Washburn and family.

Peter Reinberg continues to cut heavily in Mrs. Chas. Russell and Richmond roses, which are good property right now. Felix Reichling says that trade was very good last week and that stock cleaned up in great shape every day. Emil Reich-ling, superintendent of the Reinberg greenhouses, will attend the National Flower Show at Philadelphia, Pa., March 25-April 2, and the New York show the following week.

The local bowlers have got the idea that they cannot be beaten, and are talking of challenging the Milwaukee boys for a series of match games in the near future. Fred Price says that the Cream City crowd can accept this as a challenge, but should remember when the alleys are selected and the dates arranged, that it would be just as well not to pick this city on Sundays. (?)

M. Wiltgen's place in Evanston was visited by fire on the evening of March 9, when his barn and one of the carnation houses were totally destroyed. Two horses, a cow and 100 chickens were burned to death, and an automobile was consumed. No insurance was carried and he figures his loss at about $5,000. The fire started from some cinders that were thrown against a wall of the packing shed.

A. L. Vaughan and family have returned from a visit at New Orleans, La., and Clarksdale, Miss., where Mr. Vaughan's brother is one of the leading physicians. They had a delightful time on their entire trip, and the genial wholesaler is again attending to his duties at A. L. Vaughan & Co.'s store, where he was greatly missed by his many friends the past two weeks.

S. A. Lundy and Ben Boldt, of Denver, Colo., en route to the east, where they will attend the National Flower Show, stopped off here a few days this week and had a pleasant visit with their former townsman, Ed. Reynolds, now with John H. McNeilly, 1155 East Sixty-third street, and the well-known bear hunter of Platte canyon.

A. "Seed Service" was conducted at the Immanuel Baptist church, Sunday evening, March 12. The Rev. Johnstone Myers, the pastor, following his sermon, distributed hundreds of packets of flower seed to his congregation. Later a "Floral Service" will be held when the members will bring to the church the flowers they have raised.

Wietor Bros. will grow 10,000 Opheelia roses next season and a like number of F. Dorner & Sons Co.'s new light salmon pink carnation, Nancy, which looks like a winner. N. J. Wle-tor reports a brisk demand for American Beauty rose bench plants and new orders are being received in every mail.

The Alpha Floral Co. is making a great showing of stock at its South Wabash avenue store, and is having special sales on roses at very attractive retail prices. Over 2,000 fancy Mrs. Chas. Russell roses were sold one day this week at $1.50 to $2.00 per dozen, as an advertisement.

Frank Ayres, with Chas. W. McKellar, feels like a king since he celebrated his ninth birthday February 29, and was a guest at several parties given in honor of the event since then. Mr. and Mrs. Ayres will celebrate their fourth wedding anniversary in the near future.

Professors H. B. Dorner, F. W. Muncie and E. G. Lauterbach, of the University of Illinois, passed through here, March 9, on their way home to Urbana from Moline, where they attended the eleventh annual meeting and exhibition of the Illinois State Florists' Association, March 7-8.

Kroeschell Bros. Co. reports business this month as exceedingly good, with a heavy demand for large boilers, both hot water and steam. Fred Lautenschlager will attend the National Flower Show in Philadelphia, Pa., and also the exhibition in New York the following week.

George Manos, the Union Depot Florist, had a special sale on pot plants, March 11, which was such a success that he sold out completely before the store closed at night. Mr. Manos does a nice business and is a heavy buyer of cut flowers in the local market.

Mons. Olson, an old-time florist, calls on his old friends in the wholesale market every once in a while, where he is always welcome and more than once has remarked that he looks fully ten years younger since he had his beard removed.

Allie Zech, of Zech & Mann, has returned from Toledo, O., where he participated in the American Bowling Congress tournament this week. He called on the trade while he was away and brought home several nice large orders.

George Burnap, official landscape architect of public buildings and grounds, Washington, D. C., and Prof. R. R. Root of the landscape department of the state university at Urbana were visitors last week.

Paul Klingsporn calls especial attention to the splendid Killarney Brilliant roses that the Chicago Flower Growers' Association is receiving from the Kidwell greenhouse at Downers Grove.

Sam Seligman, of Wertheimer Bros., New York, and other supply men, are moving eastward to Philadelphia to arrive in that city for the big S. A. F. exhibition, and expect to return westward soon.

Joseph Ziska & Sons are having such a brisk demand for wire designs that the force is obliged to work until eight o'clock every evening, and a half-day on Sundays to keep step with the orders.

Chairman Asmus, of the National Flower Show committee, and Joseph Bieher leave early next week for Philadelphia, the latter to assist in the arrangement of the show.

George Reinberg never cut a finer lot of Richmond roses than he is now doing, and Manager Northam takes great delight in showing them to his customers.

Percy Jones is handling a good supply of fancy carnations and other seasonable stock, and could use more roses to good advantage on his shipping orders.

Miss Olive Artelle, of San Francisco, Calif., and H. B. Kennicott, president of the firm of Kennicott Bros. Co., will be married at Rock Island, Saturday, March 25.

Kyle & Foerster are handling a good supply of choice mignonette and sweet peas in addition to a complete line of other seasonable stock.

The Batavia Greenhouse Co. is cutting from a nice crop of American Beauty roses which are in good demand at present.

M. C. Gunterberg says that violets are still very plentiful with her, and that best stock is only bringing $4 per 1,000.

Mrs. Arthur Hunt has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of her father, whose death occurred this week.

A. W. Herre, representing Poehlmann Bros. Co., left this week to call on the trade in the northwest.

F. L. Eagleston is equipping 1514 Hyde Park boulevard, to be opened as a flower shop about April 1.

FLOWERS OF QUALITY

A. T. Pyfer & Co. are a little over a year old, and will close their first season July 1, with a good record and with the total sales practically as good as those of the best year during which time Mr. Pyfer managed the old Chicago Carnation Co.'s business. Pyfer & Olsen, who ship to this house, will take charge of the Peter Nepper greenhouses on Murphy avenue July 1, which they rented recently and consist of 60,000 feet of glass. Carnations will be grown exclusively at this place and several new varieties originating with them will be disseminated next season. Mrs. Pyfer was severely burned about the face and hands one day last week, when she set fire to some garbage in the home, and some greased paper flared up while she was lighting it. Her hands will be scarred, but fortunately her face will not.

George Wienhoeber has an up-to-the-minute St. Patrick's day window display, with a large harp furnishing the centrepiece, the frame of which is filled with shamrocks and arranged especially for this occasion. Several large potatoes were hollowed out enough to hold a small 2-inch shamrock plant and tied with a green ribbon with a small clay pipe to finish the already decidedly Irish effect. To cap the climax, Mr. Wienhoeber had several vases of the rose Tipperary on display, and while he went to considerable expense to arrange the window it was one of the best advertisements that he ever had, for it attracted the attention of every passerby.

The local party for the National Flower Show at Philadelphia will leave this city. Saturday, March 25, at 3:15 p. m. on the Pennsylvania railroad. Among those who have announced their intention of joining the party are August Poehlmann, A. Henderson, W. J. Keimel, Adolph Poehlmann, Guy W. French, H. N. Bruns, Emil Reichling, E. F. Kurowski, Joe Marks, Fred Lautenschlager, H. M. Berner and Fred Meyer, also O. J. Olson, St. Paul, Minn.; J. S. Wilson, Des Moines, Ia.; P. W. Peterson, Joliet; Emil Glauber, and Gus Benson, Denver, Colo.

A number of the George Wittbold Co.'s greenhouses on Buckingham place have been torn down and a force has already started to excavate for the new flat building that Louis and Fred Wittbold are erecting.

The Wittbold Co. is building several new houses at Edgebrook and are using the Garland gutters, which were in use in the old houses, at the new plant, and an inspection of same found them to be in splendid condition.

The Garland Manufacturing Co. is offering a new lawn nozzle, which retails at 10 cents each and should be carried in stock by every dealer. It works like a charm and a dozen are neatly fastened to a display card with the price attached, and are in good demand by the dealers, although they have been on the market only a short time.

Arthur Weatherwax, formerly with W. J. Smyth, and later in business for himself, on the south side, is now assisting Manager Graham at the Fleischman Floral Co.'s store. J. G. Ashton, also with this concern, is suffering from blood poison in one of his fingers, as a result of a scratch from a rose thorn.

Herman J. C. Leitz, vice-president and manager of the New Haven Floral Co., New Haven, Ind., visited several of the leading greenhouse establishments here the past week, leaving for home March 15. His firm will grow roses on a large scale next season, their leaders being the Killarneys and Ophelia.

J. A. Budlong has had a good out-of-town demand for roses all last week, and the receipts, while large, were disposed of each day, long before the store closed at night. Manager Schupp reports a good demand for carnation cuttings in all the advertised varieties.

John Enders, with Poehlmann Bros. Co., is recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia and is able to sit up now. The first thing he did when he started to improve was to ask Mrs. Enders to get him a copy of the last three issues of THE AMERICAN FLORIST.

Chas. Erne, of Erne & Klingel, did not get out of the hospital as quickly as he expected, but is likely to be discharged in a few days, when his friends hope to see him back at the store.

D. Nicas is being jollied a great deal by the boys in the wholesale market since he had his mustache shaved off, but it does not seem to bother him to any great extent.

O. A. & L. A. Tonner say that their city business has been good since March 1, and they expect to receive their share of the out-of-town business as soon as they are better known through their advertisements in the trade papers.

At John Kruchten Co.'s store some especially fine long-stemmed Easter lilies are attracting the attention of the city buyers.

The Golden Floral Co., Inc., will open a retail store this week, March 16, at 173-175 South Wabash avenue, second floor.

Sinner Bros.' principal offering this week is a fancy grade of ten-week-stocks.

Visitors: E. J. Fancourt, representing Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; Geo. W. Cohen, with Cohen & Hiller, New York; Ben Boldt and S. A. Lundy, Denver, Colo., and W. E. Trimble, Princeton.

Chicago Florists' Club.

The regular meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club was held at the Hotel Morrison, March 9, President Henderson in the chair. There was a good attendance, the event of the evening being Harry Newman Tolles' address entitled, "Keeping Step With The Times", which was highly instructive and interesting to both employer and employee.

The new members elected were A. F. J. Baur, Indianapolis, Ind., S. S. Skidelsky, 1004 Lincoln building, Philadelphia, Pa., Wm. Graham, 42 East Jackson boulevard, Peter Schaefer, 36 South Wabash avenue, W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., and D. D. P. Roy, 168 North Michigan avenue. Peter Kohl, Morton Grove, was nominated for membership.

Chairman Keimel of the good-of-the-club committee announced that he had secured quite a respectable list of new members for the Society of American Florists and that he is anxious to secure the applications of all other eligibles so as to win the valuable money prize for the benefit of the club.

The transportation committee again announced that the Chicago party for the National Flower Show would leave Saturday, March 25 at 3:15 p. m., on the Pennsylvania railroad.

The drawing for the large silver bowl, scheduled for this meeting, was postponed until next month.

Vaughan's Seed Store exhibited a nice vase of the new Canna Firebird and Baby Doll roses.

FAIR BUSINESS AT REASONABLE PRICES.

Business is fair and is better than usual at the beginning of Lent. The heavy shipping business probably accounts for this fact, although the demand for spring openings is helping considerably. Prices are reasonable and the stock generally is of high quality. Roses continue in a good supply and have a fair demand. Excellent Killarney, White Killarney and Shawyer may be had. The carnation supply is only fair and often runs short of actual wants. This week white is at a premium, owing to the St. Patrick's day demand. There are plenty of Easter lilies for immediate wants and all are fairly good. The cut of callas and rubrums is fair. Sweet peas are in a heavy supply and generally have a fair sale at prevailing prices. Lily of the valley, violets and orchids are arriving in large quantities. Bulbous stock including tulips, jonquils, daffodils and Dutch hyacinths has an excellent market when the offerings are of good quality. Other offerings include snapdragons, forget-me-nots, marguerites and mignonette. The supply of decorative greens is large and excellent.

CLUB MEETING.

The regular meeting of the florists' society was held March 13, at Hotel Gilson. President C. E. Critchell was in the chair. The attendance was good. Fred H. Lemon & Co., Richmond, Ind., through Henry Shepard, exhibited plants of their Primula malcoideosea. These were awarded a certificate of merit by the judging committee of the society consisting of R. Witterstaetter and Henry Schwarz. Henry Schwarz was chosen a director to fill the vacancy in the board of the society caused by the death of Max Rudolph and takes the vice-presidency in the place of C. E. Critchell who moved up to the presidency. Henry Schwarz, Alex Ostendarp and Chas. H. Hoffmeister were appointed to draw up resolutions relative to the death of the late president, Max Rudolph, and to arrange to enlarge his picture to hang in the club rooms. Chas. H. Hoffmeister, J. A. Peterson and Henry Shepard were appointed to confer with the seedsmen, relative to making their proposed organization a part of the florist society, or their becoming members of the florist society. C. E. Critchell, J. A. Peterson and R. Witterstaetter signified their intention of attending the national flower show in Philadelphia. Arrangements were made by Cincinnati florists for the entertainment of President MacRorie, of the S. A. F. and party, when they arrive in this city next week.

NOTES.

P. J. Olinger, besides reporting the loss of about a thousand panes of glass, in a hailstorm last Monday, at New Castle, Ind., reports that the storm did practically no damage to his stock and that he is having a heavy shipping business.

W. Ray Murphy has sold his greenhouses to his brother-in-law L. F. Murphy. He will now devote all of his time to the store of the Wm. Murphy Co. He reports his company is having an excellent shipping business.

Miss Edith Kyrk had decorations for a musical last week as well as the table decorations for the Ladies' Rotary Club dinner. Miss Kyrk is a member of the Ladies' Rotary Club.

S. H. Kyrk has been getting some excellent forget-me-nots from Geo. Klotter of West Price Hill.

Ben George, Jr., was in the wholesale market March 13, for the first time since his recent attack of pneumonia.

C. E. Critchell offered some amaryllis from the south last week. H.

St. Louis.

BUSINESS SATISFACTORY.

The market has held up fairly well during the past week, bulbous stock being plentiful and roses and carnations being held at top prices. Pre-Lenten business was above the average, and numerous balls, parties and other social events kept the florists in all parts of the city busy. White carnations seem to be very scarce, but sweet peas and violets are plentiful and the demand for both is very good.

NOTES.

The retailers' protective association, at their recent meeting decided upon an interview with the principals of the various schools in regard to the custom of sending flowers to graduates. The meeting was a very interesting one and was appreciated by all present.

Poster, the Florist, on Olive street, featured "dollar boxes" on an advertisement in the front of his store recently, and told how many of these boxes he had sold in his experience as a florist. The idea seemed to prove quite an attraction.

The Wm. C. Smith Wholesale Floral Co. is receiving some very fine roses, carnations and violets, the latter being especially worthy of mention. A fine display of spring flowers is also to be seen here. Stock at this establishment cleans up daily.

The florists' union meets on the first and third Monday of each month. This organization is showing some very

DEMAND GOOD BUT PRICES LOW.

Stock continues plentiful. There is a satisfactory demand, but prices are low. Violets of fine quality are arriving and find ready sale, prices ranging from 50 cents to 75 cents per 100. Roses and carnations are also to be seen in quantity and the quality is excellent.

NOTES.

Wm. Vasatka of the L. S. Donaldson Co.'s greenhouses has everything in splendid shape, and the variety takes a wide range—from tulips to palms.

The Merriam Park Greenhouses are a mass of bloom at present, with 6,000 ramblers coming in and over 30,000 lilies in fine shape for the Easter trade.

The L. S. Donaldson Co. featured a special sale on violets, Saturday, March 11, and disposed of 25,000 at 20 cents per bunch of 25.

H. B. Whitted reports that the extensive advertising in the daily papers has brought results that are entirely satisfactory.

Rice Bros. bowling team defeated the Donaldson aggregation of "pin smashers" March 9, taking three straight games.

E. H. Mazey has placed an order with Kroeschell Bros. Co., Chicago, for a No. 4 Kroeschell hot water boiler.

S. S. Cargill was right on time with a fine crop of white carnations for St. Patrick's day.

Oscar Amundson arranged a special window of roses and azaleas, which sold quickly.

Oscar Swanson is keeping up his reputation for attractive window displays.

Hayden's Flower Shop is having a heavy call for pot plants and ferns.

Will Bros. are in full crop with roses and carnations. T. C. R.

SUPPLY CLEANS UP WELL.

Stimulated by heavy funeral work and a good demand for decorations, business has held up very well during the past week, and the market practically cleans up daily. Roses are more plentiful and move freely, selling at $3 per 100 and up, according to grade. Russell, Hadley and Ophelia, which are especially good, bring $5 per 100 and better. Carnations are short of the demand. Sweet peas are arriving in larger supply and prices have dropped. Pot plant sales continue good.

NOTES.

The Wm. L. Rock Flower Co. featured bird houses and arranged a very clever display in one of the windows. The novelties were displayed with a background of smilax and southern moss. Parrots, pigeons and canaries completed the pretty scene and were seen flying to and fro at will.

The Alpha Floral Co. had a special window as a feature of the annual baby show week. Chairs, cradles and figures were artistically decorated with flowers and the idea made a decided hit with the public.

W. J. Barnes and his force were kept busy early in the week with a large decoration for the millinery opening of the Emery, Bird & Thayer store. A large amount of stock was used.

Arthur Newell is well pleased with the volume of business that he is handling. The demand for funeral work has been heavy and plants and basket arrangements of bulbous stock are ready sellers.

The Geo. M. Kellogg Flower and Plant Co. have had a busy week, especially in funeral orders for out-of-town points. Stock at the greenhouses is shortening up somewhat.

H. Kusik & Co. report the demand for wire work is growing heavier every day. Trade at this establishment has been good, but a shortage in the supply of stock is felt.

T. J. Noll & Co. clean up their stock each day. While they suffer from a shortage in some lines they are pretty well supplied with stock to meet requirements.

The Harnden Seed Co. is preparing for a big spring trade. The busy days are already at hand, seeds and bulbs moving well.

Miss Lou Boggess has no complaint to offer regarding business and is looking ahead to a splendid Easter trade.

TRADE EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD.

The local florists have all been enjoying an unusually good trade. Stock has been scarce, especially roses and carnations, and this to an extent has had the effect of keeping prices firm. Pot plants are plentiful, but move satisfactorily at moderate prices. Next week will be spring opening week in the stores. Nearly all of the palms have been engaged for the occasion and wild smilax will be used in quantity.

CLUB MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Dayton Florists' and Gardeners' Association was held in the Y. M. C. A. building, March 7, about 50 members being in attendance. The election of officers for the ensuing year was the principal business of the evening and resulted as follows: Horace M. Frank, president; Elmer Bame, vice-president; E. E. Schaefer, secretary; J. W. Rodgers, treasurer. The directors are Mrs. S. Johnson, M. L. Vogel and J. T. Good, and the permanent market committee is made up of E. W. Jenkins, Geo. W. Frisch, Jr., A. Kuntz, J. L. Dorringer and Ed. Rodebusch. It was decided to hold a banquet at one of the local hotels during the last week in March, and H. M. Frank was instructed to make arrangements for same. The members are all pleased at the progress that the association has made during this, its first year.

NOTES.

W. W. Horlacher had some fine table decorations last week. His display of double flowering cherries, which he used as a feature on Washington's birthday attracted much favorable comment.

Miss Tullis, of the Ideal Flower Shop, has been on the sick list for several weeks.

The Heiss Co. reports it will build a new range this year.

BUSINESS AND SUPPLY SATISFACTORY.

Although the social season has closed and the comparative inactivity of the Lenten period is on, the demand for flowers keeps up and business can be said to be satisfactory. The supply seems a trifle meager for the season, which the rather active demand manages to keep from getting ahead. The quality is good, the increasing sunny days bringing the color into all the teas, particularly the Killarneys, which are seen in quantity, especially the shorts. Growers are not pinching this rose for long stems at present, preferring to get a good stock of the shorter grades, which, if the stems are fairly stout, and there is good substance in the flower, find a better sale than the specials and extras. There appears to be an increased stock of Mock, which rose appears to be popular in a number of stores. Carnations sell close; there is not now, nor is there a prospect of any of the usual spring gluts that this flower has been prone to suffer from in former seasons. Of the new ones, Alice, appears to be making good with all growers who have given it a trial, it having proved wonderfully prolific. Easter lilies are good stock at this time, commanding $15 per hundred flowers, an unusual price for the season. Violets are very much on the wane, with prices higher. Lily of the valley still holds the advance of 20 per cent, with higher prices predicted in the near future. Snapdragon sells up every day and is getting better every week. Good lilacs are in demand at top prices. Cattleyas and gardenias are in full supply—some of the gardenias are very fine. Green is scarce; asparagus sells out daily, while adiantum is very soft, and as a rule, unsatisfactory.

NOTES.

Flower show plans are progressing splendidly—the only sand on the track is in the retail section, several of the largest houses holding back for one reason or another. Quite a number of entries for the flower pictures have been made, however, and it is thought that this will be a great feature of the show. Posters are now prominently displayed at every point of vantage, and liberal press notices also help along a lot. Large electric signs, "Visit the Flower Show," will be seen at the City Hall during the show, which will be of great help. The mayor has gone south, but expects to be back in time to open the exhibition. The banquet committee are busy and great things are promised for this function, which will no doubt be the largest gathering of the kind in the annals of the trade.

The railroads are having a real Easter time rush with their freight, and embargoes have been declared and will continue to be daily on everything that is not perishable. The Whildin Pottery Co. is up against a wall, as but very few shipments of their stock get to their consumers in reasonable time; it is just one embargo after another. The only hope, or way out, appears to be the auto truck, with its added expense for long deliveries. Growers must have the pots, however, and the manufacturer will have to try and get this extra cost back from their customers. They have an immense amount of business ahead and are doing their best to get it out.

The three-ton Packard truck of the J. G. Whildin Pottery Co. was run into by a trolley car, March 11, and put out of commission for at least three weeks. Another three-ton Packard ordered at same time can not be delivered for two months. So it's up to the horses to help them out in their dilemma.

The price of Easter lilies for Easter delivery appears a matter of doubt. Some claim prices will reach $15 per hundred flowers on pot or cut, while some growers are quoting them at $10.

The new warehouse and factory of the M. Rice Co. is well under way. They claim it will be the largest building devoted to the flower supply business in the world.

There has been practically no change in market conditions since our last report, with the exception that white carnations have been scarce, due to the St. Patrick's day demand.

Word has been received from Madison that the state board of agriculture has approved the names of the following as recommended by the local florists' club at its March meeting: Arthur Leidiger, assistant at state fair grounds; Nic Zweifel and John G. Heitman, Milwaukee, and J. E. Matthewson, Sheboygan, Wis., judges for 1916 fair.

From reports received from the flower booth at the charity bazaar last week, the receipts amounted to $4,400.

LENT USHERS IN LIGHT DEMAND.

With a heavy fall of snow, March 6, and another on Ash Wednesday, the business of the past week was very dull. There was a little more life in the market, Saturday, March 11, but nothing to boast of. Special American Beauty roses have dropped to the rate of $10 and $50 per 100 and other roses are very slow sellers. The supply of carnations is not heavy; it would appear that the white ones are being held back to be dyed for St. Patrick's day. Tulips and narcissi are moving, but at reduced prices. There is a great abundance of sweet peas of the orchid flowered varieties—excellent stock, but hard to move. To summarize the situation, the retail stores are doing a very light business and as a consequence buying is light. If arrivals were heavy, the market would be glutted. As the first week of Lent is usually the worst week for business, it is hoped that there will soon be a favorable reaction.

March 13.—Business in the wholesale district was fairly lively this morning. While there is a decline in rose prices, it is not enough to create a panic, and regardless of manufactured and sensational reports sent out from this city, it can be stated that for Lent, the market is holding up very well.

NOTES.

There need be no worry about Easter plants as the plantmen of this vicinity will have fine stock for the market. Calling recently on Anton Schultheis, at his College Point range, we found a great stock coming on. He is an enthusiast on roses, and knows how to grow them and his Easter stock will be exceptionally fine. In Dorothy Perkins and other ramblers, he has battships and many other interesting features. House after house is filled with fine rose plants, but orders are pouring in. Other fine plants noted were bouganvilleas, heathers, hydrangeas, cyclamens and lilacs, both white and purple. There is also a fine stock of lilies in pots. Another noteworthy feature is his great stock of tulips and narcissi in pans. Thousands of these have already been sold to the retail stores. In lily of the valley, he is constantly shipping fine stock to the wholesale district.

At the range of the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., we have recently noted a very fine stock of plants. The lilies are exceptionally promising, but in plants, they may be said to cover the whole field. There are great stocks of roses, hydrangeas, azaleas, rhododendrons, and other seasonable plants. A rather unusual feature noted at this range is a beautiful stock of fuchsias grown to standards. We have heard it stated that the fuchsias were "coming back," and we are glad of it, as, well grown, they are highly ornamental. Frederick H. Dressel, of Weehawken Heights, N. J., is another plantsman who will have a great stock of Easter plants, but for that matter he has them throughout the year. If he has any specialty it is hydrangeas, and he always brings some into flower for Christmas. He grows the French varieties and has them in all sizes.

The alumni-graduate presidents of the New York Florists' Club, held their first annual dinner at the Castle Cave on Seventh avenue, on the evening of March 13. From the fact that it was held in a cave, it is surmised that there were great doings. Although it was all very mysterious, we believe that the following were present: Alex. S. Burns, W. A. Manda, Patrick O'Mara, Walter F. Sheridan, Frank H. Traendly, Chas. H. Totty, A. L. Miller, Joseph A. Manda,

Although there are many good sweet peas on the market, we have recently noted some exceptionally fine ones at the store of William Kessler, 113 West 28th street, who it may be added, is also well stocked with other cut flowers and plants.

Gunther Brothers, 110 West 28th street are now receiving fine stock of the new pink rose, Canadian Queen, from the Dale estate, Brampton, Ontario. The petals are handsomely shaded, and retailers who handle it, say that it is a fine keeper.

J. J. Coan, who has been headquarters for shamrocks, has had heavy sales. It is the real Irishmen that buy shamrocks, and the imitation ones that buy dyed carnations—one says dyed, because they are not green.

Peter Beuerlein, of Elmhurst, N. Y., is sending to the Growers' Cut Flower Co., very fine stock in tulips and jonquils. He is one of the most successful bulb growers that ships to this market. A. F. F.

The monthly meeting of the club was held in its rooms in the Grand Opera House building on the night of March 13. President Weston in the chair. The hall was crowded and the interest manifested was most gratifying.

The dinner committee, through T. B. De Forest, chairman, and Walter F. Sheridan, secretary, made an extended report of the arrangements that had been made for the "Din-Dan" (revised from dinner dance), which will take place at the Hotel Biltmore Saturday evening, April 8. The tickets are $5 each.

Walsh, 335 Broadway, New York; Dennis Kenna, Flushing, N. Y., and Albert Lahodney, New York, were proposed for membership.

On the motion by John G. Esler, seconded by Robert Koehne, there was a unanimous vote that the S. A. F. be invited to hold its 1917 convention in this city. The proposition received enthusiastic support from the following well-known members of the club in Pennsylvania railroad dining room. The committee has arranged for a special train leaving New York, Pennsylvania Station, 32nd street and Seventh avenue, at 10:00 A. M. Tuesday, March 28th, arriving Broad street, Philadelphia, at 12:00 noon.

There were a number of very meritorious exhibits. Guttman & Raynor, Inc., New York, exhibited Rose Prima Donna (Mme. Paul Euler); also Carnations Peace and Laura Weber, and were given a vote of thanks. J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill., exhibited Carnation Aviator, which scored 83 points. P. J. Olinger, Newcastle, Ind., exhibited a scarlet seedling carnation, for which he was given a vote of thanks. P. W. Popp, Mamaroneck, N. Y., exhibited a pan of narcissus and was awarded a vote of thanks. M. Van Wavern & Sons, Ltd., by H. Langelier, exhibited Van Waveren's Giant narcissus and N. potez, and was accorded a vote of thanks.

Alexander S. Burns, the oldest president of the club, who is yet hale and hearty, was present, and gave an interesting talk. A. F. F.

MARKET OFFERS GOOD VARIETY.

Local weather conditions are no different than what we have experienced in other years—just what March is expected to be—more snow and more wintry weather than in January or February. The supply of flowers is equal to all demands, with the exception of stock in the better grades. Bulbous stock is seen in abundance, and tulips, daffodils and jonquils are fair, both cut or on the plant. Azaleas are coming in and some fine ramblers and hybrid roses are to be seen in the stores. Roses are good, especially Ophelia, Ward, Lady Alice and Shawyer. Carnations are plentiful and the quality is good. The supply of violets is unlimited and prices vary from 25 cents to $1.50 per bunch. Prospects for an excellent Easter trade are of the brightest. All stock looks good and the growers are well satisfied with their lilies and other plants.

NOTES.

The event of last week was the annual banquet and election of officers of the florists' club, the following being chosen to serve during the ensuing year: E. C. Brucker, president; Wm. H. Grever, vice-president; Wm. Legg, secretary; Edward Stroh, treasurer; Mark Palmer, financial secretary; Wm. F. Kasting, W. J. Palmer and L. H. Neubeck, trustees. The "only" Ludwig Neubeck was toastmaster, and presided as he alone can fill the station. He called upon our postmaster, who gave his yearly advice and a few other things, such as he can give. W. A. Adams, as usual, responded to the toast to "The Ladies," which is always a pleasant task to him. Mr. McLeish of the Central high school, gave a very interesting talk on salesmanship, which was very instructive.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks are to hold a flower and fashion show in the Broadway Auditorium, April 6-12, and the florists' club are to take an active part in the affair. Gerald K. Rudolph, of the Elks, outlined the proposition, which appealed to the florists and warranted their co-operation, coming as it does two weeks before Easter. It will give the florists a good lot of stock, and retailers, wholesalers and growers will have an opportunity to exhibit their stock and compete for the prizes. The florists' committee are as follows: Charles Schoenhut, chairman; W. F. Kasting, L. H. Neubeck, Mark Palmer, Charles Sandiford, Charles Keller and W. A. Adams.

Mrs. E. B. Lewis, widow of E. B. Lewis, originator of the Niagara grape, died at her home in Lockport, N. Y., March 11. She was one of the first florists to grow flowers in that city, the business in cut flowers being carried on by her grandson, Fred G. Lewis, and the propagating of small fruit is in the hands of Frank B. Lewis, a son and Clarence, a grandson. Mrs. Lewis was over 90 years old, and when the writer had a talk with her last summer she was as active and full of vigor as many women of 60 or 70 years.

The Buffalo delegation to the flower show promises to be a large one, and if it were possible for all to leave at

With thoughts of Buffalo as of yore, and knowing that the florists were enjoying their annual banquet, those in attendance were agreeably surprised when the toastmaster said: "Boys, have a cigar on Joe Streit." The name of the cigar was Swift, and with best wishes of all to Joe, the smoke was blown out as fast as the name implied, the only regret being that he was not present to enjoy the gathering.

SANTA ROSA, CALIF.—Luther Burbank is recovering from an attack of pneumonia.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—L. L. May, who has had a serious attack of the grip, is again at his desk.

J. CHAS. MCCULLOUGH, of Cincinnati, O., who is at Palm Beach, Fla., landed two large sail fish, March 13.

J. C. VAUGHAN, Chicago, expects to attend the National Flower Show, which opens at Philadelphia, March 25.

MICHIGAN elevator operators have entered into an agreement to sell seed beans for next season's planting at cost.

O. H. DREW, of Los Angeles, Calif., who has been visiting old friends in the east, is ill with pneumonia at Mountain Lake, N. J.

VALLEY, NEB.—The C. Herbert Coy Seed Co. has installed a complete drier system and made other extensive improvements at its plant.

THE death of Asa Eldridge Brown, for many years identified with W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., is recorded in our obituary column this week.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Willis S. Pino is enlarging his present quarters at 41 Washington street, taking the place next door, making the two into one large store.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND.—The Crabb, Reynolds, Taylor Co. has petitioned the circuit court to restrain Sherill Herr and Homer Flaningam of the Crawfordville Seed Co., from selling a machine used to separate buckhorn from clover, the Crabb, Reynolds, Taylor Co. having financed the experiments, and it is claimed were to have a half interest in the machine.

JOHN LEWIS CHILDS, Floral Park, N. Y., returned from California, March 11, and says the seed crops generally look good, especially sweet peas. Mr. Childs, on the return trip, stopped at Columbus, N. M., a few hours after the Mexican raid there, and in his opinion, judging from the present frame of mind of the inhabitants of that place, there will be no need of nurses or hospital tents so far as Mexican bandits are concerned.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, March 15, were as follows: Timothy, $5.00 to $7.50 per 100 pounds.—The Illinois Seed Co. has purchased from the Chicago Telephone Co., Mary Russell and Anna Zadicek, 126x393 feet on the Baltimore and Ohio tracks at Forty-first avenue and Fillmore street, and plans to improve it in the near future with a large plant. — Leonard H. Vaughan, of Vaughan's Seed Store, made some good scores in the bowling tournament at Toledo last week.

European Seed Crops.

A sojourn of eight months in the various seed centers of Europe has shown the writer the impossibility of relying upon the usual sources of supply. Many growers in the countries involved in the war as well as those following their peaceful occupations outside the war zone are unwilling to take contracts for either biennial or annual vegetable and flower seeds. Anyone travelling through the seed districts of France can not fail to notice the baneful effects of the war. In some regions last year the crops were imperfectly rogued and in several instances this important work was entirely neglected. By this it should not be understood that the French peasant does not recognize the necessity of crop selection. He has been too long on the land not to grasp the importance of this branch of the business. Familiar with all problems of seed growing, he can fully realize the serious consequences arising from improper care, or rather lack of attention to field crops. In some districts the middleman or jobber, who usually places the contracts, is without a foreman schooled by years of service and the requisite knowledge to supervise the removal of rogues. This in itself is a serious condition as upon the supervisor depends the purity of the stocks to a very large extent. The lack of labor is undoubtedly a serious problem and one impossible to remedy until normal times return. Growers appreciate this difficulty and do not take contracts, preferring to sell when the crops have been harvested. It is certain the acreage devoted to seed crops will be decreased.

In the Netherlands also the seed acreage will be greatly diminished. This through no lack of labor, but rather due to unusual conditions. Holland in times of peace has always supplied Germany with large quantities of vegetables. In these days of short supplies German produce buyers abound in Holland. They fill the hotels in the chief centers and pay cash for all purchases. The grower is not slow to take advantage of such a golden opportunity especially as the German representatives are compelled to pay 20 per cent above local market values. These conditions indicate that the usual seed acreage will be lessened materially. The government with a paternal interest in the farmer has prohibited the export of certain seeds when the crop is much below normal, realizing that the farmer will extend his acreage for the production of vegetables, and seeds must be retained at all costs if the wealth of the country is to be guarded. Seed growers experienced much difficulty last year in placing their biennial contracts and the same conditions will possibly prevail when contracts for annuals are taken up for consideration.

In England, where the shock of warfare has not been felt so severely as in France, affairs are not so bad. However, Great Britain feels in many ways the difficulties of the situation, principally in shortage of men and horses. Conditions there will not mend now that conscription of single men between the ages of 18 and 40 is coming into force. An increased seed acreage is therefore out of the question.

In Italy many of the leading seed growers are of German origin and most of these have been forced by events to return to Teuton territory. Italy like the other countries above mentioned must naturally suffer through the war demands made upon the working population.

To summarize, seedsmen must be prepared for heavy shortages on account of decreased acreage and for high prices with quality much below the standard usually expected of European growers.

C. M. J.

Clover Seed at Toledo.

March 14.—Lack of demand caused a further break in clover seed of 20 cents in cash prime. Cash and March opened at $11.10, although March declined to $10.90 shortly after the opening. Cash continues to lose its premium over March. April was also 20 cents lower at $9.10. October was 5 cents off at $8.47½.

Clover rallied slightly, later closing 5 cents over the day's low point in March and prime. Prime closed 15 cents lower than yesterday at $11.15. March also was off 15 cents at $10.95. April lost 15 cents to $9.15, while October closed 2½ cents lower at $8.50. Alsike lost 10 cents at the close at $9.40.

Potato Embargo Removed.

Washington.—An order authorizing permits for importation of potatoes from Canada, subject to new regulations which have been accepted by Canadian government was announced by the department of agriculture.

Canada has agreed that all potatoes offered for export to United States will be free from injurious diseases and insect pests.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, March 14. — Mushrooms, home grown, No. 1, 25 to 30 cents per carton; lettuce, cases, 15 to 17½ cents, radishes, 35 cents to 50 cents per dozen bunches; celery, 10 to 25 cents per bunch; tomatoes, six baskets, $1.75 to $2.25; cucumbers, per doz, 75 cents to $1.00.

New York, March 14.—Celery per bunch of 12 stalks, 15 to 50 cents; cucumbers, $1.00 to $1.25 per drum; mushrooms, $1.35 to $1.75 per 4 pound basket; tomatoes, 10 cents to 25 cents per pound; radishes, per 100 bunches, $2.00 to $4.00; lettuce, per strip, $1.00 to $1.25; rhubarb, per dozen bunches, 25 cents to $1.00.

Disinfection of Seed Potatoes.

The treatment of seed potatoes with formaldehyde or with corrosive sublimate has been recommended for many years as a preventive of scab and other diseases carried on the tubers.

Such treatment is, on the whole, profitable, but has several limitations which should be clearly recognized to prevent disappointment, according to the specialists of the United States department of agriculture. Only surface infections are reached by this method. It is only partially effective against deep pits of common scab. Formaldehyde is less effective than corrosive sublimate against the black sclerotia or resting bodies of rhizoctonia or russet scab, and against powdery scab. Neither chemical, as ordinarily used, will destroy silver scurf.

The formaldehyde treatment consists in soaking the potatoes, before cutting, for two hours in a solution made by adding one pint of formaldehyde to 30 gallons of water. The solution can be used repeatedly. The gas treatment is no longer recommended.

Corrosive sublimate is used at the rate of 1-1,000 for 1½ to 2 hours. Dissolve two ounces of the salt in hot water and dilute to 15 gallons. This is a deadly poison. Use with great care. It must also be kept in wood, porcelain or glass vessels as it attacks metal. It is more effective than formaldehyde, particularly against rhizoctonia and powdery scab. Do not use the same solution more than three times as the strength diminishes with each lot of potatoes soaked.

The Market Gardener and the Plant Trade

Each year brings an increase in the demand for well grown plants. This is the natural result of a number of factors. With the advent of electric cars, people were enabled to scatter out more where they could get room for a small or large garden, and now with the almost universal use of the automobile, this tendency is greatly intensified. School gardening is also a factor; and then most of our daily papers and magazines carry departments of gardening or flower-culture. We believe this garden-making tendency has reached such proportions that the market gardeners justly claim it reduces their chances for a successful business. Be that as it may, we have taken advantage of the demand for plants and built up quite a business. Years ago it was only tomato plants, but each year we were urged to add to this line, and gradually we included cabbage, pansies, asters, salvias, peppers, vincas and geraniums. Of these, only the last two are grown in pots; all the others are grown in berry baskets, using the standard quart basket. Nearly all are put up with a dozen plants, except pansies, which are generally four to the basket and offered in bloom. By this method we avoid the lifting of plants, and the use and return of flats. The plants will stand a great deal of handling and exposure without injury. Especially is this a convenient way for wholesaling, as there is no limit to distribution. We have peddlers, grocery stores, market people and department stores as large customers, besides our own retail trade, and the question seems to be one of supply, rather than demand. We have spared no pains to put up a good article, using the best varieties only—good soil and careful hardening before selling. To enable us to push the work of production we have about abandoned the hotbed entirely, doing most of the operations under glass; one of the methods of hardening is the withholding of water at maturity which is often better than exposure to cold winds. The empty baskets are set out on greenhouse benches fitted with screened soil and planted where they are, reducing the handling to a minimum.

MARKETMAN.

Worcester County Horticultural Society.

The annual spring exhibition of the Worcester County Horticultural Society was held in Horticultural hall, Worcester, March 9-10. The hall was very tastefully decorated and the flowers and plants on exhibition were arranged in the form of triangular gardens. The gardens of H. F. A. Lange and E. W. Breed attracted considerable attention. A two-year-old cyclamen containing 250 blossoms, also furnished by Lange, was much admired. A stand, covered with pine and hemlock boughs on which rested baskets filled with roses, stood in each corner of the hall; these were arranged by Randall's Flower Shop. An orchestra, hidden by greenery on the stage, furnished music for the exhibition, which lasted two days and was attended by large numbers from both local and outside points. The awards were:

Cut flowers—H. F. A. Lange, 1st; Charles Potter, 2nd.

Carnations—Alfred H. Knight, 1st; William M. Esterbrook, 2nd; Paul Brigham, 3d.

Orchids—Mrs. J. C. Whitin, 1st.

RESULTS ARE WHAT COUNT

BELLE WASHBURN won the silver medal of the Society of American Florists' at the 1915 Buffalo, N. Y., Exhibition, and again won the Society of American Florists' silver medal and American Carnation Society's silver medal at the St. Louis, Mo., Exhibition, January 26-27, 1916. This is the only variety that ever won the Society of American Florists' silver medal two years in succession, which is worth considering when buying new varieties. Results count—order accordingly.

THE BEST RED CARNATION

per 100; $100.00 per 1000; $500 at the 1000 rate.

The color is the most brilliant red of any carnation on the market. The size of the flower is 3 to 3½ inches, with stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. The calyx never bursts and all flowers grade first. Best of all it is a steady and constant bloomer giving just as many flowers as the Enchantress of which it is a seedling. We have 30,000 plants now benched in our greenhouses of which 18,000 are devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. At our Pacific Coast Branch at Hollywood, Calif., we have 1500 plants devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. Orders from the far west can be sent direct to our Mr. E. B. Washburn, 252 South Orange Grove Avenue, Pasadena, Calif., who will give them his personal attention. An inspection of our greenhouses either at Hollywood, Calif., or Hinsdale, Ill., is invited.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia., President;
John Watson, Newark, N. Y., Vice-President;
John Hall, 204 Granite bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.
Forty-first annual convention will be held at Milwaukee, Wis., June, 1916

NEWARK, N. Y.—John Watson has sold his stock in the Jackson & Perkins Co. to Chas. H. and Geo. C. Perkins.

Regulation of Nursery-Stock Sales.

Little if any foreign legislation apparently exists relative to guaranties of the genuineness of nursery stock. Reports received from consuls in England, France, Germany, Austria, Hungary, the Netherlands, Japan, Australia, and Canada, according to the United States bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, are to the same effect as the following statement regarding the Netherlands:

With reference to the law in this country under which nurserymen are compelled to furnish buyers with trees and plants true to name and the penalty prescribed in the event of misrepresentation, the Netherlands has no special law on this subject, and the obligations of contractors in this particular business are governed by the civil and criminal codes of the country.

Only two countries, Hungary and British Columbia, are reported as having special legislation or regulations relating to sales of nursery stock, and that of British Columbia is directed only against the importation of diseased nursery stock.

Germany.—Consul General Robert P. Skinner reports that there is no special legislation in Germany which applies to careless or intentional deliveries of nursery stock which prove untrue to name. If bad faith were involved in the transaction, the German civil code would cover the case, and action would lie for any damage actually sustained. Practically this legislation is of little value in protecting buyers of nursery stock. It requires years, very often, to determine whether or not the species delivered is true to name. In the United States reputable nurserymen sell under a contract to replace trees or purchase money when mistakes are made, and German practice has not gotten much beyond the same system. The principal German nurserymen are organized as the Union of the German Nursery Owners, whose honorary president replies to an inquiry addressed to him on this matter as follows:

There exists in Germany, or, so far as I know, in any European country, no provision of law or regulation according to which nursery owners are obliged to deliver trees or plants with true statements of their names—that is to say, under guaranty as to their variety. The owners of nurseries of most of the provinces have engaged in a contract with their respective chambers of agriculture, according to which the nurseries give a guaranty for the correctness of the variety of delivered fruit trees.

Hungary and British Columbia.—Consul General William Coffin, at Budapest, reports that Hungary has no specific laws or ordinances governing the sale by nurserymen of plants and trees true to name, although vine growers are quite effectively protected by an ordinance issued in 1896 in which the different varieties of grapes are minutely described.

Consul General Robert E. Mansfield, Vancouver, reports that the British Columbia Agricultural Association's act of 1914 provides that "The Lieutenant Governor in Council may make regulations for the inspection and disinfection or destruction thereof of non-fruit-bearing trees or shrubs which may carry contagion. * * * All nursery stock, trees, or plants imported into this province are subject to inspection at the provincial fumigation station at Vancouver, except in case of palms, fibrous plants grown under glass, conifers, and evergreens."

England.—According to information supplied by the board of agriculture and fisheries, the sale of trees or plants is governed in England by the general law of contracts for the sale of goods, in which connection the Sale of Goods Act, 1893, may be noted. The secretary of the board instances an application of this act in the case of Wallace, Sons, and Wells v. Pratt and Haynes (Law Reports, 1911, Appeal Cases, 394), in which the buyer of a quantity of sanfoin seed was held to be entitled to damages as for a breach of warranty. There is no liability under the act of proceedings for a penalty as for a criminal offense. While the Sales of Goods Act follows the general principles of the law of contract, the special provisions relating to warranty and sale by description or sample are especially pertinent to this inquiry and may be summarized as follows:

SEC. 11 (a). Where a contract of sale is subject to any condition to be fulfilled by the seller, the buyer * * * may elect to treat the breach of such condition as a breach of warranty.

SEC. 13. Where there is a contract for the sale of goods by description there is an implied condition that the goods shall correspond with the description.

SEC. 15 (1). A contract of sale is a contract for sale by sample, where there is a term in the contract, express or implied, to that effect. (2). In the case of a contract for sale by sample there is an implied condition that the bulk shall correspond with the sample in quality.

Oklahoma City.

Business continues to be very satisfactory. There is a good call for flowering plants of all descriptions and the florists are meeting the demand with a splendid line of stock, pans of hyacinths and narcissi being specially prominent. One of the 10-cent stores is making a great run on dormant roses, shrubs, and ten cent collections of vegetable seed and are moving great quantities.

NOTES.

At the monthly meeting of the State Civic Improvement Association, held March 7, Henry H. Horn, of the Barteldes staff, read a paper in which he gave a list of the most desirable annuals and perennials suitable for this region. W. S. Rey, nurseryman, gave a talk on flowering shrubs, and H. S. McClenahan, florist, read a paper on "The Cultivation of the Dahlia."

There is a rumor afloat that the "Busy Pee", a local confectionery store, is going to handle flowers and plants as a side line to its business.

Schuman & Co., wholesale florists of Ardmore, Okla., are shipping a nice line of carnations and sweet peas to this city.

Visitors: Lisle Shoemaker, representing Cordley & Hayes, Fibrotta manufacturers, New York; J. W. Sharp, representing the McCray Refrigerator Co. This firm has now an office and salesroom at 31 West Main street, this city. S. S. B.

Hoboken, N. J.

The store at 515 Washington street, formerly occupied by L. Hanley, has been taken by Anthony F. Dwyer, thoroughly refitted and opened as a first class retail store. He is a brother-in-law to Herman C. Steinhoff, the well-known grower of West Hoboken and West Norwood, N. J. For the past 15 years he has been well and favorably known as a grower and salesman for Mr. Steinhoff.

J. Grulich & Sons, who have stores at 113 Hudson street and 616 Washington street, now conduct the flower department in the Lord & Taylor department store, New York, and are said to be making a success of it.

Although Hoboken is not as lively as it was before the European war began, and the big steamers of the German lines were tied up, business goes on and the florists get a fair share.

M. Hendberg, 415 Washington street, has had a very busy season. He has been located there for a num-

FRANK PIAZZA, HARVEY, ILL.

It is a mistake to suppose that our "All Steel" Construction is adaptable to very wide greenhouses only. Here is a house we just built recently for Frank Piazza at Harvey, Ill.; it is 27 feet wide and 150 feet long and you never saw a sturdier or lighter greenhouse in your life.

We wish we could show you the neat and workmanlike finish we put on every part of our greenhouses. Every rivet in the steelwork is drawn up tight and you cannot tell the two heads apart. Then the neat carpenterwork especially on the gable ends and corners. Our greenhouses are built for permanence and we neglect no details to make our houses a perfect highly satisfactory job. ALL Nurserymen, Seedsmen and Florists wishing to do business with Europe should send for the "Horticultural Advertiser"

This is the British Trade Paper, being read weekly by all the horticultural trade; it is also taken by over 1000 of the best continental houses. Annual subscription, to cover cost of postage, 75c.

As the H. A. is a purely trade medium, applicants should, with the subscription, send a copy of their catalog or other evidence that they belong to the nursery or seed trade.

Money orders payable at Lowdham, Notts.

ber of years, has a fine store and handles good stock.

The "Fernery," 914 Washington street, is conducted by F. A. Heffner, and seems to be prosperous. His brother also has a store at 56 Third street.

The firm of Tracy & Burke, Fourth street near Washington street, has been dissolved and Tracy now conducts the business.

In addition to cut flowers, a line of seeds and bulbs is carried at the store of R. Schwoerer, on Third street.

Joseph La Paglia, 162 First street, has a good store and we always find him busy when we call.

The William Frisch Flower Shop, 934 Washington street, is well kept and is doing business. A. F. F.

Notwithstanding the advent of the Lenten season and unfavorable weather conditions, business has been exceptionally good, there being an unusual demand for funeral work and flowers for the sick.

NOTES.

M. W. Richards, a member of the Indiana Horticultural Society, spent several days in the city this week gathering data that will be used in a Johnny Appleseed celebration to be held here in April.

O. H. Henry, of the United States department of agriculture, delivered a very interesting address before the College Club, March 11, his subject being "Field Experiments."

The Flick Floral Co. featured carnations March 11, and disposed of several thousand blooms at a special sale.

W. J. & M. S. Vesey continue to cut fine cattleyas. They have a record crop of lilies coming on for Easter.

BUSINESS BUILDING LETTERS.

A Florist's Letter.

The Park Floral Co., Denver, Colo., makes use of a great variety of printed matter and the letter herewith is considered among the best of its productions along this line:

For reasons explained below, it will be best to order your lawn fertilized during February or March—the first time it is temporarily bare of snow.

Your lawn grass goes hungry through the winter because little food is available for the roots to seize and absorb.

When the spring thaw comes, the roots grasp all the nourishment within their reach, and so the nourishment should be there for them.

Water is a drink for grass, just as it is for animals. It helps, but it doesn't take the place of substantial food. Neither is it a good plan to put on solid food late and then try to wash it down to the roots with vigorous sprinkling.

The better plan, the plan that brings the early, healthy, robust lawn, is to spread the food before the late snows of winter and let the melting of these snows carry the food down to the roots gradually and in its original richness.

The melting snow does not wash out and dissipate the richness of fertilizer as does hose sprinkling. That's the first point.

The second point is that by having the fertilizer under the snow, the grass gets its breakfast early and is ready to go to work by the time the snow is gone.

As a third point, remember that fertilizer carried down with the melting snow is well out of sight as soon as the snow is. The early lawn looks infinitely prettier—and isn't tracked over onto the walks and cut up by wheels and heels while it is still soft.

Now, the gist of all this explanation is our original statement, that it will be best to order your lawn fertilized during February or March—the first time it is temporarily bare of snow.

You don't need to have us do it, but have somebody do it. Not on their account, or on our account, but on your account. The result will be so much more satisfactory to you when spring comes.

If you want us to do it—and certainly we would be very glad to have the order—it will cost you $6 for the ordinary lawn of a lot and a half. This charge is based upon two cubic yards of the very best screened cow and sheep fertilizer at $5, and a careful spreading by our experienced men at 50 cents per cubic yard; or if you need only one cubic yard, it will cost you $3; the spreading, 50 cents, if you want us to do it.

Suggestion: Why not phone us your order now, to cover your lawn the first time it is sufficiently bare of snow? Then the late March and April snow will do the rest.

A Seedsman's Letter.

The following seedsman's letter was recently published in Printers' Ink as one of a series of business letters which produced results:

Here is a letter quite different from the usual selling letter, yet it produced results probably in excess of that which any direct selling letter could have produced. It is just another application of the old principle of selling, that which an article accomplishes in the way of results rather than the bare article itself.

The letter ran this way:

"Here is a true tale of two factory owners. We'll call them A and B. Both operate large mills—both use practically the same grade of materials, have similar equipment, pay their workmen the same scale of wages and turn out the same kind of a commodity.

"And yet A's goods are recognized everywhere as better quality than B's and sell faster at a better price. Where does the difference lie? In the spirit which exists in the men in A's factory. They are loyal—they take a personal pride in their work—and they turn out a higher class of goods than B's men.

"Every resident of A's city is a member of a boosting committee. They are constantly telling of A's beautiful plant and his high grade article that is sold all over America.

"The people of B's town refer to his plant as 'the dirty factory.' They never speak of it to outsiders. There is nothing to cause employees to take pride in their factory—they do their work half-heartedly. No wonder their work is poorer.

"No better investment can be made, Mr. Manufacturer, than the expense of beautifying and maintaining attractive grounds. Once a start is made in this direction you will be surprised to see how much can be accomplished at a comparatively small cost.

"A general clean-up—the removal of all unsightly rubbish and the miscellaneous piles of material will make an improvement of 100 per cent. Then start a little ivy to cover the bare walls. Plant some trees at either side of the entrance, plant a double row of shrubs and cover every available bit of space with nature's carpet of green grass.

"Grass will thrive almost anywhere if given half a chance. The ground should be well broken to the depth of one foot—all the rubbish raked out—the soil enriched with fertilizer—rolled—and finally seeded. Sow with the best grass seed obtainable and sow thickly. No room for weeds to grow then.

"While the grass is getting a start soak thoroughly once a week. Don't sprinkle lightly—this is injurious, causing roots to turn up and the grass to die—but soak it good.

"If the grounds are large it will pay you to avail yourself of the services of a reputable landscape architect.

"Give this matter your most careful consideration. Talk it over with the proper officials—and get busy. Don't miss any longer the dividend-paying power of good grounds.

"There's a booklet attached about grass seed that will help you avoid mistakes. When you're ready to talk business, we will make you a price on your requirements that will insure us your business."

School Garden Profits.

County Superintendent of Schools Edward J. Tobin's annual report shows an increase of 99 teachers in the schools for 1915. "During the last year," the report reads, "field and garden school home projects have been put into the school course of study. Twenty-five hundred pupils took this work, cultivating land rented from their parents as part of their regular school work. One boy, Herman Bosch, of Orchard place, made $370 from an acre of pickles. About 300 pupils were 'drowned out' and made nothing. The total amount earned will exceed $15,000."—Chicago Tribune.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Philadelphia, Pa.

Easter is Coming.

Easter, the greatest flower holiday of the year, is fast approaching. It is one of the business opportunities, that if properly taken advantage of in a careful, painstaking, systematic, business-like manner, is almost certain to show a handsome profit. Too much care or systematic planning cannot be given to this work. Where so many customers are to be served in such a short time, every available facility for the quick and correct handling of the business should be gone over and made as smooth working and perfect as possible.

One of the important features of the work is to examine carefully the order sheets of last season, getting a line on, and bringing to mind what was purchased by the best customers. This should be noted, and all important patrons should receive letters describing the special features of the new stock and pointing out the advantages of early selections. These communications can be made doubly effective if enclosed in a box of a few choice flowers. In gifts of this character, always see that the flowers are fresh and in perfect condition.

Before ordering any stock, study carefully the record made of last year's business; it will bring to mind much that had been forgotten, and will greatly aid in the selection of this year's list. Well grown plants are seldom left over—it is the cheap, medium stock that is ordered along with the good, just to oblige, that misses fire, and much of which finally becomes a dress tags and card envelopes, should be ordered early, so as to be surely on hand and not a cause for worry at the rush time. Light crated cases for the shipment of plants by express should be in readiness, as packing is greatly facilitated with these at hand. The stock of plant baskets should be gone over; quite a few apparently dead pieces can be revived and repaired, and when touched up with paint or gilt, made quite presentable. Many florists give little attention to this attractive feature of the business, (baskets for growing plants), thinking them too much trouble, but others are well satisfied and find ready sale at good profit for nicely arranged baskets. Trellis boxes, large enough to hold plants from six-inch pots, filled with baby rambler roses for the trellis, together with other flowering plants, spring bulbous stock and ferns make a very attractive Easter special. Crate boxes, from the box maker, to hold these should be on hand for out-of-town orders.

An important matter is to engage the extra help in good time; better a few competent persons than twice the number that have to be kept under surveillance all the time. Very excellent assistants can, at holiday times, such as Christmas and Easter, be obtained from the colleges of any large city. The students, who are generally bright young men, having a few days off are glad to come and earn a few dollars in this way.

The advertising is an important matter. A well-written circular to the mailing list of customers is always productive of good results. This list is a most important asset, and should be added to at every opportunity. Quite a few patrons who buy more or less total loss. The last season's record will also show the amount of wreaths and other cemetery pieces that were disposed of. As many of these are regular orders, the forms can be made ready, and where the foundation is of magnolia leaves, made up. A quantity of extra wreaths should also be made for stock, available for this busy time.

Every kind of supplies that will be required, such as boxes of all sizes, adregularly, pay cash, and their names should invariably be added, so that they receive all the literature of the business. The names of all deceased persons should be carefully removed as they occur.

Care in handling stock for delivery is very important—the grower has done his part, and a handsome plant is the result. It is sold at a good profit. Now comes the delivery. If you fall down here all is lost; therefore, every precaution should be taken in the wrapping. It may mean an extra man or two at the last, but the cost will be trifling, and it pays, as the delivery in a bad condition of only one plant may mean the refunding of several days' wages. Particularly should all lily flowers on the plants be tied up with tissue or other paper to protect them. It should be one man's work to direct the deliveries. A list with the addresses and number of plants for each lot should be ready for the wagon or car when it arrives, thereby greatly facilitating the work.

Sprays.

The accompanying illustrations show examples of every day's routine work that is after all, the bread and butter of the business, for to take away the wreath and spray would wind up about three-fourths of the retail stores. About 50 years ago, a small grower, whose business consisted almost entirely of producing bedding plants, which he sold at retail on the curb market of Philadelphia, was asked for some cut-flowers for a funeral. Seeing that no charge was made, he was asked why, and answered: "Charge him? The poor man has trouble enough; I could not think of taking his money." This was before the day of the retail stores and the custom of remembering or paying tribute to departed friends with floral offerings did not become general for some time after this.

The larger spray, composed of Ophelia roses, is a very showy cluster. What a magnificent flower is the Ophelia! It appears to have the good qualities of all existing varieties crowded into one. It is clearly the forerunner of a new type, with its strength of stem, grand foliage, texture of the petals, magnificent form and exquisite coloring. It is the rose sensation of the year. The special feature of the spray of My Maryland is the little knot of Sweetheart roses, placed in the center on top of the ribbon bow. Such a touch as this makes the piece doubly attractive. It is sure to be noticed and favorably commented upon and the cost of such an addition is trifling and is well worth the trouble. A knot of anything different from the flowers comprising the spray will in most cases be found appropriate. It can be placed in the bunch near the bow, or, as in this case, in the center of the ribbon. A chiffon ribbon bow is scarcely enough for a spray of any size. It serves as a good background when used as a foundation for a medium width bow of satin or taffeta. K.

Minneapolis Florists Fight Discrimination

In protest against non-enforcement, or partial enforcement, of city ordinances pertaining to the uses of sidewalks for the display and sale of merchandise, the Minneapolis Florists' Club and the Minnesota State Florists' Association adopted resolutions, March 15, authorizing their respective executive committees to take such action as may be necessary incident to the enforcement of said ordinances.

It is alleged that Minneapolis florists are being discriminated against in favor of fruit vendors and confectionery dealers. According to the Minneapolis ordinances, no person or persons shall place or allow to be placed on any sidewalk in the city or suspend over the street, any goods, wares or merchandise for sale, show or otherwise, beyond the front line of the lot where such may be placed, and the section relating specifically to fruit stands, etc., states that no person shall keep or place any table, stall or booth or other erection in any street, lane, alley or public place, or on any square or sidewalk in said city for the sale of fruit or other things. The enforcement of these ordinances is vested in the chief of police, who is under the direct supervision of the mayor and subject to his absolute direction. As set forth in the resolution of the Minneapolis Florists' Club, in the past the mayor and the chief of police of Minneapolis have seen fit to disregard the purposes and objects sought to be obtained by the ordinances and have failed to compel the strict observance of them, and have set aside and nullified the said ordinances by non-enforcement, or by only a partial enforcement, and have by such partial enforcement discriminated against certain persons in the city of Minneapolis and against members of the Minneapolis Florists' Club in particular, in favor of certain other persons and businesses, and in particular in favor of vendors of fruit and fruit stands.

The club takes the position that the enforcement of the ordinances are of great benefit from the point of sanitation, and that the sidewalks and streets of the city are for the general use of the general public, and the observance of the law is of great benefit to all merchants and shop-keepers.

In its protest, the local organization is supported by the state body, and the executive committees of both are authorized to co-operate with other persons, associations, clubs and societies in their efforts to remove the unsatisfactory conditions.

The resolutions were also presented by John G. Taylor, president of the florists' club at a meeting of the Minneapolis Retailers' Association, and that body voted to approve the stand taken by the florists' organizations.

T. C. R.

The express companies, that kept us so long from having any kind of a parcel post, and have tried ceaselessly to wreck what we now enjoy, have played their cunningest trick against it. They have slipped over in the national house of representatives that snaky, sneaky Madden amendment to the post office bill that they tried so often in the last session to put through. This time they waited until only a few members were present and then tricked the thing through.

It limits the weight of parcel post packages, and what is still worse, deprives the post office department of administrative control of the system, so that it can be progressively reduced and hampered until it is destroyed.

This most vicious device now goes to the senate and on March 24 there will be a hearing on it before the Senate post office committee.

Lose no time. Write at once or telegraph to your congressman and senators urging them to work against this most dangerous and threatening trick of the corporations. Write to every member of the senate post office committee. Here are the names:

LOOKING AHEAD.

Easter Preparations.

Easter, the great flower day of the year, is now almost at hand and the growers and retailers must both be prepared to meet the demand that will probably tax all the ability and capacity possessed. The grower has, of course, been a long time making preparations to have the stock in the pink of condition and the retailer should also provide himself with all the necessary stock and accessories at as early a date as possible. The supplies should be procured at least two weeks before the great day, so that the energies of all the force can be expended upon finishing the product, waiting upon the trade and seeing that the deliveries are properly made and the decorations arranged in an artistic manner. The stock of baskets for plants, ribbons and decorating them and tying the flowers, paper, boxes and numberless other supplies should all be looked over and where necessary replenished. It is poor business to wait until the last minute and worry over these details which can be attended to early and take time that can be more advantageously spent with the other necessary work. There will probably be something called for, the sale of which cannot be foreseen, so it is best to get everything that it is known will be required as early as possible.

Whatever plants are to be procured should be ordered early, and wherever it is possible a visit made to the growers' houses and a personal selection made. The winter has been unusually trying, with prolonged dark weather, and it has been difficult in many cases to keep up the right temperature, and even where the heat has been maintained the plants have been retarded, so that much will depend on the three weeks before Easter to have them in the best of condition, and it will pay the buyer to look over the stock. This should be done early, for the large buyers sometimes place their orders two months before Easter in order that they may be assured of the stock and of a good selection. No two plants grow alike and although as far as description go they are the same, in pot, size and bloom, yet placed side by side one may be much more valuable than the other, so there is much in selection, and it is a great advantage to anyone to go and inspect the plants in the greenhouses and to pick out the ones desired and have them held until the proper time of delivery. If baskets of plants are to be made up, and this is one of the growing features of the Easter trade, a supply of small ferns, asparagus and other greens will be necessary to properly finish them and these can be obtained at any time and be on hand when wanted. To successfully conduct a business when such a large increase for a few days is expected, it is necessary to do everything that can be done previous to the demands of the customers and at as early a date as possible.

Easter Plants.

Easter has become a great plant day, not only for church decorations, but it has also been a growing practice with the public to make presents of blooming plants to friends at this time. First among these are the lilies which are grown by the thousands for the day. With all the disadvantages of weather and temperature which the grower has experienced this year, it looks as if the supply would be good. The general reports are that most of the stock is of excellent quality. The prices quoted, notwithstanding the increased cost of growing, are about the same as in previous years. Next to the lilies are the azaleas, and these are in very fine condition. The varieties grown are those which have attained the greatest popularity with the trade: Mme. Van der Cruyssen, Prof. Wolters, Empereur de Brazil, Niobe, Dr. Moore, Apollo, Bernard Andrea Alba, De Schryveriana and others not so well known. Bulbs are always grown in great quantities for Easter and thousands of pans of tulips, narcissi and hyacinths are annually bloomed for this great flower day. They make a gorgeous show and are emblematic of the awakening of spring which Easter symbolizes, and as they can be procured and marketed at a low price they are great favorites at this time. Lily of the valley in pans are one of the most popular Easter plants and these when well grown find a very ready sale.

Plant Baskets for Easter.

The sale of plant baskets at Easter is made as important a feature as it is at Christmas and they occupy a prominent place in the trade of the principal stores. They can be made up in beautiful combinations at this time, for there is a wealth of material for this work. The baskets can be procured at very low prices with metal pans in which the plants are placed, and by careful planning and buying, taking combinations can be put up at time getting good returns for what would otherwise be a loss. This is a line of the business which ordinarily requires a fair degree of salesmanship to properly show the advantages of these beautiful offerings, but when they are properly put up and well shown they are a valuable feature of the Easter trade.

Rambler Roses for Easter.

The rambler roses now occupy a very important place with the principal stores. The great improvement in varieties which has been made during the past few years has enabled the grower to present these beautiful plants in a great variety of colors ranging from the brightest crimson through the shades of pink to white, and the Baby rambler produces a fine small plant well covered with bloom. The ramblers are grown not only in bush form, but in many grotesque shapes, being trained as ships, umbrellas and in basket form. Hydrangeas, if well bloomed, are among the most popular Easter plants and they are very decorative, either in church or residence. While these can never be grown and offered at low prices, for a plant with four to six large heads will require much valuable space for a long period, yet they last a long time in bloom and the purchasers get their full value if they will but take proper care of the plant. Spireas are one of the best low-cost plants of the time. The older varieties make a splendid show for a little money and can be used very largely in church decorations. In selling the plant or in placing it in a decoration be sure that it is well watered before it leaves the store or greenhouse. Genistas are grown in quantity for Easter and many growers have them in fancy forms, such as baskets, pillars, pyramids and balls.

reasonable prices. A point that seems to be lost sight of by many growers is that in these plant baskets or boxes can be used much stock that cannot be disposed of in any other way. The most successful and careful grower of plants is sure to have some that are not perfect specimens, either growing more or less one-sided, or having one part not well covered with bloom; and these can be used advantageously in their plant combinations, making the basket less expensive and at the same

Another yellow flowering plant that is highly regarded in some sections is the acacia, beautifully grown specimens of these plants being displayed by the large dealers. Cyclamens in splendid shape are invariably offered for Easter and primulas, especially P. obconica, are grown extensively for sale at this time and many of the heaths are produced for the Easter trade. Another beautiful plant that is largely grown is the bougainvillea, and splendid specimens are produced of this showy plant and they always attract attention.

The Garland Cast Iron Gutter.

The accompanying illustrations are very interesting and show that the gutters often outlast the other materials and is the real life of a greenhouse. The first illustration shows the George Wittbold Co.'s old greenhouses in Chicago that are being torn down to make room for a modern apartment and store building and in which the Garland Cast Iron Gutters were used. The second illustration shows the first house of their new range at Edgebrook, Ill., which is being equipped with the Garland Cast Iron Gutters that were in use for over 20 years at their old Chicago range. Louis Wittbold, president of the George Wittbold Co., is more than pleased with the lasting qualities of this gutter and is confident that it will last a life time. Every one of their houses have Garland gutters and the same kind will be used in the other new houses that they will build this spring.

Lancaster County Florists' Club.

March 16 was one of the record cold days for the season, but it was not cold enough to dampen the ardor of the members of this club, and we turned out 20 strong for the visiting trip to Maurice J. Brinton's range at Christiana, Pa. Mr. Brinton is one of the large lily forcers of the country, and ships out lilies every day of the year. In addition to the lilies he forces narcissi by the hundred thousand, and just as a side issue, has four of the finest carnation houses in this section. Among the good things in carnations was a bed of Victory, as fine if not finer than it ever was, in what is generally known as a carnation's prime, in its first 10 years, demonstrating that there is no occasion for a carnation to run out if it is properly propagated and intelligently handled.

Returning, it was a succession of stops, the first being at the establishment of J. Rutter Hess & Son, of Gap, a carnation place with a little side line of vegetable plants. Mr. Hess is one of the few growers in this section not partial to Matchless, and the reason could be seen in an extraordinarily fine house of White Enchantress.

The next stop was at Ira Landis' range at Paradise, and as one naturally expects good things in Paradise, we were neither surprised nor disappointed. Princess Dagmar and Yellow Prince are trying hard to get Mr. Landis into the royal family. Matchless, Benora, Mrs. Akehurst and some of the older varieties are all working hard and giving results that count for the financial end of the business. Mr. Landis grows as side lines freesia, myosotis, calendula and Spanish iris, and, of course, grows them well. After taking a good look over the crowd, Mr. Landis concluded we were cold and hungry, and treated us to some of his home-made wine and home-baked cakes, proving that the household end of his establishment was up to the standard of the greenhouse end of it. I remember some years back when a vase of carnations took first prize at one of our carnation society shows, and after the prize was awarded we found that the flowers had been cut just about seven weeks before the show and kept in a wine cellar, and then carried about 500 miles to the show. It occurred to me that the fact that Mr. Landis stores his gladioli bulbs in close proximity to this wine may be the secret of his fine gladioli, and as one thought follows another, if this wave of prohibition that is sweeping over the country reaches us we will have a good excuse to continue our wine cellars for the preservation and perfection of our flowers.

The next and last stop was at the Weavers' establishments at Ronks, Pa.,—establishments because there are two brothers, Charles and Elmer, running two separate bank and expense accounts, but with greenhouses so intermingled that one never knows on whose ground one is treading. Charles M. Weaver is the sweet pea grower, and has them in three hundred foot houses lengthwise, about fifty wide, and apparently miles high. He is cutting immense quantities of high-class flowers and making two shipments daily. In addition to the standard sorts, he has some of his own producbegan by giving us a bit of history connected with Holland, telling us how Holland fought its enemies on land and fought back the sea with its dikes, until today it is the garden spot of the world from a bulb growing point of view. Starting with the growing of bulbs for pastime and pleasure, it gradually grew into the business we know today, the commercial beginning of it being about the end of the sixteenth century. Enormous prices were paid in those days to secure possession of special varieties; as an example, one very rich merchant who thought he owned all there was of a certain tion, and unless Zvolanek, Burpee and the other California growers have some surprises in store for us, they have nothing on Charles, for he is growing by the thousand a beautiful blue and two pinks that are head and shoulders over all others of the same color. Elmer Weaver has the carnation end of the place, and has added Ten Weeks stock with wonderful success, judging from the plants and the blooms they are producing. He is going into the perennial plant business in an experimental way, and has some 75 varieties of seed sown, about 40 of which have germinated for him. Asters are a feature here, and there is now somewhere close to a million plants started in paper pots. When these are in their prime a summer trip will be arranged to look them over.

Mrs. A. M. Herr kindly acted as hostess to our distinguished visitor. Richard Vincent, Jr., until we came back to Lancaster at 5:45, when a little party of nine took dinner with him, and immediately thereafter adjourned to the club rooms for the evening meeting. The business end of the meeting was hastened through, four new members being elected as follows: Robert G. Antes, Frank Hauck, P. Murphy and W. M. Hahman. At the instigation of the writer, the club voted a donation of $50 toward purchasing a site for an armory building, which could be used for flower shows, etc.

In a few fitting remarks our president, Harry Schroyer, introduced Richard Vincent, Jr., of White Marsh, Md., as speaker for the evening, his subject being "The Bulb Fields of Holland." The ladies had been invited and quite a goodly number were present; in fact, it almost became a problem to seat the audience. The speaker variety discovered that a Frenchman near Paris had the same variety. He started for Paris, bought the Frenchman's stock for 1,000 ducats and destroyed them so that he would have full control of the variety. One bulb of Viceroy, a hybloemen variety, was exchanged for the following articles: Two loads of wheat, four loads of rye, four fat oxen, eight fat pigs, two hogsheads of wine, four barrels of eight florin beer, two barrels of butter, one thousand pounds of cheese, a complete bed, a suit of clothes and a silver beaker, which at their current valuation were about the equivalent of $1,050 of our money. Tulips and hyacinths are, of course, the principal bulbs grown, but narcissi are being grown in increased quantities, with prospects of having this flower given to us in a greater variety of colors every year. This was followed up with his wonderful collection of slides and a short description of the important ones. They showed what the Hollander does with his hard-fought-for ground, and how he uses every inch of available space. His pictures of the Haarlem exhibition gave us an idea of how to make attractive the bare spots under trees with beds of bulbs, and the indoor or tent exhibits gave us some pointers that will be used in the next Lancaster flower show this fall. Mr. Vincent's remarks, connected with his slide of the Covent Garden market, so thoroughly coincide with what I have been preaching for some years myself, that they are given as nearly as I can remember them here. "This wonderful market where plants and flowers of all kinds are sold in quantities unbelievable by us Americans was a revelation. The Englishman, with a much better climate for the growing of flowers in window boxes and for his home ornamentation, does not plant a window box in the spring and expect it to be a floral picture all summer with its limited area of space and soil. When a plant begins to fade or lose its beauty, he goes to market and buys another to replace it. This is a thing we should educate our American people to do, and the result would be, not only the sale of more plants, but their greater use, as the buyers would in this way get more satisfaction, and satisfaction increases sales always and everywhere."

A unanimous vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Vincent, with the hope that he might be with us again before the end of the year. The next meeting night of the club will be "ladies' night" at the Brenneman building, April 27.

Massachusetts Horticultural Society.

ANNUAL SPRING SHOW.

The Massachusetts Horticultural Society held its annual spring show at Horticultural hall, Boston, March 17-19. One of the best shows seen for some time was staged, the spring flowering bulbs being of especially fine quality. It was remarkable to have such a fine display of plants and forced shrubs, considering the weather conditions, which have made transportation so hard, and the committees are very much pleased at the interest shown by the exhibitors. All three halls were well filled. The main hall was very attractive, and one of the first sights to catch the eye was the garden staged by R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Boston. The whole effect was that of a sunken garden, and it was brought out to a more marked degree than usual by a large curtain, painted to represent a garden scene, from which the real garden seemed to merge into the hall. There was a large fountain in the center surrounded by the flower beds, and on either side was planted flowering shrubs and evergreens. Another fine display was that of the Wm. W. Edgar Co., of Waverly, Mass., who showed a fine group of plants, among which were fine lots of lilies and azaleas. Mrs. C. G. Weld also had a very attractive group, among which were some fine specimens of begonias, spireas and acacias. W. T. Walke, of Salem, a new exhibitor, had a very creditable display of commercial plants. He exhibited three large plants of French hydrangeas, six feet in diameter, and five feet high, which was one of the features of the show. Duncan Finlayson had several exhibits, all of which were very fine. His display of forced hardy shrubs was excellent. It was very noticeable that throughout the entire show the acacias, heather and hardwooded stove and greenhouse plants were of better quality than has been seen at the hall before. Mrs. Lester Leland had a display of cyclamen that were especially worthy of merit, and besides winning the society's prize, was awarded the $50 prize offered by the Gardeners' and Florists' Club of Boston. The lecture hall contained the cut flower exhibits, retail florists' displays and the groups of spring bulbs. The retail florists' displays attracted their usual attention, and although there were no prizes offered there were many excellent and tasty exhibits of the florists' art. Baskets, hampers, table decorations and old-fashioned bouquets comprised the greater part of the displays. The Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass., showed their new rose, Mrs. Bayard Thayer, as well as some very fine Killarneys and Hadleys. The carnations were of very fine quality. The vases of Pink Sensation were considered by many to be the best carnations ever shown at the hall. Wm. Nicholson's new dark red seedling looked very promising and excited much comment.

Prominent among the successful contestants in the competitive classes were the following: W. W. Edgar Co., Waverly, Mass.; W. T. Walke, Salem, Mass.; A. N. Pierson, Cromwell, Conn.; F. Dorner & Sons Co., Lafayette, Ind.; R. & J. Farquhar & Co., Boston; Houghton, Gorney Co., Boston; S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass.; Wm. Sim, Cliftondale, Mass.; Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass.; Thomas Roland, Nahant, Mass.; Mrs. C. G. Weld, Miss Cornelia Warren, Mrs. J. L. Gardner, Margaret A. Rand, A. W. Preston and Mrs. Lester Leland.

BUSINESS ONLY FAIR.

While business held up well the first part of last week, there was a falling off Friday and Saturday. White flowers, especially carnations, held firm, $5 per 100 for the latter being secured in some cases, but the majority went at $4. Roses are more plentiful and the price ranges from $2 per 100 to $16 for fancy stock. Ophelia, Russell and Hadley are the favorites. Sweet peas are plentiful and the demand is good. Spencers bring from 75 cents to $1.50 per 100 and $2 are received for extra fine grades. Violets move slowly at prices ranging from 40 cents to 50 cents per 100. Snapdragon is more plentiful and good flowers meet with a fair sale at $1.50 per dozen. Bulbous stock remains about the same, jonquils being the main factor of the supply.

NOTES.

The Montgomery Rose Co., of Hadley, Mass., will add a Moninger steel frame house, 50x325 feet, to its range. This firm is cutting some extra fine Hadley roses at present and the Ophelia seen here are exceptionally fine.

Alphonse Grasse, a former employe of Robert Montgomery, is starting business at Natick, Mass., with one house 20x75 feet. He will grow tomatoes, but expects to enter the florist line later.

Henry Zum Brunnen is cutting fine snapdragons and sweet peas, which he ships to Daniel J. Lamy at the Boston Co-operative Flower Market.

Julius A. Zinn, the Park street florist, has added a new motor truck to his delivery service.

Oklahoma City.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY BUSINESS EXCELLENT.

St. Patrick's day developed quite a little trade for flowers. Green carnations and green sweet peas, the latter a novelty so far as this city goes, were disposed of in enormous quantities and at profitable prices. A large number of small shamrock plants were also sold for the celebration. Florists are unanimous in saying that St. Patrick's day was certainly a good business day for them. The regular routine of business continues to be very satisfactory; everybody is very busy, and it is noticed that there are several new clerks added to the forces in the flower stores. The trade in general, and more particularly the nursery and bedding plant side of it, has been given a large boost; it might be called an official boost, for Governor Williams and Mayor Overholzer have each issued proclamations over their official signatures, urging every individual in the city and state to plant more ornamental trees, shrubs and flowers, and setting aside the week commencing March 19 as the time to do so. As a means of getting tangible results from the proclamations, the superintendent of schools, together with the principal of each school, have arranged for special exercises during the week, at which addresses will be made by some of the local florists. Among the speakers will be G. W. Stiles, Lon Foster, W. H. Clark, superintendent of the cemetery, and S. S. Butterfield.

Visitors: E. C. Pruner, representing Poehlmann Bros. Co., Chicago; A. S. Gray, president of the Oklahoma State Society of Florists, Chickasha, Okla.

ADRAIN, MICH.—Elmer D. Smith reports brisk business in chrysanthemums, standard sorts and novelties.

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y.—Alexander Richardson, formerly gardener on the Morgan estate, Glen Cove, N. Y., has taken a similar position on the Bruce MacKelvie estate, Sands Point.

PLAINVIEW, TEX.—An experimental farm will be established near this city if a bill introduced into the senate is passed. An appropriation of $50,000 for the purpose is asked for.

OBITUARY.

John Adam Klehm.

John Adam Klehm, founder of the well known firm of John Klehm & Sons, florists and nurserymen, of Arlington Heights, Ill., and one of the oldest and most respected citizens in that locality, died at his late residence, March 16, aged 81 years and eight months. He was born in Duedelsheim, Germany, and came to America in 1851, locating in Buffalo, N. Y. In 1855, he removed to Jefferson Park, Ill., where he remained for two years, after which he went to Arlington Heights, and for the past 59 years has been prominently identified with the business and civic advancement of that village. In 1862 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Stitz. To them five children were born, three of whom, George, Charles and Henry, are living, and in recent years have lifted the cares of business from their father's shoulders, have followed his sterling business principles, and extended the prestige of the firm. Mr. Klehm, while a sufferer much of his life, rarely complained. During the last eight months he had been confined to his bed. Surviving are the widow, three sons and 15 grandchildren.

The funeral was held March 18, with interment in the Lutheran cemetery. Many beautiful floral tributes accompanied his remains to their last resting place, and friends without number mourn his passing.

Wickliffe L. Smith.

Wickliffe L. Smith, a charter member of the Society of American Florists, founder of the Smith greenhouse, Aurora, Ill., and up to the time of his retirement, 14 years ago, one of the best known florists in Illinois, died at St. Joseph's hospital, Aurora, March 17, aged 64 years. As early as 1880 he enjoyed the reputation of being a genius in the propagation of plants and was for many years considered one of the best florists in the state. He had resided in Aurora since 1860, and for more than half a century had been prominent in the civic and social life of the community. He had in recent years worked for various firms, and last summer was employed at the Mooseheart Nurseries. He was taken ill early in the winter, and grew gradually weaker until his death. He is survived by a widow and three daughters. The funeral services were held March 19, and the remains, accompanied by many floral tributes, were taken to West Aurora cemetery for interment.

J. H. Harvey.

J. H. Harvey, a retail florist whose store was at 453 Broad street, Newark, N. J., died in a Newark hospital, March 13, aged 51 years. He was a member of an old Newark family and we believe that most of his life had been spent in that city. He was for some years with the Stroebeles, well known retailers of Newark, but in late years has been in business for himself. He was a genial and kindly man and had many friends. His funeral was held on the evening of March 16, with Masonic ceremonies. He is survived by a widow and three sons, the youngest of whom has conducted the store during his father's illness.

A. F. F.

Sackville S. Bain.

Sackville S. Bain, well-known florist of Montreal, Que., died at his home in that city, March 11, aged 71 years, following a three weeks' attack of pneumonia. He was born in Cromarty, Scotland and came to Canada in 1871, at the age of 26 years. He located in Montreal and founded the florist business which still bears his name, and later established large nurseries at Verdun, Que. He was well known throughout Canada as an interpreter of Scotch songs. He is survived by his widow, two sons, Dyson and Stewart, the former associated with his father in business, and one daughter, Mrs. George Dies.

BRISTOL, CONN.—Paul M. Hubbard & Son will open a flower shop in the Gwillim block in the near future.

HELENA, ARK.—The Merryvale Greenhouses have been purchased by Harry Ball, proprietor of the Ball Floral Co.

NEW ALBANY, IND.—John G. Bettman is erecting two houses, each 28x200 feet, which will be devoted to roses.

BOSTON, MASS.—Max Fine, florist, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, scheduling liabilities of $4,665 and no assets.

LEBANON, PA.—Joseph F. Vavrous, founder of the firm of J. F. Vavrous & Sons, florists, died at his home here, February 24, aged 56 years.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Olney Williams and John Burke have formed a partnership and will conduct a wholesale business in flowers and supplies on Clemence street.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Tierney & Manning, North Phelps street florists, have dissolved partnership, Paul Manning having purchased the entire stock and will continue the business.

NEWPORT, R. I.—Edward R. Hass has purchased the flower store formerly conducted by his father at 196 Thames street. He will also have the use of one greenhouse on Almy street.

COLUMBIA, MO.—The students of the College of Agriculture have issued an invitation to the florists of the state to cooperate with them in the flower show which will be a feature of their eleventh annual fair which will be held at the University of Missouri, May 5. C. B. Gray, Horticultural building, this city, is chairman of the flower show committee.

C. B. WHITNALL, social democrat, is again candidate for the office of city treasurer of Milwaukee, Wis.

THE western contingent is pressing on to the National Flower Show at Philadelphia as we go to press.

THE price of lead, which regulates the cost of tinfoil, has advanced from $4.30 at the beginning of the war to $8.00, the present figure.

R. C. BENEDICT of the Brooklyn Botanic Garden has contributed an exhaustive account of the genus nephrolepis (Boston fern and its varieties) to the new Standard Cyclopedia of Horticulture.

HUGH DICKSON's new rose California, awarded the thousand dollar prize at the Panama-Pacific exposition, according to a communication just received from the Royal Nurseries, Belfast, Ireland, will not be available before 1917 and Chas. H. Totty, of Madison, N. J. is the United States agent for Mr. Dickson's new roses.

Florists' Telegraph Delivery.

A meeting of the members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery is scheduled for Thursday, March 30, at 2 p. m. at the Hotel Walton, Philadelphia, Pa. It is necessary that our members attend this meeting in order to bring up new ideas for the benefit of our organization.

Simultaneous with the opening of the show the mayor of every city where there is an F. T. D. member will receive a box of flowers, bearing the following card: "Greetings to Your Honor from the Florists' Telegraph Delivery, Fourth National Flower Show, Philadelphia." Acknowledgments will be pinned to a large map of the United States, indicating the towns represented by F. T. D. service. ALBERT POCHELOU, Sec'y.

American Rose Society.

The executive committee of the American Rose Society met in New York March 13, to go over the work of preparation for the coming exhibition and annual meeting. The annual meeting will be held in Convention hall, Philadelphia, Pa., at 7:30 p. m., Monday, March 27.

The judges appointed for the various classes are as follows:

Private growers, cut roses, Monday, March 27, 2 p. m.—Admiral Aaron Ward, Roslyn, N. Y.; Eugene Dailledouze, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Victor Groshens, Roslyn, Pa.

Commercial growers, Monday, March 27, 2 p. m.—Emil Buettner, Park Ridge, Ill.; John H. Dunlop, Toronto, Ont.; Wm. L. Rock, Kansas City, Mo.

Twenty-five class, Monday, March 27, 2 p. m.—Frank H. Traendly, New York; Fred. Burki, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Robert Craig, Philadelphia, Pa.

Plants, Saturday, March 25, 1 p. m.—Philip Breitmeyer, Detroit, Mich.; Alex. B. Scott, Sharon Hills, Pa.; George C. Thomas, Jr., Philadelphia.

Rose display and retailers, Thursday, March 30, 2 p. m.—A. B. Cartledge, Philadelphia, Pa.; James Forbes, Portland, Ore.; W. J. Palmer, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Dorrance medal will be awarded as a sweepstake prize. This medal was won last by Gude Brothers Co., Washington, D. C. The blanks for entries are all to be sent to Benjamin Hammond, room 1205 Widener Building, Philadelphia, Pa.

The annual for 1916, the best book the American Rose Society has yet issued, is being mailed to all members that are paid up, and tickets of admission will also be issued to all paid up members. At the annual meeting there will be various important matters come up, and the time fixed for the meeting is on a day when we hope to obtain a large attendance of members. BENJAMIN HAMMOND, Sec'y.

Antique Pottery.

The collection of antique flower pots exhibited by The Whilldin Pottery Company at the Philadelphia National Flower Show at Convention hall, is the result of many miles of traveling by J. G. Whilldin and P. M. Read of that company by automobile through mud, slush and snow, and also zero weather, in an endeavor to obtain these pots on time and to be sure of their safe arrival at Convention hall. The complete collection comprises some pots used by great grandfathers of the present generation, some made by florists in their endeavor to beat the potter at his own game and others made by potters long gone from this world.

It may be interesting to the trade to know that square pots were also made in those days, several samples of which are shown. The pots are of various shapes and sizes and of course being made before the standard pot was adopted, will, no doubt, prove interesting to all visiting florists, at least the "old man" who remembers the "good old days" of "flue houses", "small glass" and "wood fires".

Chicago to Philadelphia.

FOURTH NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

At the February meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club the Pennsylvania Railroad was selected as the route to the Fourth National Flower Show, to be held at Philadelphia, March 25-April 2, the club party leaving the Union station, Canal street, on Train No. 8, Saturday, March 25, the opening day of the show, at 3:15 p. m., due Philadelphia 5:50 p. m. the following day. The individual fare in either direction, between Chicago and Philadelphia, is $19.10 and the party fare for 10 or more people on one ticket is $17.39 per capita between the same points in either direction. The Pullman fares are $3.60 for upper berth, $4.50 for lower, and $16 for a drawingroom, two tickets being required for the exclusive use of a drawingroom.

Other Pennsylvania Railroad trains for those who can not leave with the club party are: Pennsylvania Limited, leaving Chicago 5:30 p. m., due Philadelphia 3:08 p. m. (excess fare $4), and Manhattan Limited, leaving Chicago 10:30 a. m., due North Philadelphia 7:19 a. m. (excess fare $5).

Persons desiring to visit New York during the show at Philadelphia can secure one-way tickets to New York at a cost of $21.10 with the privilege of a 10-day stopover at Philadelphia.

For reservations, etc., address District Passenger Agent, E. K. Bixby, 175 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago. Telephone, Wabash 3660.

Kew Men's Reunion.

A reunion and banquet for Kew men and their ladies has been arranged to be held at "Shanley's", 117 West 42nd street, New York, April 5, at 7:00 p. m., the opening day of the New York flower show. Tickets may be had of M. Free, Brooklyn Botanic Gardens, Brooklyn, N. DREER'S NEW WHITE CANNA, EUREKA

CANNAS

Our Own Introductions

Eureka. Another season's trial fully demonstrates our former claims for this variety—that it is the best white for all purposes to which Cannas are devoted. It is of robust constitution, growing four feet high, forming sturdy, shapely plants very quickly. Its free flowering tendency can be readily understood when we chronicle the fact that a small plant set out May 15th, three months later carried 15 immense heads of flowers. These are of a creamy-white, changing in full sun to a pure white. Its superior merits have been acknowledged by all who have seen it, and we unhesitatingly pronounce it the best white Canna yet introduced. 30 cts. each; $3.00 per doz.; $20.00 per 100.

Favorite. There have been many yellow Cannas spotted with carmine or crimson that were good; it is, therefore, particularly interesting to find a variety that in every way eclipses its many predecessors and for which we have singled out this sort. The color is a rich, deep golden-yellow, produced on tall stems high above the foliage. The red dots, which are not too pronounced, add to the piquancy of the flower, without detracting from the golden mass effect. 5 feet. 35 cts. each; $3.50 per doz.; $25.00 per 100.

Orange Bedder. A particularly attractive bedding variety of a bright orange with just sufficient scarlet suffusion to intensify the dazzling mass of colors when the wide branching stems are covered with flowers. 30 cts. each; $3.00 per doz.; $20.00 per 100.

Remarkable. A distinct and effective bronze variety that stood out boldly from all other sorts in our fields, not only on account of its height (over 6 feet), but particularly on account of its beautiful bronze foliage and the scarlet-carmine flowers which force attention. The tall, graceful habit and strong coloring make it a valuable addition. 35 cts. each; $3.50 per doz.; $25.00 per 100.

The Gem. An entirely distinct spotted variety. The immense trusses of flowers are borne on upright branching stems well above the foliage, and are of deep cream or straw-yellow, spotted with deep carmine. 35 cts. each; $3.50 per doz.; $25.00 per 100.

One each of the 5 sorts for $1.50.

Do not fail to see our Exhibit at the National Flower Show, Convention Hall, Philadelphia, March 25th to April 2nd.

THE NEW ROSE MRS. BAYARD THAYER

that we are offering this season, will make a fine addition to a class of large flowered roses which is rapidly coming to the front, since we introduced Mrs. Chas. Russell of which the new claimant is a sport. The color is a most beautiful clear rose pink, inside of petals a shade lighter. The foliage heavy and smooth and carried on strong stems. It won the American Rose Society Medal, over a strong class of competitors, at the Cleveland Show, scoring 90 points.

CARNATIONS ARE IN GOOD DEMAND.

Carnations have been in good demand all week and are cleaning up at an early hour each day at very satisfactory prices. The demand for white carnations for St. Patrick's day was fairly good but prices were not as high as in former years and most of the stock was sold at prices ranging from $3 to $4 per 100. Carnations in general are bringing better prices now than they did last week and some of the dealers are having considerable trouble in filling all their orders. American Beauty roses are none too plentiful in the longer grades and what stock is arriving is quickly sold at prices ranging from $4 to $5 per dozen but the stock offered is nothing to speak of and it is a question whether there are 100 perfect flowers to be found in the market on any one day. Roses in general are plentiful and obtainable at very reasonable prices. Mrs. Chas. Russell roses are in good supply but are not selling as well as they might and very fancy stock is obtainable at very reasonable prices. Roses in general are plentiful and there are enough of nearly every variety to fill all the orders that are booked. Some especially fine Richmond and Mrs. Aaron Ward are to be had, but taken as a whole the quality of all the roses is unusually good. Sweet peas are in large supply and choice stock is obtainable at prices ranging from 75c to $1.50 per 100. Tulips are not as plentiful as they have been but a good supply of freesias, daffodils, jonquils and Romans are still included in the shipments. Lilies are arriving in larger quantities and a good supply of fancy callas are being received. Violets are still plentiful but orchids, gardenias and lily of the valley are on the short side. Snapdragons, daisies, forget-me-nots, stocks, pansies, calendulas and mignonette are included in the offerings and are in good demand. Taken all in all business is better than anyone expected it would be and none of the wholesalers complain of dull times. The retail florists have been none too busy but trade is improving with them and they no doubt will have their inning soon. Many of them are featuring blooming plants in their window displays and from present indications it appears as if there will be plenty of stock in this line for Easter with the exception of bulbous stock which will be very scarce. One of the large growers says that carnations will be scarce for Easter, which will have quite a bearing on the market conditions.

NOTES.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are enjoying a splendid city as well as out-of-town business and it seems like old times to see the proprietor back on the job. Mr. Vaughan said that it felt pretty nice to wander about the old home plantation again down in Mississippi, which he visited while away on his southern trip a few weeks ago. The old colored mammy who looked after him when he was a youngster is still with the folks and who by the way is now 102 years old.

2,000,000 Feet of Modern Glass

Poehlmann Bros. Co. received a carload of boxwoods this week and are much pleased with the condition of the stock for it is all that can be desired. The demand for young rose stock and chrysanthemum plants is keeping up surprisingly well and the stock that they are offering is deserving of immediate buyers. The outlook for a brisk Easter trade in the plant department is very bright and they are fortunate in having a large supply of the desired stocks on hand to fill their orders with. August Poehlmann, who has been on the job early and late each day at the greenhouses, will attend the Fourth National Flower Show at Philadelphia.

C. L. Washburn and wife will leave for California March 24 and expect to be back home about April 6. Bassett & Washburn will have an exhibit of their new carnation, Belle Washburn, at the Fourth National Flower Show in Philadelphia, Pa., next week, which will give a good account of itself as it did at every other place where it was shown in the past. Ground has been broken at Gregg's Station for their Foley houses, consisting of 150,000 feet of glass.

Peter Reinberg has had a good call for stock all this week, especially carnations, which are none too plentiful and are bringing high prices. Emil Reichling, superintendent of the Reinberg greenhouses, leaves this week to attend the National Flower Show at Philadelphia, Pa., and the spring show at New York.

O. A. & L. A. Tonner are showing a fancy grade of sweet peas and stocks which they are receiving in large quantities in addition to a nice supply of roses, carnations and other seasonable stock.

M. C. Gunterberg is making arrangements to take on a few more sweet pea growers so as to have enough stock to replace the violets when the season is over.

The Chicago Flower Growers' Association is handling about as fine a grade of calla lilies as one ever had the pleasure to look upon.

Weiland & Risch are cutting from a nice crop of Mrs. Moorfield Storey roses which is one of the most popular sellers.

The Golden Floral Co. opened a wholesale store at 173 North Wabash avenue on the second floor under the management of J. M. Lampert, a son of J. J. Lampert, of Xenia, O. This concern handles nothing but out-door flowers grown in the vicinity of Los Angeles, Calif., and receives two shipments a week, one on Sunday and the other on Wednesday.

Wietor Bros. are cutting a good supply of American Beauty roses in the longer stemmed grades which clean up readily at prices ranging from $3 to $5 per dozen. N. J. Wietor says that trade was very good the past week and that carnations especially were in brisk demand. He expects that they will be in short supply for Easter.

Percy Jones moved his office to the southeast end of his store this week which is much more convenient, and greatly improves the general appearance of Manager Van Gelder's ever-growing wholesale establishment. This firm is handling a large quantity of choice carnations which are in good demand and clean up well each day.

John Prochazka has placed an order with the John C. Moninger Co. for three new greenhouses, 40x250 feet, to be erected at his new place in Niles Centre. Mr. Prochazka is operating the range of houses in Rogers Park that he bought from Adam Zender several years ago but they will be torn down in the near future.

Chas. Erne, of Erne & Klingel, was discharged from the hospital Saturday, March 18, where he was confined for the past five weeks following an operation for rupture. He visited the store this week and it is needless to add his many friends are pleased to see him around again.

The George Witthold Co. is on deck as usual this year with a large quantity of Easter plants and are now booking orders for same. The retail department has been unusually busy with funeral work and store openings and trade so far during Lent has been surprisingly good.

James Forbes, with Martin Forbes & Co., Portland, Ore., passed through here this week on his way to the east, where he will attend the Fourth National Flower Show at Philadelphia, Pa., March 25-April 2 and the flower show at New York, April 5-12.

MARKET CLEANS UP DAILY.

The supply of stock on the market during the past week has been plentiful and prices have dropped in some lines, but the demand has been good and the supply cleans up daily. Funeral work continues in the lead and there are a number of orders for decorations being booked. Bulbous stock is coming in fast, but meets with a good demand. Most of the florists are displaying it attractively and a daily clean up generally is the result. Sweet peas and lilies are also seen in quantity.

NOTES.

The Alpha Floral Co. keeps its force stepping fast to keep up with orders, business being very brisk both local and out-of-town. The demand for funeral work has been heavy at this establishment and the night force is kept busy getting out the train orders and preparing for the next day.

H. Kusik & Co. report good business conditions. This firm is working hard to try and catch up with their orders for wire work, the demand being so heavy that they are sometimes weeks behind.

W. J. Barnes is cutting an immense quantity of bulbous stock, the demand for which is very heavy at present. Pot plants sell especially well. Funeral work has been heavy during the past week.

T. J. Noll & Co. report a good shipping trade. They are handling a good stock of roses, carnations, sweet peas and violets, among other items, and the stock cleans up daily.

Wm. L. Rock Flower Co. is cutting about 4,000 carnations and 2,000 roses daily. Pot plants are good sellers here and Butterfly sweet peas are a feature.

August Luther reports good business in pot plants. He supplied 400 ferns for the decorations at the Jones department store last week.

The Peterson Floral Co. has been busy with orders for funerals and decorations. They report a steady increase in business.

Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. reports business good in all departments. Stock from the greenhouses is coming in nicely.

Samuel Murray and Wm. L. Rock will attend the Fourth National Flower Show at Philadelphia. Both will act as judges.

Arthur Newell reports trade first-class. He has a good call for pot plants, basket arrangements and cut flowers.

Chas. Biedermann & Son report a good increase in sales. Stock in their houses is looking in prime condition.

J. Austin reports stock at his range is coming along fine. He has been very busy with funeral work.

A. F. Barbe has started his new range. He reports good business.

AMPLE SUPPLY WITH GENEROUS DEMAND.

The demand during the past few weeks has kept up remarkably well, and while stock has not been over-plentiful, it has been sufficient to meet a healthy call. St. Patrick's day business this year was somewhat better than that of a year ago, notwithstanding the fact that white carnations were in short supply, not enough being obtainable to meet the requirements. There was also a shortage of green dye on the local market. Sweet peas are rather plentiful, but are moving well at reduced prices. There is not much call for violets, the weather being too cold for corsages. Funeral work is plentiful and keeps the market cleaned up on short roses and bulbous stock. Lily of the valley is better than it has been for some time past. Easter and calla lilies clean up daily, and orchids, both Cattleya Trianae and Schroederae, are in good supply and sell well. A large funeral during the past week created a demand for large numbers of violets, lily of the valley and long American Beauties. A few daisies, snapdragons, ageratums and calendulas arrive, but the supply is very limited. Bulbous stock, while in demand, and the quality is exceptionally good supply, meets with a good demand. Paper White narcissi are scarce. Asparagus plumosus and Sprengeri have also been short of the demand. Ferns are arriving in better supply. A few long stemmed American Beauties are being received; also some very good Rhea Reid, Ward and White and Pink Killarney roses.

NOTES.

The Cleveland Florists' Glee Club had their first meeting last week at "Doc. Cook's" house on East Seventy-fifth street near Hough avenue. Eleven embryo artists showed up and went through the preliminary work, and some very good talent was discovered among the boys. It is hoped the next time more will come and make this glee club one of the big features of the florists' club. Meetings are to be held once a week. Notices will be sent by mail, or call Frank Ritzenthaler, at Knoble Bros., for any information. The cost is nominal and a good instructor, with years of experience in vocal instruction, has been engaged. Also come to the florists' club meetings. SATISFACTORY SALES AT GOOD PRICES.

The supply of stock is more plentiful with the exception of tulips. Roses have taken a drop in price. Good home grown violets are in good supply and carnations are holding up in price. Paper Whites have gone and left a record, having produced the best results for growers ever known, prices having ranged from three cents to five cents, with an average of four cents all through the winter. St. Patrick's day brought forth good business and flowers of all kinds cleaned up well at good prices.

schedule. Rice Bros. team won 17 games in the series. A banquet followed the close of the series which ended March 16.

A large number of the florists of this city accompanied by their ladies attended the dance given by the St. Paul Florists' Club. All who attended enjoyed the dancing and the supper served by the St. Paul hostesses was a treat in itself.

H. B. Whitted had a novel St. Patrick's day window that blocked traffic in front of the shop. It contained a figure of a native of "the old sod" with his dog, reclining on a settee and smoking his pipe of clay.

The meeting of the florists' club at the Nicolett hotel March 14 was well attended, but owing to the amount of business on hand the essay of Max Kaiser was postponed until the next meeting.

O. E. Amundson has been busy meeting various civic committees in the campaign to clean the sidewalks of all obstructions, which will result if the present city ordinances are enforced.

Louis Dancik, of the Northwestern Wire Works, is circulating a petition to the health commissioners to stop the sale of cemetery work.

C. S. Ford made a short call on the trade, being called back to attend the Philadelphia show.

BUSINESS OUTLOOK ENCOURAGING.

After a week of unusually cold weather, the outlook is that milder weather may be looked for from now on. The cold snap effected a slight shortage in the local market, but not to any marked degree. Prices have remained normal, however, but of late have shown a slight decline. Some exceptionally heavy snow storms have hampered shipping facilities to a great extent, many trains arriving in Pittsburgh as much as 12 hours late, frozen shipments also having been received in many cases. The retailers' reports of business are very encouraging, which, of course, has a like effect on the wholesalers' end.

NOTES.

The Ludwig Floral Co. executed a handsome piece of work in a replica of the seal of Pittsburgh made entirely of immortelles, for the celebration of the centennial of the incorporation of the city of Pittsburgh, which was celebrated March 18.

The engagement of De Forest W. Ludwig, son of E. C. Ludwig, to Miss Irene Kalbaugh Collins of Meyersdale, Pa., is announced. The wedding will probably take place during the summer.

Albert Niggel announces a banner business for his first two weeks in his new Allegheny Market location, running strong on decorative and artificial work.

The McCallum Company will soon begin work on an addition of two new houses 40x300 feet each, which will be devoted entirely to roses.

H. J. Kreuger, of Meadville, is planning on adding two 150 foot houses to his range this spring.

Randolph & McClements have added a new auto truck to their delivery fleet.

GOOD LENTEN DEMAND.

The demand for stock is steady and active and has brought about a good Lenten market. Nearly everything is selling at fair prices. The supply has shortened somewhat. Rose receipts are about equal to the demand. Carnations are rather short and at the time of this writing, many more would find a ready sale. The Easter lily cut has shortened greatly. With the exception of daffodils and jonquils, bulbous stock is not very plentiful. The demand for lily of the valley varies; one day it is good and the next day poor and depends largely upon the supply of other stock and the general demand therefor. Other offerings include orchids, violets, sweet peas, callas, rubrums, snapdragons and forget-me-nots. Smilax is not very plentiful.

NOTES.

Jos. Goldman, of Middletown, O., furnished a large amount of the cut flowers for the Alms & Doepke opening last week.

Wm. Gardner, of Richmond, Ind., has been shipping an excellent lot of roses and carnations to C. E. Critchell.

Gus Adrian has had a good call for his bulbous stock all season and now is nearly cleaned out. H.

LOWELL, MASS.—John S. Haynes, florist, has been awarded the contract for supplying the flowers and shrubs required for Larcom park.

St. Louis.

WEATHER AFFECTS MARKET.

The weather, during the past week, has had its effect on the supply of sweet peas and violets, and it can be said that the market has not been overstocked with flowers. Roses are not plentiful, but white carnations filled the demand for St. Patrick's day, and the call kept the prices up. Southern jonquils are arriving in good supply and meet with a ready sale, the prices being reasonable.

NOTES.

Adolph Steidle, son of John Steidle, of Olivette, Mo., and an employe of the Scruggs-Vandevoort-Barney Co., met with a serious accident last week. While taking down a decoration he fell through a glass show case, but we are glad to report that he is recovering from his injuries.

H. G. Berning, the well-known wholesale florist, is featuring some exceptionally fine Russell and Killarney roses at his establishment on Pine street.

Mullanphy Florists, at their downtown store, arranged a very attractive St. Patrick's day window, a map of Ireland being designed in flowers.

C. Young & Sons Co. report a very busy week at their Olive street establishment. They are making preparations for a big spring business.

The Windler Wholesale Floral Co. has had a very busy week. Some fine spring stock is a feature at this establishment.

Several large dinners and St. Patrick's day parties helped sales last week.

The retail florists' association will hold its annual banquet March 20.

THE LEO NIESSEN CO., 1201-5 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Philadelphia.

LENTEN BUSINESS CONTINUES GOOD.

The Lenten days' demand continues to hold very well, the marketable stock being all taken at very good figures. St. Patrick's day was featured by several of the trade, but aside from a few timely novelties and the sale of shamrocks, it was not much of a factor. White carnations advanced in price on account of the demand of those who greened them for Paddy's day. All first class stock sold at $6. It seems that all popular stock is scarce and there is but little reduction in prices over those of a couple of weeks ago. Roses, as a rule, are fine. American Beauties are still very shy, it being difficult to get a dozen without placing an order a day or two ahead. White roses are also scarce, being used up daily as they arrive. Snapdragon is more in evidence, some very good stock being seen. Daffodils have been very good; they have sold up close nearly all the time, and Saturday night, March 18, found the market entirely cleaned up. Gardenias are quite plentiful, being seen in quantity with the street men for 10 cents each, and quite good stock it is. Violets are nearly out, although some cold frame stock is still offered. Sweet peas are as popular as ever. Some splendid orchid-flowering sorts are seen, notably Yarrowa, which is a large flower on a remarkable stem. Now that the sun is growing stronger the dropping of buds will cease and the market will soon be stocked with a brilliant range of colors and splendid flowers. Easter lilies are very good; they appear to sell at sight at $15, a corking good price for the season.

THE FLOWER SHOW.

All eyes are now turned toward this great exhibition, as the time is almost here for the opening. Every preparation has been made to insure success from an artistic standpoint, while the display of well-grown plants from the greenhouses and conservatories of the private estates of this neighborhood, which have been prize winners at both the Boston and New York shows, will quite exceed any former exhibition. The Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C., will display a very large collection of orchid sweet peas in tubs, great vines fairly loaded with flowers; they will be a great feature. Thos. Roland's acacias, the beauty spots of the former Boston and New York shows, will be a revelation to those who see them for the first time. As they say of the circus features, "They alone will be worth the price of admission." Then there are the rose gardens and hundreds of other wonderful things. Twenty thousand trade tickets have already been sold—a splendid nucleus to build on. George Asmus and John Young arrived March 14 and will be on the job until the great show is over. E. J. Fancourt, who has just returned from a trip through the west, found unbounded enthusiasm. He reports quite large delegations coming from all the large cities, even as far west as the Pacific coast. The banquet to be tendered to the visitors will be the greatest event of its kind ever given in this country; Horticultural hall will be taxed to its utmost to accommodate the local club and their guests.

NOTES.

Alphonse Pericat, of Collingdale, whose specialty is orchids, met with a disastrous loss by fire March 16, which started in his shed over the boilers and which connected a range of six houses. These were more than half destroyed and as the night was bitter cold, the thermometer registering ten above zero, nearly all the stock of thousands of valuable orchid plants were a total loss. The fire was finally put out by the local fire company. Mr. Pericat estimates his loss at about $25,000, on which there is a small insurance. He will rebuild and restock the new houses as quickly as possible. One large house, heated by another boiler, escaped the flames and some of the stock of the other houses was saved by being removed there. Mr. Pericat has the sympathy of the entire trade in his great loss.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., will exhibit about 2,000 roses in pots at the flower show. Most of them hybrid teas of well known sorts, as well as many of the new varieties. All have been disbudded to get large flowers. There will also be an exhibit of all the climbers. Robt. Craig, who has seen the collection, says such a well flowered lot of plants has never been seen before in this country.

F. A. Steinhoff has been compelled to give up his cut flower and plant business in the Snellenberg department store, which was opened under such favorable auspices a year ago last fall. To the trade it looks as if the store company desired the business for themselves, with the result that Mr. Steinhoff has to look elsewhere to continue his business activities.

The Leo Niessen Co. is featuring American Beauties, as their new crops are reported in sight. The spring American Beauties are a very prolific crop, and in the full cutting this company has them to burn. Spencer sweet peas are also seen in quantity.

Edward Reid is busy canvassing Lansdowne, in the interest of the great banquet. He is meeting with good success. Business, he reports, is very good for Lent. Mock roses are a feature here.

Zero weather on March 18 is a record for this "neck of the woods." This is what Charley Hartley's glass registered at 6 a. m. on that day. Others made it 4°, 6° and 8° above.

G. A. Leins has purchased the business of Albert Maurer, 2016 Columbia avenue, and will conduct it on the same lines as his store at Twenty-ninth street and Girard avenue.

Berger Bros. are featuring spring flowers. Orchid sweet peas, Easter and calla lilies and choice roses are staples at this time.

SUPPLY EXCEEDS DEMAND.

The business of the past week was rather quiet; arrivals were not heavy, but there was more than enough stock to supply the demand. On account of St. Patrick's day, there was quite a flurry in carnations, there being sales at the rate of $4, $5 and even $6 per 100, but by March 18 there was something of a surplus. The weather has been cold, with high winds, such as raze the greenhouses and reduce the supply of stock. On March 18 some stock reached the wholesale district in a frozen condition. A man, who has lived near the Hackensack river for forty years says that he can recall no previous corresponding date when there was so much ice in that river, and it is agreed that it takes cold weather to freeze the mixture of chemicals that compose the Hackensack river. Returning to the supply of stock, American Beauty roses are more plentiful and the top price is at the rate of $50 per 100, but many sell for less. Nearly all the growers seem to be sending in sweet peas, and there is a pronounced surplus. The old fashioned sweet peas are down and out. Even the finest orchid flowered stock is hard to move. It may be presumed that a week of warmer weather will greatly increase the supply of all stocks, and that prices, which have hitherto held up fairly well, will take quite a drop.

March 20.—The weather is fair and more moderate and buying is fairly active in the wholesale district. The supply of stock in roses and carnations is not heavy. Orchids and gardenias, which moved freely two weeks ago, are now very slow. It is next to impossible to move violets, the street men having a monopoly of that branch of the business. There are so many fine orchid flowered sweet peas about that the short stock has little chance. There is a moderate movement in lilies, lily of the valley, tulips and narcissi.

NEW YORK DAY AT PHILADELPHIA SHOW.

All aboard for the Fourth National Flower Show, Philadelphia!

That is the slogan being sounded by the New York Florists—and all the other florists within 100 miles of New York. Tuesday, March 28, is the date on which this great aggregation of celebrities will entrain for the Quaker City, and you may guess that there will be some doings. After carefully studying the dictionary, we concluded that "celebrities" was the best word to use and we are going to prove it. There will be President Weston of the New York Florists' Club and this grand array of ex-presidents of that club: Alex. S. Burns, W. A. Mandan, Patrick O'Mara, Walter F. Sheridan, Frank H. Traendly, Chas. H. Totty, A. L. Miller, Joseph A. Mandan, John B. Nugent, W. H. Siebrecht, Sr., and Harry A. Bunyard. Patrick O'Mara and Frank H. Traendly have already been worthy presidents of the Society of American Florists, and writing confidentially, we could pick out several others who would worthily wear the ermine, mantle or whatever it may be called, but as there is to be no politics in this, we are not booming our favorite sons. M. A. Bowe, president of the Associated Retail Florists; G. E. M. Stumpp, Max Schling, A. Kottmiller, Andrew Scott and many other retailers, all good men, will join the party. Then, there is the Greek-American Florists' Association, composed of as good looking and well behaved company of men as can be found in the business. Such veteran Greek florists as George D. Nicholas, D. J. Pappas, Theodore Malandre, N. Christatos, Costos Sakelos and the Tryforos brothers are expected to join the party. It has been a good winter and everybody can afford to take a day off, so we predict that after 10 a. m., March 28, the office boys will advise callers that: "Everybody gone ter Philadelphia."

NOTES.

J. F. Bradshaw, a florist of Wallace, North Carolina, visited this city during the past week. He is a clever and able man and made a fine impression on the trade he visited in this city. We hope to see him again. North Carolina is a state that possesses many of the most tried and true Americans and North Carolina will be written large in future history.

It now turns out that it was Frank H. Traendly who originated the idea of the alumni dinner of the ex-presidents of the florists' club. The genial Frank is quite a busy thinker.

The Orpheum Floral Studio is the name of a new retail store just opened at 578 Fulton street, Brooklyn, under the management of Louis Michel. It is in the Orpheum Theatre building.

Malandre Brothers, 2077 Broadway, are showing very fine stock in bougainvilleas, azaleas, rhododendrons and other plants. This firm is doing a fine business.

Thomas F. Galvin, of Boston, has been spending some time at his New York store. He reports a good season's business at his Boston stores.

We understand that the damage from the recent fire in Reed & Keller's factory has been repaired and that they are again occupying it.

At Gunther Brothers, 112 West 28th street, we have recently noticed fine lily of the valley from the Dale estate, Brampton, Ont.

Charles A. Dards sailed from San Francisco for Japan, March 4. It is expected that he will be absent about four months.

J. H. Small & Sons announce that May 1 they will remove to 505 Madison avenue, at 52d street.

Moore, Hentz & Nash are handling particularly fine stock of the rose, Killarney Queen.

TRADE SHOWS INCREASE.

Business during the past week has been good. Floral work continues heavy and there is an increased demand for cut flowers. Carnations have been rather short, but the supply is steadily increasing and the demand is keeping pace. Sweet peas are of good quality and the call for them is good. Daffodils are arriving in good supply, as are poeticus, but the call is moderate. Bulbous stock will be very good in quality for the Easter trade and the supply will be about normal.

NOTES.

H. A. Burlingame has some of the finest violets that have been seen here this year, but as the violet trade is not as good in this locality as it has been in former years, he is shipping most of them to the New York markets, where they are in demand at good prices.

Macrae's carnations are in splendid condition and he finds the demand equal to his cuts.

Barker, of Warren, R. I., is sending some very good violets to this city.

BIG DEMAND FOR BULBOUS PLANTS.

The Lenten season, devoid as it is of many social functions, is nevertheless a busy time this year with the florists. Bulbous flowering plants were probably never before so popular and great quantities of them are being sold, and so great is this demand that some of the growers fear that there will not be a sufficient supply for Easter, in which case Easter lilies will be drawn upon heavily, and of these it is reported, a large and splendid stock will be ready. In cut flowers, at present, sweet peas are the more prominent—good stock and thousands of them—but chiefly disposed of on bargain days at 25 cents per bunch and yielding about half that amount to the growers. Roses are more plentiful and of excellent quality and the prices are holding up accordingly, as no surplus is yet seen on the wholesale markets. Carnations have improved in quality, and the quantity is all that is needed for the demand on this item has certainly suffered in comparison with its former popularity. St. Patrick's day brought a good demand for the green carnations, but it is doubtful if the present and past popularity of them will in the future be maintained, as indications to that end were plainly visible this year.

NOTES.

A letter received from A. Vinson, Cleveland, O., proposing an outside exhibition here in June, was discussed at considerable length, but no decided action taken. A representative of the Lehigh Valley R. R. was present and offered transportation over that line from here to Philadelphia for the Fourth National Flower Show at a rate of $14.01 each for a party of ten or more. It developed that about twelve will attend from here, among them being Philip Breitmeyer, Albert Pochelon, Henry Rahaley, Michael Bloy, Joseph Streit, E. A. Feters, Frank Holznaple, John Warneke, of Woodmore, and school inspector of that district, gave an interesting talk upon the duties of his office and civic affairs in general and was much applauded for his keen interest shown in his honest policy in the administration of city duties. It was announced at the meeting that the Saginaw Florists' Club was that evening organizing a state horticultural society designed to be an amalgamation of the different florist clubs under state officers, and this club being in harmony with the idea sent a telegram to that effect to the Saginaw meeting. Jacob Baumann, a well known dahlia grower, was elected to membership in the club.

The club meeting, March 14, was well attended and an interesting programme deferred the bowling games fully an hour later than usual. At the meeting Wm. Dilger submitted his plans for a new horticultural building that it is proposed to build this year at the Michigan state fair grounds. These received the hearty approval of the members who were requested by the fair management to pass upon them, after which the directors of the fair will consider them and probably erect a building in time for this year's exhibit in September. MARKET SHOWS IMPROVEMENT.

Trade is good, with honors divided about equally between cut flowers and pot plants. With the former, carnations are the feature of stock that is most scarce. A few weeks ago they were over-abundant, and a drag at 50 cents a dozen. They now bring 75 cents. Sweet peas are also in short supply. Cuttings of roses are adequate, prices ranging from $1.50 to $4 per dozen, taking varieties as a whole. In pot plants the cineraria is one of the latest attractions of florists' shops. The spiraea is also beginning to come in and both are meeting with good sale. Daffodils are so plentiful that one leading florist found it expedient to put on a Saturday bargain sale at 40 cents a dozen or three dozen for $1, which resulted in the moving of 250 dozen. Ferns of the Boston and Whitman varieties, are being profusely displayed and there is active buying. The St. Patrick's day sale of green carnations, green tulips, jonquils and other flowers was quite satisfactory.

NOTES.

H. Holbrook, architect, is preparing plans for three greenhouses and other buildings, to form the working plant of S. S. Myers, of Chicago, who, it is stated, is moving his nursery, flower and seed business from that city to Columbus. The location is on East Main street. The greenhouses are to

A funeral design costing $90 was furnished by T. J. Ludwig on the order of the Ritter Lumber Company, incident to the death of a member of one of the officers' family. Mr. Ludwig has leased basement space beneath his new store, to be used as a work room, thus relieving the demand for display room in the store proper.

The Livingston Seed Company is pushing with great success a two-piece flower bowl made in the neighboring city of Zanesville. It comes in blue, black, ivory and carnelian green, and has a device for feeding the water to the stems of the flowers gradually.

S. F. Stephens & Son were the only florists doing any special advertising for St. Patrick's day. J.

J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y., President; Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., First Vice-President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fourth annual convention, Chicago, June 20-22, 1916.

J. C. Vaughan, Chicago, left for the east March 22.

A. H. GOODWIN of the W. W. Barnard Co., Chicago, leaves this week for Norwich, N. Y.

LINCOLN, NEB.—Creditors of the Griswold Seed Co., it is reported, will be paid a dividend of five per cent.

ALOIS FREY, of Crown Point, Ind., writing from Los Angeles, Calif., March 15, says his stocks of colored freesias are doing fine.

THE mail trade through January, and February, according to John Lewis Childs, of Floral Park, N. Y., has been about the same as last year's.

RESOLUTIONS on the tragic death of Mrs. Matthew Crawford, of Cuyahoga Falls, O., have been adopted by the Ohio Gladiolus Society, of which she was a charter member. Mrs. Crawford was killed by an interurban car in her home town, March 2.

"I CAN find nothing about Preparedness in 'A Victorian Anthology', Ayer's Newspaper Directory, Whitaker's Almanac, and Vaughan's Seed Catalogue," said the editorial writer, after an hour in the newspaper's reference library.—Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO.—Mail order seed trade, which has been slow, picked up considerably this week. Counter trade is still very slow for the time of year. The ground is still frozen here, with considerable snow March 22. Onion sets are in demand, yellows around $2, whites scarce around $3.50 or better.

CAPT. BURNETT LANDRETH, the veteran seed grower of Bristol, Pa., was active chief of horticulture at the Philadelphia centennial exposition in 1872 and is still closely identified with trade affairs, being among those who attended the non-warranty meeting of the American Seed Trade Association, held at Chicago during the week of February 27, which it will be recalled, was prompted by the article on "Non-Warranty and the Wisconsin Seed Law" in our issue of February 26.

SHENANDOAH, IA.—Henry Field, writing March 20, says of the mail trade: "Week ending March 18, 12,200 orders, against same week last year, 8,230. Average size of order, about $3.20, which is approximately 5 per cent above size at the same time last year. Increase in number of orders over the same period last year about 50 per cent, increase in volume a little more. This is all retail mail order, as we have no counter trade and do not sell to agents and dealers. Trade seems well balanced in all departments. The increase is all along the line. Pay roll for last week shows 178 people, amounting to $1,728.92. The high point on orders is evidently not yet reached, for this week is starting off heavier than last. We look for the peak week about the second week in April."

SHEBOYGAN, WIS.—The J. H. Allan Seed Co. has been awarded a gold medal by the United States department of agriculture for an exhibit of 42 varieties of seed peas at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

THE Nungesser-Dickinson Seed Co. in a recent circular says: "Transportation facilities from New York are always the best, but we again call special attention to the unusual delays now on account of congestion of freight all over the country, and recommend the placing of all orders as early as possible this spring."

Catalogue Postage Bill.

Referring to H. R. 11621, a bill introduced in the house of representatives to provide for the mailing of catalogues, circulars, etc., a copy of which appeared in our issue of March 4, page 346, Chairman Therkildson, of the American Seed Trade Association's postal laws committee, writes as follows, March 15:

"Senator Bankhead has introduced in the senate postoffice and post roads committee, Senate bill 4997, which is an adjusted form of H. R. 11621. Edward Dungan of Wm. Henry Maule & Co. and myself had a conference with several senators and representatives; also with Messrs. Koons, Woods and Dockery of the postoffice department, and Senate bill 4997 has their endorsement as far as its introduction is concerned. It will of course have to be referred to them again for their approval before it can get by. It may never become a law, but we can at least try to secure its passage, and I am assured by Mr. Koons that the postoffice division is not only willing, but anxious, to do all that is possible for the various catalogue makers."

Sorghum Classification Changed.

President Johns of the Western Seedsmen's Association has addressed the following to members of that body: "Through the aid of the traffic bureau, I have succeeded in having the western classification on sorghum in less than carlots changed from 3rd to 4th class. This is effective March 15. I took this up in the interest of the Iowa Seed Dealers' Association, but felt that those who have honored me with the office of president so long were entitled to the information. I would suggest your traffic department advise the railroads at once regarding it as our experience is that railroads are slow in getting on to the reduced rates."

Railroads Lift Embargoes.

In an effort to secure prompt shipment of seeds from growers, wholesalers and jobbers, to New England points, Curtis Nye Smith, counsel for the American Seed Trade Association, has been successful in securing the lifting of embargoes on such shipments. The Pennsylvania Lines and the New York, New Haven & Hartford R. R. were among the roads having embargoes in effect but both of these have, however, issued a special order lifting such embargoes, so that all seed supplies can now be forwarded to New England points. It must be recognized that the railroads are operating under a very heavy strain, for reasons well known, and their willingness to recognize the seedsmen's contentions deserves appreciation.

Delay of Mail.

We have been advised by McHutchison & Co., New York, well known importers of horticultural goods from Holland, that they are making strenuous efforts to have the embargo lifted from the mails, in order that their invoices may reach New York with the goods. They have interested the American Association of Nurserymen, the Merchants' Association of New York, the MacNiff Horticultural Co., Wm. F. Gude, the Washington representative of the Society of American Florists, and many others.

San Francisco Group Picture.

Lester L. Morse, of C. C. Morse & Co., San Francisco, Calif., writes as follows March 13: "I have four panorama views of the visitors at the convention of the American Seed Trade Association which was taken in front of the Palace of Horticulture last June at the exposition. Would be glad to give these to anyone who might want them. I ordered several copies and have these left. They are free for the asking and I will be glad to mail them to anyone who writes me for them."

Parcel Post Marketing.

The farmer who wishes to sell his products by parcel post, and the housewife who wishes to use this method of securing country produce for her table, will find many useful points in Farmers' Bulletin 703, "Suggestions for Parcel Post Marketing," published by the United States department of agriculture. This bulletin in addition to explaining the postal rates and measurement limits for parcel post matter, discusses in some detail the types of containers which are most successful and the methods of grading and packing produce, so that it will reach the consumer in good condition, and be attractive in quality and appearance. In treating standards for parcel post shipments, the bulletin tells how to select, handle and pack poultry, and how to grade and pack the various fruits and vegetables which the average farmer is likely to market through the post office.

The bulletin points out that one of the common obstacles to establishing parcel post communication between farmer and consumer is that the farmer may be unwilling to offer goods at a price which attracts the customer, or that the consumer may offer a price lower than the farmer can obtain at a local market. To quote the bulletin:

"Not only must the farmer have something additional to the usual price to compensate him for the extra work, container, and postage required, but the consumer must also have something to attract him to marketing by parcel post. In determining what the price shall be, both the farm price and the retail price paid by the consumer when he markets in the ordinary way should be taken into consideration. The consumer must receive either a better article at the usual retail price or an article of the grade usually purchased at some concession in price.

"It is probable that the point which will make the strongest appeal to the average consumer is that he can secure by parcel post a fresher, brighter, more attractive, and thus possibly a better product than he can obtain otherwise.

"The average producer, as a rule, does not realize the importance of appearance as a factor in selling goods and frequently is careless and indifferent in preparing produce for market. The consumer, on the other hand, relies very largely upon appearance in selecting food supplies, and unattractive articles are passed by promptly.

"A personal acquaintance should be established between producer and consumer, when they come into business contact. This will help a great deal in furthering parcel post marketing, and also will eliminate many of the misunderstandings which may occur from time to time. A definite understanding should exist as to the duties of each in regard to remittances, claims for damaged or spoiled produce, and the preservation and return of containers."

Massachusetts Agricultural College.

Twelve of the students in floriculture, accompanied by Professor Nehrling and A. S. Thurston, recently made the annual observation trip to Boston and vicinity. Three days were spent in visiting the various commercial ranges, private estates, stores and markets. At all places the party was received courteously and cordially, and consequently the trip could not help but be inspirational as well as educational. Due to inconveniences caused by a heavy fall of snow the party was unable to visit all the places which they had planned to visit. The following places were visited: Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick; J. T. Butterworth, Framingham; S. J. Goddard, Framingham; Faulkner Farm (W. N. Craig), Brookline; Weld Garden (Duncan Finlayson), Brookline; William Sim, Cliftondale; Thomas Roland, Revere and Nahant; Boston Cut-Flower Exchange, Boston Cooperative Flower Market, Harry M. Robinson & Co., Welch Brothers, Thomas F. Galvin, Penn, the Florist, and P. L. Carbone, Boston.

The series of floricultural lectures held at the college in conjunction with the Farmers' week programme proved to be the most interesting ever scheduled. The programme of lectures began on Tuesday afternoon with a talk by F. E. Palmer of Brookline on "Selection and Care of House Plants"; the subject was handled in an interesting and professional way, the information being a result of years of experience with householders and their plants. Following this subject was a lecture by Professor F. A. Waugh of M. A. C. on "Fashions in Plants," in which he spoke of the historical side of gardening and the changes which took place from time to time in the use of garden plants. The programme for the afternoon was concluded with a talk on "Plant Propagation" by H. E. Downer of Smith College botanical gardens, Northampton; the subject was well handled in a technical way, and in it were brought out many personal experiences in handling the various plants. The programme was continued on Wednesday, the opening talk being given by Maurice Fuld of New York, on the subject of "Commercial Possibilities of Herbaceous Perennials," in which he spoke of the business side of propagating and selling the stock. The next subject was "Minor Crops of the Florist," by G. H. Sinclair of Holyoke, and which proved to be exceedingly instructive, the information and suggestions resulting from years of personal experience. Following this hour Dr. P. J. Anderson of M. A. C. gave an instructive talk on "Diseases of Floricultural Plants." In the afternoon Robert Pyle of Conard & Jones Co., West Grove, Pa., gave a fine lecture on "Roses at Home and Abroad," the lecture being illustrated by many fine lantern slides. The programme was concluded by a "Question Box," which was conducted by Professor Nehrling of M. A. C., many of the speakers remaining to assist in answering the questions.

A good attendance was recorded for the lectures, considering the fact that at that time the country was hit by one of the worst snow storms for years, and consequently tying up the car service. In addition to the lectures the department had an educational exhibit in the building and a display of spring-flowering plants in the greenhouses, both of which attracted considerable attention. At the request of the students, Maurice Fuld gave a special lecture in which he spoke of business methods and how to interest the public.

RESULTS ARE WHAT COUNT

BELLE WASHBURN won the silver medal of the Society of American Florists' at the 1915 Buffalo, N. Y., Exhibition, and again won the Society of American Florists' silver medal and American Carnation Society's silver medal at the St. Louis, Mo., Exhibition, January 26-27, 1916. This is the only variety that ever won the Society of American Florists' silver medal two years in succession, which is worth considering when buying new varieties. Results count—order accordingly.

THE BEST RED CARNATION

per 100; $100.00 per 1000; 500 at the 1000 rate.

The color is the most brilliant red of any carnation on the market. The size of the flower is 3 to 3½ inches, with stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. The calyx never bursts and all flowers grade first. Best of all it is a steady and constant bloomer giving just as many flowers as the Enchantress of which it is a seedling. We have 30,000 plants now benched in our greenhouses of which 18,000 are devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. At our Pacific Coast Branch at Hollywood, Calif., we have 1500 plants devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. Orders from the far west can be sent direct to our Mr. E. B. Washburn, 252 South Orange Grove Avenue, Pasadena, Calif., who will give them his personal attention. An inspection of our greenhouses either at Hollywood, Calif., or Hinsdale, Ill., is invited.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia., President;
John Watson, Newark, N. Y., Vice-President;
John Hall, 204 Granite bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.
Forty-first annual convention will be held at Milwaukee, Wis., June, 1916

SILVERHILL, ALA.—The Winberg-Branden Orchard & Nursery Co. has been incorporated with a capital stock of $20,000, of which $10,000 is paid in.

FLINT, MICH.—Lyman T. Curtis, pioneer nurseryman and founder of the firm of L. T. Curtis & Sons, died at his home in this city, March 3, aged 73 years.

SPRINGFIELD, O.—Mark Aukman has purchased four acres of land here and will establish a nursery, making a specialty of plants and shrubs for landscape gardening.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—E. W. Reid of Holm & Olson's nursery department has one of his sons at the Illinois State University, taking the landscape and general horticultural course.

WHEN in need of stock or supplies of any kind in a hurry it will be a great advantage to have a copy of the latest edition of our Trade Directory at hand for names and addresses. The price of the latest (1915) edition is $3 per copy, postpaid.

American Association of Nurserymen.

Preparations for the forty-first annual convention of the American Association of Nurserymen, scheduled to be held at Milwaukee, Wis., June 28-30, 1916, are going forward apace, and give promise that the meeting will be one of the best in the association's history. The arrangement of a programme of unusual interest has been placed in the hands of Lloyd C. Stark, whose experience and large acquaintance furnish a guarantee of a programme of quality, the result of the thoroughness which characterizes his undertakings. While there has been a sentiment against spending too much time for social features, provision will be made for a visit to the parks, and an auto trip over the good roads in Milwaukee county has been arranged. All local arrangements are in charge of T. J. Ferguson.

The space arranged for the exhibits is more than ample. Intending exhibitors, embracing nurserymen, lithographers, manufacturers of implements, etc., should communicate with Albert F. Meehan, Dresher, Pa., secretary of the exhibit committee. In harmony with the constitutional provision a charge of five cents per square foot will be made for space in the exhibit section, with a minimum of 50 cents for each exhibitor.

Secretary John Hall, 204 Granite building, Rochester, N. Y., is making an earnest appeal to nurserymen, not already members of the association, to join the organization, attend the Milwaukee convention, and enjoy the manifold benefits that come through membership. He will be glad to supply any further information, either regarding membership or convention arrangements, upon request.

Catalogue Illustrations Eliminated.

The subjoined communication will doubtless be of interest to our readers: "By even mail, we are sending to you copy of our 1916 price-list. You will note that we have departed somewhat from the usual style of nursery catalogues. Aside from a few pages devoted to general instructions and special lists, the catalogue is an out-and-out price list of popular common names, sizes, and prices, and without illustrations. This catalogue is intended largely for those who know what they desire to purchase and are seeking information as to varieties, sizes, prices, etc., of what we have for sale, arranged in compact and convenient form for reference.

"The question is: Do any number of purchasers, particularly of nursery stock, who place substantial orders depend to any considerable extent on elaborate catalogue descriptions and illustrations of standard stock when placing their orders? Are they not more generally guided by what they have actually seen, have read about in current magazines and books, or recommended by friends?"

ELM CITY NURSERY CO.

Bridge Grafting Small Trees.

Bridge grafting, the use of scions or small limbs to connect the cambium above and below a large wound or girdle strap, may be practiced successfully on almost any kind of fruit tree that can be propagated readily by grafting, according to Farmers' Bulletin No. 710, recently issued by the United States department of agriculture. It is used more often with the apple than any other fruit, but pear trees are often treated in this way and there seems no reason why this method should not also be successful on plums and cherries. While seldom used on shade trees or other ornamentals, the author states that this method of grafting would probably prove successful in overcoming certain types of injuries to this class. To be effective, bridge grafting should be done in the spring before growth starts, although sometimes it can be done after this period if dormant scions for the purpose can be secured.

ROSES.YOU NEED THE BIG MONEY MAKER. CHAMP WEILAND.

In color the most exquisite pink ever seen in a rose. Here is a rose, Mr. Grower, that caused the critics to shake their heads, but it was an up-and-down nod instead of the doubtful negative shake.

DO YOU ASK WHY?

Because in this rose they found their ideal, in the qualities that tend to make a truly grand variety, namely, color, foliage, size, beauty and freedom of bloom.

Small wonder—for in this rose we find a color unequaled by any other "sport" creation of recent years. Take the tip—grow "Champ Weiland." Now ready, grafted plants, 100 for $35.00; 250 for $82.50; 500 for $150.00; 1000 for $300.00.

MRS. CHARLES RUSSELL.

We have an elegant stock of the above, and offer grafted plants at $14.00 per 100, $120.00 per 1000; own root, $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1000.

Tri-City Florists' Club.

The March meeting of the Tri-City Florists' Club was held at the residence of Ludwig Stapp, Rock Island, Ill., and there was a large attendance when President Harry Bills called the gathering to order. Following the regular order of business, the election of officers was held, which resulted as follows: Ludwig Stapp, Rock Island, president; C. J. Reardon, Davenport; H. Gaethje, Rock Island, and Wm. Knees, Jr., Moline, vice-presidents; Wm. Goos, Bettendorf, Ia., secretary; Arvid Anderson, Moline, financial secretary; Wm. Knees, Sr., Moline, treasurer; Ed. Patten, Harry Bills and W. C. Wilson, directors.

C. O. E. Boehm announced that the subject for discussion for the next meeting would be "Schizanthus Wisetonensis as a Commercial Plant." Members will also be asked to give their experiences with Verbena venosa. The next meeting will be held at the home of Wm. Knees, Sr., Thursday, April 13.

WM. GOOS, Sec'y.

Benjamin Hammond's Motto.

Some time ago Wm. G. Barrett, president of the Tri-State Supply Co., White Plains, N. Y., made a tour of inspection of the Hammond Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y., and some of the signs he saw there so impressed him that he later duplicated them in his own factory. One of the business maxims that impressed him especially was a sign painted in three-inch black letters on a wall at a turn of a stairway leading to the repair shop. "Waste Will Ruin Any Business."

There in five words was the explanation of the atmosphere of efficiency and wide-awakeness—the concern's watchword.

The avoidance of waste means the acquiring of profits not only for the employer, but the employee as well. That is the simple creed or part of it, that Benjamin Hammond put into his business, and on which the business certainly thrives.

Vegetable Dish Rags.

An interesting floral note is contributed by the Bellbrook correspondent of the Xenia Republican, who announces the vegetable dish-rag in its perfected state. Prominent floral scientists of Bellbrook have been experimenting along the line indicated for some little time and at last, by a secret process of ingraftings, have produced a plant which bears genuine dish-rags, or at least capital substitutes for them. Dish-rag garden-plots are now seen on every hand in Bellbrook, and charming young shadow-lacers of the region, pouting prettily, are said to be unable to see why the scientists couldn't develop something really useful, like flesh-pink radium silk, for instance, while they were about it.—Columbus, O., State Journal.

Historical Item of the Future.THE GASOLINE RIOTS IN NEW YORK.

On the morning of the third day a large mob of auto owners collected in Madison Square Garden and threatened to burn the city. The price of gasoline had gone to a dollar a gallon the night before. The mayor was powerless. Bands of desperate men, starving for gasoline, were marching over the surrounding country. Walking was taught in many schools—others learned it by themselves.—News Bureau.

The American Florist Company's Directory of Florists, Nurserymen and Seedsmen of the United States and Canada

(Copyrighted and Title Trade-Mark Registered).

Directory Revision

WE are revising our Trade Directory of the Florists, Nurserymen, Seedsmen, etc., of the United States and Canada, and as there have been many changes in firm name and considerable extension of the area under glass, nursery grounds, etc., you would greatly oblige by supplying the following information with reference to your business:

In all cases state (1) Name of firm or proprietor, with the officers of corporations; (2) Name of manager; (3) Address, giving street and number or rural route; (4) City or town; (5) State; (6) when business was established; and (7) Whom present owner succeeded.

If Florists, state whether (1) Grower; (2) Retail, having store only; (3) Wholesale; or (4) Commission. If a grower state acreage of ground operated and give number of square feet of glass.

To ascertain the number of feet under glass in a given house. 145 12x145 feet, multiply the length (145 feet) by the width (12 feet) and 12 you have in that house 1,740 feet under glass, thus..... 1,740

If Nurserymen, state whether (1) Wholesale; (2) Retail; (3) acreage of ground operated and area under glass as in the case of florists above.

If Seedsmen, state whether (1) Dealer; (2) Grower; (3) What your specialties are; (4) If a grower, state acreage operated and area under glass, as in the case of florists above.

Inclose your printed letterhead or business card with above details of the business.

Please send the names and addresses of new firms in your vicinity.

Horticultural Supply Concerns

We also list all lines of Horticultural Supply Concerns, such as manufacturers of Greenhouse Building Materials, Boilers, Ventilators, Glass, Insecticides, Pots, Labels, Seed Bags, Fertilizers, Wire Designs, Tinfoil, Vases, Machinery, Implements, Sprayers, Seed Cases, Flower Pots, Florists' Boxes, Ribbons, Etc. The specialties are also listed under these heads in the case of advertisers.

New Orleans Horticultural Society.

The spring flower show which will be staged in the Athenaeum, New Orleans, La., early in April, under the auspices of the New Orleans Horticultural Society, the proceeds to be given to the Louisiana Anti-tuberculosis League, gives promise of being the biggest event of its kind ever attempted in the south. Thousands of flowers and rare plants will occupy the entire main floor of the building, arranged as an immense patera, and members of the committee, composed of the leading florists of New Orleans, having the details of the exhibition in charge, are giving their best efforts to secure novel as well as artistic features. There will be music each night, with lyric entertainment features and general displays pertaining to the embellishment of the home.

At a meeting held at the Association of Commerce building March 9, P. A. Chopin, chairman of the committee on arrangements, presented an elaborate plan for an immense patera, which was unanimously adopted. Others present were: C. R. Panter, secretary; Henry Schuerman, ex-officio chairman; Max Scheinuck, E. Farley, Claude Ory, H. Mische, A. Verlinde, A. Dameran, Henry Kraak, C. W. Eichling, H. Doeschner, F. Dormay, Frank Reyes, Abele Brothers and representatives of the Steckler Seed Co. Every one present applied for floor space and allotments were made so that plans for the arrangement of the decorations could be worked out.

The following firms have offered valuable prizes to be awarded in the competitive classes: Reed & Keller, New York; Henry A. Dreer, Inc., and M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa.; A. L. Randall Co. and Sefton Manufacturing Co., Chicago; Shaw Fern Co., Pittsfield, Mass.; Searcy & Pfaff and the H. Raymond Cutlery Co., New Orleans.

Newport Horticultural Society.

At the regular meeting of the Newport Horticultural Society, held March 14, it was voted to change the dates of the mid-summer show from August 10-12 to August 17-19. The change was made on account of many members wishing to attend the American Gladiolus Society's show in Boston during the week of August 7-12. It was also announced that two lectures, open to the public, will be given under the auspices of this society, one, March 28, by Professor Burt L. Hartwell, of Kingston Agricultural College of Rhode Island on "How Plants Feed," and the other by Professor E. H. Wilson, of the Arnold Arboretum, Jamaica Plain, Mass., on "Flowers and Gardens in Japan." An interesting paper on "Boxwood and Its Enemies" was read by Bruce Butterton, gar-

CORFU, N. Y.

It is some distance from Des Plaines, Illinois, where our factory is located, but still the celebrated Garland Cast Iron Gutter has had a friend there for over 14 years, as you will discover when reading the following letter.

DAVID J. SCOTT

WHOLESALE FLORIST

Garland Manufacturing Co., Des Plaines, Ill.

Corfu, N. Y., February 23, 1916.

Gentlemen:—

Will you please quote me price on 90 feet of Garland Cast Iron Gutter with drain and drip opening at one end? To be drilled for 16" width glass on one side and 12" on the other. This is to replace a wood gutter.

I am pleased to say that the 750 feet of Garland Gutter used by my father in the erection of a range of glass in 1902 is apparently in as good condition as the day it was put up.

Very truly yours,

DAVID J. SCOTT.

The quality of our materials is in keeping with our gutters and we wish to again call your attention to the fact that we make the greenhouse complete, either steel or wood, and will greatly appreciate it if you will let us figure on your next house or houses. Estimates and plans cheerfully submitted.

Business during the past week has been very good, all stock moving well. Prices have been satisfactory, roses being quoted at from four cents to ten cents, and carnations, which were rather scarce, brought from one and one-half cents for splits to three cents for good stock, and the St. Patrick's day demand boosted the prices for light colors to four cents.

NOTES.

Due to the fact that a member of the public instruction committee authorized a statement, which was published in the local papers, that St. Patrick's day and Mothers' day would be observed as one, the situation in Indiana was considerably muddled up. The plan is not feasible and will not be tried again. Each year it becomes more prevalent for the rural communities in this vicinity to set their own dates for the observance of Mothers' day. They claim that in this way they can get better prices and a more plentiful supply than on the day of general observance.

Visitors: Samuel Seligman, representing Wertheimer Bros., and Julius Dilloff, representing Schloss Bros., both of New York.

Ft. Wayne, Ind.

St. Patrick's day business was excellent. Not only were large numbers of green carnations disposed of, but there were several dinner parties, calling for table decorations. Warm weather has increased the supply of stock but a heavy demand for funeral work overcomes the lack of sales for social functions.

NOTES.

Herman J. Leitz of the New Haven Floral Co., New Haven, Ind., inspected several of the local ranges during a recent visit. He is busy planting his new rose houses with Killarney, Russell, Shawyer and Ophelia.

The Flick Floral Co. reports a heavy demand for funeral work, both local and out-of-town. The staff, under Miss Marguerite Flick, arranged several elaborate pieces during the week.

George Pandell has taken over the management of the Fort Wayne Flower Shop and is doing extensive newspaper advertising. He uses shipped flowers entirely.

Philadelphia Makes Splendid Record.

Bewildering in its variety, wonderful in the size and general excellence of the many exhibits, the Fourth National Flower Show opened on time at Convention hall, Saturday afternoon, March 25, as perfect in every detail as it is possible for an exhibition of such magnitude to be. Two weeks ago the local committees wondered where the plants and flowers needed to fill the immense hall were coming from. Very severe weather, together with railroad embargoes, placed obstacles in the way of many promising exhibits that were expected; Thomas Roland's acacias might not arrive; A. N. Pierson, Inc., F. R. Pierson Co., and other prominent firms on whom so much depended, might perhaps be able to stage only partial displays. These fears, however, proved to be groundless, as on the evening preceding the opening of the show there was more stock on the floor of the hall than could be properly placed, the general comment being that there was sufficient material to fill two such buildings. As it was, many of the plants, particularly the large palms and ferns, were much too crowded and the aisles were not sufficiently wide to provide room for the immense crowds. Saturday, the attendance and box office receipts were in excess of the first day of any previous show, which fact was most pleasing to the National Flower Show committee.

While the exhibition was first class in every respect, with quality the rule in nearly all of the entries, there were especially notable exhibits, high lights of the general display, that stood out predominantly, attracting the eye and compelling the attention of visitors.
The acacias of Thos. Roland, Nahant, Mass., superbly flowered and staged better than at any previous show, occupying a space 135 feet long, with an average width of 35 feet, presented a wealth of bloom and graceful foliage that made this exhibit one of the great features of the show. There were 256 plants, ranging in size from 8-inch pots up to large tubs.

The rose garden of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., a display of about 10,000 hybrid tea roses in pots, arranged in four large beds, surrounded by a low white fence, partially covered with climbing varieties, proved to be one of the beauty spots of the show. Never before have hybrid roses been done so well. The plants carried from four to eight buds, the other buds being removed, making those remaining of extra size. There were five arched entrances to the enclosure and a wide path with sod border led down the center of the space. Opposite the middle entrance, a greenhouse of King construction, was filled with stock of the smaller varieties and permitted of closer inspection. The tables were bordered with Pteris Rivertonii, a splendid new commercial sort. Two large beds of bulbous stock at either end of the space added variety. This exhibit, splendid in every detail of its arrangement, presented a perfect garden effect and was worthy of careful study by every one interested in flower show arrangement.

The rose gardens of the Robt. Craig Co., Philadelphia, Pa., and A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., were strong features and were at all times surrounded by admiring throngs. The Pierson exhibit was a delightful representation of a June garden, enclosed with a rustic fence with high posts at the corners. Three gates gave entrance to the enclosure, the center of one side of which was occupied by a rustic summer house covered with yellow rambler roses, the fence decoration being of Tausendschon. A small pyramidal bed formed the center, with additional beds in the center of grass plots in the four corners. An inside border was well filled with polyantha roses in full bloom. It was a trifle crowded, but was nevertheless very beautiful.

The Italian garden of the Robt. Craig Co. was more pretentious, being enclosed by a light-colored stone wall, high at the rear and low in front, with statues supporting an arch rising high at the rear, the whole being adorned with electric globes arranged along the edge of the wall. Vases supported by statuary were placed on the end wall, while the front entrance was surmounted by an arch. An illuminated fountain played continuously in the center of the enclosure. The walls, both inside and out, as well as the vases, were embellished with rambler roses in flower. These were also planted in the border surrounding a grass sward, made of boxes of seedling grass. Although the walls seemed a trifle heavy for the size of the garden, the effect was fine and the exhibit was awarded the first prize in its class, $500, the Pierson entry being given the second prize of $400. The roses of M. H. Walsh, Woods Hole, Mass., although coming such a long distance, made a fine display. They were arranged to give a garden effect and won the third prize of $300. A. N. Pierson and the Robt. Craig Co. again became close contestants in the class for groups of roses covering 200 square feet, the Pierson entry being first and that of the Craig Co., second.

The Holland garden exhibit of the Henry F. Michell Co., Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., was very striking. A large background painted to represent a bit of scenery of Dutch country, with its tulip beds and windmills, one of the latter, with its electrically lighted wheel in motion, was a conspicuous feature. This exhibit covered 500 square feet. A slightly elevated platform was erected, and upon this was a lawn of the famous evergreen grass. A border bed around the entire enclosure was planted on one side with box bush, in front of which were variegated funkias and beds of lily of the valley. The front and rear were enclosed with a low fence, on the inside of which was a border planted with rhododendrons, Ghent azaleas, pansies and daisies. In the center of the lawn was a large bed of white and blue hyacinths. Attendants in Dutch costume, a boy and a girl, passed out souvenirs and literature of the firm. The exhibit was planned and carried out by Philip Freund, the expense being nearly $5,000.

Perhaps the next displays of interest were the orchids. C. G. Roebing staged a splendid collection, the first conspicuous beauty spot after one passed the entrance. The plants were arranged on a round table or mound, surmounted by a double arch, to which were attached blocks and pots laden with beautiful sprays of flowers. This collection was most valuable, being awarded 10 blue ribbons and eight second prizes. Louis Burk, who has a famous collection of orchids, erected a high rockwork mound or bank, from the center of which fell a silvery stream of water. The top of this embankment was filled with dendrobiums in variety, making a gorgeous fringe of color, beneath which were placed cattleyas, miltonias and other choice varieties in flower, all appearing to be growing out of the rocks. Around a pool at the base were Cypripedium saracenes and other quaint forms. The space in front of this display never seemed large enough to accommodate the admiring throng of visitors. The same exhibitor had a number of entries in other classes—all superb plants.

The orchid collection of the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., was prettily staged, a six-foot background being covered with choice cattleyas and other plants. In the center of this was a black cloth frame containing a splendidly formed plant of miltonia, a hidden electric light bringing out its beauty to perfection. On a table at the front was a mirror to represent a pool. This was surrounded by orchids and small plants of cibotium, while a plant of Sophranitis grandiflora, loaded with its orange-scarlet blossoms, was placed on the mirror, the reflection giving a charming effect. This firm also had entries in other classes, the plants being staged at the north end of the hall.

W. A. Manda, South Orange, N. J., was also an exhibitor of orchids, entering a number of valuable varieties, and his name was also seen in all parts of the hall in connection with displays of immense palms, specimen ferns, forced shrubs, new and rare rose plants, specimen evergreens and an exhibit of trained and clipped Taxus baccata as correct in outline as if cut from stone. Another novelty was a "pale" fence of boxwood surrounding this Manda section, each paling perfect in shape and height, even the cross bars at the top and bottom being shown. A very perfect plant of Araucaria imbricata was staged with the evergreens.

Many fine groups of ornamental foliage plants were seen in the competitive section. John Long's specimen ferns held their own as usual, and were the center of admiration of all good growers. Many single specimen plants, both ferns and palms, were staged by the Julius Roehrs Co. and W. A. Manda. One would have to practically go through the entire catalogue to describe each of the Manda entries. His first prizes totaled 28, with 12 seconds and one third prize. The Julius Roehrs Co. won nine first and six second prizes. The Robt.

and Wm. Kleinheinz, gardener for the Widener estate, all made large entries. There was a number of well arranged groups of flowering and foliage plants. The space allotted to these was necessarily small, and as the gardeners generally had enough plants to make two or three groups, they were all crowded into one. As they were seen from all sides, they resembled cones or haystacks in form, frequently being taller than the diameter of the display.

On either side of the stage platform, step stages had been built, and on these were placed the bulbous stock in pans. Such tulips, hyacinths and daffodils are rarely seen. The entries were large and numerous, various seedsmen having offered liberal prizes for stock grown from their bulbs. A feature in this section was the display of polyantha or yellow primulas by Wm. Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., which were very showy and attractive. He also staged some splendid pansies that were in a class by themselves. The cyclamens, superbly flowered, were also staged here, together with Easter lilies, schizanthus, gardenias, Rex begonias and some entries of crotons. Some very pretty miniature estates and gardens were also seen in this section.

The F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., won the principal prize for the best collection of nephrolepis. Following its usual custom, the plants exhibited by this firm were particularly well done. This collection occupied an advantageous position near the entrance. The Julius Roehrs Co.'s miniature estate, mansion and grounds, the latter consisting mainly of a rock garden planted in proportion to space, was, as a whole, as perfect as it seemed possible to make it. The exhibit of W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Phil-

MICHELL'S DUTCH GARDEN AT THE NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

Craig Co. was a large exhibitor, making 24 entries in various classes, its rose garden being the most important. Specimen plants, beds of crotons, roses, cyclamens, dracaenas, rubbers, ferns and other plants made up the list. This company drew no blanks, winning 16 first and eight second prizes.

Private gardeners put their best efforts into their work. Wm. Robertson, gardener for J. W. Pepper; John Dodds, gardener for John Wanamaker, Philadelphia, Pa., was a mass of color, with large blocks of schizanthus at either end, between which were staged superb sweet peas. Wm. K. Harris, also of Philadelphia, arranged a splendid group of choice azaleas, hydrangeas, broom, genistas, rhododendrons and other flowering and foliage plants.

The retailers' section was interesting. Chas. Grakelow fitted up a dining room with the side next to the aisle open to view. A china closet, sideboard and dining room table were decorated with cut flowers appropriate for use with various flower days. Calendars were presented as souvenirs. Voller's House of Flowers had a space prettily fitted up in colonial style, with white arbor, furniture and pedestals, on which were placed filled rose floats. Tausendschon roses added color to the general arrangement. Harry Betz decorated his space with blooming plants, artistically arranged, as did John Kuhn, his neighbor, whose exhibit was aglow with choice blooming stock. The London Flower Shop displayed flower floats and iridescent bowls; also poster flower pots and filled bowls added color. John Gracey had a roomy space, which was decorated with choice plants in fancy baskets. These were given plenty of display room and made a fine appearance.

The "outside garden" or lawn at the entrance in front of the building was an attractive feature. On one side were specimen evergreens planted by Henry A. Dreer, Inc., and opposite the Henry F. Michell Co., Inc., had also planted evergreens and had a bed of hyacinths arranged as a flag with appropriate colors. Banks of evergreens immediately in front of the columns separating the several entrances were by Adolph Muller of the DeKalb Nurseries, Norristown, Pa.

The Pennsylvania Horticultural Society had a nicely arranged and roomy space just inside the entrance, which provided a comfortable rest room and meeting place for members and their friends.

The society tea garden, conducted under the auspices of the various social organizations was thronged at all times. Each day the young ladies who assisted in conducting the garden and sold flowers wore fancy costumes, which distinguished them from the visitors. They were a picturesque feature of the show.

Wonderfully interesting was the aquarium exhibit in the rear of the hall. Many of the tanks were ornamental and their interior arrangement was like the work of a landscape architect. The placing of the rocks, castles, pebbles and growing water plants was very artistic. The various large and small aquariums were illuminated with concealed lights, showing every movement of the brilliantly colored and wonderful looking occupants of these water cages. Every "pet" fish, if they may be so called, was to be found here. Very curious and interesting was the display. The lion heads, arandas, celestial telescopes, telescopes, Japs, nymphs, comets, fish without tails and others that seemed all tails and eyes, were seen in bewildering array. They were constantly in motion, parading, as it were, back and forth to show off their glorious and wonderful "plumage." This display was a great feature of the show.

One hundred Radiance roses, which won the first prize for the Joseph Heacock Co., were packed in a four-foot hamper, tied with ribbons and sent by special messenger to Jefferson hospital, Philadelphia, for Baby Sayre, President Wilson's new granddaughter, with the compliments of the management of the Fourth National Flower Show.

The Carnation Display.

The carnation display, under the auspices of the American Carnation Society, was all that was expected of it and more. It was staged on the rear sloping platform, which afforded sufficient space to do justice to each exhibit. Looking from the main floor the rising tiers of vases were a beautiful sight. R. C. Brown, of the Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, N. Y., a high authority, pronounced the exhibit high class in every respect and competition was very keen in all classes. There was a very good showing in all the colors, the whites and pinks being particularly striking in their high quality.

Crystal White beat out Matchless with a splendid vase of 100. Peace, apparently equally as strong as either, received nothing. Pink Delight made a fine showing, but seemed only half the size of the other pinks. One hundred Pink Sensation, in an adjoining vase, was considered by good judges the best vase of any color in the show. They were wonderfully large flowers, many of them four inches in diameter, borne on stems almost four feet in length. They were staged by A. A. Pembroke, Beverly, Mass. A vase of Cottage Maid, superb flowers, won second. A vase of well-grown Alice Coombs was also in the competition. Mrs. C. W. Ward, dark pink, was beaten by Gorgeous, staged by A. A. Pembroke. A well-groomed vase of Rosette also ran.

In the crimson class, J. W. Minnot Co., Inc., Portland, Me., won with a superb vase of 50 Pocahontas, while A. N. Pierson, Inc., received second for a vase of Arawana.

In the flesh-colored section, the Halifax Gardens Company, Halifax, Mass., won with Enchantress Supreme. Alice also stood out fine in all the entries. The pink or red striped sorts included seven vases of fifty Benora, first prize going to A. A. Pembroke, while Halifax Gardens also won with 100 of the same. The table of 25 to a vase, three dozen vases in assortment, made a fine showing. Two vases of 100 each Flaked Beauty, a flower resembling Old Prosperity, and Alice, were much admired. Evenden Brothers, Williamsport, Pa., had a Giant White that looked good.

J. D. Thompson Carnation Company, Joliet, Ill., staged vases of Superb and Aviator, both in splendid condition. Baur & Steinkamp, Indianapolis, Ind., staged a vase of light red, very large flowers.

Good Cheer, by the Cottage Gardens Co., had a very erect stem, but a doubtful shade of deep pink.

In the reds, Beacon and Victory were the leaders. A vase of Belle Washburn, staged by Bassett & Washburn, Chicago, here two days, still looked very well; a splendid flower.

Considering that many of the flowers came from quite a long distance, they kept remarkably well; there not being a sleepy vase in the lot. The awards follow:

One hundred blooms, white—Cottage Gardens Co., first; A. A. Pembroke, second.

One hundred blooms, flesh pink—A. A. Pembroke, first; Wm. Wunder, Philadelphia, second.

One hundred blooms, light pink—A. A. Pembroke, first; Cottage Gardens Co., second.

One hundred blooms, red—Cottage Gardens Co., first; W. A. Dawson, Willimantic, Conn., second.

One hundred blooms, crimson—J. W. Minnott Co., first; A. W. Pierce & Co., second.

One hundred, variegated—Halifax Gardens, first; E. F. Lecker, second.

Sweepstakes—Cottage Gardens, silver medal for Crystal White; bronze medals, A. A. Pembroke, for Pink Sensation and White Wonder; E. F. Lecker for I. H. Dudman.

Any other white—Strout's, Biddeford, Me., first; Halifax Gardens, second.

Enchantress Supreme—Halifax Gardens, first.

Any other pink—Cottage Gardens, first; Strout's, second.

Gloriosa—S. J. Goddard, Framingham, Mass., first.

Mrs. C. W. Ward—A. Harvey & Son, Brandywine Summit, Pa., first; F. Birnbrauer, Philadelphia, second.

Any other dark pink—E. F. Lecker, first.

Beacon—Halifax Gardens, first; J. W. Minnott Co., second.

Any other scarlet—A. Harvey & Son, first; C. L. Doerer, Westfield, N. J., second.

Pocahontas—Strout's, first.

Benora—A. A. Pembroke, first; Halifax Gardens, second.

Yellow—J. J. Goddard, first.

Twelve largest blooms—E. G. Hill Co., Richmond, Ind.

Preliminary certificates were issued to the following: Evenden Bros., for white seedling; J. D. Thompson Carnation Co., Joliet, Ill.; Baur & Steinkamp for cerise seedling; E. A. Richards, Greenfield, Mass., for rose pink seedling; Peter Fisher, Ellis, Mass., for Flake Beauty. Special mention: Bassett & Washburn for Belle Washburn.

Notes.

The art gallery was a unique feature with cut flowers in various receptacles in gilt frames about 18x24 inches. The gallery was draped in red. The idea of floral pictures was fairly well carried out with different shades of velvet backgrounds. The following firms made exhibits: Edwards Floral Hall Co., vase of lilies in white frame; E. W. Gehringer, box of Fire-flame roses, black velvet background, gilt frame; Wilhelm Logan Flower Shop, Frau Karl Druschki and Sweetheart roses in white vase, black velvet background, gilt frame; Rupert Keimle, coopered jardiniere, filled with red carnations, black background, gilt frame; L. A. Geiger, basket red roses and yellow daisies, green ribbon; Voller's House of Flowers, pink roses and sweet peas in rose float; green velvet background; Geo. Williams, birds nest ferns, Benora carnations in vases, green velvet background; Victor Redmont, vase of callas and Pandanus Veitchii leaves, black velvet background; Louis Burk, basket of orchids in black velvet frame on easel; M. J. Callahan, jardiniere filled with Ophelia roses, yellow daisies and cat-tleysas; John C. Gracey, basket of Ophelia roses with pussy willows; I. Nelson Geiger, orchids, lilacs and baby primroses.

The New York delegation, some 250 strong, arrived at the Broad street station at noon, March 28. A reception committee of the Philadelphia Florists' Club bade them welcome and extended the glad hand. J. Otto Thilow made an address, as did H. Cattell, who represented Mayor Smith. President Weston of the New York Florists' Club presented an American flag, also the civic flag of New York. Charles Grakelow spoke for National Chairman George Asmus, welcoming the delegation on behalf of the Society of American Florists. After dinner the delegations were taken by train to North Philadelphia. There they were met by the convention band and marched in a body to the hall. It was raining hard, but this did not dampen their ardor, and they were a happy lot as they marched around the exhibition to the music of the band.

The trade display on the outer corridor under the stage was brilliantly lighted at all times. The aisle was very wide, with plenty of room to accommodate the visitors. The A. L. Randall Co.'s exhibit was very full and complete to be brought such a distance. The Hammond exhibit was improved by the addition of cut callas, roses and carnations, to be kept up daily. A rustic railing was placed in front of the Burk exhibit of orchids to keep the visitors from crowding, so many being attracted to this spot.

By all rosarians and members of the craft there were only words of praise for the great display in the rose garden of H. A. Dreer, Inc. Additional illumination was added on Monday, which brought out the individual beauty of each flower. The exact timing of the blossoming period was considered a wonderful achievement.

Max Schling's lecture, given Tuesday afternoon, March 28, on the arrangement of flowers, with demonstration, completely captivated his audience, which packed the auditorium. After each arrangement, with its accompanying description, he received a round of applause, and at the close was given a great demonstration of approval.

Robert Pyle's rose lecture Tuesday night, March 28, was beautifully illustrated. The lecture room would not hold near all the people who desired to hear him. His remarks were very practical and much appreciated by his audience. A moving picture of a flower pageant in Pasadena was also shown.

W. A. Manda: "The show is wonderful. The amount of good stock is sufficient to fill two halls of this size. The attendance is surprisingly large. The love for flowers is growing faster than the ability of the trade to supply."

Wm. F. Gude: "Beyond all expectations. Twice as much high-class stock as my fondest wish could have dreamed of."

M. McLanahan: "A dandy show, fine; just a little congested."

Condensed Comment.

Philadelphia certainly is experiencing a horticultural revival equivalent to a Billy Sunday effort. Not only has the daily press exploited the business with editorials and illustrations, but the seedsmen have jumped into the advertising columns. Burpee had half a page in the Monday papers, showing them what "garden sass" looked like, and the other seedsmen followed with somewhat less space.

Quite a few New York florists made daily trips over to the show. Sunday the exhibition was open only to the trade, closing at six o'clock. Many of the trade visited Atlantic City, or Dreer's, or rode in the park.

The dinner given at six o'clock, Saturday evening, March 25, to the jurors and out-of-town notables was an overflow affair with informal talks of the show in the making made by W. F. Therkildson, George Asmus and others.

Chairman Therkildson, of the publicity committee, at the jurors' dinner Saturday evening, March 25, stated that the free publicity given by the press was worth at usual advertising rates over $28,000.

Tradesmen all agree that this must be the ideal time of the year for commercial results, since orders actually taken at the show are more than double the usual bookings at shows held in autumn or winter.

The attendance of the public Monday night, March 27, was good. Trade visitors are coming in freely from all sections of the country.

The Walton hotel overflowed Sunday, March 26, with a Hebrew convention, shutting out scores of late arriving florists.

The Craig rose garden, Italian style, an upright fountain with changing colors and spray effects, made a most attractive feature.

In the Saturday, March 25, competition Robt. Craig Co., with 24 entries, took 16 firsts and eight seconds.

M. H. Walsh, of Woods Hole, Mass., was warmly welcomed by the rosarians.

It rained all day Tuesday and the attendance was light.

An oasis in the Walton dry sands, No. 707.

Many friends regretted the indisposition and absence of Gurney Hill.

SOME PROMINENT MEN IDENTIFIED WITH THE FOURTH NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW, PHILADELPHIA, MARCH 25-APRIL 2, 1916.

American Rose Society.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the American Rose Society was called to order by President S. S. Pennock in Convention hall, Philadelphia, Pa., on Monday evening, March 27, at 8 p. m. Some 50 members, nearly all leading lights of the craft, were in attendance, and made the meeting one of the most noteworthy in the annals of the organization. After the reading of the president's address, which was an excellent paper containing valuable suggestions, Secretary Benjamin Hammond read his report, which showed the society to be in a flourishing condition with increasing membership, a great gain since meeting in Philadelphia 12 years ago. He recommended measures to increase amateur membership. Treasurer H. O. May reported an increase in funds since last year, showing the society to be going ahead.

The question of standardizing the names of sizes of cut roses handled commercially in the various wholesale markets of the country was taken up and created much discussion. A committee had reported in favor of the following lengths to be used in connection with such words as now are in use in some markets: Tea roses—Extra special, 30 inches or over; specials, 24 inches; fancy, 18 inches; extras, 14 inches; firsts, 10 inches; seconds, all shorter sizes. For American Beauties—Specials, 36 inches or over; fancy, 30 inches; extra, 24 inches; firsts, 18 inches; seconds, 12 inches and shorts. Wm. Elliott thought the plan adopted by the society six years ago, calling the lengths by their actual measurement, which plan had been adopted in Boston and found to work very satisfactorily, was good enough. Grades were placed three inches apart, from six inches to 24 inches and longer, and there was never any doubt as to the roses wanted. The matter was referred back to committee for further action. A schedule of points for judging outdoor roses for amateurs was also discussed, and finally referred to the executive committee to revise in conjunction with those who had taken up the work. Prof. Beal said a schedule of points had to be tried in the field to prove its efficiency. Prof. Mulford condemned the practice of changing the raiser's or introducer's name to a rose, except for a very good cause, as when names that were only slightly different. Robert Pyle thought the time would soon be here when the society would publish an official list, which would be recognized throughout the country.

President S. S. Pennock was re-elected for another year, as was Vice-President L. J. Reuter, which action was followed by the re-election of Secretary Benjamin Hammond and Treasurer H. O. May. Admiral Aaron Ward, E. Allen Peirce and Robert Pyle were elected to the executive board for one year. The board number, it was recommended, should be increased to nine, three to retire each year.

Admiral Ward made a strong address advocating respect for labor and that no man could call a garden his own unless much of the work was done by his own hands. Invitations to visit the rose gardens of Washington and Cornell, in their best season, were extended, and the executive committee were directed to select non-conflicting dates for visits to the various rose centers during the season. Wallace Pierson referred to the rose annual and the great possibilities and assistance this book offered to the amateur in caring for the rose. He praised the work of C. Horace McFarland, who had been such a factor in its preparation, and the work he had promised for the next two years. He proposed him for an honorary member of the society, which was adopted by a standing vote.

The society voted a gold medal to H. A. Dreer, Inc., for their magnificent garden display of hybrid tea roses. The next meeting place was left in the hands of the executive committee.

Monday was "Rose day" at the National Flower Show, and a truly wonderful display was made under the auspices of the national society. There were over 225 vases in all, containing from one dozen to 100 in each, most of the entries calling for from 25 to 50 flowers, and quite a number of 100 each, as in the case of the American Beauties. The quality of the various entries was superb. Never before was such general excellence seen. Quite a number of the entries came from a distance. French & Salm, Union Grove, Wis., sent 100 Mrs. Chas. Russell that captured the first prize. J. H. Dunlop, Toronto, Ont., had 500 of his best flowers, which were very fine. The Waban Rose Conservatories, Natick, Mass., sent several vases of fine stock. F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., and A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., were also large exhibitors. Gude Brothers Co., Washington, D. C., had several entries. Several entries came from the Madison district in New Jersey. L. Noe and Robert Simpson sent their best, while the Hadley roses from A. S. Burns, Jr., Spring Valley, N. Y., were wonderful. The local growers turned out loyally. The Jos.

placed in the center sections, and made a splendid showing.

SECRETARY HAMMOND'S REPORT.

This is the seventeenth annual meeting of the American Rose Society. It is 12 years ago since this society held an annual meeting in the city of Philadelphia, and in the years which have elapsed since then the development of the American Rose Society as evinced at this time by the exhibition in this convention hall is wonderful. Since our last visit to this city the society has been in Boston four times, Washington, D. C., Chicago, Buffalo and Detroit once and New York three times.

Our membership varies from year to year. The past year, 1915, we had the pleasure to add another life member, Richard Witterstaetter. The life memberships help us in building up our permanent fund, which now reaches the sum of $3,200.00. Our annual members, who have paid up for the year, at this date are 179, of which number 47 are associate members.

The test rose gardens which began in Hartford, Conn., and now embrace a garden at Washington, D. C., Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y., and at Minneapolis, Minn., are watched over with special committees appointed by the American Rose Society and certainly have awakened much practical interest. The bushes to be tested are furnished gratis by rose growers. Two lots were sent from Europe, one from

A. N. PIERSON'S ROSE GARDEN AT THE NATIONAL FLOWER SHOW.

Heacock Co., Geo. Burton, Stephen Masterson, Edward Towell, J. W. Young, Robt. Scott & Son, James Verner and others made entries in many classes, and captured the lion's share of the prizes. Such Hadleys and Killarney Brilliants had never been seen before. Hadley, Killarney Brilliant, White Killarney, Ophelia and Shawyer were the most popular. Sunburst, Mrs. Ward, Killarney, Mock, Francis Scott Key, Milady, Lady Hillingdon and Lady Alice Stanley were all entered. Most of the vases were arranged on the step stage in the extreme end of the hall, near the band. They were too crowded, but it was the best the committee could do. The large vases of American Beauties, containing 50 and 100 blooms, were Kallen & Lunnemann, Boskoop, Holland, embracing 29 varieties, 168 plants. These all went to Cornell rose garden at Ithaca, N. Y. Hugh Dickson, Ltd., Royal Nurseries, Belfast, Ireland, sent 10 each of four varieties. These are for competition in the test gardens and were divided, half going to Hartford, Conn., and half to the Washington gardens. The detail of the results in these rose gardens is presented in the rose annual together with the awards made. Municipal rose gardens are being pushed in England as things of popular beauty. Under date of January 23, 1916, a letter from Waratah, Eng., came to the secretary, saying: "You people are far more progressive in America as regards municipal rose gardens than we are over here, and should be gratified if you could send me details of any public rose gardens established in America." This writer is an amateur and holds the championship both for exhibition roses and decoratives in England. Our amateur societies are looking to the American Rose Society for information and recognition. The affiliation membership rate was first placed at 10 cents each, but this sum was not sufficient and has been changed by the executive committee to 25 cents for each member. There is a lack of supporting members of the American Rose Society among growers of outdoor roses; at every show we hold there is more or less expense, and the support of the society has hitherto been mainly from the cut flower producers.

The broadening of the membership of this society involves a great deal of detail work, and one piece of work that has at last come to pass is the printing in first class style of the annual report of organization work of the society in book form, with various essays complimentary thereto. This work of publication involves a greater amount of outgo than hitherto the revenue of this society warranted, but J. Horace McFarland assumed the work and risk of cost attending the same, and for this service we are certainly indebted to him. The proportion directly paid for this work by the society was $200 and customary postage. Beyond this the cost has been assumed by the publishers.

For this spring's exhibition the number and value of special prizes contributed by individuals has not before been equaled. All this is clear evidence that our society is full of vigor and the gathering together of citizens of our common country in associated work which tends to bring beauty to the homes of all the people is to be highly commended.

"A rose for every home, a bush for every garden" is emblematic of peace and beauty from ocean to ocean.

The Late George E. Tromey.

George E. Tromey, the well known and popular Cincinnati retail florist, died at his home in that city, March 25. A cold of only a few days' duration, followed by pneumonia, was the immediate cause of his death. His early years in the florist business were spent with Fred Gear. Several years ago he embarked in business for himself and soon built up a large and lucrative trade. As a member of many lodges and organizations, as well as the Cincinnati Florists' Society, he became very well known. The funeral services were conducted by the Elks, March 28. A widow and two children survive him.

H.

DALLAS, TEX.—The rainfall of March 24 broke a 52-day drought here.

OAKLAND, CALIF.—A wholesale florist establishment has been opened at 335 Twelfth street by V. Azarou.

CROWN POINT, IND.—Alois Frey, who has been in California inspecting the crop of his famous colored freesias, returned March 27.

Changing Names of Roses.

In THE AMERICAN FLORIST of December 25, 1915, page 1218, there appeared a communication of The Florex Gardens, North Wales, Pa., regarding Rose Prima Donna, and the statements contained therein impress the writer as being straightforward and rational. When they say that "the French name, Madame Euler, would have been contorted in all sorts of ways," they are quite right, and a facetious person might add, that the Frenchmen do wonderful things to some of our names. If, for the sake of euphony, names are to be changed, it would seem to be a better way to bring the matter before the American Rose Society or the Society of American Florists. Since The Florex Gardens mention it, who was it that changed the name of Prince de Bulgaria to Mrs. Taft and who put the stamp of approval on the change?

The case of American Beauty is different from some others. While George Bancroft was a rose fancier, he was not growing roses for profit. He was a statesman and a historian, and like many other men, he found relaxation in his roses. In John Brady, his gardener, we have a care-free, happy-go-lucky man, amiable in his way, but not given to the study of momentous questions. Like many private gardeners, he was given large latitude, and if he did not recognize the worth of Mme. Jamain, the Fields, who did, are certainly entitled to the credit of rescuing this wonderful rose, our American Beauty, from obscurity.

But changing the names of roses is not a new practice. It seems to have been more common 50 and 60 years ago than it is now—but that was before the New York Florists' Club was organized. The rose Charles Lefebvre, (LaCharme, 1861) was also known as Marguerite Brassac and Paul Jamain.

BUSINESS SLACKENS.

During the past week trade fell off considerably. There is not a heavy supply of flowers in general, but the market seems to lack activity. Roses do not sell as they should and prices have dropped, short grades selling as low as $1 per 100, although many command a better price, $12.50 per 100 seeming to be the highest, and this is obtainable only on Ophelia, Russell and Hadley. Carnations move slowly, $2.50 per 100 being the market price on good flowers. Bulbous stock continues about the same in price, although the supply has decreased. Sweet peas now are one of the mainstays of the market, and there are large quantities of them used daily. The prices vary from 50 cents to $1.50 per 100 on good flowers, although many inferior lots are sold for practically any price obtainable. Yellow marguerites are arriving in larger quantities, but do not sell as well as they generally do, as there are too many jonquils and primroses to be had at lower prices. Violets are in normal supply and sell fairly well at 50 cents per 100. Snapdragon is selling very good and there is a fair supply. The silver pink varieties seem to be the most popular, although there is good call for white. Lily of the valley moves very slowly and prices have to be cut to an extremely small margin of profit to the grower. Cut Easter lilies are in good supply at eight and 10 cents per flower.

NOTES.

The florists' bowling league held its banquet Thursday, March 23, at The Georgian hotel. Julius Zinn was toastmaster. There was a very good entertainment, some of the talent being furnished by members of the league, among whom were John Lynch, Nathan Lerner and E. Mahoney. Wm. H. Elliot awarded the prizes to the winners. A very enjoyable evening was spent and preparations are already under way for next year's league, which it is hoped will be larger than this season's.

Thomas Roland, of Nahant, Mass., is cutting a fine lot of roses at present. His Ophelia are especially worthy of note. He also has some very good sweet peas, which are nearly the last of the crop. He will have a fine lot of plants for Easter, his rambler roses and acacias being of extra good quality.

Neal Boyle, of Malden, Mass., has one of the finest lots of Easter lilies this season that he ever produced. He has 10,000 pots, each of which has five to 10 flowers in sight. His roses are doing nicely and he is cutting a fine line of Killarneys at present.

Max Trockman, buyer for H. M. Robinson & Co., was married Sunday, March 26, to Miss Alice G. Schaeffer, at the home of the bride's parents at Revere. He is now spending his honeymoon at Philadelphia and Washington.

W. W. Rawson, the well-known Arlington produce grower, is contemplating turning his establishment over to the production of carnations. He expects to plant 50,000 plants.

James Delay, formerly proprietor of a retail store on Beacon street, and later at Dorchester, has filed a petition of bankruptcy. His liabilities are $1,300, with no assets.

F. L. W.

PEKIN, ILL.—George A. Kuhl and wife are making a California tour.

PUEBLO, COLO.—A range of houses is being erected here by F. W. Jahn.

BEMIDJI, MINN.—The Bemidji Floral Co. is adding one house to its range.

LAPORTE, IND.—C. A. Wuellner has opened a flower shop at 412 John street.

LADYSMITH, WIS.—S. E. Smith, Jr., will build an up-to-date range of green-houses here.

CATONSVILLE, MD.—Henry Seidelich will erect two houses each 21x92 feet, table growing.

MILFORD, MASS.—H. W. Austin will erect one new house, King construction, 40x200 feet.

KIRKWOOD, MO.—W. A. Rowe is planning two new houses which will be devoted to roses.

COLUMBIA, PA.—Two houses will be added to the range of J. E. Doerer on Cedar street.

EVERETT, WASH.—Richard Iverson has been appointed superintendent of parks in this city.

ROCKLAND, ME.—Geo. W. Glaentzel has opened a flower shop in the Odd Fellows' building.

TOLEDO, O.—A flower store will be opened at 615 Madison avenue in the near future by Jacob and Josephine Helmer.

HOUSTON, TEX.—The R. C. Kerr Floral Co. will enlarge its retail establishment at Main street and McKinney avenue.

NEWPORT, R. I.—Henry J. Hass has sold his flower shop at 196 Thames street to his son, Edward R. Hass, and will devote all of his time to vege-LINCOLN, ILL.—C. G. Anderson, recently manager of the Minneapolis Floral Co., Minneapolis, Minn., has taken a position with W. H. Gullett & Sons.

ON account of the late date of Easter, the general line of Dutch bulbous stock will be well sold out before the festival.

WE have received the second number of the Bulletin of The American Dahlia Society from the secretary, J. Harrison Dick, 1426 Seventy-third street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

THE attendance at the National Flower Show, which opened at Philadelphia, Pa., March 25, is described as wonderful, Monday's paid admissions being reported as reaching the $10,000 mark.

MARSHALL FIELD & Co., the well known department store concern, have had a violent attack of burbankophobia, taking full page in a Chicago newspaper of March 27 to offer expensive books exploiting burbanked flowers and plants.

O. J. OLSON, of Holm & Olson, St. Paul, Minn., who expected to attend the National Flower Show at Philadelphia, Pa., cancelled his reservation from Chicago early last week on account of illness. Mr. Olson is now at St. Luke's hospital in that city and the doctors expect to operate March 29.

THE Alumni Number of the Missouri Botanical Garden bulletin, just out, is an exceptionally interesting issue, containing much matter of interest to the graduates of that institution, and is highly creditable to the literary ability of Arthur R. Gross, secretary of the organization, who prepared the material for this number.

Teachers of Floriculture.

A meeting of the men engaged in teaching horticulture and floriculture at the leading universities was held at the Walton hotel, Philadelphia, Pa., March 28, when a permanent organization was formed and named the College Florists' Section of the Society of American Florists. Those present included Professors Dornier of Illinois, Nehrling and Thurston of Massachusetts, Ineson of Maryland, Wild of Pennsylvania, Beal and White of Ithaca, N. Y., Richard Vincent, Jr., White Marsh, Md., and W. N. Rudd, Chicago.

Telegraph Delivery by Western Union.

The Western Union Co. announced March 28, that on and after April 1, it will execute commissions for its patrons and will deliver flowers, candy, books and the like in any town or city where it has an office. There is no need for the sender to know a florist or confectioner or bookseller, just hand the Western Union the price and it will make the purchase and deliver the goods for a small fee. Where desired the company will place the order with such florist or other merchant as may be designated by the sender. This is an extension of the company's money transfer service.

Spring Earlier in the City.

A city woman with a tender conscience was visiting in the country in June. She confided to a friend that as fast as the fresh fruits and vegetables came, her hosts skimped their own share in order that she, who was supposed never to have a chance to enjoy such things, might have her fill. The truth was, she had had her fill of everything from rhubarb to strawberries between the last of February and the beginning of April, and she was much puzzled whether to accept their sacrifice or disappoint them by telling the truth.

The hothouse has stolen a long march on the season, the Boston Globe observes. To walk through the market at certain times of the year would be to suppose that the year was anywhere from one to three months ahead of itself. The result is that while country folks are pitying city folks for having to wait so much longer for the spring to arrive in the big towns, the fact is that the big towns have begun to celebrate the advent of that season long before, in the market, in the seed stores, in the florists' shops (where, as a matter of scientific record, the spring flowers first bloom), and, though last but not least—in the windows of the haberdashers.

New York Flower Show.

APRIL 5-12, 1916.

Entries for the New York flower show are coming in very nicely, and there is little doubt but that it will eclipse its predecessors in every way. The space available for trade exhibits has been freely reserved, and late comers will be lucky if they are able to find quarters. The final schedule has been distributed, and anyone interested who has not received a copy can be supplied on application to the secretary, John Young, 53 West 28th street, New York.

Dreer's Gold Medal Roses.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., have been awarded two gold medals for their exhibit of hybrid tea roses at the Fourth National Flower Show, held in that city March 25 to April 2, one awarded by the American Rose Society and one by the National Flower Show. The judges accompanied their award by the following commendation: "In awarding the gold medal for the exhibit of roses by Henry A. Dreer, Inc., the judges feel that a special word of commendation should accompany the award. Never before at any flower show in the United States has such a result been achieved. The patience and interest required to accomplish this result is worthy of our sincerest appreciation. The exhibit as arranged deserves the approval of the most artistic and will surely be a factor in making the Philadelphia show a success."

Gardens Planned By Government.

It having been determined that the average pupil, participating in the care of a community garden, does not develop the same degree of responsibility, and the interest and pride shown in a garden of his own, together with the fact that the limited area usually available for school garden work makes it imperative that tall-growing, broad-leaved and climbing plants be excluded, have caused the United States department of agriculture to plan two specimen individual gardens. The gardens are each 5x16½ feet, one being for vegetables only, the other for both vegetables and flowers. In the vegetable garden, radishes, lettuce, beans, beets, tomatoes and other compact plants are recommended, while in the combination flower and vegetable garden, tomatoes are eliminated, and flowering plants, such as ageratum, nasturtium, petunia, California poppy and zinnia are recommended. The methods of planting and cultivating the vegetables, together with cultural instructions for the flowering plants, are described in Farmers' Bulletin 218, which will be sent upon request to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Canna Firebird Awarded Gold Medal.

Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago and New York, has been awarded the gold medal of the Panama-California exposition at San Diego for its new Canna Firebird, which made a fine showing there the past season.

Wanted to Lease

Going commercial greenhouse establishment within 50 miles of Chicago. Give full particulars in first letter. Address Key 622, care American Florist.

For Sale—On account of age and death in family, I offer for sale my greenhouse property and business which I started 35 years ago. It is located in a prosperous city in Indiana; present population 75,000 and growing rapidly. All the surrounding territory is thickly populated, with several nearby towns of from 5,000 to 15,000, connected by interurban, in which I have a great number of customers. The business is well established, the real estate very desirable, and all improvements in first class conditions. The property consists of real estate with a frontage of 158 feet on a modern paved street with street car line. It extends back 275 feet and also has a frontage of 146 feet on a fine residence street at the back. The improvements consist of a new modern cottage with gas, electric lights, bath and sewerage connections; three greenhouses, each 23x100 feet, heated by hot water; office, barn, large packing shed and warehouse, and a modern, new well equipped boiler-room. The greenhouses are well stocked with carnations and bedding plants. This is a fine opportunity and must be seen to be appreciated. Write me for full particulars. Address Key 624, care American Florist.

President MacRorie's Trip to Philadelphia.

On his way to the Philadelphia National Flower Show and the east, President Daniel MacRorie made a stop at some of the larger cities enroute, in all of which he was warmly received and shown every courtesy. He received the most encouraging assurance from all florists that he met, especially in the southern cities, that they would attend the Houston convention, and prospects for that meeting are fine.

President MacRorie left Burlingame, Calif., Wednesday night, March 15, and arrived in Houston, Tex., at 10 o'clock the following Saturday morning. He was entertained there that day, saw the Convention garden, and left for New Orleans that night, where he arrived Sunday morning, March 19. He was met by eight or ten of the leading florists in New Orleans, who gave him a dinner in one of their noted old French restaurants and everybody had a jolly time. From New Orleans he went to Nashville, where, among others, he met his old friend, Joy, and three generations of the Joy family. He was in Nashville the time of the big fire, and described to your correspondent vividly the freaks of the conflagration, which was driven by a wind of such velocity that a sheet of flame when it struck a house would apparently go almost instantaneously through the house and be seen bursting out on the other side. A residential district three miles long was burned and only the river stopped the fire. The Nashville florists proved themselves equal to the occasion and were active in rescue work.

President MacRorie spent Thursday, March 23, in Cincinnati, and as he loves to be in an automobile, two high powered cars carried him and his party over the city and he was shown as much as was possible to see in one day. His escorts were J. A. Peterson, Clarence Peterson, Charles E. Critchell, Robert Murphy, Joseph E. Hill, Edward A. Forter, and Charles L. Baum and his son, Carl, of Knoxville, Tenn. The party started out early in the morning and went first to J. A. Peterson's establishment and home in Westwood, one automobile making a detour and stopping at the greenhouses of the Hoffmeister Floral Co. Here they were detained so long sampling a red fluid that was carefully stored in the Hoffmeister cellars that the remainder of the party, who had arrived at Mr. Peterson's in the meantime became greatly alarmed, not knowing where their friends were, and called up all the police stations to learn if they had been arrested for fast driving or had met with an accident. They turned up at Mr. Peterson's later, where several bottles of champagne were opened. The party then returned to the city, viewed Edward Forter's new establishment, also the handsome store of the E. G. Hill Floral Co., and after dinner at the Metropole, proceeded to take in the parks and the hill-top suburbs of Cincinnati. At Eden park greenhouses they were made welcome by City Florist Knott, and after being entertained at the beautiful home of C. E. Critchell in Rose Hill, went to Spring Grove cemetery, where, although they arrived quite late in the day, they were able to give the countersign and pass the armed guards at the gate, who were just about to start on their round of the night patrol of the grounds. Superintendent Salway was absent in Florida, but his assistant showed them every courtesy, and President MacRorie expressed himself as delighted with this opportunity of viewing what he termed one of the finest cemeteries in the country.

While President MacRorie was in Cincinnati, being thus entertained, a shipment of six carloads from the MacRorie-McLaren Co. passed through Cincinnati destined to A. R. de La Mar, Glen Cove, L. I. This shipment represented some thousands of dollars, and the total cargo of one of the cars was four Japanese trees, Retinospora obtusana. It was necessary to build a house on this flat car the height of which was 15 feet from the track. Visitors to the Panama-Pacific exposition will remember the dwarf trees that were shown at the Japanese tea garden for which a large price was asked. Mr. MacRorie showed with pride a photograph taken of this special carload on the MacRorie-McLaren Co. nursery's own switch at San Mateo, Calif.

President MacRorie left Cincinnati in good shape, accompanied by J. A. Peterson and wife, C. E. Critchell, Joseph E. Hill, Charles Baum and son, the intention of the party being to spend Friday seeing Pittsburgh and visiting the Pittsburgh florists.

Planting Day at Grand Rapids.

As a result of a novel campaign conducted by the Association of Commerce and other civic organizations of Grand Rapids, Mich., more than 13,000 shrubs and vines will be planted in that city on one day in April which will be declared a holiday by the mayor. The plan was originated primarily for the purpose of beautifying the city and incidentally to arouse the interest of school children and factory workers in flowers. It met with such success that it will become an annual event hereafter.

All of the work of the campaign devolved upon the Association of Commerce. The first step was to secure prices on shrubs and vines which would permit sales at a low figure and still provide a profit sufficient to cover the cost of the campaign. The bids received from various nurseries made this possible with a selling price of 10 cents per shrub or vine. Circulars were then distributed which carried the rules of the campaign and a list of 10 standard varieties of shrubs and vines from which selection could be made, each variety being carefully described to insure intelligent ordering, the varieties being numbered from one to ten. Order blanks with the names of the shrubs and vines similarly arranged and numbered were printed in the circular to simplify the work of ordering and subsequent checking. The list of varieties as used was as follows:

Celastrus, Dorothy Perkins and Crimson Rambler roses, Ampelopsis tricuspidata, Lonicera Morrowi, forsythia, hydrangea, Berberis vulgaris, Vaccinium macrocarpon and Spiraea Van Houttei.

Thousands of these circulars were sent to all schools, public and parochial, improvement associations, factories and clubs. Manufacturers, business men and officers of associations and clubs were impressed with the merit of the campaign and urged to give it much attention. Large order blanks were sent to the heads of institutions, and when the individual orders were collected, accompanied by the cash, a total of each variety ordered was drawn by the official in charge and sent with a remittance to the Association of Commerce. The original orders were then filled. When the stock is received it will be separated according to variety and delivery made to the various institutions, where distribution will be made according to the original individual orders.

With all interested parties working with a will, no great amount of labor fell to any one person and had the campaign extended for several weeks more, no doubt the number of orders would have been doubled. On planting day the factories will close and the schools will be dismissed so that each person that placed an order will have time to do the work properly. Most of the orders received were from individuals and numbers of the shrubs will add to the beautification of home grounds, but quite a number of orders signify that factory and school buildings are also to be benefited by the movement.

It is expected that countless cities will follow the example of Grand Rapids in the future. The beauty of the cities will be enhanced and the nurseries will benefit by the increased business, all of which will be accomplished at so small a cost that no one is inconvenienced.

DREER'S NEW WHITE CANNA, EUREKA

NEW CANNAS

TWO STRIKING NOVELTIES OF OUR OWN RAISING

EUREKA

We unhesitatingly declare this to be the best white flowering Canna that has been brought to our notice. Nearly all other white varieties have proven of weak constitution and growth.

Eureka grows as vigorously and blooms as freely as any Canna of any color. Its foliage is clean and healthy of a beautiful green color. It grows quickly into sturdy shapely plants about four feet high, which produce a profusion of large trusses of good sized florets. These open a creamy white, and quickly becomes pure white in the full sun.

Its superior merits have been commented on by all who have seen it, and we confidently proclaim it the best white Canna yet introduced.

Strong 2-eye divisions, 30c each, $3.00 per dozen, $20.00 per 100.

ORANGE BEDDER

A particularly attractive vigorous growing variety, of a bright scarlet orange, of peculiar dazzling intensity. The flowers are produced very freely, creating a great mass of color. A bedding variety of extraordinary merit.

Strong 2-eye divisions, 30c each, $3.00 per dozen, $20.00 per 100.

Standard Varieties of Cannas at Special Prices

We have completed the cleaning of our Cannas, and the inventory shows, that we have a number of excellent sorts: some of them recent introductions, in particularly large quantities.

The list is an excellent one, comprising sorts of practically every shade, and all distinctly different from each other.

We offer these 20 varieties at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000, for immediate delivery and subject to being unsold on receipt of order.

No order accepted for less than 100, at this special price.

Try a thousand, in the 20 sorts, 50 of each. You will find it a profitable investment. ORDER NOW.

STOCK IS MORE PLENTIFUL.

Stock of all kinds is in good supply and there is now plenty of everything to go around. Roses especially are seen in larger quantities, particularly Mrs. Chas. Russell, Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Double White Killarney and Killarney Queen. Some fine Hadley, Sunburst, Rhea Reid, Hoosier Beauty, Richmond, Mrs. George Shawyer, Milady, Ophelia, My Maryland, Lady Hillingdon, Prince de Bulgaria, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Mrs. Moorfield Storey, Cecile Brunner, George Elgar and Fireflame are included in the shipments and it appears as if the supply of American Beauty roses is steadily increasing. Orchids are none too plentiful, especially cattleyas, which are bringing $6 to $8 per dozen. Cypripediums are in good supply, but are not bringing the prices that they should. Gardenias are selling good and clean up nicely each day. Lily of the valley is in good demand, and there is hardly ever any surplus to speak of. Lilies are seen at nearly all the stores in large numbers, and the same holds good for callas. Violets, both single and double, are plentiful, but the receipts of freesias are nothing to speak of. Anemones in the desired colors are included in the shipments, and so are lupines, snapdragons, stocks, calendulas, forget-me-nots, straw flowers, pansies and daisies. Some of the snapdragons offered are particularly well grown and attract much favorable attention. Sweet peas are very plentiful and fancy stock is obtainable in large lots at attractive prices. Carnations are more plentiful this week than they have been for some time, and are selling at reduced prices. Jonquills, daffodils, hyacinths, tulips, gladioli and narcissi are still among the offerings, and while tulips appear to be plentiful there is no great surplus to speak of. Smilax is somewhat scarce, and boxwood has advanced in price by the case. Greens in general are in good supply and some very choice Asparagus plumosus is being offered. Trade is very quiet this week, both as far as the local and shipping demand is concerned, consequently stock in all lines is accumulating and is not bringing the prices that it did last week. Plants of all kinds are being featured in the window displays of the retail stores, and a glance at the calendar will show that Easter is not very far off. From present indications it appears as if carnations will not be any too plentiful at Easter, and some of the growers feel the same way about roses, so it would be advisable for everyone to place their orders well in advance and protect their supply.

NOTES.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are mailing a telegraph code which also contains a yearly calendar to all their customers this week, and which they will be glad to mail to anyone in the trade free upon request. The telegraph code is being used more and more each day and should be in the hands of every florist in this country, who will be surprised what money can be saved in telegraphing their orders if the code words are used.

2,000,000 Feet of Modern Glass

Peter Reinberg will have a good supply of stock for Easter, according to Felix Reichling, who visited the greenhouses March 25, when he found everything in splendid condition. This firm is cutting from a fine crop of Killarney and Mrs. Chas. Russell roses. Emil Reichling, who has charge of the greenhouses, is attending the National Flower Show in Philadelphia this week, and will also take in the Spring Show at New York next week.

The local party which left here March 25 for the National Flower Show at Philadelphia, Pa., included August Poehlmann, Adolph Poehlmann, Earl Poehlmann, Miss Vera Poehlmann, Emil Reichling, Emil Buettner, W. J. Keimel, Ed. Enders, W. D. Desmond, Minneapolis, Minn.; I. O. Kemble and wife, Marshalltown, Ia., and John E. Yeats, Champaign.

Chas. Erne is seen at Erne & Klingel's store every day, but is not on active duty yet, but expects to be in condition to give the boys a hand during the Easter rush. He kept in close touch with the trade through the trade papers while he was in the hospital and read them all from cover to cover.

Mrs. Chas. Helen Newstrom has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of her husband, whose death occurred last week. Mrs. Newstrom was formerly employed as stenographer at the old E. H. Hunt Co.'s store, and is a daughter of Mons Olsen, formerly with Poehlmann Bros. Co.

Frank Ayres, with Chas. W. McKellar, received a letter from his mother this week containing the good news that her property at Paris, Texas, was not damaged any by the big fire which destroyed a good part of that city last week.

The boys at George Reinberg's store are becoming good bowlers, and after they have a little more practice they Harry M. Lubliner and Joseph Trinz have purchased through White & Tabor from Harris, Kusel & Co., the leasehold estate on the premises at the northeast corner of Michigan avenue and Garfield boulevard, 161x200 feet in extent, the deed naming a nominal consideration. In connection with the deal the selling company will erect for the buyers a structure which will contain a 2,000-seat theater on one floor, five stores, eleven shops and eighteen apartments after plans by Thomas R. Bishop, architect. The building will cost about $150,000. The lease on the holding is for ninety-nine years and provides for a yearly rental of $3,000 for five years, $3,500 for five years, $4,000 for five years, $4,500 for five years and $5,000 for seventy-nine years, the lease running from the Northern Trust Company as trustee of the Sydney A. Kent estate. In connection with the new building the American Bond and Mortgage Company has made a loan of $85,000, five years, six per cent.

Pyfer & Olsem, of Wilmette, had a large number of orders for the funeral of State Representative Louis J. Pierson, held in that city March 22, which was one of the biggest days they ever had outside of the holidays. One wagonload consisting of 25 large designs was delivered one afternoon, not counting the many other pieces that were delivered as rapidly as they were completed. A committee consisting of 30 members of the Illinois house of representatives and many other prominent people attended the services, which were held at the Wilmette Methodist church.

At Zech & Mann's store the receipts of orchid flowering sweet peas are unusually large but clean up nicely each day. Their supply of Mrs. Chas. Russell roses is very heavy, especially in the longer stemmed grades and the quality is all that one desires. Allie Zech says that trade has been good and is making preparations for what he believes will be a big Easter business.

Alois P. Frey, Crown Point, Ind., passed through the city this week on his way home from Montebella, Calif., where he was looking after his stocks of Rainbow freesias. He was more than pleased with their condition and will place them on the market for the first time this summer.

F. O. Franzen has a very attractive electric sign at his North Clark street store which was made to order from

B. Zima, 3053 West Twenty-second street, has the sympathy of the trade in the loss of his five-year-old son, George, whose death occurred Wednesday, March 22. The funeral was held the following Saturday with interment at Bohemian national cemetery.

The Boston store was given permission by the school trustees Thursday, March 23, to distribute 3,000 seedling Norway pine trees at one cent each among the school children to be planted on Arbor day.

O. A. & L. A. Tonner are handling a good supply of choice orchid flowering sweet peas, which one of their growers is just commencing to cut in quantity, and are in good demand at their store.

Adolph Malchow, 3745 North Clark street, has a fine supply of tulips in the leading varieties and is well pleased with the shipments of bulbs that he received, which was the best in years.

Roswell Shupp has returned from a pleasant visit at Hot Springs, Ark., and is again attending to his duties as manager of the shipping department at J. A. Budlong's store.

H. Bornhoft, of Crescent, St. Louis, Mo., was in the city on business this week. He was formerly in business here and all of his old friends were pleased to see him again.

Theodore Wirth, of Minneapolis, Minn., and J. J. Hess, of Omaha, Neb., passed through the city, March 24, en route to the National Flower Show, at Philadelphia, Pa.

John Risch says that the rose Mrs. Moorfield Storey is in good demand at Weiland & Risch's store, and is easily the leader in the shell pink class.

George Harrer, who has been on the sick list nearly all winter, is up and around again and was a visitor in the wholesale market this week.

Robt. A. Smythe, secretary of the Michigan State Horticultural Society, Benton Harbor, Mich., was a visitor in the wholesale market March 27.

A. C. Kohlbrand, who has been laid up for a week with lumbago, is again attending to his duties at the E. C. Amling Co.'s store.

W. W. Randall, with the A. L. Randall Co., is back from an out-of-town trip with a nice lot of orders.

Edward J. Delaney, formerly with Sinner Bros., is now with the White House Florist.

CHOICE CALLA LILIES

Unusually Fine Stock at $1.50 per Dozen.

Mangel, the Palmer House florist, always has a very pretty window display, and an artistically arranged basket of well grown Mrs. George Shawyer roses by John Canger one day last week attracted particular attention. The roses were unusually well grown and were some of the best that were ever offered on the local wholesale market. Mr. Mangel is gradually stocking up his conservatory with blooming plants and will have a large display during Easter week.

Joseph Ziska, Sr., and Emil Jehlik have returned from a most delightful visit at Hot Springs, Ark.; Mineral Springs, Texas, and other southern points. The two gentlemen were going into Mexico together to help catch Villa, but when they drew near the border and discovered what husky soldier boys Uncle Sam had to do the job, they decided that their services were not needed.

The E. F. Winterson Co. has acquired a large room, 20x60 feet in the basement, north of their present store, that was formerly used by the landlord for a machine shop and will use it for storing smilax and other green goods. Mr. Winterson is thinking seriously of installing an ice machine similar to the ones the A. L. Randall Co. and Kyle & Foerster have.

C. L. Washburn, of Bassett & Washburn, and wife are visiting with O. P. Bassett and wife and E. B. Washburn and family at Pasadena, Calif., for a few weeks. Bassett & Washburn are cutting a large quantity of short-stemmed roses and a fancy grade of orchid flowering sweet peas.

The John Kruchten Co. had a good call for gardenias all this week and succeeded in disposing of their shipments each day at an early hour. This firm is also offering a choice grade of Killarney and Mrs. Aaron Ward roses.

A. G. Fischer is operating the store in the Crawford theatre building at 23 South Crawford avenue, known as Fischer's Flower Shop, formerly the home of Clarke's Flower Shop.

Peter Papes, who operates the store known as the Central Floral Co., 35 Broadway, Detroit, Mich., renewed old acquaintances here this week.

M. C. Gunterberg is handling a good supply of sweet peas, but could use more of these flowers to good advantage from now on.

Ed. Siebrecht is visiting relatives at Winona, Minn., this week.

FLOWERS OF QUALITY

George Manos, the Union Depot Florist, calls attention to the fact that he has sold his eastern interests to John Kronis, and not Michael Kronis, which has been reported at different times of late. The following, which was published in these columns recently, will bear out his statements: "The co-partnership heretofore existing between George A. Manos and John M. Kronis doing business as the Railroad Station Florists, was dissolved by mutual agreement, February 4, Mr. Manos taking over the floral stands situated in the Union Depot and the Illinois Central Station at Van Buren street, in this city, and Mr. Kronis, the stands in the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Pittsburgh and the Pennsylvania Railroad station at East Liberty, Pa."

Poehlmann Bros. Co. is in heavy crop with roses and choice stock in all the varieties to be had in quantity this week. Otto W. Frese is of the opinion that roses will not be any too plentiful at Easter, which is the same report that is heard at several of the other houses. Orders for azaleas, lilies, hydrangeas, rambler roses and other blooming stock for Easter are arriving in every mail and the supply department is prepared to handle a record-breaking business. August Poehlmann and son Earl and Adolph Poehlmann and daughter Vera are attending the National flower show at Philadelphia this week.

The George Wittbold Co. had the decorations for the Charity Kirmess now being held in the Coliseum for the benefit of the war sufferers, and made a pretty good job of the main street, which is a reproduction of Unter den Linden, Berlin, and a credit to the decorators, Chas. Meyers and Ed. Armstrong. Louis Wittbold says that the George Wittbold Co. will have a large supply of bulbous stock for Easter, particularly hyacinths, which are being grown in their new Garland houses just completed at Edgebrook.

Wieter Bros. are cutting a large supply of carnations now and some particularly fine Washington, Ward, Alice and Philadelphia are included in the daily shipments. This firm is busy planting 10,000 Ophelia roses and the stock in general throughout the greenhouses is in splendid condition and large crops of roses are in sight for Easter.

At A. T. Pyfer & Co.'s store stock of all kinds is arriving in larger quantities, but is moving nicely and cleans up well each day. Mr. Pyfer looks for a brisk Easter trade and does not expect to find either carnations or roses any too plentiful before the rush is over and is advising all his customers to place their orders well in advance.

John Walsh, of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association, and wife had a narrow escape from ptomaine poisoning last week. Mrs. Walsh was seriously ill for several days, but is now well on the road to recovery. She was operated upon since and from last reports is reported to be progressing favorably.

Philip J. Foley called on a few of his many friends in the wholesale market this week and it is needless to add that he is as welcome as the flowers in May. The Foley Greenhouse Manufacturing Co. is busy putting up a large range of greenhouses for Bassett & Washburn at Greggs Station.

Sam Pearce has had a bonanza year in bulbous stock and the tulips will soon be over. Mr. Pearce reports unusual success in forcing Darwin tulips this year, securing stiff stems on these varieties by growing them cool. The warmer treatment of previous years produced weak stems.

Percy Jones is handling a large supply of green goods in addition to a complete line of cut flowers and is making preparations to handle a brisk Easter trade. Some particularly fine carnations are included in the daily shipments and are in large supply at present.

Paul Klingsporn of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association visited the Wellworth Farm Greenhouses and the Kidwell greenhouses at Downers Grove this week and is well pleased with the outlook for stock for Easter.

A. Lange had a large number of orders for the Mrs. Otto Young funeral this week, which included the family casket cover and many other beautiful and expensive designs.

Miller & Musser's principal offerings this week are sweet peas and daisies, which are in good demand, notwithstanding the general market conditions.

Milton Alexander, with Lion & Co., New York, called on the trade here this week and is heading for home to take in the big spring show.

H. B. Kennicott and wife have returned from their honeymoon and the happy wholesaler is again attending to his duties at the store.

BUSINESS IS NORMAL.

Market conditions during the past week continued practically unchanged. Roses are improving and found a ready sale, but carnations practically glutted the market. Lilies are becoming more plentiful and move freely. Bulbous stock is seen in larger supply and prices have fallen to some extent. Sweet peas are being cut by the thousands by the local growers daily and are coming in faster than they can be used. Violets and lily of the valley are plentiful. Indications point to a good Easter trade, and many of the retailers are showing they are in favor of preparedness and are ordering early. The demand for nursery stock is all that could be desired.

NOTES.

Wm. Foith has a sport of a rose pink snapdragon that is very fine, and it is netting him good returns. He has been cutting it all winter, and thinks it is the best winter bloomer he has ever seen. He also has some fine cinerarias.

H. Kusik & Co. have excellent stocks of high grade roses, carnations, lilies, sweet peas and bulbous plants in variety. Among the arrivals at this establishment last week were 18,000 southern grown jonquils.

The trade of this city was pained to hear of the death of George L. Freeman of Fall River, Mass. His usual visits and valued advice will be missed by his many friends.

W. J. Barnes is cutting heavily in carnations, lilies and bulbous stock. His stock in general is in fine shape and business in all lines is very satisfactory.

Chas. Biederman & Son report stock coming on in fine shape for Easter. Lilies are especially good and the bedding stock is in prime condition.

Funeral work and orders for luncheon decorations have kept the Peterson Floral Co. very busy.

A. D. Mohr is cutting from 1,500 to 2,000 Butterfly sweet peas daily. Bedding stock, of which he makes a specialty, is in fine shape.

M. E. Chandler of the Elmhurst Nursery Co. has his force in full swing. He says orders are heavy and he expects to clean up.

Arthur Jewell is kept busy all day and well into the night. This establishment is getting about all the business it can attend to.

T. J. Noll & Co. report excellent shipping business. They handle a large supply of stock, but it keeps moving freely.

Gilday & Skidmore report good business. E. H. Harvey is now manager of this store.

STOCK PLENTIFUL; BUSINESS FAIR.

Trade is only fair, with the exception of funeral work, which has been brisk, due to the fact that the weather recently has not been conducive to health. Sunshine, appearing through the greenhouse glass, would be much appreciated just now, as we are living in a very snowy atmosphere. The St. Patrick's day demand was active, the sale of green carnations exceeding all expectations, a large parade of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick no doubt stimulating the sale. As this parade is to be an annual affair, the trade will be better prepared next year. Had the birth of the "Patron Saint" been delayed until April, the florists could take care of the observance of the day much better, but of course this cannot be changed now. There is a plentiful supply of stock, especially roses, tulips, jonquils, daffodils and carnations. American Beauties are becoming more plentiful and lily of the valley, orchids and violets are in good supply. Handsome plants in artistically trimmed containers are to be seen in all of the stores, and they bring joy to the heart of the passer-by, who appreciates the contrast between them and his snow-covered clothing.

NOTES.

Ben Boldt and S. A. Lundy, of Denver, Colo., the former an ex-Buffalonian, renewed old acquaintanceships last week, when they passed through this city enroute to the Fourth National Flower Show at Philadelphia. Several of the local florists are also pilgrims to the Quaker City and the show.

Several of the stores have had their spring openings this week, but the weather has been most disagreeable, which is unfortunate, and it is hoped that the other stores, whose openings come later, will receive better treatment at the hands of the weather man.

"Near to Governor" Mahoney presided at an "anti-preparedness meeting" March 18, which was attended by about 5,000 "unprepareds." The "Near to Governor" was prepared, however—three of his audience report that he is a wonder.

It must be that the fragrance of flowers, which draws bees in general, also attracts the "political bee." It is hovering around a florist, with the indications that he will not get "stung," but will "bring home the honey."

Mark Palmer would have liked to answer the call to attend the show at Philadelphia, but says he hears a voice from Canada, calling: "The Forest City is very pretty now."

The florists' committee assisting the Elks on the details of the coming flower and fashion show are very busy and everything points to an excellent exhibition.

David Scott, of Corfu, N. Y., is making shipments to this market, the stock being of fine quality and it meets with the ready sale it deserves.

The funeral of a prominent citizen, March 25, called for considerable good stock. S. A. Anderson had the order for an elaborate blanket of pink roses.

Jerry Brookins & Son, of Orchard Park, N. Y., are sending a fine lot of orchid sweet peas to this city.

Visitors: John H. Dunlop and Geo. M. Geraghty, enroute to Philadelphia, Pa.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR FUNERAL WORK.

In addition to a normal general demand, the week has been marked by a heavy call for funeral flowers, the passing of two prominent citizens calling for an unusual number of elaborate pieces, and in consequence the florists report trade very good indeed. Special exercises have been held in all of the public schools for the purpose of furthering the work of planting more flower beds in this city. Local florists have been taking an active part and much good will no doubt come to the trade from this form of advertising.

We have had several very warm days recently, on two occasions the thermometer reaching 95 degrees, but a severe hailstorm, followed by a good rain and a drop in temperature has brought normal conditions again. No damage resulted from the hail in this city, but at Guthrie, the greenhouses of Furrow & Co. had 7,000 lights of glass broken. The stock escaped injury, and we are informed that the glass is covered by hail insurance.

Visitor: Arthur Zirckman, representing M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

S. S. B.

Trade conditions during the past week have been very satisfactory. The rose supply is good, but does not exceed the demand, and carnations are plentiful and find a good market. Funeral work has been heavy and helps in keeping the market cleaned up.

A brisk demand for funeral work has kept the staff at the Flick Floral Co.'s establishment busy during the past week. Several elaborate pieces, including a casket cover, were among the orders. H. K.

THE LEO NIESSEN CO., 1201-5 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Milwaukee, Wis.

FAIR MARKET WITH NORMAL PRICES.

With a good supply of most every line in cut flowers, and good quality, one ought to expect a little more activity in counter trade, which seems to lack ginger enough to make good business. Owing to the steady shipping trade most of the stock is cleaned up at normal prices. Freesias and Roman and Dutch hyacinths have lost in favor; also some of the other specialties, such as sweet peas, candy-tuft, snapdragons, calendulas and the like. Violets, owing to the continued cold nights, are holding out fine. Green goods, especially Sprenger, has been on the short side for some time.

NOTES.

The Holton & Hunkel Co. expects to have all their Easter lilies and other pot plants right in on time by growing same under normal conditions. Mr. Hunkel can use his right hand to a little better advantage since taken out of the plaster cast.

The A. F. Kellner Co. had the cream of the spring opening decorations of the local department stores and is busy now getting all plants in shape again. They are growing several thousand geraniums this year.

As far as we can learn, Miss Rose Semler, of the Edlefsen-Leidiger Co., and Archie McDonald, manager of Gimbel Bros.' cut flower department, are the only ones to attend the Philadelphia show.

Articles of incorporation filed at Madison, Wis., last week include the J. M. Fox & Son Co., Milwaukee; capital $25,000; incorporators, J. M. Fox, J. F. Fox and F. T. Fox.

Gust Rusch & Co. report that the Cudahy Floral Co. will commence to cut a large crop of long-stemmed American Beauties about April 1.

The C. C. Pollworth Co. has a larger stock of blooming plants for Easter this year than ever before, and they are looking fine at this time.

The colony of retailers has been increased by Martin Christiansen, who opened a stand at Park street and Murray avenue.

Hugo Locker & Sons, of Wauwatosa, have joined the ranks of the up-to-date by acquiring a swell large auto delivery car.

Harold Baumgarten gained newspaper notoriety a short time ago by exceeding the speed limit; damages, $26.50.

Some of those long fancy sweet peas seen in this market of late come from E. Carsten (local) and Watertown, Wis.

The Fox Point Floral Co. is now consigning some choice snapdragon and candytuft to this market.

Wm. Eschrich brought in the first of a large batch of the light blue, hardy delphiniums last week.

E. O.

BURLINGTON, VT.—W. E. Peters will remove to more commodious quarters at 128 Church street, April 15.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—P. M. Andrower, well known to the trade in both this city and Boston, where he was recently employed, committed suicide March 14.

BUSINESS BELOW NORMAL.

Quiet business characterized the market during the past week. Funeral work has been far below normal and a change in the weather has proven disastrous to transient trade. Roses and carnations are holding up well in price, but spring flowers, especially jonquils, sweet peas, freesias, violets and snapdragons are quoted very low.

NOTES.

The retail florists' association held its annual banquet at the Mission inn, March 20, and a very enjoyable time is reported by all who attended. Covers were laid for about 45 and the cabaret, which was an added feature, will not be forgotten for some time. Among the speakers of the evening were the following: H. G. Berning, Pittsburgh Cut Flower Co.

116-118 Seventh St., Pittsburgh, Pa.

After the alterations, which will cost $5,000, are made, the flower shop of Grimm & Gorly will be one of the most attractive retail establishments in any line of business in this city. F. X. Gorly is rushing the work along and expects to have everything in readiness by April 1.

George H. Angermueller, the well-known wholesale florist of 1324 Pine street, reports trade as being very satisfactory, but his stock and facilities for handling business are such that he says he can handle as much again without inconvenience.

The business at the Fred Bruenig establishment is now conducted by Mrs. Bruenig, assisted by her two daughters, who have charge of the designing. A handsome line of ferns and blooming plants are features.

Every flower shop in the downtown district had special sales of roses for $1. These sales help to keep business up during the Lenten season.

W. A. Roe, of Kirkwood, is bringing in some very fancy stock which is attractively displayed by the Windler Wholesale Floral Co.

Theo. Mueller, of Delmar avenue, is displaying some very handsome spring plants. His windows are very attractive.

J. F. Windt, of Bayard avenue, is specializing in ferns and is advertising special sales.

J. E. H. S.

MUSKOGON, MICH.—The Luhman Floral Co. has opened a flower shop at 150 Pine street.

GRAND FORKS, N. D.—Edward O. Lovell, one of the pioneers of this city, and founder of one of the most successful florist establishments in this vicinity, is dead at the age of 75 years.

TRADE VERY UNSATISFACTORY.

The early days of the past week were very discouraging, both to the wholesale and retail trade, on account of bad weather. The man who talks or writes about the weather may be a bore, but weather conditions are a big factor in the florist business. The majority of our citizens who can afford dinners, luncheons and similar entertainments that call for flowers seem to be at Palm Beach or other southern resorts; at least, if there is any number of them here, they are observing Lent, in seclusion. Whatever may have been said or written to the contrary, the vast majority of the citizens of New York have, in cold weather, enough worries in keeping warm and getting comfortable meals. We all admire the good, the true and the beautiful, but we hate to go cold and hungry. Roses have been, with practically all other stocks, very slow. American Beauties are down to $30 and $35 per 100, or at that rate for the best. Gardenias are positively a drug, long stemmed stock having sold as low as 50 cents per dozen on March 25. That, of course, was surplus stock, but there is a vast amount of it about, there being a very light demand even for the fresh stock. Orchids and lily of the valley are also very slow. If there is any choice it is probable that the tulips and narcissus, if they are good, are moving better than the bulk of other stock, although there seems to be a surplus of yellow. Sweet peas of the best quality are moving, but inferior stock has no chance. Violets are an almost impossible proposition.

March 27.—Stock is moving this morning, but at reduced prices, and as the weather for the past three days has been spring-like, we look for a great increase in the supply of stock and consequent dullness.

NOTES.

The Flatbush, Brooklyn, plantmen will be well stocked for Easter. At the range of Peter Wagner we found a great stock of both foliage and flowering plants. He makes a specialty of ferns, but also grows a great variety of other stock. Louis Schmutz Sr. and Jr., have a particularly fine stock of giganteum lilies and a great variety of other stock. They are now taking large orders for lilies for future delivery. G. Messeberg grows both cut flowers and plants. His cut flowers include carnations, callas and other stock. He has also a fine stock of lilies coming on for Easter. Among his plants we noticed a finely flowered lot of cinerarias. Genistas and pot roses are also noteworthy, and in foliage plants, evonymus and dracenas. At the John Scott range, the home of the Scottii fern, we found a great stock of this popular fern, both in large and small sizes. Dracenas, lilies, Magna Charta roses and a great variety of other plants are also noteworthy. Manager Boyd, of the D. Y. Mellis range, has a great stock of bedding plants coming forward. Cemetery work is a large part of the business at this range, and they are always well prepared for it.

M. Plunkett has taken the retail store at 198 Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, for many years conducted by T. M. Langton, and has fitted it up in good shape. Mr. Langton was compelled to give up business several months ago on account of blood poisoning in one of his hands. One finger has been amputated and the wound heals very slowly.

Peter Wenk, of Ozone Park, L. I., was calling on florist friends of Brooklyn, March 24. He has a fine range at Ozone Park and has recently bought a farm of 45 acres at Garden City.

He plans to plant three acres in peonies this season, and will also put in a great variety of nursery stock.

Mrs. Charles Atkins, of Rutherford, N. J., died March 25 after an operation. Her husband, who is a brother to Fred Atkins, of Bobbink & Atkins, holds a responsible position with that firm. She was an estimable woman and we extend our sympathy to the bereaved husband and children.

The annual ball of the Florist Chauffeurs' Association will be held at Bryant hall, 723 Sixth avenue, Saturday evening, April 1. Badges can be had March 31 and April 1 at Guenther Bros., 110 West 28th street. Tickets admitting gentleman and one lady are 50 cents.

Wm. Hay, of Providence, R. I., and family were in this city March 25, en route to the National Flower Show. Mr. Hay visited his old friend, J. K. Allen. E. S. Miller, of Wading River, N. Y., was a visitor March 25.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the Philadelphia flower show and it is probable that there will be a large delegation from this city March 28.

Charles Millang has taken another store just across the street from the Coogan building and put in a fine stock of hardy evergreen plants.

J. C. Vaughan was at his New York store March 24-25, going to Philadelphia on the latter date for the opening of the show.

W. H. Elliott and son, of Boston, were in this city March 27, enroute to the National Flower Show at Philadelphia. A. F. F.

Windsor, Ont.

A feature of the meeting of the Windsor Horticultural Society held March 24, was the address of the Rev. G. W. Tebbs, who told his audience of about 300 horticulturists of this city and suburbs what can be done in the way of beautifying vacant lots and the parks and boulevards of cities. His address contained much valuable information and was full of encouragement for the novice and inexperienced gardener. The address was illustrated with splendid lantern slides showing the subjects in natural colors.

FAIR BUSINESS WITH HEAVY SUPPLY.

Business is good but the supply in cut flowers is far greater than the demand. Roses are plentiful, and the same holds true with carnations. Bulbous stock is not as good as in former years, but the demand is not heavy. Gardenias and orchids hold firm in price; in fact, they are the only flowers that are not plentiful. Snapdragons are extra fine and meet with ready sale.

NOTES.

Dave Bissett is cutting more single violets than the local trade can dispose of, and has had to get the assistance of the wholesalers in disposing of the stock.

This city was well represented at the Philadelphia show. Practically every florist in this city attended, many going on the florists' special train.

Geo. C. Shaffer has been exceptionally busy during the past week with funeral work and numerous decorations.

Gude Bros. Co. are cutting some extra fine Mock roses at present; also some very good carnations. G. C. D.

New York's Belated Spring.

Spring, with that nameless pathos in the air which, it is alleged, dwells with all things fair; spring, with her reputed golden sun and supposed silver rain, is with us, according to the weather bureau and Hood's Sarsaparilla almanac.

Not only do these two authorities insist that the vernal season is upon us, but the spring-poets say so, too, in lyrics which were written last November for the May magazines, now on sale. According to them, spring, "a hoyden girl, all wreathed in daffodils, runs with light feet along the Avenue."

If she did it yesterday she wore galoshes and sucked a menthol lozenge. Furthermore, she must have run so fast that she accomplished her entire course in less time even than it took the last St. Patrick's day parade to pass a given point. No one saw Spring in New York yesterday. She denied herself to reporters and refused to issue any statement. Probably she remained in her room at a hotel, with her feet in a foot tub. Daffodils were no clothing for yesterday's climate, anyway.

If Spring was not in seclusion here, nursing influenza, she was mired waist deep in the snow and mud somewhere between St. Augustine and Trenton. The spots where she always lingers on her yearly coming to Manhattan knew her not.

No stenographers brought their luncheons into St. Paul's churchyard yesterday, to sit on the benches and thrill under the warm sun. Two inches of snow covered the old graveyard, deserted save for the ancient tombstones, leaning at discouraged angles, and a few disgruntled sparrows, which perched on the wet seats and swore at each other and the weather.

In the raw air Washington square retained the chill black and white of severe respectability. Garibaldi was the sole person who lingered there, and even he failed to look comfortable with his shirt collar full of snow water. Over the windows of his garret—that Parnassus of Greenwich Village—Bruno had drawn close the thick curtains of a mustard yellow, which doubtless served to convey some futuristic emotion to the educated mind and also to shut out the dismal view of pavements smeared with mud and grass plots plastered with slush.

And Union square, where Mr. Van Dyke has asserted metrically that tulips bloom in spring, had taken upon itself the appearance of a slightly used chocolate sundae. Brown mud bespattered the snow, and snow still clung to the shallow swamps which were once sidewalks. A few of the park's optimistic population, who ever wait in the hope that some one will drag them by force to advantageous employment, still lingered with expressions of high resolve such as Admiral Peary might have worn on his way to the pole.

Fifth avenue was a dark wet smear running through the city. On it the war-worn mercenaries of Fetherston were still laboring to push the festive snow shovel and in the sewers of spring the winter garment of Manhattan fling.—New York Tribune.

MARKET SUFFERS FROM OVERSUPPLY.

Stock has become very plentiful, and as a result we have the usual crowded Lenten market. The demand for stock is fair, but prices are so reasonable that it takes many sales to make them run into money. The rose supply is very large and carnations have become so plentiful that the supply is exceeding the demand. Easter lilies, however, are on the short side of the market, and the few good ones that come in clean up readily. Callas and rubrums are in a fair supply. The same is true of daffodils, jonquils, tulips and Duluth hyacinths. Sweet peas are very plentiful. Lily of the valley is in a heavy supply, but meets with a poor market. Other offerings include snapdragons, mignonette and orchids.

NOTES.

E. A. Foster is moving his store from the old location on Fourth street, near Plum, to the shopping district on Fourth, near Race street.

The J. M. McCullough & Sons Co. has discontinued its cut flower and florist supply departments.

E. G. Gillett's wire department has been extremely busy with designs as well as wire baskets.

R. D. Ruttle, of Covington, Ky., now has a Ford truck for the delivery end of his business.

Chas. L. Baum and his son, Carl, stopped in this city on their way to Philadelphia.

The Seed Trade

American Seed Trade Association.

J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y., President; Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., First Vice-President; F. W. Bolgiano, Washington, D. C., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fourth annual convention, Chicago, June 20-22, 1916.

BULBS are going well.

ONION SETS are in strong demand.

EARLY planting has begun in Jersey.

SHORT items remain about as already stated in our columns.

COUNTER trade at New York shows considerable improvement this week.

L. L. MAY, of St. Paul, Minn., who has been on the sick list recently, is at Pass Christian, Miss., for a brief vacation.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, March 29, were as follows: Timothy, $5.00 to $7.50 per 100 pounds.

COLUMBUS, O.—The Livingston Seed Co. reports trade is as good as last year's to date. Yellow Globe onion is in strong demand.

PHILADELPHIA, PA. — The Front street seed trade, Buist, Simon and others, report wholesale demand strong, a belated spring rush being on.

GLOXINIA roots are on the short scarce list with tuberose bulbs. Demand for cannas continues good and stocks of popular varieties are being rapidly reduced.

THE Philadelphia Ledger says a carrot seed order amounting to about 4,500 pounds is to be given for planting in Florida to help fill the soup cans for a war contract.

WARM weather at Chicago March 25, the thermometer registering 71 degrees, settled the case of the sets and now the dealers are figuring losses of the disastrous 1915-16 season.

EASTERN mail order seed houses are disappointed in March business. The opinion prevails that the top of the season passed March 20 and that lost business will be hard to recover.

VISITED CHICAGO: Mrs. A. J. Brown and Hirschel Brown and wife, of Grand Rapids, Mich.; A. T. Ferrell, Saginaw, Mich., enroute to California, whence he expects to return with his family about April 7.

THE following is the latest list of garden seeds which may not be exported from Germany: Peas, beans, spinach, lettuce, endive, cucumber, onion, leek, kohlrabi, carrot, cabbage, turnip, dill, sweet marjoram and Swiss chard.

SEED sweet corn at wholesale has taken a jump of 40 per cent or more. Field seed corn of mixed types will, if grown in the locality where needed, have to be used more generally. More than half the seed used in the west will be of the 1914 crop.

GERMAN catalogues recently received have a notice printed in conspicuous type stating that seeds of legumes sold by dealers are sold with the distinct understanding that the seed is to be used for sowing only, a heavy penalty being imposed if the beans are sold for food.

BELLINGHAM, WASH.—P. H. Dorsett and Dr. David Griffiths of the bureau of plant industry, Washington, D. C., arrived here March 22 and in the company of Supt. Henry Juenemann inspected the government bulb gardens. The lease of these gardens expires shortly and there is considerable doubt as to whether it will be renewed.

THE Western Cannery Association met at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, March 23. Arnold Ringier, representing the W. W. Barnard Co., and S. F. Leonard, J. C. Leonard, E. S. Leonard and A. H. Smith, representing the Leonard Seed Co., were in attendance, also Wm. C. Langbridge, of the Jerome B. Rice Seed Co., Cambridge, N. Y. It is said there were some extensive operations in sweet corn.

MONTREAL, QUE., March 22.—Vice-President Bury of the Canadian Pacific, who is out west, telegraphed here today that spring plowing will start south of MacLeod and at Crow's Nest by the end of this week, and should be general next week. Some plowing has already been done at Taber, Alberta, and it is expected that plowing will be general around Lethbridge by March 24. There should be a great deal of plowing done throughout southern Alberta next week.

French Seed Grower's Heavy Punishment

Marius Lombard, familiarly called Father Lombard at St. Remy, appeared before the military tribunal of the fifteenth district. Mr. Lombard is 71 years old. Before the war he sold teasels to Germany. Then came the war, which interrupted the trade. But if Mr. Lombard was unable to ship teasels to Germany, he found an outlet in Holland and Switzerland. This had never happened before. An inquiry showed that the parties who received, either in Holland or in Switzerland, the teasels from Mr. Lombard were old German clients. The latter had installed themselves in Holland and Switzerland and forwarded to Germany the shipments of teasels made to them by Mr. Lombard. These are the facts which led to Mr. Lombard's prosecution.

Before the judges Mr. Lombard pleaded he acted in good faith and that he thought he was trading with neutrals and not with Germans. Unfortunately for him, a confidential letter addressed to one of his friends in Switzerland had come into the possession of the authorities. "The Germans," he said in substance, "have some agents abroad. These agents pay cash for goods shipped them. In Holland a party named Jules Schmidt is, I think, one of these agents. I have shipped him some teasels. I believe there are in your city of Zurich some similar agents, namely Paul Straberger and Poncet. You would render me a service by obtaining some information about them."

The information was undoubtedly favorable, for Mr. Lombard soon commenced business. Other letters were incriminating and representatives of the government demanded such punishment as would tend to prevent similar offenses. Mr. Lombard was sentenced to two years in prison, fined 20,000 francs and deprived of civil and civic rights for 10 years.

Tulip Bulbs Tariff.

On January 28 the United States court of customs appeals in Washington held that the provisions for tulips in paragraph 210 of the tariff act of 1913 was intended by congress to cover cut tulip flowers and growing tulip plants and that tulip bulbs were relegated for classification to the residuary provision for bulbs carrying duty at 50 cents per thousand. The court of customs appeals is final in the case, but the government decided to make up a new case and place the matter once more before the customs court. This new case was tried before the board of appraisers at New York March 22. The government produced testimony to show that tulip flowers on account of their fragility could not be imported, but the importers showed that cut tulip flowers were regularly shipped long distances and that cut tulip flowers had actually been imported into the United States, arriving in good condition. The case is now pending before the board of appraisers for decision. After the board's decision is rendered an appeal lies to the United States court of customs appeals at Washington.

Next annual convention will be held September, 1916.

INDEPENDENCE, MO.—The range of Eric Frandsen & Co., which was frozen out in January, is now being run to lettuce.

DAVENPORT, IA.—One local greenhouse shipped 2,368 dozen cucumbers during February. The present price is about $2.25 per 2-dozen box.

FARMERS' BULLETIN No. 707, issued by the department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., gives an exhaustive account of the "Commercial Grading, Packing and Shipping of Cantaloupes," well illustrated.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—The Providence Market Gardeners' Association elected the following officers at the annual meeting, March 18: Everett C. Potter, Auburn, president; H. E. West and O. R. Peck, vice-presidents; Geo. K. Tinkham, secretary-treasurer.

Florida and California Crop Report.

In a report issued by the United States department of agriculture, the crop situation in Florida and California, March 1, shows the general situation in Florida to be 96.4 per cent as compared with 1915 and 91.2 per cent as compared with 1914. The California report covers only orange and lemon trees, celery and cauliflower. The condition this year was reported as 98 per cent as compared with 1915 and 102.5 as compared with 1914.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, March 28. — Mushrooms, home grown, No. 1, 25 to 30 cents per carton; lettuce, cases, 12½ to 15 cents; radishes, 35 cents to 50 cents per crate; celery, $2.00 to $2.10 per crate; tomatoes, six baskets, $2.00 to $2.25; cucumbers, per doz., 75 cents to $1.00.

New York, March 28.—Celery, per 12-inch crate, $2.00 to $3.00; cucumbers, $1.00 to $1.25 per dozen; mushrooms, $1.25 to $1.75 per 4 pound basket; tomatoes, 10 cents to 20 cents per pound; radishes, per 100 bunches, $2.00 to $4.00; lettuce, per strap, $1.25 to $1.75; rhubarb, per dozen bunches, 50 cents to 65 cents.

Early Southern Truck Crop Report.

The bureau of crop estimates of the United States department of agriculture has received from a list of selected growers in the southern states reports relative to condition of various truck crops March 1, as compared with February 1, 1916. With the exception of water melons and cantaloupes, on which no figures for February 1 are available, other crops, among which are snap beans, cabbage, cucumbers, kale, lettuce, onion, peas, potatoes, strawberries and tomatoes, show a falling off in condition. The general average of all the above, March 1, is about 75 per cent estimated on a basis of 100 representing normal condition.

Control of Sweet Potato Rots.

U. S. Farmers' Bulletin No. 714, of the department of agriculture, offers suggestions for the improvement of this situation by protecting the stock from disease, both in the field and in the storage bin. Five field diseases—stem rot, black rot, foot rot, scurf, and root rot—are described and directions for their control given. They are caused by fungi which invade the plants and their roots, and which may be carried to new areas and plants by insects, farm animals, infected implements, etc. The fungi are also often spread in manure used as fertilizer.

The means of securing healthy crops, therefore, must be the exclusion of the germs from the fields and from the seed and fertilizer used in the growing of the potatoes. The seed potatoes must be carefully selected the year before at digging time from hills which are known to contain healthy plants. This may be determined by splitting the stem of the plants and examining the interior for indications of rot. The seed potatoes themselves should be examined again before planting for evidences of disease. Where slip seeding is used, equal care must be taken that the cuttings are made from disease-free plants.

The hotbed is often the source of infection. Thorough disinfection every year should be practiced. The framework and the ground around it must be thoroughly soaked with a solution of formaldehyde or copper sulphate. Where formaldehyde is used, it should be used in the proportion of one pint of formalin to 30 gallons of water. With copper sulphate, one pound should be used with 25 gallons of water. The operation should be repeated after twenty-four hours. The soil for the hotbed, preferably sand, must be taken from some place where potatoes have never been grown; if possible, from some high place in the woods, removing the upper six inches of soil and using only the subsoil. Care should be taken to see that infection is not carried on the wagons, implements, and tools used.

Fully as important as the growing of sweet potatoes is the protection of them from disease while in storage. Sound potatoes only should be stored. In particular, any tubers affected with black rot should be thrown out to prevent the spread of this disease to the other potatoes in the bins. The storage rots, of which there are a number of kinds—such as soft, ring, and dry rots—can be controlled only by the adoption of rigid methods of sanitation in the bin and by handling the potatoes with care to prevent bruising. Regulation of temperature is also important.

Storing in crates prevents the spread of potato diseases to a great extent, by permitting of better ventilation and more even temperature throughout the storage bin. When the potatoes are first stored and for 10 days thereafter, the storehouse should be kept at a temperature of from 80° to 85° F. This will drive off much of the moisture, and sufficient ventilation, therefore, should be provided for its escape. The temperature should then be gradually lowered to 50° or 55° F. and maintained at that point.

After the potatoes are taken out of the storehouse, and before the next crop is put in, bins and crates should be thoroughly disinfected with a solution of copper sulphate. It will be necessary to apply the solution twice, with an interval of twenty-four hours between the two applications.

Valuable Products From Cherry Pits.

Sixteen hundred tons of cherry pits, now a source of annoyance and expense to canneries, can be made to yield two valuable oils and also a meal for feeding cattle, according to specialists of the United States department of agriculture. In addition 105,000 gallons of cherry juice now wasted in seeding cherries can be turned into desirable jelly and sirup, or even into alcohol. The specialists, however, have not yet carried their work to a point where they can say that the converting of this juice and the cherry pits would be a profitable side industry for the ordinary or smaller cannery. Some time ago there was similar investigation of the use of peach and apricot pits for making oils and meal, and a commercial enterprise has been established in California for dealing with these products. The department has published a bulletin on this subject and also one dealing with the utilization of raisin seed from the seeded raisin industry.

THE BEST RED CARNATION

per 100; $100.00 per 1000; 500 at the 1000 rate.

The color is the most brilliant red of any carnation on the market. The size of the flower is 3 to 3½ inches, with stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. The calyx never bursts and all flowers grade first. Best of all it is a steady and constant bloomer giving just as many flowers as the Enchantress of which it is a seedling. We have 30,000 plants now benched in our greenhouses of which 18,000 are devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. At our Pacific Coast Branch at Hollywood, Calif., we have 1500 plants devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. Orders from the far west can be sent direct to our Mr. E. B. Washburn, 252 South Orange Grove Avenue, Pasadena, Calif., who will give them his personal attention. An inspection of our greenhouses either at Hollywood, Calif., or Hinsdale, Ill., is invited.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia., President;
John Watson, Newark, N. Y., Vice-President;
John Hall, 204 Granite Bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.
Forty-first annual convention will be held at Milwaukee, Wis., June, 1916

THE tree planting dates in Pennsylvania this year are April 14 and April 28.

OTTAWA, ONT.—The Ottawa Horticultural Society has issued its 1916 prize list.

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA.—The Highland Nursery Co. has changed its name to Chandler Nursery Co.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Harrison Nurseries have invaded Chestnut street and entrenched their evergreens in the busy retail district at No. 931.

BROOKLINE, MASS.—David H. Sheehan, for the past 22 years superintendent of parks and playgrounds in this city, died recently, aged 70 years.

Grapefruit Pioneer Dead.

New York, March 27.—The man who put grapefruit on New York's breakfast menu, Eugene J. Gregory, is dead today at the home of his son, Julius Gregory, 900 Summit avenue, the Bronx. Mr. Gregory was a well-known republican in Pacific coast politics, having been mayor of Sacramento in 1887. He shipped the first car of California fruit to the east.

Citrus Canker in the South.

Louisville, Ky., March 27.—Ernest Walker, state horticulturist of Alabama and professor of horticulture in the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, visited relatives and friends here this week. The United States government has placed $600,000 at his disposal for the eradication of the citrus canker. He states that in some of the nurseries of the south the loss in nursery stock of citrus trees has been in the hundreds of thousands of dollars, the trees being condemned and destroyed to eradicate the canker.

Arbor Days of the States.

For the first hundred years as a nation the United States was too busy cutting down trees for homes, to realize that we were in many cases causing needless waste in our manner of home making. When we began to appreciate the real value of our trees, we also awoke to the fact that each year they were growing scarcer. As a result we have begun to plant trees and to try to save those we have. For a number of years nearly all the states have observed an annual Arbor day and in some states there have been one in the spring and another in the fall. It is, in some states, fixed by law, and in others the governor is empowered to proclaim a date which he deems advisable. It is observed more particularly by the public schools, the state in many cases furnishing the trees for the children to plant and the operation taking place with appropriate ceremonies. The greatest benefit from Arbor day, is the fact that tree-planting and the esthetic value of tree-planting is inculcated in the minds of future Americans while they are yet young. Following are the dates of Arbor day in the United States and Canada; also the manner in which it is fixed:

Arbor Days in United States.

Alabama—Day not observed.
Arizona—Arkansas—
California—No state holiday. Each county fixes own date.

Colorado—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred April 18 in 1913.
Connecticut—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred April 18 in 1913.
Delaware—

Iowa—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred April 23 in 1913.
Kansas—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred April 10 in 1912.
Kentucky—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred April 25 in 1913.
Louisiana—
Maine—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurs some time in May, usually on Friday; May 17 in 1912.
Maryland—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred April 11 in 1913.
Massachusetts—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred April 26 in 1913.
Michigan—Occurred May 9 in 1913.
Minnesota—Mississippi—
Missouri—Occurred Friday, April 14, in 1913.
Montana—Second Tuesday in May. Occurred May 13 in 1913.
Nebraska—April 22. Date fixed by law, but governor also proclaims it.
Nevada—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred April 18 in 1913. Likely to be changed to about April 1 as other date regarded too late.
New Hampshire—Occurred May 3 in 1913.
New Jersey—Second Friday in April. Occurred April 11 in 1913.
New Mexico—Date usually fixed by governor's proclamation.
New York—Occurred Friday, May 2, in 1913.
North Carolina—No regular date. Observed only irregularly and not each year.
North Dakota—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred May 2 in 1913.
Ohio—Date fixed by governor's proclamation, usually in April. Occurred April 4 in 1913 though this date is earlier than usual.
Oklahoma—
Oregon—Second Friday in April. Announced by proclamation by superintendent of public instruction. Occurred April 11 in 1913.
Pennsylvania—Date fixed by governor's proclamation. Occurred twice in 1913, early in April and on May 25.

ROSES.YOU NEED THE BIG MONEY MAKER, CHAMP WEILAND.

In color the most exquisite pink ever seen in a rose. Here is a rose, Mr. Grower, that caused the critics to shake their heads, but it was an up-and-down nod instead of the doubtful negative shake.

DO YOU ASK WHY?

Because in this rose they found their ideal, in the qualities that tend to make a truly grand variety, namely, color, foliage, size, beauty and freedom of bloom.

Small wonder—for in this rose we find a color unequaled by any other 'sport' creation of recent years. Take the tip—grow 'Champ Weiland.' Now ready, grafted plants, 100 for $35.00; 250 for $82.50; 500 for $150.00; 1,000 for $300.00.

MRS. CHAS. RUSSELL.

We have an elegant stock of the above, and offer grafted plants at $14.00 per 100; $120.00 per 1,000; own root, $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1,000.

For prices on standard varieties, write for special quotations.

Florists, Nurserymen and Seedsmen of the United States and Canada.

(Copyrighted and Title Trade-Mark Registered.)

Directory Revision

We are revising our Trade Directory of the Florists, Nurserymen, Seedsmen, etc., of the United States and Canada, and as there have been many changes in firm names and considerable extension of the area under glass, nursery grounds, etc., you would greatly oblige by supplying the following information with reference to your business:

In all cases state (1) Name of firm or proprietor, with the officers of corporations; (2) Name of manager; (3) Address, giving street and number or rural route; (4) City or town; (5) State; (6) When business was established; and (7) Whom present owner succeeded.

If Florists, state whether (1) Grower; (2) Retail, having store only, (3) Wholesale; or (4) Commission. If a grower state acreage of ground operated and give number of square feet of glass.

To ascertain the number of feet under glass in a given house, 12x145 feet 145 multiply the length (145 feet) by the width (12 feet) and you have in 12 that house 1,740 feet under glass, thus,.....1,740

If Nurserymen, state whether (1) Wholesale; (2) Retail; (3) Acreage of ground operated, and area under glass as in the case of florists above.

If Seedsmen, state whether (1) Dealer; (2) Grower; (3) What your specialties are; (4) If a grower, state acreage operated and area under glass, as in the case of florists above.

Inclose your printed letterhead or business card with above details of the business.

Please send the names and addresses of new firms in your vicinity.

Horticultural Supply Concerns

We also list all lines of Horticultural Supply Concerns, such as manufacturers of Greenhouse Building Materials, Boilers, Ventilators, Glass, Insecticides, Pots, Labels, Seed Bags, Fertilizers, Wire Designs, Tinfoil, Vases, Machinery, Implements, Sprayers, Seed Cases, Flower Pots, Florists' Boxes, Ribbons, Etc. The specialties are also listed under these heads in the case of advertisers.

GIBLIN & CO., Utica, N. Y.

New Orleans Horticultural Society.

Rare beauty in display, quality in exhibits and the artistic in the general arrangement are the principal aims in the final plans for the big spring flower show to be given at the Athenaeum April 6-9, and at the meeting of the general committee, March 23, new details in the extensive scheme of floral and plant attractiveness already worked out were discussed. A very novel section of the show was announced in a letter read by C. R. Panter, the secretary. It will be an amateur section. Mrs. J. C. Rathbone, who has lovely gardens surrounding her home at Harvey, will exhibit in the section. Mrs. Rathbone is exhibiting to encourage the artistic in amateur gardening, and out of consideration for the cause of the New Orleans Horticultural Society, that of aiding the Louisiana Anti-Tuberculosis League.

It was announced that the Maison Blanche had taken a big space for exhibition of garden supplies and would have a very attractive section. Abele Brothers announced that their exhibit would be principally of flowering and foliage effect, and Reyes & Company said that their exhibit would consist of general floral and wedding decorations. A. Dammerau will have a very pretty section, and E. Farley, of the Gentilly Terrace Nursery, will show a number of effects. Others planning handsome exhibits are C. W. Eichling, Steckler Seed Company, C. Eble, Max Scheinuck, Claude Ory, H. Mische, F. Dormay, H. Doeschner and A. Verlinde.

Garland Iron Frame Houses Pay. $1,000 a Day on Cucumbers.

The following article was taken from a recent issue of a large daily and is well worth reading through:

Illinois furnishes some of the best examples in the world of intensive farming. Few realize the great progress that is being made in the rural districts convenient to the Chicago market. Novelty crops in the matter of big profits are keeping pace with the general advancement of agriculture.

The Davis-Steiner Company at Ottawa, Ill., operates three large greenhouses all through the winter. In this plant is produced an enormous quantity of garden truck at a time when prices are the highest. It is no uncommon thing for the Davis-Steiner Company to ship 800 dozen of cucumbers in a day, the income from which is about $1,200. The aim is to supply green cucumbers to the best trade in the United States, and to a great extent this company is able to control a number of leading markets. A large proportion of its products come to Chicago, although there are several other growers who take advantage of the high prices which prevail here in winter.

One of the most interesting facts in the Ottawa enterprise is that the enormous production of cucumbers calls for the use of a very small tract of land. The company has three greenhouses devoted to this project, two of which are 60x800 feet and one 76x900 feet.

It is not necessary to specialize on one or two products. Experts have found that it is far better to raise a variety of truck. The aim should be to produce articles of commerce at a time when they are most likely to be high in price. The Davis-Steiner company raises cucumbers mainly for the winter trade, and in this way high profits are secured. There is an equal opportunity in producing lettuce, radishes, beets, peppers, chives, endive, collards, egg plant, kale, leeks and a dozen other commodities of almost equal importance which pay a high rate of profit.

A greenhouse can be so managed as to give a revenue every month in the year. As only a couple of acres are needed for such a plant, a land buyer saves enough in the real estate transaction to enable him to put up the greenhouses and install the necessary heating plant. It is also feasible to conduct something of a poultry business on any of these little tracts.

Persons raising vegetables will find it easy to supply an abundance of greens to their chickens. This is something greatly needed in the winter. Poultry works well into any scheme of this kind, but the fact deserving emphasis is that a way has been found to make truck raising extremely profitable around every large city, or at almost any point where there are good shipping facilities.

Be sure that the greenhouse you build is a Garland Greenhouse, for you will then get best results. Estimates and plans cheerfully submitted. Write for them today.

Connecticut Horticultural Society.

This society held its bi-monthly meeting in the County building, Hartford, Friday evening, March 24, First Vice-President Francis Roulier, foreman for Mrs. James J. Goodwin, in the chair, President G. H. Hollister being unable to attend on account of sickness in his family. It had been advertised that this would be "Grafting and Pruning Night," but the absence of our leader made it necessary to postpone same until the next meeting, which will be held April 14. Some discussion occupied part of the time on the advisability of pruning grape vines after March 1, some gardeners being of the opinion that it made no difference whether the grape vines were pruned after March 1 or before, while others were very positive that they should not be pruned after March 1 on account of the bleeding of the vines. One member facetiously remarked that they could not be pruned this year until after April 1 on account of the snow, which is three to four feet deep in many places.

Fred Boss, head gardener at Elizabeth park, exhibited a collection of calceolarias, all very fine specimens, and Warren S. Mason, superintendent of the Pope estate, Farmington, exhibited a vase of Eupatorium Lanthinum, showing excellent growth. George B. Baker, Alfred Cebelius, and J. H. Sierman were appointed judges, and after due deliberation they awarded the calceolaria a certificate of merit, and the eupatorium a cultural certificate. The attendance at this meeting was unusually large, and many applications were received for membership in the society.

The Closing Days.

From every angle the Fourth National Flower Show has exceeded the greatest expectations of both national and local committees. After the unusual attendance of the first day and the thousands of disappointed Sunday visitors who were turned away because the law forbids Sunday openings of shows where admission was charged, the management was prepared for a large public interest in the exhibition. It was hoped that the record made by the automobile shows of 1915 and 1916 when 16,072 and 26,156 tickets sold in box office would be beaten, but none hoped for this great record, which is official.
There were sold 42,048 50-cent tickets,
2,676 children's 25-cent tickets, 46,000 trade tickets at 25 cents each, or a total of 90,724 tickets. In addition, members of the S. A. F. were admitted free, which included all affiliated bodies, such as the national rose, carnation, and chrysanthemum societies, Florists' Telegraph Delivery, New York, Philadelphia and Chicago florists' clubs and the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society, whose spring show was given with that of the national show. In addition there was a very liberal free distribution of tickets to the press and other interests that had done so much to make for the success of the exhibition. It is estimated that there was an average daily attendance of at least 20,000 people. Thursday and Friday were high water days.
George Asmus bet John Young that Friday's gate would beat Thursday's, but lost by $10 or 20 tickets.

A plan to get by the Sunday closing law was evolved by W. F. Therkindson and it worked to a charm. Upon payment of 25 cents anyone could become an "associate" members of the S. A.

F. and no law could be invoked to keep members from attending their own exhibition on Sunday. If this plan had been put in operation in time to get publicity for the first Sunday, the price of 50 cents could have easily been obtained and no doubt a record attendance secured.

Everyone of the local craft is so enthusiastic about the results that immediate plans are now under way to make this an annual event as they feel sure that great business will come from the awakening of the public to the possibilities of plants and flowers in home adornment. While the next show would not have the national feature of outside exhibits, it is believed that quite as good a display can be made locally, as there was enough stock sent to properly fill a hall twice the size and it had to be so crowded together that much of its beauty was lost. Many beautiful features, such as the bulbous stock display, were staged but one day and were then crowded together as borders of groups to make way for the cut roses. Then the magnificent showing of carnations, while not put away, were crowded together to provide space for the sweet peas. It was the same with the retail florists' work, only one day being given to a class, which was then cleared away to make a place for the next day's entries.

Decorative work of this character deserves the best place in any exhibition; it should be given ample space and not crowded together as was the case here. The national flower show committee make a great mistake in not providing liberally for exhibitors before they begin to apportion and sell space to the trade.

Never was there an exhibition in which the cut flowers kept as well. Carnations are usually a one day flower. On Sunday many of the vases, although staged on Tuesday, after coming quite a distance were in very good condition. It was the same with the roses staged on Monday; many vases still held their flowers on Saturday.

Benjamin Hammond deplored the apparent lack of patriotism, in the fact that while this was a national show, there was so little display of the great national emblem; two flags were draped over the tunnel under the band stand and a few small flags flew from staffs on top of the building. The American Rose Society had decorated its booth with flags, but nowhere else were they displayed. There was abundant space for them on the balcony railings, which should have been used to emphasize the national character of the show.

A feature that was much appreciated by the visitors was the bureau of information. Under Chairman Fred Cowperthwaite and his active corps of assistants, some ten in number, visitors were given information that enabled them to see various exhibits in which they were most interested and added in many ways to their enjoyment of the show. Inquiries of all kinds from the outside were taken care of here by several telephones. Lost and found articles and all mail was handled by this bureau, whose efficient staff was ever alert to render every possible service in its power to the visitors.

Thomas Roland disposed of his great exhibit of acacias to William Kleinheinz for the Widener estate, who it is said will present duplicates to the Horticultural hall to add to the park collection. The price as given in the papers is $5,000. A number of the other trade exhibits were sold, Harry Betz buying the F. R. Pierson Co.'s entire collection of ferns. W. K. Harris sold his group of flowering plants, while the Robt. Craig Co. also disposed of most of their exhibit.

In speaking of results, George Asmus, chairman of the national flower show committee, said: "It's the biggest show we have ever had because Philadelphia is one of the largest flower loving centers in the country. More persons have paid to get into this show twice and have come back the third and fourth time than at any show I've ever been to. Also, it's the biggest show because Philadelphia has been the center of horticulture for years. Two years ago I mentioned this city as the one spot in the country where the finest show in the world could be staged and now my hopes have been realized."

"The Philadelphia show surpassed anything we've ever had", is the opinion of Secretary John Young. W. F. Therkindson, the big fly-wheel of the show, and to whom so much of its financial success is due, says: "The Philadelphia craft are as 'proud as peacocks' over the records broken and made. Western men said we never would be able to get the crowd to Convention hall and it was too big a barn of a place. We could never get stock to fill it. Well, it proved to be not nearly large enough for either the exhibits or the people that came to see them. So we are just tickled to death over results."

Commercial Growers' Rose Display.

Thursday's feature was the competition in the class for the best display of cut roses staged by commercial growers, to occupy 200 square feet, not more than 1,000 blooms to be used, the awards to be based upon quality of flowers and artistic arrangement. There were three entries, A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., Joseph Heacock Co., Philadelphia, Pa., and F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., being given first, second and third prizes in the order named. Too much cannot be said in praise of these exhibits which were all elaborate to a degree, and the staging committee managed to make room for them in advantageous positions, the two Pierson groups being near the entrance, while the Jos. Heacock Co.'s display was to the right of the center aisle near the music stand. Nothing was too good in the way of accessories, each exhibitor having selected immense, showy baskets of the latest design, using high pedestals on which to elevate and group the blooms to the best advantage. Cibotiums and farleyense were largely used in the Heacock exhibit as a setting for the vases and baskets, all of which were of the new color, battleship grey. The varieties used here were Radiance, long stemmed stock in two large vases, which stood out prominently at the top with a huge basket of White Killarney and Mrs. Aaron Ward in the center lower down. Two large vases of Killarney and Killarney Brilliant, together with a basket of fine Hadley filled out the space. Habermehls' arranged this exhibit which was complete in every detail.

The entry of A. N. Pierson, Inc., consisted of Killarney Queen, Killarney Brilliant, White Killarney, Hadley, Ophelia and Mrs. Aaron Ward. These were arranged in Neidinger baskets of immense size, the rear of the display being considerably elevated. Large pans of Adiantum cuneatum and farleyense were used among the roses, and buff-colored chintz or sateen cloth was used in draping the stands, falling to the floor in graceful folds. This exhibit was very effective and was the artistic work of George E. M. Stumpp, New York.

F. R. Pierson Co.'s space contained the greatest variety of roses, American Beauties predominating, there being over 300 long stemmed blooms of this variety, Sunburst, Ophelia, Ward, Richmond, Francis Scott Key. Mrs. George Shawyer, White Killarney and Killarney Queen being the other sorts. This was truly a beautiful collection and the arrangement was cleverly done by the company's staff. Aside from the immense basket of American Beauties which occupied the center of the display, the arrangement of the other varieties was not as striking as in the other competing groups, there being more vases holding fewer flowers. On Sunday this exhibit was still intact and looked very presentable, while several vases had been removed from the Heacock group and the display of A. N. Pierson, Inc., had been entirely dismantled.

Adolph Farenwald, Roslyn, Pa., had a huge basket of 50 Killarney Brilliant which was a great feature, at all times surrounded by throngs of admiring visitors. This was the only entry, but it would have taken a wonder to have beaten him out.

Retailers' Rose Display.

In the class for baskets, bouquets and table arrangements for retailers, the lack of competition was the only disappointing feature of the show. For some reason the "artists" will not come out, but very few of them venturing into the open. While the prizes offered were liberal there were a number of classes for which there were no entries. In table decorations the first prize was carried off by the Forrest Flower Shop with a tall center arrangement of pink roses, around which on the cloth was a narrow moss covered circle in four sections with two small standard trees of Sweetheart roses at each end and a garland of miniature roses connecting the same. Corsages of roses were also part of this display. The London Flower Shop was awarded second honors, a float of Prima Donna roses being used as a centerpiece with pink corsages. Voller's House of Flowers had a beautifully arranged basket of Mrs. Charles Russell as a centerpiece.

A gypsy basket artistically arranged with Mock and Sunburst captured first prize for Charles Henry Fox while another clever display in the basket class by the London Flower Shop was second in excellence.

In the entries of bouquets, a prettily arranged colonial bunch of Sweetheart and George Elgar roses won a blue ribbon for E. H. Slattery of Buffalo, N. Y. The London Flower Shop was first in the class for brides' bouquets with a shower of White Killarney with miniature white roses in the show without narrow ribbons. Voller's House of Flowers came second with a beautiful rose shower and ribbon arrangement.

Charles Henry Fox's entry of Bride roses was overlooked by the judges. This was a bridal muff bouquet (if it might be called a bouquet), correct in every detail, but in competition with the shower bunches it failed to score, doubtless because its identity was not discovered.

Carnation Arrangements.

Friday was "Carnation day" again, when the best arranged vases of blooms, covering 200 square feet of space, were the feature. There was only one entry, that of the Strafford Flower Farms, Strafford, Pa., while a healthy competition was desired, but the exceptional beauty of this grouping, with the careful attention to all details, and the splendid quality of the flowers, in a manner made up for the omissions. There were 17 large square wooden pedestals of varying height, painted black, arranged on a dark blue cloth 10x20 feet. The jars containing the flowers were painted, some blue and others black. There was also a large orange-colored bowl in the center of the display. Each vase was filled with 100 or more blooms of one color, five vases being of white, four were of blue and eight of light pink, the receptacles being placed upon the top of the pedestals, squares of gilt, yellow or blue embossed papers upon which they rested adding contrast, while pyramidal box trees arranged between the vases giving a pleasing green effect. As a whole this was the finest display, arranged for effect, that has ever been exhibited in the United States, and E. A. Stroud, proprietor of Strafford Flower Farms, is to be congratulated for this evidence of his skill and his generosity in going so far beyond schedule requirements.

Table decorations, basket arrangements and carnations in vases were also exhibited on this day, the displays being judged by points. The Forrest Flower Shop, Philadelphia, Pa., had a table decoration that won out with a score of 90 points. In this arrangement a tall, slender, willow vase on a round plateau base was filled with Gloriosa and Ward carnations, acacia sprays being used for green. Corsages and boutonnières of carnations were used to complete the decoration. The center of the table of the London Flower Shop, Philadelphia, Pa., was a large black rose float filled with pink Ward carnations, pink snapdragons and farleyense. The corsages were of pink carnations and Sweetheart roses tied with silver cord. Gude Bros. Co., Washington, D. C., had a large center piece of pink carnations, relieved with white daisies and farleyense. The plateau basket was beautifully arranged. The corsages were of pink carnations. Both of these two tables scored 86 points. All three of the table entries mentioned were tastefully set with cut glass, china, etc. Voller's House of Flowers had a tall center of Gloriosa, pink Ward and white carnations arranged with farleyense for a base. This scored 70 points.

The Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, N. Y., won in the vase contest with a splendid, large arrangement of Cottage Maid and White Wonder. In the class for private gardeners, Wm. Kleinhertz was first and H. Barclay second. Both exhibited handsome vases.

The London Flower Shop won first prize with its high-handed gypsy basket filled with pink Ward, pink snapdragons and ferns. Voller's House of Flowers being second with a splendidly arranged basket of pink carnations with two-toned ribbon and tinsel butterflies.

The Sweet Pea Display.

Exquisitely beautiful in their dainty colorings, with magnificent flowers borne, many of them on 15-inch to 18-inch stems, were the hundreds of vases of these lovely and justly popular flowers. The exhibit for the most part was arranged on the rear sloping stage, where table after table, rising one above the other, presented a grand sight. The entry of J. H. Smith, Ridgefield, Conn., the largest collection of orchid flowering sorts, was varied and very high classed, farleyense being used as green to give contrast. William Sim, Cliftondale, Mass., was, as usual, a large exhibitor and his flowers were wonderfully fine. He received 16 first prizes in the 25, 50 and 100 classes, and also won the blue for the display covering 100 square feet. These were very tastefully arranged in large and small vases made into a pyramid, with ferns to add to the already graceful setting. W. Atlee Burpee & Co., Philadelphia, Pa., won second with a varied assortment of the best varieties and a number of new Fordhook seedlings not yet introduced. There was a green cloth background, with strings of smilax and asparagus festooned in front of the table. Supports containing small vases rose at intervals and these were filled with choice sprays, this method of elevating being much better than the level table display. Gude Brothers Co., Washington, D. C., covered a circle of 100 square feet with a garden effect; large tubs filled with sweet pea vines in blossom were placed around a circle, while between each tub was a wire stand containing tubes filled with cut sprays. In the center, rising high above the others, was a large tree-like effect with concealed tubes filled with cut sprays. The ground was covered with green sheet moss. A space large enough to enter gave a garden effect to the whole, which was much admired.

A splendid table decoration of sweet peas was that of the London Flower Shop, Philadelphia, Pa. The table was elegantly furnished with china, glass, candelabra and other ware to make it complete. The decorations were an alabaster float filled with pink sweet peas, superb flowers. A quantity of pink moline surrounded the float, to which were attached birds, butterflies, etc. The same flowers were used for corsages. This elegant but simple entry won the blue. The Forrest Flower Shop, Philadelphia, had an elaborate table with a parasol of varied colored sweet peas rising from a basket vase. Bisque figures of women, clothed in skirts of different colored sweet peas worked in patterns, were placed at intervals around the center. There were corsages of pink sweet peas. This entry won second prize. Voller's House of Flowers, Philadelphia, had for a centerpiece a basket turned on its side on a plateau filled with sweet peas, making a very pretty effect.

In the class for baskets filled with sweet peas, Charles Henry Fox, Philadelphia, was first with a splendidly filled gypsy basket of Yarrowa and Venus. Salmon ribbon and silver butterflies were a feature. Voller's House of Flowers was second, with a basket of splendid sprays, with pink and lavender ribbon. Gude Brothers Co. staged a tall basket of lavender peas that looked very showy.

The bride's bouquet prize was won by the Forrest Flower Shop—all white sweet peas in shower effect, with a large broad ribbon bow. Voller's House of Flowers was second with a similar bunch, with ribbon shower. The corsages were well made, that of pink by the Forrest Flower Shop won first and one arranged by Gude Bros. Co. was second.

The Banquet.

Five hundred visiting and local members of the S. A. F. and their ladies were guests of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia at a banquet given in Horticultural hall, Wednesday evening. The large hall was nicely decorated with palms and smilax, while a profusion of roses, carnations, snapdragons and other flowers in vases and baskets embellished the tables. The officials and speakers were seated on an elevated platform extending across the stage end, while the guests' tables ran at right angles the length of the hall. After an excellent menu, with nothing stronger than coffee, President George Burton spoke a few words of welcome, and then introduced J. Otto Thilow as the toastmaster, which position he filled in a masterly manner. He addressed the gathering as the bone and sinew of the business, and lauded the S. A. F. as a great factor in the florist industry of the country. Mayor Smith, who graced the occasion with his presence, made an address, welcoming the visitors and told of the many advantages of living in Philadelphia. He deplored the fact that he could not allow the Sunday opening of the exhibition, but law was law and he was compelled to enforce it, although he would like to have done otherwise. Philip Breitmeyer (the ever genial Phil) told of how, when he was getting first lessons in the business at Pennock Bros., he wired Safrano and Bon Silene roses to hold them together, and compared the best then with the wonderful blooms seen in variety at the present show, particularly the sweepstakes vase of Hadley staged by the Jos. Heacock Co., which was a revelation. He praised the wonderful rose garden of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., due to the indefatigable efforts of J. G. Eisele, whose love for flowers, particularly the rose, knew no bounds. While people attended the show and greatly admired the exhibits, he said he doubted if they appreciated the great work necessary to bring it to such perfection. He advocated the employment of women in cut flower stores, they being the best kind of assistants and the work being pleasant and very suitable for them. He said a good word for the Florists' Telegraph Delivery and laid stress on the fact that the trade generally does not realize the good business it was possible to get in this way. Five million dollars' worth of business had been handled so far by this association and there was no reason why this amount could not be increased to $50,000,000.

Wallace Pierson, who still shook his head when the rose garden subject was broached, said he never held a grouch for more than four minutes, but he gave notice that he would get there next time and illustrated his points with witty stories. He spoke of the great difficulty in moving such perishable stock under such unfavorable weather conditions, having to go through two feet of snow to reach the railroad. The work of the department of agriculture at Washington, which, by showing examples of home adornment for the farm, gardens and lawns, was, he said, doing a great uplifting work, demonstrating how a few hundred dollars in ornamental planting created values out of all proportion to the amount invested. Successful outside rose growing, while easy on the Pacific coast, meant hard work in the eastern states. He lauded men such as Rev. Dr. Mills, who had made the state of New York a flower country, and added that he thought more work should be done for the amateur. The forcing of roses, he stated, represented 60 per cent of the cut flower industry of America.

Several noted after dinner speakers kept the diners in good humor. J. A. Wood had never seen a rough or tough looking florist, and if he did, believed it would, on account of the refining influences of flowers, be his only salvation. J. Otto Thilow, in introducing Mr. Cattell, who was selected to toast the ladies, said that it was a woman, a California lady, who many years ago had written the first treatise on horticulture. Mr. Cattell said Adam would never have gotten a move on but for Eve, adding that flowers were God's way of writing love on the face of the earth. Happiness was like a shadow—it would follow you, but you could not go after it. He convulsed his hearers with the story of the man who planted a row of onions between his potatoes, so that the tubers' eyes would water and keep them moist in dry weather.

Wm. F. Gude read a number of telegrams selected from over 500 received from prominent officials and mayors of cities, which had been posted at the F. T. D. booth in the flower show, thanking the association for the flowers received and wishing them every success; also press notices of these gifts showing the wide publicity the work of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery had received by this brilliant idea, which had been so well carried out. Horticultural societies, he said, had done much service in encouraging the love for flowers. He decried the Sunday closing of the show, when the beautiful flowers preached a far greater sermon behind the closed doors of that empty building than any heard in the churches whose doors were open on that day.

Joseph Hill, president of the American Carnation Society, praised the work of those who had done so much to bring the wonderful display of cut flowers and plants together. The achievement of Miss Anna Jarvis in founding Mothers' day, which had done so much to popularize carnations, would, he said, be recognized by the society in a substantial way in the near future. Toastmaster Thilow read a letter from the Mothers' Day Association, of which Miss Jarvis is president, asking co-operation in making the coming Mothers' day celebration greater than any that has gone before.

W. F. Therkindson, publicity chairman, who did such heroic work for the show, told something of the methods by which he had been able to get some 350,000 lines of reading matter show publicity, at no cost for space to the S. A. F. It was the best advertised show of any description that has ever been held in Philadelphia. A quartet of good voices sang together and also as soloists, their numbers at intervals being very much enjoyed, and it was midnight before the programme was finished. It was the most successful affair ever given by the club.

Taplin's Impressions.

Possibly the strongest first impression one received upon entering Convention hall was the fact that the great hall presented such wonderful masses of brilliant color, and yet formed one harmonious whole. The second impression was that of quantity, for each exhibitor seemed to be bent upon having an abundance of material to fill his allotted space. In fact, if one were inclined to be critical, the criticism would be most natural that the majority of exhibits were too crowded, and yet this was a condition that would better be blamed on the size of the building, rather than on the lack of taste on the part of the exhibitors. In other words, Convention hall, the largest hall in the city, proved to be far too small for such a wealth of material, for the very active and able committees in charge of the show had succeeded even beyond their expectations in interesting the horticultural world in the national show, and proved beyond a doubt that Philadelphia slowness was a pretty lively pace after all.

As for special features, the hall was full of them, but the exhibit of new Holland plants from Thos. Roland, Nahant, Mass., was again among the leaders, the plants arriving in splendid condition, were finely grown, beautifully flowered, and the arrangement was altogether charming.

Then there was that extremely tasty arrangement of orchids by the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., that received a well-merited first prize, the living picture of miltonias in the back being exquisite, to say nothing of that happy touch of brilliant color in the foreground that was gained from a good piece of Sophrornitis grandiflora. It was an artistic bit of work, and a credit to those who designed it.

The heaths and chorizemas and a number of other pretty and unusual plants in the display of Knight & Struck Co., Flushing, N. Y., attracted lots of attention from plant lovers in general, and as usual, were shown in admirable condition.

That large caryota shown by Wm. Kleinheinz, Ogontz, Pa., and staged in the centre of the hall, was truly a magnificent plant, and well deserved its commanding position, for it is rare that so perfect a specimen of this palm is seen. The same exhibitor showed quantities of other fine plants too, both foliage and flowering, and doubtless has a good string of blue ribbons to his credit. Another veteran among the private exhibitors is Thos. Long, who has presided so ably over the plant collections at the Drexel place at Bryn Mawr, Pa., for many years, and who is always on the job at the Philadelphia shows. There were lots of fine plants in his exhibit on this occasion, but a specimen of Cyrto-stachys Renda, a palm with bright red leafstalks and pinnate leaves, was particularly fine.

Of course there were other orchid exhibits in addition to that of the Roehrs' Co., and great quantities of well-flowered plants among them, the Roebling collection being especially noteworthy on account of the great number of rare species and varieties contained therein, and also on account of the pleasing arrangement of the plants, while the exhibits of Louis Burk and that of Lager & Hurrell, Summit, N. J., were as much in themselves as the total exhibits in the orchid classes at some shows.

And then there were rose gardens, and right here we want to stop long enough to say that this feature is one that appeals to the general public, for at every one of these gardens the streams of visitors stop, look, and listen, while the patient attendants answer the multitudinous questions that are fired at them. The Robert Craig Co., Philadelphia, Pa., put up a fine arrangement in their rose garden, an exhibit embodying many artistic features and lots of nice plants, chiefly of the rambler and polyantha types, and in the competitive class were awarded first prize. A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., and M. H. Walsh, Woods Hole, Mass., also showed good roses and good taste in their arrangement, but the rose garden displayed by Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., and to which were awarded two gold medals, one from the S. A. F., and one from the American Rose Society, was generally conceded to be a distinct advance in displays of this character, the arrangement having a natural effect and the material being of the best; in fact, many enthusiastic people declared that no such roses had been shown before in the United States. This collection was composed entirely of hybrid teas, of which there were 23 varieties, and all in the pink of condition, and a few ramblers were used to decorate the fence and arches at the entrances.

Trade exhibitors were many in miscellaneous flowering plants, Wm. K.

Harris, Philadelphia, Pa., showing a fine line of stock, a feature that is not unusual for this good grower, and then there were forced bulbs in abundance from many growers, the bulb beds of the Henry F. Michell Co., Inc., also of Philadelphia, being very well set up, and forming part of a Dutch garden.

A small lot of Japanese maples arranged by Thos. Meehan & Sons, Germantown, Pa., formed a very neat exhibit, but then they were practically all neat exhibits, and there were lots of them, and on the whole, Philadelphia feels pretty well, thank thee, so far as exhibitions are concerned.

How the Trade Exhibitors Profited.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., feel that as an advertising venture, it was a most successful one.

"Very good business", said J. W. Boas, Philadelphia.

The Edwards Folding Box Co., Philadelphia, Pa., will take twice the space for their exhibit at the next national show.

A. L. Randall Co., Chicago: "Never saw so many of the trade at a show before; unusually good business."

The A. W. Smith Co., Pittsburgh, Pa., landscape gardeners, reports splendid results.

S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, had good results both at their booth and the store.

Hitchings & Co. had better results than at any previous show.

Wertheimer Bros., New York, booked good business and met more of the trade than at any previous exhibition.

Benjamin Hammond, of Hammond's Paint & Slug Shot Works, Beacon, N. Y.: "Compares very favorably with S. A. F. trade exhibitions."

Coldwell Lawn Mower Co., Newburgh, N. Y., had the best business ever secured at any trade exhibition.

Joseph G. Neidinger, Philadelphia, Pa., made many sales and met more of the trade than ever before at an exhibition.

It was the first exhibit of the Spencer Automatic Heater Co. in connection with the florist trade but this firm says it was certainly a great success.

John C. Moninger Co., Chicago: "Many new customers, excellent business and good prospects."

M. Rice Co., Philadelphia, Pa., reports that the attendance from all parts of the country was wonderful and results from a business standpoint were very good.

H. Bayersdorfer & Co., Philadelphia, were never so busy before, both at their exhibit in the hall and at the store.

John A. Evans Co., Richmond, Ind., are very well satisfied. Excellent business was booked and good prospects in sight.

Advance Co. Richmond, Ind., reports that everybody they wanted to see seemed to be at the show and they had splendid results.

The Lectures.

The lectures, which were free and to which all visitors to the show were invited, were a feature much appreciated, and the large room set aside for the purpose was taxed to its full capacity at every lecture. The room seated 350 persons, but it was often the case that 100 or more were standing around the outside aisles. As an added attraction, moving pictures of the Pasadena flower pageant were shown at the close of each talk. The lectures, all of which were illustrated, were given each afternoon and evening, the subjects and speakers being as follows: "Home Grounds", by W. N. Rudd; "Rock Gardens", by Richard Rothe; "Orchids", by Professor E. A. White; Demonstration of flower arrangement and color combination, by Max Schling; "Roses", by Robert Pyle; "School Gardens", by Miss Caro Miller; "Explorations in Japan", by Frank N. Meyer; "Dahlias", by Richard Vincent, Jr.; "Flowers from Snow to Snow", by J. Otto Thilow; "School of Horticulture for Women", by Miss Elizabeth L. Lee; "Civics for Home and Municipality", by J. Horace McFarland; "Bulbs for Summer Bloom", by E. I. Wilde; "Gladioli", by Arthur Cowee.

The Workers.

The credit for the success of this great show belongs to so many people, those of the local craft who worked so hard for the honor of this city, and the officers and national flower show committee of the S. A. F., who have given so much of their time at the former shows for the preliminaries, such as schedule making, working up enthusiasm, providing for the financial end, etc., that one can scarcely name them all. Of the national flower show committee, Thos. Roland, John Young, George Asmus, Chas. H. Totty, Adolph Farenwald and Wm. Craig appeared to be always on the job. Arthur Herrington, the manager, who was called upon at the last minute, was the right man in the right place, and straightened out the congestion after the first day, very much improving the appearance of the show. Wm. Kleinheinz secured exhibits from everywhere—his work was most valuable. W. F. Therkildson was the man who brought the people there; no such efforts in awakening the public to any similar enterprise on this or other lines have ever aroused half the enthusiasm shown here. Very much of the success is due to his great efforts. The trade ticket committee, with E. J. Fancourt chairman, and Mark P. Mills, W. K. Harris, E. C. Dungan, Alfred Burton and others, worked very hard and produced phenomenal results—all honor to them. Fred Cowperthwaite and his committee were also a great factor after the show opened.

Michell's Dutch Garden.

The exhibit of Michell's Seed House might truly be termed "A Leedle Bit of Holland." The rear was formed by a beautiful oil painting depicting massive beds of tulips and hyacinths in bloom. Even the quaint windmill had not been overlooked, with its revolving wheel of four paddles, each outlined with miniature electric lights, producing a novel effect that attracted the eye as one came into Convention hall at the main entrance. At the base of the landscape scene was a row of boxwood in front of which were planted in tasteful form, lily of the valley, funkias, and andromeda with its attractive red foliage. In front of this background was formed one of the finest pieces of real sod turf, greenhouse grown. This looked so beautiful and perfect that some spectators refused to believe that it was real sod, and these "doubting Thomases" were permitted to satisfy themselves by putting their hands on it. This lawn effect surrounded the attractive fence enclosure on all sides.

In the center of the garden were three gorgeous flower beds made of hyacinths and tulips in choice variety, Grand Maitre, Queen of Pinks and Grandesse hyacinths and Kaiserskroon tulips being predominant. The garden walks were formed of small, clean pebbles that set it off wonderfully, while an attractive stone bench or a vase here and there added finish. Even the store bird bath with birds perched thereon had not been overlooked. Scattered through the garden at intervals were selected specimens of pyramidal, tree shaped and standard boxwood in stone vases. At the front, just inside the enclosure, was an attractive border made of Giant-flowering pansies in full bloom. Intermingled with these were English daisies, forget-me-nots and early-flowering perennials, the already beautiful effect being enhanced in the corners or ends with dwarf Japanese maples, mountain laurels and rhododendrons in bloom. At the corners of the garden enclosure and on the side pillars were entwined flowering roses, while a pergola connected the garden with a greenhouse, the benches of which were banked with cyclamens, calceolarias, cinerarias, rhododendrons, lilacs, bougainvilleas and numerous other early spring flowering plants, all at their best. The garden was given additional finish in the presence of a boy and a girl dressed in Dutch costume, an attractive feature of the exhibit.

The entire decorative scheme was the work of the Michell Co.'s decorative expert, Philip Freund, while practically the entire display was grown especially for the flower show at the company's nurseries. On the lawn outside of the entrance to Convention hall, an endless variety of attractive highly colored evergreens and box-bush had been planted by this firm. These plantings were intermingled with settings of hyacinths and narcissi in full glory, while on the lawn an American flag was executed in a clever manner in red, white and blue hyacinths, the pole being worked out in yellow narcissi. The indoor exhibit of the Michell Co. was awarded first prize and the gold medal for the most artistic garden.

Antique Flower Pots.

The accompanying illustration is of the collection of antique pots collected by the Whildin Pottery Co., Philadelphia, Pa., from a number of points in Pennsylvania. A number of them are 50 years old and represent the industry before the age of machinery. Some are square in shape and others round and scarcely taper at all. It was a very interesting exhibit, but was unfortunately marred by an accident, a large plant falling against the case in which they were displayed, breaking about one-fourth of them.

Additional Awards.

The following awards were made by the judges, supplementary to those reported in our issue of April 1, pages 526-527:

A London Flower Show.

See the faces of the flowers,
 Strange and fair,
 Watching through the weary hours
 While the herded humans stare.

Like country saints brought up to town
 From cloistering wood and lonely down, Remote they seem;
 Wrapt in a wistful dream
 Of upland meadows fragrant to the sun,
 Rich with an ardent life for ever new-begun,
 And quickening winds that go
 With ghostly steps across the supple grass,
 Shaking from all who grow
 Music of adoration as they pass.
 In this sad air, they say,
 No plant can pray.

Here is a daffodil,
 Six-winged, as seraphs are;
 They took her from a Spanish hill,
 Wild as a wind-blown star.
 When she was born
 The angels came
 And showed her how her petals should be worn.
 Now she is tame—
 She hath a Latin name.

There, set in mimic rock—
 As if to mock
 The ultimate austerities of love
 That must in poverty its passion prove—
 A mountain hermit in his furry dress;
 Brought from the creviced height where he alone
 Sang from the sheltering stone
 Perpetual psalm of joy.
 And did his private ecstasy confess;
 Forced to disclose
 The secret that he whispered to the snows,
 And sold to make a gardening woman's toy.

Yet, with their homesick eyes
 As other saints,
 So these evangelize;
 Into our smutty streets, where beauty faints Bringing authentic news Of Paradise.
 How shall a flower refuse
 In heathen lands her gospel to declare?
 Dost she not wear
 The sacred sigil of the Only Fair
 In this shut room
 She may not bloom
 With the exuberant splendor of the free,
 Crying in colored joy her crescent ecstasy:
 But still,
 As generous lovers will,
 She can exult to share his saving pain:
 And, exiled from the field,
 Her wild sweet magic yield
 As part of Perfect Beauty's passion to be slain.
 —Evelyn Underhill.

His ory of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia.

Abstract of paper read by Secretary David Rust before the Florists' Club of Philadelphia.

The permanent organization of the Florists' Club of Philadelphia was effected on October 5, 1886, with Robert Craig as president and Edwin Lonsdale, secretary, although for a year previous there had been a body known under this name, organized primarily to entertain the members of the Society of American Florists at their annual convention to be held in August, 1886. Previous to this temporary organization of the club there had been two societies formed, the Growers' Association, which held meetings at Bull Head Hotel in West Philadelphia for the purpose of fixing prices, chiefly of soft-wooded plants, and the Florists' and Growers' Association which met at Thirteenth and Market streets. The latter, when the club was formed, had been in existence about three years, for in THE AMERICAN FLORIST of March, 1886, appeared an extract from the Philadelphia Times stating that the florists of Philadelphia held their third annual banquet January 17, and that Robert Kift presided.

The records of the temporary organization and also the first year of the permanent organization can not be found, and the first reference to the club at hand was in a resolution adopted by the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society April 20, 1886, endorsing the Florists' Club of Philadelphia, then being organized, and asking its members to contribute towards defraying the necessary expenses of the annual convention of the Society of American Florists and the entertainment of the delegates. The conveniency, one of the features being the entertainment of the delegates by George W. Childs at his country place, "Wootton," Bryn Mawr, at which there was an attendance of 800 persons. A group picture of this we have hanging in the club room, and in token of his kindness the club presented Mr. Childs with a large bronze vase filled with foliage plants, of which we also have a photograph. The delegates were also taken to Atlantic City and entertained at dinner at the United States Hotel by the club.

After all expenses had been met there remained $600, and it was having this money on hand that started the idea of forming a permanent organization. In the issue of November 15, 1886, of THE AMERICAN FLORIST, Edwin Lonsdale, speaking of the Florists' Club, says, "It has now been made a permanent organization—that is to say, it was organized temporarily for the purpose of aiding the convention of the S. A. F., but it had such an influence on all concerned that there was nothing left but for it to become permanent. It is destined to be of service to both the national society and to the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society," which plainly shows that up to this time there was only a temporary organization. The first records we have are dated October 4, 1887, at which, being the annual meeting, the following officers were elected: Robert Craig, president; Charles D. Ball, vice-president; Thomas Cartledge, treasurer; D. D. L. Farson, secretary. The auditing committee reported a balance on hand of $624.95, the meetings at this time being held in the library room, Horticultural Hall. A movement had been started and a committee appointed to see if a building could not be bought for a club house and market combined, and the first annual dinner was held on the opening night of the chrysanthemum show. The same officers were elected for the succeeding five years with the exception of the secretary, D. D. L. Farson resigning in November, 1888, and Henry F. Michel elected. On December 29, 1888, the charter was granted, the members who signed the charter list being: Robert Craig, Charles D. Ball, John Wescott, Edwin Lonsdale, Wm. K. Harris, D. D. L. Farson, Thomas Cartledge, Robert Kift, W. W. Coles, Henry F. Michel, J. W. Colflesh and A. B. Cartledge, and a framed copy of the charter was presented to the club in February, 1889. At the meetings many interesting papers were read by members and invited guests on subjects pertaining to culture or the floral business.

The club early took an interest in bowling, a team being selected to represent it at the Buffalo convention in 1889, and this has been followed every year. In 1890 arrangements were made with the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society to fit up the basement of Horticultural Hall for club rooms, which had been tendered free of rent, and bowling alleys were installed with club room fittings costing $1,500. At the Toronto convention in 1891 the team won the cup which was presented to the club at the September meeting. The club from the time of receiving the use of the club rooms from the Horticultural Society had decorated the halls at the chrysanthemum shows. On May 23, 1893, Horticultural Hall was burned, the club room being filled with water, injuring all the club property, and the June and July meetings were held in Donaldson's Hall, and Horticultural Hall being temporarily repaired the August meeting was held in the library, but the bowling alleys were removed to John Westcott's place at Ridge and Lehigh avenues.

The first change in a presiding officer was in October, 1893, when Edwin Lonsdale was elected president, H. C. Schaefer vice-president, the treasurer and secretary remaining the same. Preparations were now in progress for the convention of the S. A. F. to be held at Atlantic City in August, 1894, which were carried out with great success, and at the annual meeting the officers were all re-elected. In May, 1895, Horticultural Hall was torn down and the meetings held in Caledonian Hall, Thirteenth and Garden streets, until the new hall was ready in the winter of 1896-97. At the annual meeting of 1895 the officers elected were: Robert Kift, president; David Rust, vice-president; Thomas Cartledge, treasurer; D. D. L. Farson, secretary. At the May meeting of 1896 it was arranged to have a plank shad dinner during the month, but as it was found impossible to make the arrangements in May the dinner was held June 3, and it has gone down in history as "John Wescott's May party in June." The succeeding board of officers was John Burton, president; John Wescott, vice-president; secretary and treasurer re-elected. The matter of having associated members was submitted during this year and the necessary amendments adopted.

At the annual meeting in 1897 William K. Harris was elected president; John Westcott, vice-president; Thomas Cartledge, treasurer, and Edwin Lonsdale, secretary. The following January the treasurer resigned, J. W. Colflesh being elected. A special meeting was held May 18, 1898, to take action on the death of Thomas Cartledge, who had been treasurer for over twelve years, and at the next meeting President Harris read a eulogy on the life of the late treasurer. The same board of officers was re-elected in 1898, 1899, 1900 and 1901. In January, 1898, the American Carnation Society was entertained. In 1902 the officers elected were John Westcott, president; David Rust, vice-president, with no change in the secretary and treasurer, and they were reelected in 1903 and 1904. The American Rose Society held their convention and exhibition in Philadelphia in March, 1903, and were entertained by the club, and in June the club was invited by Samuel C. Moon to visit his nursery at Morrisville, Pa., which was accepted. The officers elected in 1905 were Thomas B. Meehan, president; Frederick Hahman, vice-president; J. W. Colflesh, treasurer; Edwin Lonsdale, secretary, and the following year, S. S. Pennock, president, the other officers being the same. At the March meeting Edwin Lonsdale resigned but the resignation was not accepted until May, when David Rust was elected to succeed him. The S. A. F. convention was again held here and the arrangements successfully carried out, and at the September meeting many complimentary letters were received from prominent florists' clubs upon the excellent manner in which everything was managed.

The officers elected in 1907 were Frederick Hahman, president; William Graham, vice-president; George Craig, treasurer; David Rust, secretary, and the same officers the following year with the exception of vice-president, which was filled by I. Rosnosky, to be followed in 1909 and 1910 by Joseph Heacock, president; Alfred Burton, vice-president, and the same secretary and treasurer. A complimentary banquet was tendered by the club in November, 1909, to Edwin Lonsdale upon his leaving Philadelphia to take up his residence in California. On December 14, 1909, a special meeting was held to take action on the death of William K. Harris, a charter member and active worker in the club, and on December 16, 1910, upon the death of J. William Colflesh, who for many years had served the club as treasurer.

At the September meeting, 1911, a special committee was appointed to make proper arrangements to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the club, which was fittingly celebrated on October 3, 1911, and at the October meeting the present officers were elected as follows: J. Otto Thilow, president; Thomas W. Logan, vice-president; George Craig, treasurer; David Rust, secretary.

THE ROSE.

American Rose Society.

PRESIDENT PENNOCK'S ADDRESS.

Delivered at the seventeenth annual meeting of the American Rose Society, Philadelphia.

Members of American Rose Society:

Another year has rolled by and we again meet in annual session, this time under most favorable conditions, holding our show and meetings in conjunction with the Fourth National Flower Show, giving the American Rose Society an impetus and uplift that will be far reaching, making for the future of the society. This show, I feel sure everyone will agree with me, is not only the largest and most beautiful, but the best and most complete ever held in this country. I am going to say to you, and not boastfully either, that the American Rose Society is taking no small part in making this show the success it is, for you will, I know, after viewing the plants, cut flowers, rose gardens and other exhibits, feel it is not only an honor but a privilege to be a member. These shows, whether a national flower show, an annual rose show, or an amateur show in June of outdoor roses, mean more to the future of the rose than any other medium the American Rose Society can foster and encourage. A show like this creates a love for flowers; flowers from the flower store in winter, flowers from the garden in the summer, flowers for every flower lover for every day in the year and that is what we want to encourage.

MEMBERSHIP.

For some years the society has gone along mostly on commercial lines and as such it has appealed to the commercial man more than to the amateur. The rose industry of this country is a large industry and must not be lost sight of—at the same time, the amateur is another phase that cannot be lost sight of and the amateur rosarian is becoming more and more of a factor each year. Not only is his work a benefit and an inspiration to the commercial man, but it is popularizing the rose as no other means can or will, and the amateur, I feel, is the one we must look mostly to in increasing our membership and bringing the society up to a standard and more on a level with the National Rose Society of England, which has a membership of over 6,000, and is a flourishing organization. I want to make a strong appeal for the amateur, believing a large amateur membership is the only way we can bring our society to that state of efficiency which every member, whether active or associate, wishes it to attain. A month ago I had a visit from Dr. Robt. Huey about this very amateur business and, by the way, Dr. Huey ceased being a member of this society on account of its offering the amateur so little, but glad to say, he is again with us. He brought with him a letter from W. E. Davis, a rose enthusiast of New Haven, with a very strong appeal for the amateur in our society, asking that this matter be taken up in a vigorous manner at our annual meeting.

We have with us today a number of members who we will be glad to hear from later, members who are recognized authorities on roses. I think with the assistance and the material we have among our members, there is no doubt we can map out a campaign that will give such value to every member that we will have no trouble in securing new members and let us hope this time next year we will have a membership of more than a thousand.

PUBLICITY.

Along the lines of publicity we are doing all the society at this time can do financially, and believe for what money we are spending we are getting splendid results. An increased membership and a better treasury balance will enable us to offer our members more in the way of literature and general rose information, giving them such value that they will feel an increase in associate membership dues in the next few years will be thoroughly justified, so let every member, whether active or associate, strive to help our publicity campaign, to increase the membership, and give us a society worth while.

I note with pleasure that we are having more societies affiliating with us each year. I believe it is only a matter of time when a great many of these affiliated members will not feel satisfied to be simply affiliated members, but will want to be something more, either an associate or active member. Should not the secretary of each affiliated society have a voice in the rose society the same as an active member? I make this as a recommendation. These affiliated members will mean new friends who will join with the old in making this society a tower of strength, and make it truly national in scope and character as well as in name. Another point in publicity, we believe our friends, the rose catalogue men, could be instrumental in bringing in new members in large numbers, by making mention of the American Rose Society in their catalogue, setting forth its aims and purposes—points that would appeal to the amateur.

ROSE ANNUAL.

This year's Rose Annual, which has been so ably edited by J. Horace McFarland, is not only a credit to the society, but as well a treatise on roses invaluable to every member, both the commercial and amateur rosarian, and will, we are sure, make for new members wherever it goes, and add new life to our society. In circulating the annual, it will only go with a membership, either life, active, associate or affiliated. We feel the annual too valuable a book to be sold just as an edition, and it should be well worth the price of membership in the society. In the annual each year the aim will be to give to our members literature that will be an inspiration and a real help to them, articles from the pens of recognized authorities, making it a book to be treasured and kept as a rose authority.

TEST GARDENS.

The American Rose Society, in establishing test gardens in various parts of the United States, is working out a feature that will become a most valuable and far reaching asset to rose growing. These test gardens are now firmly established in Washington, in Hartford, at Cornell University (Ithaca, N. Y.), and in Minneapolis. A committee has been appointed to look after and take charge of each garden. The plan in these test gardens is to have at least five plants of a kind in the case of teas, and two of a kind, in the case of climbers, of every known variety that can be obtained not only from this country, but from foreign parts as well. Accurate records are to be kept as to how they flourish, the climatic conditions, the amount of bloom, and whatever statistics as to temperature, soil, etc., that may be deemed necessary by the committees in charge.

Any one contemplating the growing of a certain variety—for instance, in the same climate as Washington—might refer to the appropriate test garden reports, and see how that variety has done, whether it was hardy, whether it was able to stand the hot summer, and so on. These records, as summarized each year in the annual, will become invaluable.

These test gardens as they will be established from time to time in the various cities of the United States and Canada will make one of the many interesting features fostered by the American Rose Society.

SCALE FOR JUDGING OUTDOOR ROSES.

The official scale of points for judging outdoor roses as adopted by the society some years ago, has been thought by some of our rose enthusiasts to be insufficient and not covering the ground completely. Dr. Huey, Jesse A. Currey and Geo. C. Thomas, Jr., have had some correspondence on this subject and have made up a scale of points which they consider makes a better scale to judge by. This will later be reported on.

REGISTRATION OF ROSES.

Accurate registration of roses is a very important matter. We can go back only a few years and find incomplete and at times very inaccurate records of roses of American origin. The department of agriculture at Washington has under way the compiling of a record of roses of American origin and sports, and, with the registration as kept by the American Rose Society, we believe we will have records better and more accurate than could be gotten together in any other way.

RENAMING OF ROSES.

The renaming of roses, whether of American or foreign origin, is to my mind a pernicious habit, and one that the American Rose Society is not at all in accord with, believing that it does more harm to the rose than good, and with this aim in view the society at one of its executive committee meetings appointed Robt. Simpson, H. O. May and Robt. Pyle, who will make a report at this meeting, and I sincerely hope that you adopt their report, believing that it will make for the good of the society, and for the good of everyone who wants to do business on honorable and straight lines.

PLANT PATHOLOGY.

It has occurred to a number of those interested in roses, particularly those interested in the society's future, that we should have a department of plant pathology, where information could be gotten by the members who are in trouble with diseases of any nature or any character, whether it be indoor or outdoor grown, and advice as to how to handle this disease, and how to avoid a recurrence. A great many rose lovers, particularly the commercial men, know how to cure certain diseases, but they do not always know the fundamental principles, or what causes these diseases; if they did know they could probably handle them in much better shape. How many of the amateurs would welcome a suggestion of how to prevent their roses from mildewing or other diseases. They generally know what to do after they are diseased, but a very much better way would be to prevent the disease in the first place.

What we would like to do would be to establish a fund to take care of

In conclusion I want to add a word of praise for our secretary who has labored all these years unselfishly and untiringly with the thought always of what was best for the society. He has spent time and money for the society wherever and whenever needed, and has been one of its mainstays, taking hold of the secretaryship when no one wanted the job, and when the society was almost down and out. To him we

Spring Care of Young Rose Stock.

The young rose stock will require looking after very carefully from now on. In the first place, be sure to start right by taking the cuttings out of the sand before they are checked by over-rooting. A small crown of roots, only half an inch or so, is advancement enough for the root action in the sand, and if lifted then, they can be potted easily and have the advantage of making roots in good soil instead of sand, at the very start. Use a good, stiff clay sod soil, screened through a one-half inch mesh screen, and for four parts soil add one part cow manure screened through the same screen. A sprinkling of pulverized sheep manure, about a 5-inch pot-full to a wheel barrow load added to the above will be beneficial. Pot very firmly in 2½-inch pots, keeping the roots very near the top of the pot, and be sure to place the young rose stock in the best location on the range bench that will get the sun as much as possible, and not too near the ventilators. Place a good layer of screened, soft coal ashes under them, packed firmly. (Never plunge the pots in the ashes.) Do not have the face boards of the bench too high; 2½ inches from the ashes is about right. This will make it possible to syringe them easily, getting under the foliage. Of course the young plants just potted will need shading for the first week or so until root action starts. Then it can be removed. Do not use newspapers laid on top of the plants; cloth-covered frames are far better, elevated six inches or a foot above the plants. But if one must use papers, see to it that they are laid on some kind of a framework that is elevated, for the plants must have air. Ventilate with great care and water as carefully. Go over the plants every morning with a watering pot and spot out the dry plants before attempting to use the hose. It would be advisable to use the watering pot altogether until plants have become firmly established in their first pots. The grafted stock under favorable condi-

such a department and do it on a basis so that it would be profitable to every rose grower in the United States and Canada, and I feel that every rose grower, if for nothing else, should be a member of the American Rose Society to help a department of this nature, feeling that they would get back in returns far more than they ever invested.

There is not a grower in this country but who would give money, and liberally, if he could prevent black spot, mildew, or any of the many other diseases which rose plants are subject to, and if we had this department on a solid footing we believe it would be only a matter of time when experiments could be made that would eliminate most of the diseases, possibly not eliminate them but remedy them to a great extent. So the department, no matter what it would cost, instead of being an expense, would be a saving to the rose business as a whole. This work could be taken up with any of our agricultural state colleges, or preferably by the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and carried on in a businesslike manner. This would be much the better plan to pursue, as it would then be national in its scope, and not confined to any one state.

At the annual meeting last year a committee was appointed to look into the grading of roses, and the naming of those grades. The committee appointed by President Pierson was S. S. Pennock, Patrick Welch and Frank Traendly. H. O. May has been added to that committee, and he will make the report of its recommendation, and I trust same will be adopted by the society.

owe, I believe, more than to any other one person, the bringing of the society to where it is today. All this work has been for love as there has been no remuneration whatever in it for him. Let us hope that our society can be put on a financial basis, that will allow us to pay our secretary a salary in the future and that every member will work for a larger and better society is the wish of your president.

tions grows more rapidly than the own root stock, and for this reason will require more room. When going along good or as soon as they begin to crowd, they should be opened up by allowing an inch of space or a little more (according to the growth they are making) between the rows, allowing the pots to remain touching each other crosswise of the bench or in the row. Spaced this way will make it possible to syringe them thoroughly without knocking the plants about or upsetting them. When spacing the grafts, some of them will be found with the raffia loosened or rotted away. These ties should be replaced, tying rather loosely, and when the raffia is seen to be cutting into the back, remove it and replace, as it is yet too soon to remove the raffia altogether; which is done only when the plants are in 3½-inch or 4-inch pots, when they should be staked, then the raffia can be safely removed. If grafting is to be carried along through the month of March, more ashes can be used in the bottom of the case, otherwise the heat will be too intense for them. Be sure to scald the ashes that are already in the case to avoid fungus, and do not lose any time in getting them in the case. Very often one gets a good strike as late as April 1, but this is an exception, and it will be found that the earlier grafting is by far the easiest and followed by a much higher percentage of good plants. If one is grafting for the trade a few words of advice as to packing may be a help at this time. Select only the grafts that have perfect unions and plants of a uniform size. Moss the splice carefully by using enough moss to fill out even with the ball. Wrap firmly in newspapers, using a half sheet for this, the object being to make a package of each plant that will not shift in their wrappers. Be sure to line the shipping cases heavily so as to be absolutely sure that they will be frost-proof. Start at one end of the case and work clear through to the end, placing the plants firmly together in the row so they cannot move. The second layer should be brought back over the first one, starting at the finished end of the first layer and by reversing each row the plants will take up less space and hold better. Never pack so that there will be a strain on the union of the plant below. If mossed properly there is very little danger of breaking the plants apart at the union if the raffia is intact. When finishing off the box, should it not be quite full, use excelsior, packing it firmly in the space left, so that there will have to be considerable pressure used in nailing the cover on the case. Be sure to place handles at each end of the box if it contains over two cubic feet of space, otherwise it will receive a very rough handling before it reaches its destination, as an ordinary shoe case, packed with four or five hundred plants, will not handle easily by any means. The handles should be placed on the cases before packing. These can be made by nailing a strip ¾x2 inches vertically on the end of the boxes at the corners, leaving the edges fair with the sides. Then nail a piece of the same strip crosswise of the end, in the center. Nail firmly and this makes a strong practical handle. The cases should also be nailed carefully, renailing the sides, bottoms and ends, using box nails for this purpose, which will hold better and seldom split the thinnest wood. Label all cases carefully with "frost caution" labels, also plainly tag the address, nailing or tacking the address cards on the lid unless the shipping department has a good marker; even then a tag attached will be safer. All perishable stock should be shipped by express only, especially rose plants; otherwise the grower should not assume any risks for safe arrival of plants in good condition. When receiving the rose stock unpack at once, remove plants from shipping case to flats without removing paper wrapper. Now prepare the soil (if not already prepared) and do not remove the wrapper until ready for potting. Then have some one unwrap them as fast as they are being potted. If they cannot be placed at once on the bench, sprinkle the tops and do not let the sun or a draught strike them. The safest plan is to have everything in readiness before attempting to pot them. Do not remove any of the soil unless the balls have been squeezed into cubes larger than the pots they are to go into, which one often finds is the case. If so, remove the top (which seldom contains many roots) until it fits the pots. Grafted stock from 2½-inch pots can often be shifted to a 3-inch if rather weak; otherwise we use a 3½-inch pot, drained for the first shift, which usually lasts until time to bench them. Still if planting is delayed, they can be shifted from the 3½-inch to the 4-inch pots, trimming the ball slightly and be carried along 3 or 4 weeks longer.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Mrs. F. Grauz has purchased suburban land and in addition to raising cut flower stock will devote considerable time to asparagus culture.

MORGAN PARK, ILL.—Albert Schau, son of Herman Schau, has opened a retail florists' shop under the name of Schau's Flower Shop, Hale avenue, Morgan Park, Chicago. Mr. Schau, Sr., still continues as a grower at the old place.

THE RETAIL TRADE

Conducted by Robt. Kift, Philadelphia, Pa.

Increasing Store Space in Busy Seasons.

Many retail florists, especially those whose shops are located in the business districts of large cities, where high rentals make store space beyond the average business requirements prohibitive, are often at a disadvantage during the busy holiday seasons during the year, due to lack of room for proper care and display of plants. As shown in an accompanying illustration, the White House Florist, Chicago, devised an excellent arrangement to increase the capacity of his store, at the same time displaying the pot plant stock attractively. The arrangement, simple in the extreme, which can be taken apart and re-assembled for future requirements, consisted of common wooden shelving, the boards or shelves being of one inch pine, 12 inches wide. These shelves arranged in front of the mirrors on each side of the store, and supported with uprights fastened to the floor and ceiling, were fitted with wooden strips six inches high fastened to the front of each shelf, with grooves cut at intervals of about 12 inches. The plants placed on the shelves, the tops of the pots resting in the grooves had the advantage of excellent display, free from any suggestion of being crowded, and when sold, could be quickly replaced with another. Where such an arrangement is intended to be a permanent fixture during the rush seasons, the material used can be of hard wood, painted, and other decorative features added.

The Easter Stock.

Easter is without doubt the greatest flower market of the year—it is a golden season of opportunity for almost all branches of the trade. The careful grower has every foot of space in his houses, devoted to Easter stock, filled with plants timed, to the best of his ability, to be in their prime when the market opens. In its completeness, before broken into by selections, a view of the stock of any of the large growers is a great treat to the lover of plants. Then it is that buyers must not let their enthusiasm get the better of their judgment. Haphazard buying shows in the poor results, when profits that were fondly hoped and looked for, are found disappointingly small.

It should be determined from last year's records, guided in part by the season's experiences since that time, just what stock will be required and how many of each kind of plant. The best time to make out the list for this year's holiday is immediately after the balance was struck in the last Easter business. All the details were then fresh in mind; it was known just what sold best, whether there was much demand for baskets or not, how lilies sold, bulbous stock, rambler roses, etc. With such an accurate account of the stock required, half the worry of the Easter business is removed and there is time to take up other important details after the orders have been given.

The Easter lily is the first to be considered. All made up, or other than single plants, should be arranged at the greenhouses and delivered finished and ready for sale. Most growers do not know how to assemble or arrange lilies, where two or more plants are to be placed in a pot or tub. As a rule they select specimens of exact height, thus bunching the flowers together so that half their beauty is lost. Plants of varying height should always be selected, and the pot arranged to look best from one side with the shorter plants in front. In this way nearly every flower is seen separately and the combination presents a much more artistic and pleasing appearance. Common, ordinary buckets, with the handles removed, then painted white and the bands gilded, make a very good tub for lilies.

Azaleas are especially good Easter plants, but care should be taken to see that the stock is not too far advanced, as plants without plenty of buds showing, lack the best selling quality. With a plant covered with open flowers and no buds showing, it is best to remove half the blossoms, so as to expose the underlying buds, which adds to the appearance and freshness of the plant wonderfully.

Hydrangeas are always good stock, and if kept well watered, present splendid color effects until the end. The newer French varieties are almost irresistible and move off quickly. Genistas, with their clouds of yellow blossoms, are favorites with many buyers; the standards and globe like formations are fine for window decoration.

Nothing is more effective or showy than the rambler roses. They are seen in bush form, pyramids, umbrellas, baskets and other trained designs, that when well flowered are very striking. The baby rambler type, such as Baby Dorothy, Teschendorf, Mrs. Cutbush and others, are fine for basket work, also for the trellis boxes, which were a novelty last season. Bulbous stock, hyacinths and tulips in pans, are always sold in large quantities. Care must be taken, however, to see that they are not too far advanced and that all are carefully staked. The full, heavy spikes, if not tied up, fall over and snap off if not very carefully handled.

Bougainvilleas, when well flowered, are especially pleasing; very large specimens are often seen that are much used in decorations. The erica or heather is a great Easter plant with its clouds of white bell like blossoms. The smaller sizes are indispensable for basket combinations. Many E. cupressina are grown in 3-inch pots for this work. Daisies in pots are also good sellers, as are cinerarias, while we almost forgot to mention Spirea Japonica in its various varieties. These white plumed plants are a big eyefull for the money and quantities are handled everywhere.

Plant baskets are profitable to those who will give them the time to be filled properly. Like many other things that are only half done, a poorly filled basket is a detriment to the stock and sooner or later is thrown out. Plants should be selected and the basket filled the week before and brought in from the greenhouses, when the market is at its height. In this way each basket is carefully filled, gets set and the plants recover from the moving, being at their best when they are offered for sale.

The pricing is a great factor for success; some dealers mark everything with plain figures, so that the customers may help themselves in making their selections when the store is crowded in the final days. A custom with some is to get all they can by covering the label and naming a higher price to an eager buyer when setting a plant out for inspection. Others will mark plants that cost the same with different prices. As for instance azaleas or hydrangeas that cost $1.00, at $2, $2.50 and $3. Certain customers would probably not buy anything priced at $2, rather paying $2.50 or $3; they do not go to the trouble to compare, supposing of course that the higher priced plant is best. We do not advocate this practice, but it prevails and, as a thing is "worth what you can get it for," it may be so justified, but to treat all alike will be found best in the long run. K.

PLANT NOTES.

Early Roses.

The rose bed should be pruned and then spaded as early as possible after the ground has opened and if the canes have been buried the covering should be removed and the canes cut back. To properly prune a bed of hybrid perpetual roses is a careful, painstaking piece of work. This work is too often done in a careless, haphazard manner, and by many every variety is cut back alike. To get the best results a study of the varieties is necessary, for instance, strong growing varieties like General Jacqueminot and Magna Charta can be cut back and the small wood cut out much more severely than Prince Camille de Rohan or Mme. Gabriel Luizet. When pruning it is first necessary to determine whether quantity or quality is the most to be desired. If quantity is wanted more wood can be left and six to eight eyes left on the canes. If quality is the main object this must be obtained at the expense of quantity, and the strong canes only retained and these cut to two or three eyes, depending on how the eyes are located. The top eye that is left should be pointed out from the main stem so that when the growths start they will not crowd toward the center. This will allow of plenty of room for development and a good circulation of air through the plant. After the bushes are pruned the soil should be spaded good and deep and leveled off.

Bedding Stock.

The general florist will now have his hands full with bedding stock which should now be spread out and given the necessary room. The geraniums should be spaced and if any have grown too tall to make shapely plants the tops should be cut back, but at the present day the trade wants a geranium in bloom at bedding time and very little pinching should be done after the first of April, for it will take from then until the first of June to produce a new branch with a flower. Ageratums, alternantheras, alyssums, heliotropes and like blooming plants should be kept on the move and be given good, light positions. Salvia should be kept pinched back until the latter part of the month, which should produce fine, shapely plants. The coleus should be rooted and the top rubbed out as soon as established in the pots. Seedlings should be potted or flatted, the former preferred if a price can be obtained commensurate for the extra labor, but if flatted give them room enough to develop properly. Cannas will now require a warm, light location and plenty of root room. The one great factor in growing good bedding stock is, at this season, to keep the plants moving and never allow them to get a check, for if once severely checked a good plant is an impossibility.

Potting Young Stock.

At this season of the year the plant grower will have thousands of young seedlings to pot or place in flats and as many more to shift from a small pot to a larger size, and it does not seem that any instruction in potting should be necessary, but we chanced not long ago to see a boy potting and wondered if the plants would live and we then saw in the houses many of the plants which had been potted struggling for existence. It seems to be the general idea with the young gardener that the one that can pot the most plants in a given time is the smartest, regardless of how well it is done and how the plants afterward grow. The young man whom we saw would fill the pot full and then make a hole in the soil with his finger, place the seedling in the hole and then press the top soil around the stem. The chances were that the roots of many of these plants were still hanging in an enclosed hole in the center of the pot, for the soil should have been firmed around the roots. That he could handle a large number of plants in a given time was no question, but a much better plant can be grown if the soil is made firm around the roots first and then the top firmed down. The same thing happens in transplanting where the loose soil is thrown around between the plant and the pot and the top then firmed down. A little soil should be first thrown in the bottom of the pot and the plant placed in this, then a little soil around the plant which should be firmed down, then a little more soil which can be pressed down from the top. This will take longer, but the plant will live and grow enough better to pay for the extra pains.

Peonies.

As soon as the frost is out of the ground the peony beds should be forked over and the manure mulch that was placed on them last fall should be forked or spaded in, but let this be done by a careful man, or at least not by help that knows nothing about this work. The young growths start very early and are very tender, so it is best not to fork too close to the crowns, but loosen up all the soil around the plants. It is also well to leave the stems covered as deep as they have been all winter, for a sharp frost may injure a stem that has been protected through the severe winter and then subjected to sharp cold. But the loosening of the soil to good depth will conserve the moisture and allow the air to get into the soil. If the plants were not mulched with manure in the fall it is well to spread some old manure, not fresh, on the beds before spading and fork it in.

Although the fall is the best time to transplant peonies, yet, if not done and it is desired or necessary to move them, they can be transplanted early in the spring, but this must be done before the growths are above the surface of the ground and as much soil left about the roots as possible. These plants make their young roots in the fall and if any attempt is made to shake the soil off, the roots will be broken doing this. Divisions must therefore be carefully made, so as not to disturb the roots more than possible. The dry roots that are purchased at this time are much better planted in pots or boxes until the roots are formed in the soil and later transplanted to the ground. It cannot be expected that plants of this kind will produce any flowers this year, for it will only be possible to get them established in their new location the first season.

Tariff Decisions.

BEFORE BOARD 3, NOVEMBER 19, 1915.

No. 38820.—Protests 762509, etc., of Maltus & Ware et al. (New York)

BULBS.—Bulbs classified as dutiable under paragraph 210, tariff act of 1913, are claimed free of duty under the provision in the same paragraph relating to mature mother flowering bulbs imported exclusively for propagating purposes.

Opinion by Waite, G. A. Protests unsupported; overruled.

(T. D. 35920.)

ORCHID PLANTS—MOTHER BULBS.

Maltus & Ware v. U. S. (No. 1546.)

1. Orchid plants—Mature mother flowering bulbs.—Orchid plants, known as cattleyas, which at the time of importation had already flowered and would never flower again and were useful for propagating and for no other commercial purpose and which, although not true bulbs, were known to the trade as orchid bulbs, were assessed for duty at 25 per cent ad valorem as orchids under paragraph 210, tariff act of 1913. Held, that the same were entitled to free entry under the proviso to said paragraph as mature mother flowering bulbs imported exclusively for propagating purposes.

2. "Bulbs" used in popular rather than botanical sense.—There is nothing in the act or in its legislative history which would justify the conclusion that Congress intended that the term "bulbs" should be given a strictly scientific or botanical meaning; on the contrary, the fact that Congress applied the term to other plant growths, not true bulbs, enumerated in paragraph 210, conclusively establishes that such was not its intention.

United States Court of Customs Appeals, November 19, 1915. Appeal from Board of United States General Appraisers, G. A. 7675 (T. D. 35103).

[Reversed.] Allan R. Brown for appellants. Bert Hanson, assistant attorney general (Samuel Isenschmid, special attorney, of counsel), for the United States. Before Montgomery, Smith, Barber, De Vries, and Martin, judges.

Smith, judge, delivered the opinion of the court:

An importation reported by the appraiser at the port of New York to be orchid plants was assessed for duty by the collector of customs at 25 per cent ad valorem as orchids under paragraph 210 of the tariff act of 1913, which reads as follows:

210. Orchids, palms, azalea indica, and cut flowers, preserved or fresh, 25 per centum ad valorem; lily of the valley pips, tulips, narcissus, begonia, and gloxinia bulbs, $1 per thousand; hyacinth bulbs, astilbe, dielytra, and lily of the valley clumps, $2.50 per thousand; lily bulbs and calla bulbs or corms, $5 per thousand; herbaceous peony, Iris Kaempferi or Germanica, canna, dahlia, and amaryllis bulbs, $10 per thousand; all other bulbs, roots, root stocks, corms, and tubers, which are cultivated for their flowers or foliage, 50 cents per thousand: Provided, That all mature mother flowering bulbs imported exclusively for propagating purposes shall be admitted free of duty.

The importers protested that the goods were not orchids, but that they were mature mother flowering bulbs, imported exclusively for propagating purposes, and that therefore they were free of duty under the proviso to said paragraph.

The Board of General Appraisers overruled the protest and the importers appealed.

The merchandise the tariff classification of which is involved in this appeal is a plant growth, known as cattleya. The cattleya is a species of orchid, and as appears from the testimony in the case and the samples in evidence, consists of a horizontal root stock or stem, from the lower part of which grows a tangle of small spongy roots, and from the upper part a number of fleshy vertical shoots, in which, at the beginning of their existence, is stored up a reserve stock of plant food, and from which later on spring leaves and flowers. The leaves, judging from the samples, are wrapped around a bunch of vegetable fibers which constitute to all appearances the permanent and more substantial part of the shoot. During the period when the shoot is leafing and flowering a considerable part of it is thickened into a bulbous growth, at the base of which is established a new joint which apparently contains the germ of a new shoot.

We think it is fairly shown by the evidence and the samples that once the thickened shoot has flowered it never flowers again, but sends out from the joint at its base a new process, which, in its turn, develops a new joint, thickens, produces leaves and flowers, and then becomes the mother of a shoot which is similar to its original self and destined to go through the cycle of producing a joint, leaves, flowers, and a new thickened portion.

The cattleyas are, we think, unquestionably orchid plants, but orchid plants which at the time of importation had reached that stage in their life history when the vertical branches had already thickened and performed the function of producing flowers and leaves. Each of these vertical branches, when severed from the cluster, together with the portion of the root stock to which it is attached is, if properly cared for, capable of propagating from the newly developed joint a thickened portion like itself and is fit for no other purpose. In that state the cattleya plants, according to the uncontradicted testimony in the case, were known to the trade, prior to the passage of the tariff act of 1913, as orchid bulbs, and were bought and sold, both at wholesale and retail, as bulbs and on the basis of so many bulbs to the cluster.

Having received from the trade the commercial designation of bulbs, we think the plants under discussion must be accepted as bulbs for tariff purposes. As they are capable of producing and do produce during the process of their evolution a flower, they are entitled to be called flowering bulbs. Having flowered before importation, they will not flower again, but will generate under normal conditions, bulbs like themselves, and consequently they must be regarded as mother bulbs. The only important function left for them to perform at the time of importation was that of propagating, and from that it follows that they must be considered as mature mother bulbs. The evidence shows that they were imported for the propagation of plant growths which would leaf and flower as they had done before importation and that they had no other commercial use. We must hold, therefore, that the cattleya plants in question were mature mother flowering bulbs, imported exclusively for propagating purposes, and that they were entitled to free entry under the proviso to paragraph 210.

It is true, as shown by the record and as found by the board, that botanically speaking the thickened portion of the cattleya is not a true bulb but is a pseudo bulb. We find nothing, however, in the tariff act of 1913 or in its legislative history which would justify us in concluding that congress intended that the term "bulbs" should be given a strictly scientific or botanical meaning wherever found in paragraph 210. Indeed, that such an intention can not be attributed to congress is very conclusively established by the fact that paragraph 210 enumerates canna, dahlia, herbaceous peony, Iris Kaempferi, begonia, and gloxinia bulbs, which, according to competent witnesses introduced by the government, are not in a botanical sense bulbs at all, but are pseudo bulbs, just as much as were the bulbs which are here the subject of controversy. Moreover, these same witnesses for the government took occasion to say that many, if not all, of the pseudo bulbs enumerated in paragraph 210 as bulbs are popularly known and designated as bulbs. That testimony rather strengthens the view that it was not the legislative purpose to confine the proviso to true bulbs—that is to say, to bulbs recognized as such by botanists.

Whether cattleya bulbs which have not yet flowered are entitled to free entry under the proviso to paragraph 210 is not decided.

The decision of the Board of General Appraisers is reversed.

Flowers of Japan.

Delivered by Prof. E. H. Wilson, before the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, Boston, January 8.

Professor E. H. Wilson of Jamaica Plain, Boston, who has carefully scoured Japan and China in quest of flowers for the Arnold Arboretum, Boston, opened the lecture season of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society January 8, with an illustrated lecture in Horticultural hall, Boston, on flowers and gardens of Japan. He said in part:

One may safely assert that no garden large or small in the United States of America is without its something "Japonica." True, not all the plants bearing that name are strictly native of Japan, for the ignorance of botanists and others has resulted in many plant names being misnomers, but that is another story. To the horticulturists of this country Japan is of peculiar interest, for not only has it furnished our gardens and our greenhouses with a host of invaluable plants, but it is the only country of which the first fruits, horticulturally speaking, came direct to the United States of America. The gardens of this country secured the plants of most lands through Europe, and not only exotic plants but a great number of North American native plants also. With Japanese plants the case is different, thanks to the enthusiasm of Dr. G. R. Hall. It is well that garden-lovers of this country should treasure the name of this gentleman, for the plants he introduced—Lonicera Halleana, Magnolia stellata, Malus Halliana and others—are indispensable. It was in March, 1862, that Dr. Hall returned from Japan and handed over his rich collection to Samuel Parsons at Flushing, L. I., for propagation and distribution. But previous to this Francis Parkman of Jamaica Plain had received a consignment of plants from Dr. Hall, through Gordon Dexter, and among others was the famous Lilium auratum, which flowered for the first time in America in July, 1862. In the early sixties Thomas Hogg visited Japan in the interest of Samuel Parsons and introduced in 1865 many plants including Magnolia obovata.

Another American, Professor W. S. Clark, who went from Amherst College, and developed the Agricultural College at Sapporo in Hokkaido in the early seventies of the last century, sent in 1876, seeds of many valuable plants such as Magnolia Kobus, Cercidiphyllum japonicum, Syringa japonica, Actinidia polygama, etc., etc. In the Arnold Arboretum and elsewhere many fine specimens raised from his seeds are growing today.

A few Japanese plants—Rosa rugosa for example—reached Europe toward the end of the eighteenth century, but it was not until after Commodore Perry's expedition in 1852-54, and the signing of the treaty on March 31, 1854, which resulted in the opening of Japan to foreign commerce, that the plants of that land began to find their way freely to the Occident. A Russian expedition under Admiral Putiatin was in the Far East from 1852-55, and on January 21, 1855, a treaty between Japan and Russia was signed. Shortly afterward treaties between Japan and other western countries were signed.

From 1611 the Dutch East India Company had trading rights in Japan and established a factory on a small island contiguous to Nagasaki, and we owe our first knowledge of the flora of Japan to officers of this company. From 1823 to 1830 Philip Franz von Siebold was an officer in the Dutch company and resided in Japan, and from about 1850 to 1865 he imported plants to a nursery he established at Leiden in Holland. Among the most important of his introductions may be mentioned Malus floribunda, M. Sieboldii, Wistaria multijuga, and Prunus pendula.

A Russian, Carl Maximowicz, who in 1854-56 made very extensive collections in the Amur region of eastern Siberia, made a journey to Japan lasting from 1859-64, which resulted in our first intimate knowledge of the forest flora of Japan and in the acquisition of a great many valuable plants to gardens, including Berberis Thunbergii.

Three Englishmen, John Gould Veitch from early spring to autumn of 1860, Robert Fortune from the autumn of 1860 to the summer of 1861, Charles Maries from 1877-80, collected extensively in Japan, and each added to gardens treasures beyond price. During the same period, and in the early eighties, various foreign amateurs in Japan sent to their friends in Europe such valuable plants as Vitis Coignetia, Prunus Sargentii, Rosa multiflora, R. Wichuraiana and Rose Crimson Rambler.

These historical facts are necessary to show that Japanese plants were independently introduced to this country and to Europe during the same period. The pioneer work briefly sketched above was supplemented in a remarkable manner by Professor Charles S. Sargent, director of Arnold Arboretum, who visited Japan in 1892. His predecessors in Japan had enjoyed a virgin field, but as an offset to this, Sargent had the advantage which full knowledge of a subject gives. He knew not only the Japanese plants already in cultivation in the Occident, but was also fully acquainted with the whole forest flora of Japan, and the result was that a great number of beautiful and hardy trees and shrubs were added to our gardens. He introduced, among other plants, all the Japanese deciduous oaks, certain hornbeams, birches, alders, Picea Glehnii, Abies sachalinensis, Malus zumi, M. Tschonoskii, M. Sargentii, Kalopanax ricinifolium, Enkianthus campanulatus, Acer nikouense, A. Miyabei, Rhododendron Kaempferi, one of the most beautiful of all shrubs hardy in New England, and many other valuable plants. In fact, this journey was the most fruitful in results of any undertaken in Japan.

I have not the time at my disposal to enter further into this interesting aspect of my subject, but I cannot let pass this opportunity to put on record the names of those to whom all lovers of hardy Japanese plants are under lasting obligations.

The steep mountain-slopes of Japan are well covered with trees and shrubs and large areas are extensively forested. Also, and more especially in the central and northern parts of Hondo, there is much moorland clothed with coarse grasses and shrubs in variety. Coniferous, including Taxaceous trees abound from the extreme south to the extreme north, and, indeed, Japan with its 16 genera of these plants is richer than any other land. From about the latitude of Tokyo southward the woods and forests contain a high percentage of broad-leaved evergreen trees and these together with the conifers give to the country a very green appearance at all seasons of the year. North of Tokyo broad-leaved evergreens decrease in number rapidly and from Nikko northward the forests are very similar in aspect to those of New England. On the island of Yakushima, which marks the southern limits not only of Japan but also of its flora, tree ferns, bananas and wild figs are common constituents of the flora at sea-level. In the extreme north of Hokkaido and in Japanese Saghalien on the shores of the Okhotsk sea, dwarf pine, juniper, larch and the crowberry (Empetrum nigrum) descend to sea-level. Almost everywhere in Japan dwarf bamboos form a dense undergrowth in the forests.

Some writers on the natural history of Japan have stated that the Straits of Tsugaru which separate northern Hondo and Hokkaido form a well-marked phyto-geographical boundary. This, however, is not true and the difference between the floras of the two regions is merely one of degree and not of kind. The warm current previously referred to, exercises a tremendous influence on the climate and on the vegetation and is responsible for the great difference between the flora of southern and northern Japan. While no very hard and fast phytogeographical line exists it may be laid down as about latitude 36° n.

The flora of Japan is very rich in ornamental trees and shrubs and the majority of the deciduous plants and nearly all the conifers have proved perfectly hardy and amenable to cultivation in the gardens of New England.

In Japan the pine, the bamboo and the plum-blossom (Prunus mume) are emblematic of long life, strength and happiness and a love of flowers is a dominant characteristic of the people. This love is spontaneous and fundamental and is one of the virtues of the race which appeals forcibly to the most casual visitor. The arrangement of flowers for house-decoration is one of the three essential parts of every lady's education and he it said it is an accomplishment in which the whole people excel in a manner most artistic. At no season of the year is any dwelling, be it peasant's hut or merchant's house, prince's castle or emperor's palace, without its flowers or sprig of fruit or foliage, and the graves of the departed are decked with floral decorations the year round. The chrysanthemum is the chosen crest of the imperial household; three asarum leaves formed the crest of the first shogun; one of the highest imperial orders is that of the paulownia. The cherry-blossom season is made the occasion for a great national holiday. In the temple grounds are magnificent trees, and for old trees the love of the Japanese amounts to a veneration akin to worship.

Here and there throughout the land are places famous for their plum trees, cherry trees, wistarias, irises, peonies, azaleas, maples, chrysanthemums, pines, cryptomerias and so forth and in season people flock from far and near to feast on their beauty. These different floral seasons are kept as festivals of amity and rejoicing. Families in all their ramifications, from great-grandmother to the youngest great-grandchild, assemble together for a right merry time. In and near cities and where the sake-bowl flows too freely the merriment may be a little boisterous, but it is always the exuberance of good fellowship. When in Japan I found peculiar pleasure in the spirit of joyousness so manifest at these festivals.

With a few exceptions, it is on trees and shrubs that the Japanese lavish their attentions. The iris, chrysanthemum, lotus lily, Rhodea japonica, liriope spicata and the morning glory are the only herbs that they are really fond of. The morning glory (Ipomoea rubro-cerulea), an exotic of American origin, is extraordinarily popular and boasts societies whose object is the development of this particular flower. The blossoms open at sun-up and devotees will arise before dawn and walk long distances to gardens where this plant is grown to watch the flowers expand.

The floral seasons of Japan commence with the ume (plum-blossom, Prunus mume) in January, and close with the chrysanthemum in November and December. In March and in April, according to climate, the cherry trees blossom and this is the season par excellence. The Japanese recognize a hundred and more varieties of cherries with white, yellow, pure pink to deep rose blossoms. Some small shrubs, others large trees, with wide-spreading crowns; some have pendent, others quite erect branches, and all are wondrously beautiful. Cherry trees are wild in the woods and thickets throughout the length and breadth of Japan, and are everywhere planted in vast numbers—in temple and castle grounds, in park and garden, in the streets of the cities and alongside the highways, and by pond and river side. At Koganei, a village some 10 miles from Tokyo, there is a three-mile avenue of cherry trees planted in 1735, by command of the Shogun Yoshimune. Many of the trees are 60 to 75 feet tall, with trunks 10 to 12 feet in girth and crowns 50 to 60 feet through, and when in full flower the scene presented is a never-to-be-forgotten one. No language can exaggerate the beauty of the Japanese cherries, and they must be seen to be appreciated in full.

Now, there is no valid reason why in Boston we should not have our own cherry season, for the trees are perfectly hardy and thrive here. In the Arnold Arboretum the few large trees we have are a wealth of flowers each and every season. The Arnold Arboretum as one result of its recent expedition to Japan has now growing a collection of some 70 odd varieties of these cherries and these will be propagated and distributed in due season. Unfortunately in the arboretum itself there is not sufficient spare land available to do full justice to this collection, but we hope that somewhere a proper home will be found for it.

The wistaria, the most gorgeous of all hardy climbers, except in occasional years of severe winters, blossoms beautifully on house and pergola in and around Boston, but I never knew the full glory of the wistaria until I saw it in Japan. There it is not only wild in profusion, but is abundantly planted by the sides of the ponds, ditches and streams and it is trained over arbors and trellises. There are numerous varieties and on one I measured racemes of flowers $6\frac{1}{2}$ inches long, and they were not mere individual examples, but there were thousands upon thousands of them equally long.

About wistaria time, too, the mountain paeonies, the irises and the azaleas make wonderful displays of color. Japanese maples with colored leaves of varied shape and form are well known in western lands, but only a few of the varieties thrive with us. Japanese gardeners who specialize in maples recognize over 300 varieties, and Tokyo boasts its Maple Club; there everything from the tea-cups and the carved screens to the waiting-maids' dresses are marked with maple leaves.

Boston:

BUSINESS VERY QUIET.

During the past week the trade was rather slow. It was expected that business would pick up with the spring weather we have had, but there seemed to be no life to the market, only a few lines of stock selling as they should. Roses sell fairly well, but prices are rather low for the season, from $1 to $12.50 per 100 being received for them. Ophelia is the best selling variety. Carnations have dropped in price, $2.50 per 100 being about the limit on good standard varieties. There is not much demand for inferior flowers, and consequently they bring very low prices. Violets are nearing the close of their season, 50 cents per 100 being the price for the week. Sweet peas are the strongest factor in the trade. There has been a good call for them throughout the week, prices ranging from 50 cents to $1.50 per 100, according to quality. Yellow marguerites are becoming more plentiful and the demand for them is increasing. Bulbous stock has lost its popularity and sells rather slow. There is a large quantity of Easter lilies coming in, too many for the demand and prices have been rather unsatisfactory. Snapdragon is plentiful, but sells well, the pink variety being in good demand.

NOTES.

Wm. Sim, of Cliftondale, Mass., has a very fine crop of sweet peas. He is shipping on an average of 100,000 flowers per week, all of exceptional quality. English primroses also are grown very fine, about 100 bunches per day being cut. His violets are very good for the season, but soon will be through their crop for this year.

The Boston Co-operative Flower Market stallholders and stockholders held a meeting April 1 to discuss the matter of collections. Edward Wood was appointed on the board of directors to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Carl Strieferd.

John McFarland, of North Easton, Mass., has a very fine lot of lilies for Easter. Many who have seen the various crops about Boston say his excels in quality. He already has booked orders to practically clean up his supply.

GOOD STOCK AND SATISFACTORY SALES.

The supply of stock has increased during the past week and retailers have had little cause to complain about business, funeral work continuing to be a big factor. Orders for decorations are also more plentiful than usual. The wholesale houses have been stocked full every day, but clean up as a rule before the close of business. Roses are seen in good supply but prices are not high. Carnations are still plentiful but hold up well in price. Fine sweet peas, especially Spencers, find ready buyers. Extra quality tulips, daffodils, Dutch hyacinths are to be seen in numbers. Pot plant sales continue brisk.

NOTES.

The Alpha Floral Co. reports trade in general as being very good, the staff being kept busy with funeral orders and decorations in addition to a good business in other departments. A. Elberfeld and wife have been traveling extensively in the east. They attended the big national flower show at Philadelphia and will return home during the present week.

Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. reports trade in full stride. Hayes Ricker, in charge of the greenhouses of this firm, says stock is in prime condition and they will have an ample supply of Easter and other plants in on time. This company is planning to build this summer.

H. Kusik & Co. are receiving some excellent rose stock from Council Bluffs, Ia. Some fine home grown carnations are also seen. This firm is working to capacity to try and keep abreast of their orders for wire work.

The Peterson Floral Co. had some very attractive window displays recently, roses, lilies, bulbous stock and fine Spencer sweet peas being shown in neat arrangement. Trade is very satisfactory at this establishment.

W. J. Barnes is bringing on a splendid supply of bulbous stock for the Easter trade. Lilies are in fine condition and a big lot of pot plants in variety are to be seen here, all showing up fine.

Chas. Biederman & Son have been busy with decorations and have several large orders booked in advance. They report trade better than usual at this time of the year.

T. J. Noll & Co. have a good supply of stock in all lines. They are preparing to handle a record breaking Easter trade.

Wm. L. Rock Flower Co. is showing some fine plants in variety. They are cutting heavily on carnations and sweet peas.

The Rosery reports good sales in pot plants, bulbous stock moving exceptionally well. Easter prospects look good.

Patrick Larkin is making preparations for a big Easter trade. Funeral orders continue to keep his staff busy.

Arthur Newell reports trade as A-1. Plant sales are brisk and he is featuring some fine rose stock.

The Costello-Moore Co. reports good sales in cut flowers and a good demand for funeral orders.

MARCH TRADE SHOWED IMPROVEMENT.

There was quite an improvement in business during the month of March, and now that we are experiencing real spring weather, sales should be on the upgrade. The quality of the roses coming in are excellent and the varieties cover the list fairly well. Stanley and Shawyer are very fine and American Beauties are again on the market after an absence of months. Carnations are both good and plentiful and some of the poorer grades are sold at very low prices. Bulbous stock has shortened up and prices have stiffened accordingly. Violets are very plentiful and selling cheap. The Easter outlook is very promising. Although a number of the cut flower growers think there will be a scarcity of roses and carnations, a trip through a number of establishments shows large promise and it looks the same as in former years; that after the legitimate trade has finished ordering there will be plenty of stock to be gobbled up by the "cut-raters" and "one night" stands. Violets will no doubt be about over, but there were never so many good sweet peas grown in this section, which will not make the shortage of violets so conspicuous. Bulbous stock will be plentiful, and excepting azaleas, which will not be over plentiful, there will be an elegant lot of flowering and foliage plants. Lilies are plentiful and there will be some fine stock.

NOTES.

Flight Lieut. Chas. Duggan, of Brampton, who was injured a fortnight ago while flying near London, has made rapid progress to his complete recovery. The machine side-slipped and he fell 400 feet. Lieut. Duggan was badly shaken up and bruised on the head and face but had no fractures. It was a marvelous escape, but he hopes soon to fly again. The call to arms has taken many from the different florists' establishments and there is a scarcity of help at present.

Thos. Manton has rambler roses in variety, and well bloomed bulbous stock and lilies are also plentiful. The better weather is helping sales on the market and all the florists grouped there are very jubilant.

J. S. Simmons and wife are touring the eastern cities and also taking in the flower shows. A new Overland truck has been added to their delivery service.

W. J. Laurence has a good crop of pink snapdragons (over 40,000), which will mean some cutting.

E. A. Crowhurst & Co. are cutting good Liliun formosum and carnations.

John Gard is strong on good lilies and hydrangeas. H. G. D.

ABUNDANT SUPPLY WITH FAIR CALL.

There is an abundance of stock in all grades and varieties on the local market. Carnations are becoming quite plentiful and the prices have dropped some on quantity orders. Roses too are in better supply than for some time with a lowering in price on all grades. American Beauties locally have not been equal to the supply in the long grades, but short stock for funeral work is abundant. Some very good Rhea Reid arrive daily, as do Kaiserin and Ward. Asparagus plumosus and Sprengerii have been short of requirements. Adiantum is in good supply. Sweet peas are plentiful and short stock for funeral work can be had at very low prices. Violets are not moving very fast. Lily of the valley is good stock and in good demand. Orchids are moving freely. Bulbous stock, while quite plentiful, seems to clean up satisfactorily at fair prices. Some very good Murrillo tulips arrive daily. Easter and calla lilies are in good supply with a good demand. Snapdragons, daisies, forget-me-nots and calandulas are part of the daily receipts.

NOTES.

Owing to increased business, The Flower Shoppe, formerly of 1290 Lake View road, announces its removal to 12374 Superior avenue, where much larger quarters have been leased.

Only a few of the "boys" have returned from the big Philadelphia show, most of them staying in the east for the New York exhibition. C. F. B.

HEAVY SUPPLY WITH VERY GOOD DEMAND.

The dearth of flowers which prevailed some time back is over and gone, and there is now an ample sufficiency, amounting almost to a glut. Roses, which played hide and seek a few weeks ago, are coming along now in great profusion and local florists anticipate a heavy supply for the Easter trade. There are quantities of sweet peas, plenty of violets, lots of carnations and splendid ones too, and a regular glut of the bulbous stock. The trade in pot plants and spring flowers is fairly on and quantities are being sold. The country gardens are furnishing their share of Emperor and Empress narcissi and they are being sold on the streets; but the street fakir business has never been largely grafted on our flower market. Among the pretty blooming plants displayed are beautiful rhododendrons in all the delicate colors. There are beautiful and abundant lilies, and lily of the valley is plentiful. For all this fine supply there has been a good demand and the florists keep good forces busy all the time and prices hold up well. Funeral work has been good and in spite of its being Lent, the social world goes on much as usual, even weddings showing up briskly and long before the close of Lent there will be many brilliant nuptial affairs. PLENTY OF STOCK AND FAIR SALES.

Business is fair with a plentiful supply of stock. Roses such as Ophelia, Radiance, Sunburst, Richmond, Shaw-year and Hadley can be had at prices ranging from $3 to $10 per 100 for specials. Carnations are plentiful, and the best are priced at $25 per 1,000. Lily of the valley is scarce as are also good orchids, while gardenias have been disposed of as low as 75 cents per dozen. Tulips and other bulbous stock are not very plentiful and prices remain firm. Easter lilies are in good supply and the best can be had for $8 per 100.

NOTES.

The S. S. Pennock-Meehan Co. is handling some very fine lilac plants which find ready sale. Some of the best carnations to be seen in this city are also a feature with this firm at present.

L. Hoover reports business so far this year shows an increase over the corresponding period of 1915. He has orders booked well in advance for decorations and landscape work.

Dan Blackistone, one of this city's latest acquisitions to the retail trade, is more than satisfied with business conditions and looks forward to a good Easter demand.

Marche & Co. are enjoying an excellent trade, with every indication that they will have plenty to keep them busy until the Easter rush sets in.

TRADE IS STEADY.

A steady trade appears to be the rule with local florists. Important social functions have been keeping up a source of demand that is usually quiet at this stage of Lent. Pot plant sales are very active, indicating a heavy season. The outlook for bedding was never better. There is no lack of flowers of any kind. Carnations are now at their best and the market is absorbing the prolific yield. Fancy stock brings 75 cents a dozen and seconds an average about 50 cents. Rhea Reid, Mrs. Chas. Russell and the Killarneys, both pink and white, are the roses that are having the call. White and pink varieties sell from $1.50 upward. Choice red roses run up to $3.50. Sweet peas are a favorite of the hour, and command from 35 to 75 cents a bunch. The one lame feature of the market is hyacinths. The crop is abundant, and the public taste this season runs more to daffodils and jonquils. Snapdragons have been on sale the past week for the first time, the price being $1.50 to $2. Easter lilies are beginning to assume greater importance in florists' displays. The local yield will be large, and the old standard price of 25 cents for each bloom is expected to prevail.

NOTES.

In a "City Garden Catalogue" just issued by the Livingston Seed Company, that concern offers cash and merchandise prizes aggregating $170 for an amateur gardeners' prize contest and show, to be held at its retail store, September 12-14. Connected with this is a photographic contest, with gardens and flowers as subjects. This closes October 15. Selections from material thus submitted will be used in next year's catalogues.

What is said to be the largest individual order for shrubbery by a Columbus consumer is that just placed by the King G. Thompson Company, which has platted a 1,000-acre suburban addition. For use in planting on same, 14,000 shrubs of various kinds have been purchased.

Robert Livingston and F. M. Bromwell, of the Livingston Seed Company; the Misses Hellenthal, of the Hellenthal Floral Company and Leo Miller, of the Miller Floral Company, were Columbus visitors at the Fourth National Flower Show, Philadelphia.

The Art Floral Company will remove from the Keith Theatre building to a location nearly opposite on the same street.

J.

New Jersey Plant Growers.

Herman C. Steinhoff, West Hoboken, N. J.—Pot roses are a very noteworthy feature at the range of Herman C. Steinhoff. He has crimson ramblers, Dorothy Perkins, Tausendschon and other good varieties, all coming on in fine condition for Easter. There is a great stock of Magna Charta, Paul Neyron and other roses of that class, they, too, being in the pink of condition. The place is rich in fine spireas, hydrangeas and other pot plants. He is always very strong on Easter lilies and his stock is now very fine. Lilies, we may add, seem to be better this year than usual. He has propagated a great stock of bouvardias and will have them on the market for spring planting.

Emil Savoy, Secaucus, N. J.—Though Emil Savoy grows a variety of plants, he specializes in bougainvilleas, and we venture the assertion that no finer stock can be found in this country. As he will exhibit at the New York Flower Show, there will be an opportunity to see his stock at its best. Another very fine feature are his metrosideros (bottle-brush plants). This stock is exceptionally good and is novel enough to attract much attention. These two features alone are worthy of a visit to his range, or to the show. He has also a fine stock of azaleas and other plants.

George Giatras, West Hoboken, N. J.—George Giatras, who has had considerable success in fern growing, has recently enlarged and otherwise improved his range. He not only grows good ferns, but is also bringing in a fine stock of rhododendrons, hydrangeas and other plants.

John Birnie, West Hoboken, N. J.—The late John Birnie was an expert grower of geraniums, and his son and successor, John Birnie, has inherited the art. He has a great stock of geraniums and other plants coming on.

Rudolph Wittman, West Hoboken, N. J.—Rudolph Wittman has an established reputation as a grower of bedding plants, and has, as usual, a fine stock coming on for the opening of the spring trade.

State Florists' Association of Indiana.

The spring meeting of the State Florists' Association of Indiana will be held at Terre Haute, Tuesday, April 11, and as this is the first time the association has met in that city, a record attendance is anticipated. Members will assemble at Davis Gardens, which are reached by auto bus from Hein's Flower Store, Seventh street and Wabash avenue. A lunch will be served at Davis Gardens promptly at 12:00, followed by a business session. After an inspection of the Gardens, a tour of the local florists' establishments via auto will be made. Members are requested to bring novelties as well as standard sorts, and if unable to attend yourself, your exhibit will be taken care of and properly staged if shipped to the Davis Gardens. The officers and members of the Terre Haute Florists' Club desire to make this the banner meeting of the year, so do not disappoint them. O. E. STEINKAMP, Sec'y.

CHAIRMAN ASMUS of the National Flower Show Committee reports the Philadelphia exhibition a decided success financially.

PHILADELPHIA parks can charge the public "two bits" per person to inspect the Cleopatra crocodile at the "zoo" on the Sabbath day, but the same right to gate money is denied to the flower shows.

ON account of the late date of Easter much plant stock usually ready for that occasion will be past its best and it is, therefore, believed high-grade flowering plants will command good prices this year.

BENJAMIN HAMMOND says there was a fine lot of material exhibited at the Fourth National Flower Show last week, but that the building was not large enough. It was a national show, he says, without the flag in its proper position.

THE proceedings of the fifteenth annual meeting of the Chrysanthemum Society of America, held at Cleveland, O., November 10-14, 1915, have been printed and mailed to members. Those interested who have failed to receive copies should address Secretary Chas. W. Johnson, 2134 West 110th street, Chicago.

New Weather System Fallacious.

The chief of the United States weather bureau reports that in the opinion of the bureau, a new system of long-range weather forecasting, which has been widely discussed recently, is quite fallacious. The new system is said to be based on the spottedness of the sun and rifts and shafts of solar radiation. In the opinion of the weather bureau it belongs in the same class with other methods of long-range weather forecasting based on lunar, planetary, magnetic, and astrological considerations.

During the past few years the weather bureau has received full specifications concerning all the essential details of this particular system. Moreover, other scientists of international reputation now connected with the strongest institutions of the world engaged in astronomical research, have also passed upon these new theories, and are in accord that the deductions and conclusions drawn from the solar conditions on which the new system is based are unwarranted.

The alleged discovery is regarded as only one of a number of similar schemes which are continually being put forward. In some cases the advocates of these schemes assert that they can forecast the weather for weeks or months in advance. These pretensions meet with a certain credence because there are a number of people who still cling to the ancient belief in the influence of the moon on the growth of crops. In consequence the weather bureau has been called upon from time to time to caution the general public against putting faith in these so-called discoveries.

Begonia Mrs. J. A. Peterson.

The parentage of this dainty hybrid is of special interest, according to a correspondent of the London Gardeners' Chronicle, especially if B. socotrana, which is placed first, is the seed-bearing parent, as this species has persistently refused to produce seedlings differing materially from itself. The other parent, B. Gloire de Sceaux, is itself of doubtful origin, the parentage recorded by the raiser not being generally accepted; at least one high authority is of opinion that its progenitors were B. incarnata purpurea x B. socotrana. In any case, the South African species B. Dregei had no part in it. Yet in the variety Mrs. J. A. Peterson, the characters of B. Dregei—which gave to B. Gloire de Lorraine its free-blooming and graceful habit—are unmistakably in evidence. As a cross between B. Gloire de Lorraine or one of its sports and B. Gloire de Sceaux this would be accounted for, but for B. Gloire de Sceaux and B. socotrana to produce such an offspring is, to say the least, remarkable, and appears to render more uncertain the origin of B. Gloire de Sceaux. Whatever the source may be, Mr. Peterson, of Cincinnati, is to be congratulated on having raised an excellent begonia, which promises to become as popular as B. Gloire de Lorraine.

Has the Carnation Reached its Zenith?

In reference to J. H. Pepper's paper "Has the Carnation Reached its Zenith?", read at the February meeting of the New York Florists' Club, I say absolutely no. It has reached a very high standard in size, color and stem, but these are not the entire qualifications necessary to the carnation.

It is a great pity that throughout this country such a valuable flower should be judged only for those points. The keeping qualities and the fragrance are every bit as important. The great trouble with the grower is that he has become money mad, and the flower suffers from overfeeding and overforcing. Years ago, when we had such flowers as William Scott, carnations would keep a week at least; today we are lucky if they keep over night. You say the retailer today would not take William Scott, which is true; but can we not have a carnation which is improved in keeping qualities and in fragrance as well as in size and color? Years ago when we had William Scott we sold carnations in great quantities because the public could keep them. Today, they buy roses because they outlast the carnation. I do not deny that the rose is a more beautiful flower, and that its development in a jar of water is very interesting to the public, but I hardly think that is the cause of the decrease in carnation sales in the high class flower shop. Our public has for quite a number of years complained of the keeping qualities of the carnation, and I feel it my duty to tell the grower of my experience. In fact, this sort of thing has for years been greatly lacking in the florist business, and I hope to see the day when the florist commission man and the retailer will meet at regular intervals to talk over the shortcomings in every phase of the business, to their mutual advantage.

New York Spring Show.

New York, April 5.—The weather conditions are very favorable to the great annual exhibition. Taking a wide view it is the best flower show ever staged in this country, not only in arrangement but in quality and variety. The cyclamens, schizanthus, hydrangeas, primulas and bulbous stock are splendid both in quality and variety. Looking at the rose gardens William Falconer, of Pittsburgh, Pa., said: "Magnificent and an education for the people."

Two noteworthy private groups of spring bulbous stock are those staged by Arthur Golding for Daniel Reid and P. W. Popp for Mrs. Darlington. Scheepers & Co. made a similar trade display, also one of amaryllis in bloom.

Notable in the commercial displays are four splendid and varied rose gardens. In these the F. R. Pierson Co. took first place.

Five magnificent private groups of spring-flowering plants, not bulbous, are worth going many miles to see.

There are three beautiful rock gardens in competition, the Cromwell Gardens securing first prize.

Wm. Vert, gardener for Howard Gould, and Wm. Duckham, both staged grand amaryllis.

James Forbes, of Portland, Ore., says it is a beautiful show and wonderfully staged.

Wanted to Lease

Going commercial greenhouse establishment within 50 miles of Chicago. Give full particulars in first letter. Address Key 622, care American Florist.

For Sale—On account of age and death in family, I offer for sale my greenhouse property and business which I started 35 years ago. It is located in a prosperous city in Indiana; present population 75,000 and growing rapidly. All the surrounding territory is thickly populated, with several nearby towns of from 5,000 to 15,000, connected by interurban, in which I have a great number of customers. The business is well established, the real estate very desirable, and all improvements in first class conditions. The property consists of real estate with a frontage of 158 feet on a modern paved street with street car line. It extends back 275 feet and also has a frontage of 146 feet on a fine residence street at the back. The improvements consist of a new modern cottage with gas, electric lights, bath and sewerage connections; three greenhouses, each 23x100 feet, heated by hot water; office, barn, large packing shed and warehouse, and a modern, new well equipped boiler-room. The greenhouses are well stocked with carnations and bedding plants. This is a fine opportunity and must be seen to be appreciated. Write me for full particulars. Address Key 624, care American Florist.

FOR SALE

Tract of 85 acres of good land, nearly all level, including four dwellings, three barns, greenhouse, nursery stock, chicken houses, sheds; about 40 acres devoted to orchards, berries, rhubarb, asparagus, etc.; one-half mile from street car line and three and one-half miles from center of thriving city of over 30,000, which offers quick cash market for all produce. One hundred and seventy-five miles from Chicago and 110 miles from St. Louis, with excellent shipping facilities to both points. Price, $350 per acre; one-third cash, balance on satisfactory terms. For further particulars, address Key 612, care American Florist.

PLENTIFUL SUPPLY OF GOOD QUALITY.

Spring is the most favored time for flowers, even in California, and some of the florists are taking advantage of the great variety and making up baskets of spring flowers. They are attractive to say the least. Forget-me-nots, Cecile Brunners and many others of the little things that go to make a window look beautiful, are becoming more plentiful. Ixias and tulips compose the bulk of the bulbous flowers just now, though there are some ranunculuses to be seen. Lilacs are especially fine this year. The cool winter with plenty of rain seems to have brought them up to the lilac of the east. The cut branches of the fruit trees and the acacias have about disappeared. The Japanese quince is still to be seen to some extent. It seems to be the opinion of all the dealers that the Easter trade this year will far exceed that of any other year. In fact, a record breaker.

NOTES.

J. W. Wolters, the Hill street florist, reports exceptionally good business. This is one place where the windows are always well stocked with a variety, having many things not seen in the usual window display. This store had the only showing of cinerarias that came under our observation; also some remarkably fine baskets of spring flowers, which attracted a great deal of attention.

This has been a busy week for the Redondo Floral Co. Monday started in with two palls on the rack. They are displaying many novelties for the Easter trade and look forward to the busiest Easter in the firm's history. A special tulip day this week was a great success.

O. C. Saakes is showing a beautiful clear pink heather, of the mediterranea type; also showing some American Beauties, something like five-foot lengths. Mr. Saakes believes he has the finest stock of roses in the city.

The force at Wright's Flower Shop are all busy at this writing. They always have a fine showing in roses. They will have a big supply of Easter lilies and are looking forward to a big trade at that time.

The "California Florists" are moving again. This time from 716 South Grand avenue to the Gates hotel at Sixth and Figueroa streets, where they expect to open up with a complete stock of plants and cut flowers.

The force at Wolfskill Bros. & Morris Goldensen's has been busy on funeral designs, putting up many expensive pieces.

A few watsonias were shown at the shop of the Broadway Florists. They also have a great line in baskets.

The supply of Easter lilies is going to be up to the usual amount in spite of the lateness of the date.

All the Best Varieties of ROSES From the Best Growers

And All Other Seasonable Flowers.

Canadian Horticultural Association.

The executive committee of the Canadian Horticultural Association met, March 20, in Berlin, Ont., and decided to hold the annual convention August 7-9 in that city. The following papers will be read at the meetings: "Sweet Peas", by A. A. Elliott, Brampton, Ont.; "Success with a Home Garden", by Geo. Baldwin, Toronto, Ont.; "The Commercial Culture of Peonies and Dahlias", by Harry Tattle, Toronto, Ont.; "Bedding Plants", by F. Wise, Peterboro, Ont.; "The Gladioli", by A. Gilchrist, Guelph, Ont.; "Problems of the Retailer", by Harry G. Dille-muth, Toronto, Ont.; "Outdoor Roses", by Julius Luck, Montreal, Que. The social part of the program, which was left to the local committee, promises to be very good, judging by a few glimpses given by H. L. Janzen, Mayor Hett, and Ald. Hallman, president of the Berlin Horticultural Society.

A committee has been appointed to prevent the illegal importation of lily of the valley, of enemy origin. A letter was read from Superintendent H. J. Jackson, of Queen Victoria park, Niagara Falls, advising the association that the commission has set aside a portion of the park for the testing of new plants and for registration of same along the lines as discussed at the last convention at London, Ont.

BUSINESS VERY ENCOURAGING.

With the arrival of real spring weather, and splendid condition of the market, the business enjoyed by all connected with the local trade has been very encouraging. The market is in better condition than it has been in some time. Stock of all kinds is plentiful and of good quality. Plants in great variety are being offered the public and are leading in the sales. The sales of seeds and all sorts of shrubs and vines are now being pushed. The supply of roses is equal to the demand. Carnations are more plentiful and bring from 75 cents to a dollar per dozen in retail stores. Cut bulbous stock is not arriving in quantities sufficient to supply the demand. Sweet peas and violets are abundant and bring fair prices.

NOTES.

The Helmer Flower Shop had its opening March 27 and it was attended by hundreds of people. The new store is located at 617 Madison avenue and is attractively equipped throughout. It is operated by Jacob Helmer, formerly designer for Miss Helen Patten of this city, and Miss Josephine Helmer, formerly with John Breitmeyer's Sons, Detroit, and Mrs. J. B. Freeman, of this city. Both have had a long and valuable experience in the florists' business and many friends in this city wish them success in their new venture.

The Elite Flower House, 421 Madison avenue, threw open its doors to the public April 7. It is under the management of Henry Wustrow, formerly employed by Max Spanner. He was also connected with Fleischman's of New York and Schmidt's flower store of Berlin. His knowledge of the flower business is thorough and he is

CHICAGO

THE ROSERY FLOWER SHOP : CHICAGO, ILL.

IN ALMOST EVERY STATE in the Union is to be found a flower shop completely equipped THE BUCHBINDER WAY. Each of these shops represents the highest that has been attained in the artistic treatment of interior decoration and pleasing harmony for the modern flower store that detracts nothing from the flowers on display.

We have made the building of florists' refrigerators and interior fixtures our specialty and have spared neither time nor expense in studying the most effective treatment for flower shop interiors.

All this we place at the disposal of the readers of The American Florist, and gladly offer our valuable services, absolutely free of charge, to assist any florist in planning his store. Our drafting department will furnish elaborate drawings for your inspection and approval. We will give an estimate as to the complete cost and, in fact, do anything within our power either to work out your own ideas or to please you with ours. All this is absolutely free, Mr. Florist, and is offered to you with our compliments.

We build all our fixtures and refrigerators in our own factory and build them right. Our refrigerators are equipped for either natural or artificial cooling, and we also sell refrigerating machinery.

❑ Can we help you? A postal from you will receive prompt attention. Send for our catalogue.

Chicago.

TRADE WAS VERY QUIET LAST WEEK.

Business the past week was very quiet, especially as far as the city trade was concerned, and while the out-of-town demand was good, it was nothing to speak of. Stock of all kinds was plentiful and sold in large lots at bargain prices. Several of the department stores bought a heavy supply of roses and sold them in dozen lots at ridiculously low figures. Roses in general are in good supply, especially Mrs. Charles Russell, which are in good demand, considering the existing market conditions. Killarney and White Killarney are also seen in large supply and the same holds good for Killarney Brilliant, Killarney Queen and Double White Killarney. Some fine Mrs. George Sawyer are obtainable but there is no great surplus in this variety when the stores close at night. Choice Hadley, Milady, Rhea Reid, Hoosier Beauty and Richmond are arriving in large numbers and there are plenty of Sunburst, Ophelia, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Lady Hillingdon, My Maryland, Mrs. Moorfield Storey, Prince de Bulgaria, Cecile Brunner, George Elgar and Fireflame to go around. American Beauty roses are arriving in larger quantities, and while there is some real good stock being offered, there are not any too many of the better grade flowers to be seen. Taken all in all, all the roses grown for the local market have been in good supply all last week, notwithstanding the fact that the market appeared to be cleaned up at times on certain kinds, but if one really wanted stock in certain varieties one could find it without much trouble. Carnations are to be had in quantity at much lower figures and very choice stock is included in the shipments, and it is particularly noticeable that the quality of the Enchantress has improved wonderfully the past week. Some especially fine Belle Washburn and Aviator are included in the daily receipts and are in good demand and are bringing top prices. Lilies are to be had in any quantities in all the grades and some unusually well grown callas are being offered. Sweet peas were never more plentiful this season than they were last week and are now, and are to be had in large numbers at very reasonable prices. Lily of the valley and gardenias are cleaning up nicely each day at good prices. Orchids, especially cattleyas, are not seen in any great quantities, but there is a good supply of cypripediums still being offered. Snapdragons are plentiful and some unusually well grown stock fit for the exhibition table is attracting the attention of the buyers. Stocks, daisies, calendulas, forget-me-nots, violets, straw flowers, lupines, candytuft, tulips, hyacinths, mignonette, gladioli, jonquils, daffodils, pansies, freesias and anemones are to be had. The gladioli that are being offered consist principally of Mrs. Francis King, that is so far as the local indoor grown stock is concerned, and is in short supply. Some imported out-door grown gladioli are being offered but do not meet with very good sale, even though the prices are pushed down so low that it is doubtful if express charges are realized. Green goods of all kinds are in good supply and some very fine ferns are to be had if one is willing to pay the price. From present indications it appears as if cut flowers will not be any too plentiful, especially as far as carnations, roses and bulbous stock is concerned, and it is advisable for everyone to place their order well in advance so as to avoid disappointment. The Easter prices appear in this issue of THE AMERICAN FLORIST, so anyone wishing to place their orders well in advance can inspect the prices, which in nearly every instance compare favorably with each other. There appears to be a large quantity of plants for the Easter trade, especially azaleas, rhododendrons, hydrangeas, lilies, roses, cyclamens, spireas, and begonias, the only scarcity so far reported being in bulbous stock, such as tulips, daffodils and hyacinths. The retail trade is making a splendid showing already for Easter and judging from the large supply of stock being sold, it appears as if there will be more cut flower and plant baskets sold this season than ever before. Large quantities of pussy willows are seen in the market and should come in handy for finishing off the many baskets that will be filled again this year.

NOTES.

Peter Papes and Peter Duris have placed an order with Buchbinder Bros. for an entire set of store fixtures, including the refrigerator, which will be installed in their new store at 132 North State street, which they have just leased for 10 years and will be known as the Central Floral Co. The store is now being remodeled to make ready for the fixtures which will consist of marble top counters, mirror background and everything else that is needed in a modern flower shop. Papes & Duris are no strangers to the market, for they have been connected with the trade in this city for some time and are also proprietors of the store known as the Central Floral Co. at Detroit, Mich. When their new store is completed they will have a modern establishment in every respect and one of the largest refrigerators in the loop.

FLOWERS OF QUALITY

Emil Reichling, superintendent of the Peter Reinberg greenhouses, has returned from the east where he attended the National Flower Show at Philadelphia and the Spring Show at New York. While he was east he bought a good supply of Good Cheer and Rosette carnation cuttings and Alice Stanley rose plants, which will be given bench space at the Reinberg range next season. Planting is well under way at this range and six houses of Mrs. Chas. Russell and four houses of Milady roses have already been benched. The outlook for a large crop of roses is very bright for Easter.

Mrs. Horton says that Bassett & Washburn received word from C. L. Washburn and wife this week that they are having a delightful time in California and that O. P. Bassett and wife and E. B. Washburn and family are in the best of health. They visited Bassett & Washburn's greenhouses at Hollywood and found everything in splendid condition under the able supervision of E. B. Washburn.

Ed. Enders, with Chas. A. Samuelson, has returned from a pleasant visit at the Philadelphia and New York flower shows and was particularly impressed with the exhibits of the growers, especially in the plant line. He visited several of the leading commercial establishments while he was in the east, including that of A. N. Pierson, Inc., at Cromwell, Conn.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. are offering a large quantity of unusually fine callas in addition to a complete line of all other seasonable stock, including fancy jonquils. This firm will be well fixed for Easter and will have plenty of stock to supply all their customers with and any new orders that may arrive.

Percy Jones is receiving a large quantity of carnations and Manager Van Gelder expects to have a large supply in all the leading varieties for Easter. Lilies are seen in large numbers at this house and some of the finest ferns ever offered are obtainable here and are bringing top prices.

D. J. Hoskins, of the Hoskins Floral Co., Elmhurst, is a frequent visitor in the wholesale market. Mike Callahan, formerly with Poehlmann Bros. Co., and later with the Stuppy Floral Co., at St. Joseph, Mo., is foreman of his greenhouses, which are devoted principally to roses.

Wm. E. Tricker, former superintendent of Vaughan's Greenhouses at Western Springs, will leave about April 10 for St. Paul, Minn., where he will take charge of Holm & Olson's greenhouse department. While here Mr. Tricker made a host of friends who wish him every success in his new location.

J. A. Budlong will have a large supply of lilies for Easter, both cut flowers and pot plants, and are booking a large number of orders for same. Manager Schupp says that lily of the valley will be plentiful with them but looks for a cleanup in roses and carnations before the rush is over.

The E. F. Winterson Co. is using the large store at 57 East Lake street for storage purposes again this year. Edgar Winterson, Jr., says that trade at Winterson's Seed Store is keeping the entire force busy and that all their boxwood trees have been received.

The board of directors of the Chicago Flower Growers' Association will hold a meeting at their store on North Wabash avenue next Tuesday, April 11. This house is receiving a fine lot of roses now, including a fancy grade of Cecile Brunner and Fireflame.

A. I. Simmons, 242 West Sixty-third street, attended a special performance of "Experience", now playing at the Garrick, which was given in the chapel of the Joliet penitentiary, Monday, April 3, and proved to be quite a treat for the prisoners.

Frederick Pfaff, of Anadarko, Okla., has accepted a position with the wholesale firm of Hibbard, Spencer, Bartlett & Co., of this city. He was formerly proprietor of the flower store at Anadarko, now conducted by his sister Mary.

L. Stapp, of Rock Island, was a visitor at Kyle & Foerster's store this week. He says that his new range of three Moninger houses is well under way and that two of them will be devoted to roses and one to carnations.

A. E. Hunt & Co., who market their stock at D. E. Freres' wholesale store, have had an unusually good call for all the anemonies that they are cutting and are finding it difficult to supply the demand.

Pyfer & Olsem have a nice supply of hyacinths and spireas to offer for Easter and are making preparations to handle a large trade at their ever-growing retail establishment in Wilmette.

John Enders, who was seriously ill with pneumonia for the past month, is up and around again and expects to be back on the job at Poehlmann Bros. Co.'s store in about another week.

Hoerber Bros. are starting to cut a good supply of Mrs. Francis King gladioli and are still offering a large quantity of unusually well grown snapdragons.

F. Eggleston is installing a Buchbinder refrigerator in the new store that he is opening on Fifty-first street, opposite the Hyde Park hotel.

Weiland & Risch cut their first indoor gladioli Friday, March 31, and are offering a limited supply of choice stock in several varieties.

Sam Pearce says the circulator attachment to his heating apparatus has been very satisfactory the past winter, saving considerable fuel.

C. A. Mathes has been engaged as superintendent of the grounds and gardens of Gustav Pabst at Oconomowoc, Wis.

Ed. Mallison has resigned his position with Chas. A. Samuelson to enter the employ of the Fleischman Floral Co.

WHOLESALE FLORISTS

30 E. Randolph St.,

CHICAGO, ILL.

L. A. Tonner is still agent for the Jackson Pecan Groves Co., and is making her headquarters at O. A. & L. A. Tonner's wholesale cut flower and supply house at 30 East Randolph street. She has sold a number of the Jackson groves, which are located in the heart of the pecan district in southwest Georgia, to local florists, who are more than pleased with their investment. The groves are reasonable in price and are sold on easy terms and will receive agricultural and horticultural care for the term of contract. Miss Tonner will be pleased to send descriptive literature to anyone interested upon request and her reputation for square dealing is sufficient guarantee that her proposition will bear investigation.

H. N. Bruns has just purchased a new seven-passenger Packard touring car and is having a delightful time with it during his spare moments. Miss Whittingham, who keeps the Bruns books, was called to Toronto, Canada, last week by the serious illness of her mother and is greatly missed at the store. Mrs. Bruns had charge of the apron booth at the Kirmess now being held at the Coliseum, last Sunday, April 2, and cleared $181, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the German Red Cross Society.

French & Salm, Union Grove, Wis., captured first prize at the National Flower Show at Philadelphia last week with their 100 Mrs. Chas. Russell roses, which attracted much favorable attention. They are exhibiting at the New York spring show this week and expect to make a good showing there also. Dick Salm says that he does not expect Mr. French home until some time next week.

Fred Dietsch says that the A. Dietsch Co. has delivered all the material for the new Budlong range to be erected at Niles Centre and work on the erection of same will be well under way soon. The new houses will be planted to roses and it is understood that the variety Mrs. William Randolph Hearst will be given considerable bench space.

The George Wittbold Co. has a nice supply of hyacinths for Easter and reports a brisk demand for same. The retail department, under the able management of Fred Nelson, is very busy with funeral work and the force is kept on the jump to get all the orders out on time. This firm has just added two new Ford delivery cars to its city delivery service.

Wietor Bros. are in good crop with American Beauty roses and are offering fine stock in the longer stemmed grades. Carnations are seen in large supply here this week and the shipments consist of all the standard and newer varieties. Rosette, Philadelphia and Matchless are doing wonderfully well with them and are always in good demand.

Chas. Erne is back on the job at Erne & Klingel's store and is feeling in the best of health and ready to give the boys a lift during the Easter rush. This firm is handling a fine line of stock and will have plenty to supply their customers with for the big flower day.

Zech & Mann are offering a good supply of fancy lilies and a visit to their growers this week finds that they will have a large supply for their Easter trade. Sweet peas are seen in large supply here and are moving splendidly, considering the general market conditions.

Joe Marks, who represented the A. A. Arnold Paper Box Co. at the Philadelphia and New York flower shows, is still in the east, but is expected back home soon. C. B. Arnold says that trade is very good and the demand is especially good for Easter.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. are showing a fancy grade of roses and carnations and expect to have a good supply for Easter. The shipping trade has been very good right along and the city trade is showing considerable improvement this week.

The McNeff-Swenson Co. is offering a nice set of posterettes to all the members of the Florists' Telegraph Delivery Association, many of whom have already ordered a liberal supply and are more than pleased with them.

The Raedlein Basket Co. never had such a heavy demand for baskets and the indications are that there will be more used for Easter this year than ever before, especially as far as the plant line is concerned.

Frank Oechslein bought what are known as the Lynch greenhouses at West Twenty-second street and Harlem avenue this week and will use them for growing young stock, principally ferns.

The John Kruchten Co. will be on deck as usual this Easter with a large supply of lilies in all the grades and are now booking orders for same.

The Garland Manufacturing Co. has taken in new capital, further particulars of which will be announced later.

Fred Dubois, formerly with the Bohnannon Floral Co., is now with H. C. Rowe, 67 East Monroe street.

Sinner Bros. are cutting from a nice crop of candytuft and will have a good supply to offer for Easter.

The Chicago Florists' Club will meet at the Morrison hotel Thursday, April 6, at 8 p. m.

We receive our supplies of Easter Lilies from the best lily growers in and around Chicago; hence you can depend upon receiving the best. In order to avoid breakage of Potted Lilies incidental to the rush and rough handling of Express companies at the eleventh hour, shipment of potted lilies should leave us not later than Wednesday, April 19th; in other words, we will make no shipments of Lily plants after April 19th.

Besides Lilies we shall have a big cut of Russell, Ophelia, Sunburst, Double White Killarney, Killarney Brilliant, Pink Killarney, Richmond, Milady and Ward Roses to offer in addition to heavy supplies of Carnations, Valley, Sweet Peas, Violets, Callas, Jonquils, Daffodils, Tulips, Galax, Asparagus, Sprengeri, Adiantum, as well as other Seasonable Stock and Greens.

Also a large supply of our famous Blue Ribbon Valley, which is recognized by city buyers to be the best Valley on the Chicago market. Order some and be convinced.

During the period of scarcity we were filling orders complete when other houses were wiring their customers "Impossible to fill." Today finds us better than ever able to give you good values for your money. Try us and convince yourself.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. is making a nice showing of plants for Easter at their store for those unable to visit the greenhouses at Morton Grove and can make their selection from the samples on display. The demand for Easter plants is exceedingly heavy and the shipping trade will be on in earnest in a few days. The supply of cut flowers will be as large as ever for the big day and the supply department never had a finer line to offer than now. August Poehlmann and son, Earl and Adolph Poehlmann and daughter, Vera, have just returned from Philadelphia and New York, where they attended both of the big flower shows.

The Lincoln Park bond issue of $1,000,000 was approved by the voters at the April 4 election. The funds derived from the new issue are to be used in the improvement of 75 additional acres at the north end of the park. This land is a link in the general plan to extend the park from its present boundary to the city limits on the north.

Ald. Block, chairman of the special parks commission, is waging war against J. H. Probst, city forester, on a variety of charges.

TRADE SLACKENS SOMEWHAT.

The supply of stock in the market last week was very heavy. The demand at the opening and close of the week was excellent. During the middle of the week, however, business was a little slow and stock accumulated. Shipping business is good. Prices are very reasonable. Roses of all seasonal varieties and all sizes are in a heavy supply. The same is true of American Beauties. Carnations are plentiful and Easter lilies are in a better supply than a week ago and are having a good market. Sweet peas sell fairly well, but so many come into the wholesale houses that it is impossible to move all of them even at the lowest possible prices. Violets, lily of the valley and orchids have a poor market. Bulbous stock is fairly plentiful and has a fair sale. Callas and snapdragons meet with a limited call. Smilax is rather scarce.

MARKET WELL SUPPLIED WITH STOCK.

The market is full of flowers. Roses of all kinds are now at their best, being offered in all grades in quantity lots at lowering prices. American Beauties of grand quality are becoming plentiful, the spring crop being on with a number of growers. Sweet peas are a feature. They are superb and one of the best sellers, in fact, dominating the market. Carnations are plentiful and move fairly well at lower prices. Southern daffodils are in but they do not affect the fine Emperors, which clean up daily at good figures. Gardenias are sold at buyers' prices. The spring crops are now in, flooding the market, and they are sold at every corner by the street men. Cattleyas are also ahead of the demand and buyers' prices predominate. Double violets are cheap and move fairly well, while the lily of the valley supply is gauged very carefully by the growers and little goes to waste.

CLUB MEETING.

The April meeting of the florists' club was a love feast—there was not one discordant note. The many bright features of the show were brought out, notably its success financially with 102,000 paid admissions and cash receipts of almost $50,000 and total expenditures of $35,000, a record that will be hard to beat. J. Otto Thilow, Adolph Farenwald and others lauded W. F. Therkildson, Wm. Kleinheinz, E. J. Fancourt, M. P. Mills, Fred Cowperthwaite and all the other active members of committees who did so much to make the show the great success it was. As a factor in arousing the public the effects were already being felt, orders for roses coming to Henry A. Dreer, Inc., in large numbers, directly traceable to their work at the show. Many others related similar experiences in which the public are showing their appreciation. Another show on a grand scale is assured for next spring. It was also rose night, there being good displays of superb flowers by S. Mortensen, Edward Towill and Myers & Samtman. Each of these gentlemen gave their experience with the newer varieties, valuable information that was much appreciated by their fellow members. The flags presented to the club by the New York Florists' Club were draped on either side of the platform. A resolution of appreciation for the gifts was offered by J. Otto Thilow and was adopted. President Burton appointed Robert Craig to present this in person to the New York club during their coming show. Thirty-nine new members were elected, making over 100 additions to the roll in the past three months.

NOTES.

The feature of the week was the flower show and the interest manifested by the people was wonderful—scarcely a customer in any of the stores that did not have something to say of the exhibition. Those who had seen it were full of its glories, while others looked forward to their visit with pleasure. Never was there such a representation of out-of-town members of the craft; it was a regular convention week and more. The wholesale, supply and commission houses had the latchstrings out and cordially welcomed the visitors. The establishments of Henry A. Dreer, Inc., Jos. Heacock Co., the Robt. Craig Co., W. K. Harris, Adolph Farenwald, the Chestnut Hill rose houses and other prominent growers were all places of interest to the visitors, to which little journeys were made.

Easter lilies, callas and orchid sweet peas, together with select roses, are high lights in the stock of the Berger Bros. Easter prospects look good here.

American Beauties are leaders with the Leo Niessen Co. It is wonderful the amount of stock of this favorite that is received, but it all goes out.

Sunburst and Mock roses, good enough for the show, are pointed to with pride by Edward Reid—the genuine "Reed brand" he calls them.

Stock in all seasonable varieties has been in full supply during the past week. Violets are getting poor and do not keep from day to day, but sweet peas are of excellent quality and take their place. Carnations are holding up well and bring from $2.50 to $4 per 100. Roses are fine in quality and are arriving in better supply.

NOTES.

F. Toess has opened a flower stand in the Johnson drug store on Seventh street.

Adolph Steidle is recovering from the effects of his recent fall and has reported for duty again at Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Co.'s flower department.

Marion Ullschmidt, manager of Grimm & Gorly's East St. Louis store, reports remarkably good business for the Lenten season.

The shop of Miss M. S. Newman always presents an attractive display. The window arrangements of Miss Armstrong at this establishment always reflect the touch of the artist.

A committee of seven was named by the florists' union to take up the matter of hours and arrange for overtime with the employers. Several of the best known florists of the city were represented at the meeting and some very interesting points in flower store management were brought out, among the speakers being H. Ostertag, A. Meier, Martin Seeger and others. The principal topic of discussion was the 9-hour law, with four hours' work every alternate Sunday, all over that to be paid for on an overtime basis.

THE ANNUAL SPRING SHOW.

The show opened under very favorable conditions and promises to be the most successful event of the kind ever staged in this city. In artistic arrangement the exhibitors have exceeded all previous efforts. The commercial growers, private estates, retailers, seedsmen and the allied trades are all well represented.

In the commercial line very noteworthy are the exhibits of F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., Julius Roebers Co., Rutherford, N. J., Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J., and A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn. The rose and rock gardens staged by these firms are incomparable. Fred Dressell, Weehawken, N. J., has a very fine exhibit of hydrangeas and Emil Savoy, Secaucus, N. J., makes a splendid showing of bougainvilleas.

The private estates have done splendid work. Clement Moore, Hackensack, N. J., W. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y., James Stuart and P. W. Popp, Mamaroneck, N. Y., John Canning, Ardsley, N. Y., F. E. Lewis, Ridgefield, Conn., Louis Strauss, Brooklyn, and others have fine displays.

The Central park conservatories, represented by C. C. Olson, make noteworthy contributions, including a camellia plant 10 feet high in full bloom and other excellent exhibits.

In greenhouse construction the Wm. H. Lutton Co., Jersey City, N. J., represented by Samuel Burns, has a most attractive arrangement and others in this line are well represented.

Vaughan's Seed Store, J. M. Thorburn & Co., John Scheepers & Co., Stumpp & Walter Co., and other seedsmen exhibit to good advantage.

G. E. M. Stumpp, Max Schling, Alfred Kottmiller and other retailers are making highly creditable displays.

President MacRorie and our old friend C. E. Critchell were early on the ground.

Secretary John Young, after a hard week's work at Philadelphia, is on hand, answering many puzzling questions with usual efficiency and courtesy.

Arthur Herrington is managing the show and doing it well.

NOTES.

President MacRorie, of the Society of American Florists, and Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco, Calif., Henry Rieman, of Indianapolis, Ind., and many others came over from the Philadelphia show last week.

W. N. Rudd left for Chicago, April 1, through Norfolk and Richmond, by steamer.

W. J. Smyth and family of Chicago are at the McAlpin. A. F. F.

Albany, N. Y.

Members of the florists' club were grieved to learn of the sudden death, March 26, of Florence, daughter of James Snyder of Rhinebeck, N. Y., a grower of violets, and who has for about nine years been a member of the florists' club. Miss Snyder was 21 years old, a graduate of the Rhinebeck high school and assisted her father in the conduct of the business. She was of a cheerful disposition and had the good will of everyone connected with her father's establishment. The funeral was held from the Snyder home March 29. The florists' club contributed a handsome wreath.

The city officials are consulting with Charles Downing Lay, landscape architect of New York, with a view to improvements in the park system of the city. Plans for the extension of Manning boulevard from Western avenue to New Scotland avenue have been prepared under the direction of Mr. Lay. The drawings show a parkway 18 feet wide through the middle of the boulevard with carriageways on each side. The city officials will follow the suggestions of the architect in regard to plantings of trees, shrubs, and landscape work in Washington, Sheridan, and Beaver parks this summer. Mr. Lay advises Albanians, in efforts to beautify their grounds, to plant trees and shrubs native to this locality. He says they are best adapted to this latitude and less liable to disease. The great luxuriance of an English garden, he says, comes from the fact that the owner plants profusely of the trees and shrubs which are native to his isle.

J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y., President; Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., First Vice-President; E. W. Belgiano, Washington, D. C., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fourth annual convention, Chicago, June 20-22, 1916.

SEEDTIME in the Canadian northwest is very late this year and snow is still seen at many points.

BOSTON, MASS.—The Fottler-Fiske-Rawson Co. reports increased business for the season thus far.

VISITED NEW YORK: F. H. Woodruff, of Milford, Conn.; C. B. Coe, of D. M. Ferry & Co., Detroit, Mich.

THE death is announced of E. J. Sheep, vice-president of S. M. Isbell & Co., Jackson, Mich., March 24.

DWARF mixed nasturtium seed has been added to the long list of scarce items. Named sorts of these are also lacking.

THE stealthy approach of spring reminds us that Carl Cropp is secretary of Vaughan's Seed Store.—Chicago Tribune.

CHICAGO.—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, April 5, were as follows: Timothy, $5.00 to $7.50 per 100 pounds.

NEW YORK.—The weather is in no hurry to warm up for the seed rush, but commuters had their rakes out Sunday, April 2, which was the first and only springlike day to date.

THE HAGUE, April 3.—The Dutch steamer Ryndam, which was due to sail Friday for New York, is still being held up owing to the strike of stokers and trimmers over their demand for an increase in wages.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—W. Atlee Burpee & Co. say their business during March gained continuously and now is going far in excess of last year. Both the value and number of orders are greater than the average of 1915.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Northrup, King & Co. are very well pleased with their March business, which compares favorably with that of the preceding year and this seems quite favorable when the backward weather and shortage of stocks are considered.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The St. Louis Seed Co. says the March business, both mail and local, has been the best they have had for quite a while, showing an increase of about 25 per cent over that of former years. The prospects with this firm are for a banner year.

ROCKFORD, ILL.—R. H. Shumway says his mail trade was much less than last year during January and February, but a little better in March with orders smaller than last year. "I feel," says Mr. Shumway, "if we have a cold and backward spring mail business will last longer, such at least has been the case during my 46 years in the mail seed trade."

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—The A. J. Brown Seed Co. advises its business has not been as large as last year by considerable. The short crop of some specialties is given as the cause of this falling off. Trade since the snow disappeared has been very satisfactory and everything points to a good April business. On the whole this firm has no complaints regarding business in general.

THE Leonard Seed Co., Chicago, says its business is at least 20 per cent greater than ever before and continues busy with onion sets, moving out thousands of bushels at steadily advancing prices. This firm was very well pleased with the finish this year and believes prices will continue firm for the next 10 days or two weeks, which will pretty nearly clean up all the sets in the market fit to ship.

New Jersey and Kentucky Seed Legislation.

In a communication from Curtis Nye Smith, counsel for the American Seed Trade Association, under date of March 28, 1916, he states that new seed laws have recently been passed in Kentucky and New Jersey. His comment on these laws follows:

"The New Jersey seed law is quite unsatisfactory to the seed trade. It requires labeling of agricultural seeds, mixtures of such seeds, and also vegetable seeds. The label on the first two classes mentioned, briefly stated, calls for the name of the seed, and if a special variety or strain of such seed is used, it must be the true name; percentage by weight of purity or freedom of such seed from foreign matter, or from what other seeds distinguishable by their appearance; percentage of germination; the number per pound of the seeds of noxious weeds, if present in excess of one seed in each five grams of agricultural seed; the name of the seller. Vegetable seeds must have a label stating the name thereof; the percentage of germination; the percentage of inert matter if in excess of five per cent of the total weight; the name of the seller.

"The administration of this law is vested in the board of managers of the New Jersey agricultural experiment station, and its analyst, who are not public officials and are not subject to state control. The seedsmen also feel aggrieved over the methods used by the proponents of this bill in forcing it through the legislature.

"The Kentucky bill is a rather close copy of the views of the Association of Official Seed Analysts in regard to a uniform state seed bill. This bill affects agricultural seeds and requires a label, stating the name of the seeds, the name and address of the seller, the approximate percentage by weight and purity, meaning freedom from foreign matter, or from other seeds; the approximate percentage by weight of the different species of foreign seeds when sold as mixtures and so labeled; the approximate percentage of germination as shown by laboratory tests. No agricultural seeds containing more than one of certain named noxious weed seed to 2,000 agricultural seeds shall be sold. Garden and flower seeds in sealed packets must be labeled with the approximate percentage of germination and also the year in which the packet was filled."

Seed and Nursery Stock Embargoes.

Curtis Nye Smith, counsel of the seed and nursery trade associations, had on April 3 a conference with the railroad officials of the New York Central and New Haven railroads and also with the Eastern Freight Accumulation Conferences concerning the lifting of embargoes on seeds and nursery stock.

As our readers were heretofore advised the New Haven embargo on seeds was lifted March 1 and on March 28 a permanent order against embargo on seeds was made. On the same road on March 31 the embargo on nursery stock was lifted. The New York Central lines and Boston & Albany have lifted embargoes on seeds and nursery stock. The Boston & Maine has no embargo on seeds or nursery stock. The Pennsylvania has co-operated in the lifting of embargoes.

It is of the greatest importance that seeds and nursery stock shall go forward promptly as the planting season is at hand. The railroad officials have shown an earnest desire to assist in this movement.

If any seedsman or nurseryman finds any delay in shipments, he should telegraph his complaint at once to the vice-president in charge of traffic of the railroad complained of, with copies to Mr. Smith.

Legal Notes.

The supreme court has held (Auditorium versus Scott Transfer Co.) that the mere fact that a concern goes into bankruptcy does not end contracts between it and another party in case the latter suffers by the proceedings.

The supreme court of Mississippi in the case of the Shenandoah Pure Seed Co., has held that acceptance of the goods relieves the telegraph company of cause for action where through error in message the buyer receives more goods than he ordered.

French Bulbs.

Toulon, France.—American buyers are making inquiry freely for Narcissus Paper White Grandiflora, one New Yorker even bidding through his agent up to 18 francs to the small growers. This, naturally, will advance the prices and make growers delay closing deals and demand more money. It is also very likely that bulbs under 13 centimeters will be worked off.

ST. JOSEPH, MO.—The Mitchihill Seed Co. has been incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000.

MATAWAN, N. J.—The Monmouth Seed Co. has been incorporated with a capital stock of $100,000 by Robert and John K. Crine of Morganville, N. J., and Samuel D. Jones of New York.

Burpee-Quality Seeds Help Solve the Market Problem

It is our pleasure to record a greatly improved market condition, and we confidently predict that 1916 will prove a most prosperous season for the Market Grower.

Many causes contributed to the unsatisfactory vegetable market of 1915, and it is also true that these same causes created a most profitable market for Staples, such as Wheat, Corn, Oats, etc.

During 1915 we attended many meetings where market growers gathered to formulate plans to overcome the then prevailing unfavorable conditions. Much good resulted from these conventions, as they have proved beyond question that inferior produce in large quantities, dumped without thought of quality or condition, has done more to demoralize the markets than any other factor.

The discussions at these meetings have brought the invariable conclusion that Quality Produce did sell—and sell well—at the highest price obtainable.

Quality Produce can no more be the harvest of inferior seed than high-bred cattle can be the product of inferior or diseased stock.

Burpee's Seeds are known the world over as the American Standard of Excellence. When you buy Burpee's Seeds the element of doubt is removed so far as is possible by human care. A careful canvass of our Market Grower friends has brought this answer: "Yes, we certainly grew first-class crops from Burpee's Seeds."

The conclusion is inevitable: Burpee's Seeds grow Quality Produce, and Quality Produce brought good prices. Burpee's Seeds help solve the market problem.

Did you use Burpee's Seeds in 1915? If not, we earnestly solicit your orders for 1916. The profit is mutual.

Burpee's Annual for 1916, our complete retail catalog of 182 pages, has already been mailed. If you have failed to receive it, please write us at once and a duplicate copy will be forwarded.

Sincerely yours,

NEW CANNAS

TWO STRIKING NOVELTIES OF OUR OWN RAISING

EUREKA

We unhesitatingly declare this to be the best white flowering Canna that has been brought to our notice. Nearly all other white varieties have proven of weak constitution and growth.

Eureka grows as vigorously and blooms as freely as any Canna of any color. Its foliage is clean and healthy of a beautiful green color. It grows quickly into sturdy shapely plants about four feet high, which produce a profusion of large trusses of good sized florets. These open a creamy white, and quickly becomes pure white in the full sun.

Its superior merits have been commented on by all who have seen it, and we confidently proclaim it the best white Canna yet introduced. Strong 2-eye divisions, 30c each, $3.00 per dozen, $20.00 per 100.

ORANGE BEDDER

A particularly attractive vigorous growing variety, of a bright scarlet orange, of peculiar dazzling intensity. The flowers are produced very freely, creating a great mass of color. A bedding variety of extraordinary merit.

Strong 2-eye divisions, 30c each, $3.00 per dozen, $20.00 per 100.

Standard Varieties of Cannas at Special Prices

We have completed the cleaning of our Cannas, and the inventory shows that we have a number of excellent sorts; some of them recent introductions, in particularly large quantities.

The list is an excellent one, comprising sorts of practically every shade, and all distinctly different from each other.

We offer these 20 varieties at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000, for immediate delivery and subject to being unsold on receipt of order.

No order accepted for less than 100, at this special price.

Try a thousand, in the 20 sorts, 50 of each. You will find it a profitable investment. ORDER NOW.

Vegetable Foods Extension Course.

Bulletin No. 123 has been issued by the United States department of agriculture under the title of "Extension Course in Vegetable Foods" for self instructed classes in movable schools of agriculture. It is a professional paper by Anna Barrows, director, School of Domestic Science, Chautauqua, N. Y., and instructor, School of Household Arts, Columbia University, and in its contents are included lessons on the classification of plants, leaves and stalks, succulent roots, condimental vegetable foods, food accessories, summary of cookery, preserving and canning vegetables, marketing and a list of equipment and apparatus.

Germination of Hard Seeds.

In a bulletin of the New York Cornell Station, H. H. Love and C. E. Leighty call attention to the fact that—

The seed of many species of leguminous plants usually contains a considerable amount of seed that germinates slowly or not at all. Such seed is often referred to as "hard seed." Very frequently there is so much of this hard seed present that germination tests, even when continued for three weeks, give results entirely misleading as to the viability of the sample or lot of seed. When such seed is sown in the ordinary way a very poor stand of plants is usually secured. This is especially true in dry seasons or in regions of light rainfall.

It was found that delayed germination could be practically done away with by treating the seed with sulphuric acid. Such treatment was found to be especially effective not only on clover seeds of various kinds, but also on cotton seed. Many varieties of weed seeds commonly found in samples of clover or alfalfa seeds were killed by the acid treatment. The germination of other kinds of weed seeds was either benefited by the treatment or was not affected.

In order to determine whether acid treatment of leguminous seeds is necessary, a germination test should be made. If this shows a low percentage of germination and a large amount of hard seeds that are apparently alive, acid treatment will probably be beneficial. The methods of treatment advised are as follows:

When there is only a small amount of seed to be treated, such as the seed from a single head of clover or from a single clover plant, amounting to not more than a few hundred seeds, the following method may be employed:

Place the seed in a small homeopathic vial or test tube. Pour on the seed a quantity of concentrated sulphuric acid equal to about five or six times the volume of seed. Stir the mixture thoroughly with a stirring rod until all seeds are completely coated with the acid. Allow to stand for 15 to 45 minutes at ordinary room temperature, the longer time being necessary if the percentage of hard seed is high. At the end of this time allow water from a faucet to run into the vial or test tube until it is nearly full, then quickly pour the entire contents into the strainer and wash quickly with water. (If this method is followed, it should be done over a porcelain or other acid-resistant sink and the waste acid washed away with water.) Wash for five minutes in running water, or until the seed is entirely free from acid. The seed may be planted immediately, or it may be allowed to dry before planting, the former process being preferable for small lots of seed.

For larger amounts of seed for sowing in fields the following modifications make the above method applicable:

A stone jar of two or three gallons capacity, or larger, may be used as a receptacle in which to mix the seed and the acid, and a wooden or iron stick (a broomstick is satisfactory) may be used for stirring. The acid may be washed off by pouring the seed and acid into a wooden box whose bottom has been replaced by a screen of proper mesh. After draining a few minutes, water should be poured over the seed, in large amounts at first in order to prevent heating, and this process should be continued until all acid is washed away. For larger amounts of seed, which are to be sown in a seeder, it will be necessary to allow the seed to dry before sowing. This may be accomplished by spreading it out on a floor or other suitable place in a thin layer.

The materials required for the above treatment are—for clover or other small seeds in limited quantities: Small homeopathic vials or test tubes that will hold the seed easily and will give plenty of room for mixing with the acid.

Concentrated sulphuric acid, of a specific gravity of about 1.84, and receptacles for same. Either the chemically pure acid or the ordinary dark-colored commercial acid gives the same results.

A needle mounted on a wooden handle, to be used for stirring the acid and seed.

A spatula or section lifter is needed to remove seeds from the strainer and place them into the tubes.

A wire tea-strainer of fine mesh. This will resist the action of the acid for several hundred tests.

Blotters and germinator, or other apparatus for germinating seeds, if the seed is not to be planted in the soil.

For clover or other small seeds in large quantities of a half peck or more: Stone jars of two or three gallons capacity or larger.

Acid as above.

A wooden or iron stirring rod. A broomstick is satisfactory.

A strainer made by nailing a fine-mesh iron, copper, or brass screen to a wooden box.

For cotton and larger seeds: The same apparatus as given above may be used, except that the screen or sieve may be of larger mesh.

INDEPENDENCE, IA.—Fred Minor has purchased the Brightside Nursery from G. D. Black. The latter will remove to Albert Lea, Minn., in the fall, but will continue to occupy part of the establishment this summer for dahlia growing, in which line he is an expert.

Nursery Stock Shipments Restricted.

The federal horticultural board of the United States department of agriculture in order to protect western white pine forests from white pine blister rust, under date of March 22, 1916, sent a copy of the following communication to all nurserymen in the eastern states:

"Dear Sir:

"All eastern nurserymen are requested not to ship white pines, currants, or gooseberries west of the following tier of states: North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. The object of this request is, first, to safeguard the enormously valuable western white pine forests from the white pine blister rust, now known to have foothold in six eastern states, and perhaps also in the Ohio valley, and, second, to avoid the necessity of a burdensome quarantine. The white pine blister rust is a very destructive disease of all white pines, but occurs also in a different form, as a leaf disease, on currants and gooseberries, and may therefore be carried to new regions by any of these plants. Like citrus canker and chestnut blight, the white pine blister rust was brought to this country on imported nursery stock before the passage of the federal plant quarantine act. Ninety per cent of the infections now in North America came from a single German nursery. An attempt is being made to control the disease in the eastern states. If this disease should spread to the Rocky Mountains and beyond, the western forests of white pines, which are now among our most valuable trees, will be endangered. At a very conservative estimate, the government and private holdings in these forests represent a valuation of $240,000,000.

"Compliance with this request on the part of nurserymen may make it unnecessary for the department of agriculture to declare a quarantine covering the known infested states prohibiting the further interstate movement of white pines, currants and gooseberries. With the co-operation of the nurserymen, as proposed, very little, if any, hardship will be experienced, and the protection which a quarantine would give will be secured without restriction on the general nursery trade in the eastern half of the United States. The states within the range of the western white pines will be warned of the danger from eastern nursery stock of white pines, currants, and gooseberries, and the inspectors of all of the western states will be asked to notify this board of the shipment into their several states of any of the stock referred to from points east of the western line of the states enumerated. If, as a result of this request, no such shipments are made, further action may be unnecessary. If, however, nurserymen should ignore this request, it is practically certain that a quarantine will have to be established at an early date prohibiting the interstate movement of these plants from the infested states.

"C. L. MARLATT,
"Chairman of Board."

RESULTS ARE WHAT COUNT

BELLE WASHBURN won the silver medal of the Society of American Florists' at the 1915 Buffalo, N. Y., Exhibition, and again won the Society of American Florists' silver medal and American Carnation Society's silver medal at the St. Louis, Mo., Exhibition, January 26-27, 1916. This is the only variety that ever won the Society of American Florists' silver medal two years in succession, which is worth considering when buying new varieties. Results count—order accordingly.

THE BEST RED CARNATION

per 100; $100.00 per 1000; 500 at the 1000 rate.

The color is the most brilliant red of any carnation on the market. The size of the flower is 3 to 3½ inches, with stems 24 to 36 inches long, strong and stiff. The calyx never bursts and all flowers grade first. Best of all it is a steady and constant bloomer giving just as many flowers as the Enchantress of which it is a seedling. We have 30,000 plants now benched in our greenhouses of which 18,000 are devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. At our Pacific Coast Branch at Hollywood, Calif., we have 1500 plants devoted exclusively to rooted cuttings. Orders from the far west can be sent direct to our Mr. E. B. Washburn, 252 South Orange Grove Avenue, Pasadena, Calif., who will give them his personal attention. An inspection of our greenhouses either at Hollywood, Calif., or Hinsdale, Ill., is invited.

Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Decorations during "Dress Up week" resulted in brisk business and pleasant weather has also helped the volume of sales. Stock of all kinds is plentiful and the demand is satisfactory. March business showed a gain over the corresponding period of 1915 and indications point to a better Easter trade than ever before.

NOTES.

Many attractive window displays have been noted at the local flower shops during the past week, noteworthy being those of A. J. Lanternier & Co., Doswell Floral Co., Edgar Werninghoff, Markey Bros. and the Flick Floral Co.

Spring flowers at 50 cents per box and special gift boxes at 75 cents and $1 were featured by the Flick Floral Co. during "Dress Up week." This firm also had several elaborate store decorations for the occasion.

THE BOOK OF GLADIOLUS

THE first authoritative book on this bulb ever printed in America, or possibly the world, issued April 1, 1911. This 120-page book, written by Matthew Crawford and Dr. Van Fleet, contains many chapters covering all sides of growing, propagating, storing, etc., and also some pages of valuable cultural notes gathered from reliable sources. A necessity for both amateur and grower. The book is bound in cloth and fully illustrated.

YOU NEEDTHE BIG MONEY MAKER,*CHAMP WEILAND.

In color the most exquisite pink ever seen in a rose. Here is a rose, Mr. Grower, that caused the critics to shake their heads, but it was an up-and-down nod instead of the doubtful negative shake.

DO YOU ASK WHY?

Because in this rose they found their ideal, in the qualities that tend to make a truly grand variety, namely, color, foliage, size, beauty and freedom of bloom.

Small wonder—for in this rose we find a color unequalled by any other "sport" creation of recent years. Take the tip—grow "Champ Weiland." Now ready, grafted plants, 100 for $35.00; 250 for $82.50; 500 for $150.00; 1,000 for $300.00.

MRS. CHAS. RUSSELL.

We have an elegant stock of the above, and offer grafted plants at $14.00 per 100; $120.00 per 1,000; own root, $12.00 per 100; $100.00 per 1,000.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP, MANAGEMENT, CIRCULATION, ETC., REQUIRED BY THE ACT OF CONGRESS of THE AMERICAN FLORIST, published weekly at Chicago, Ill., for April 1, 1916.

OF AUGUST 24, 1912.

State of Illinois, County of Cook.

Before me, a Notary Public in and for the state and county aforesaid, personally appeared Michael Barker, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the editor and business manager of THE AMERICAN FLORIST, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, (and if a daily paper, the circulation), etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and Regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business managers are:

Publisher, American Florist Company, 440 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

Editor and Business Manager—Michael Barker, 440 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

2. That the owners are: (Give names and addresses of individual owners, or, if a corporation, give its name and the names and addresses of stockholders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of the total amount of stock.) Estate of E. Asmus, W. Hoboken, N. J.; M. Barker, 440 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.; W. Atlee Burpee Estate, 485 N. Fifth St., Philadelphia, Pa.; John Burton, Wyndmoor, Mont. Co., Pa.; J. D. Carmody, Evansville, Ind.; W. W. Coles, Maple Hill Rose Farms, Kokomo, Ind.; Robt. Craig, 49th and Market Sts., Philadelphia, Pa.; J. B. Deamud, 1055 Dean St., Brooklyn, N. Y.; James Dean, Freeport, L. I., N. Y.; Emresia J. Dickey, care of Byron-Reed Co., 212 S. 17th St., Omaha, Neb.; Wm. Falconer, Allegheny Cemetery, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Halliday Bros., 11 E. Baltimore St., Baltimore, Md.; Maggie Harris, 55th and Springfield Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.; Estate of Edwin Lonsdale, Lompoc, Calif.; Mrs. Catherine Mathison, Waltham, Mass.; John N. May, Summit, N. J.; F. R. Pierson, Tarrytown, N. Y.; Isaac D. Sailer, 929 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.; Estate of Louise Schiller, 2207 W. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.; H. A. Siebrecht, New Rochelle, N. Y.; W. J. Stewart, 11 Hamilton Pl., Boston, Mass.; J. C. Vaughan, 31 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.; Annie G. Whitnall, 4001 Harvard Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif.; C. B. Whitnall, 026 Locust St., Milwaukee, Wis.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 percent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: (If there are none, so state.)

There are no bonds, mortgages or other securities outstanding against THE AMERICAN FLORIST.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders and security holders if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

AMERICAN FLORIST COMPANY, Michael Barker, Sec'y.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 31st day of March 1916.

ALBERT L. KOEHLER, Notary Public.

[SEAL.] My commission expires May 1, 1916.)

TRADE BRAND MARK

Pulverized Sheep Manure

Is the florists' standard of quality—always uniform and always reliable. A quick acting, powerful natural fertilizer, absolutely free from chemical treatment or mixture. Order by name and be sure it's Wizard Brand. Don't accept a substitute.

Remember, Wizard Brand Sheep Manure is packed in extra quality 25-lb. and 50-lb. bags, and attractively printed 5-lb. and 10-lb. cartons for your retail trade. There is nothing better you can offer for lawn and garden fertilizing.

WIZARD
TRADE BRAND MARK

Pulverized Cattle Manure

Cool, mild and safe for bench and potting soil. Cow manure always has had its own place in greenhouse work and always will, no matter how many chemical concoctions are put up to pull the grower's money out of his pocket.

WIZARD
TRADE BRAND MARK

Shredded Cattle Manure

Makes the best kind of mulch. Maintains uniform moisture and temperature in the benches. Can't be beat for young stock—keeps it growing strongly and vigorously. It is carefully selected, extra quality, pure cow manure. Concentrated and completely sterilized at high temperature. No mixing and no chemicals—safe and sure—and mighty convenient to have in the storeroom for every kind of use about the place. Always ready—easy to handle—a time and money saver.

DIETSCH HOUSES PAY

Conservative growers everywhere appreciate the real value of Dietsch materials and invariably use them when making additions or building new ranges. A life time of practical experience is behind every house that we send out and a range of Dietsch houses built in Wilmette, over 25 years ago is still in use today. The above illustration is a view of the new range that we built for Clarence Sterling, at Joliet last year. Always remember when thinking of building, that it will be to your interest to get our sketches for your new house.

THE NEW YORK SPRING SHOW.

Grand Central Palace, April 5-12.

Gotham's Masterpiece.

The spring show given under the auspices of the Horticultural Society of New York and the New York Florists' Club was in every respect the largest and most artistic exhibition of its kind ever held in America. Boston, Chicago, Cleveland, Philadelphia and New York have at different times held exhibitions that have excelled in some respects those that had gone before, and the standard of quality has been raised time and time again, until it was thought the limit had been reached, but New York, however, has taken a distinct step forward and raised her banner to such a height that all competitors will have to lay their plans a long way ahead before they will be able to unfurl their own in its place.
As a whole, the show was a masterpiece, finished in every detail.

The features were: First, the rose gardens, four in number, all wonderfully artistic and beautiful; then the rock gardens, the wonderful collections of orchids, the entries of the private estates with spaces of 200 square feet decorated with plants and flowers, the bulb gardens, the commercial groups arranged for effect, the cyclamen and primrose exhibits, all of which were beauty spots around which the throngs of visitors liked to linger.

Undoubtedly the rose gardens were of the greatest interest. The display of F. R. Pierson Co., Tarrytown, N. Y., which occupied a space of 500 square feet, was a magnificent piece of work, elegant in every detail; the fence, the arched entrances and the pergola at the rear with its curved garden seat were of wood, painted ivory white.
The surface of the bed was a raised platform with openings for the pots which were entirely concealed. In the center was an oval bed planted with Teschendorf surrounding a classic terra cotta urn around which Tausendschon were trained. Between this arrangement and the outside border of the garden were four beds with straight borders on their outside edges parallel with the outside beds next to the fence. Between the center oval and the pergola was a sundial in the center of a round bed of Teschendorf. In the center of the beds in front of and surrounding the pergola were standard climbers of the Teschendorf and Tausendschon varieties. A six-inch border of grass in boxes was arranged to fit the outline of the various beds and the white gravel paths gave the finishing touch to what was easily the best rose garden exhibit ever seen in this country, and was awarded the principal prize of $500.

The garden of A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., was enclosed with a low, rustic cedar fence entwined with well flowered Dorothy Perkins and Lady Gay. Hiawatha was used at the higher corners and on the arches of the two gates with Tausendschon on the raised panels of the fence. Baby ramblers in shades of pink and red and blush Baby Elegans formed a row next to the grass which was real sod, beautifully green. A large rustic summerhouse with bird houses all covered with Hiawatha at the rear and a gazing glass and two stone benches completed this reposeful and beautiful garden.

The English garden of Bobbink & Atkins, Rutherford, N. J., was very well planned, nothing being left undone in working out an artistic arrangement. This display was surrounded by a brick wall laid between concrete pedestals, surmounting which were vases, while black iron chains were also used to good effect. At the rear rose a wall high in the center and which attached a fountain and basin, the whole being arched over with a latticed trellis covered with Tausendschon. In the center of the garden was a circular bed of white and pink baby ramblers from which rose a concrete pedestal, surmounted with a gazing glass. Four beds, their borders being outlined to conform to the center one were planted with hybrid teas, rising above which were tall standard hybrids in full flower.
Border beds with marble benches were next the walled enclosure. The wall vases were planted with baby ramblers. Irregular white and gray marble slabs formed the paths, while real grass sod bordered the beds. Spring blooming crocuses and other bulbous stock and ornamental grasses formed the borders outside of the walls of this exhibit.

The rose garden of the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., was well planned, the various beds being arranged on a raised platform, the paths being of seedling grass sod conforming to the contour of the beds of various shapes. An umbrella shaped arrangement of Tausendschon occupied the center and the same variety was used to decorate the covered gateways and the rustic fence enclosing the display. Hybrid teas and polyanthas of the baby rambler type were the varieties used in this garden.

Rock gardens were a great feature. That of A. N. Pierson, Inc., was wonderfully worked out, some of the granite rock being of tremendous weight for such work. Daphne Cneorum was used to good advantage, while andromeda, Azalea mollis and other flowering shrubbery, columbine, variegated funkia, auricula, primulas and evergreens were prominent features. Stone walks wound through the garden and about the little stream and ponds that helped materially to heighten the general pleasing effect.

Bobbin & Atkins' display in this class was a mound of tuba rock, with a curved path of pebbles dividing the upper and lower sections. The plantings were of irises, candytuft, phlox, columbine, lily of the valley, dielytra, auricula, ferns, variegated grasses, etc. The top border was of laurels, azaleas and rhododendrons. Sedums and cacti were also used to good effect. This exhibit won second prize.

The Julius Roehrs Co.'s rock garden was very pretentious and enormous quantities of volcanic rock was used in its construction, the mound at the rear reaching a height of at least eight feet. The center represented a grotto and pool into which a waterfall was musically falling. Dwarf evergreens, Azalea mollis, Japanese maples, andromeda, Daphne Cneorum, peonies and wallflowers, with a number of herbaceous plants in flower were the plant features. Hardy ferns looked very natural in the stonework about the pool and waterfall. It was a very complete and beautiful exhibit.

The private growers' collections of flowering plants and bulbs covering 300 square feet was most elaborate and beautiful. There was a great wealth and variety of material and the greatest attention to detail was noticeable in the arrangement of the groups. Adolph Lewisohn's exhibit (J. Canning, Supt.) was gorgeous in its wealth of bloom. Pink Pearl rhododendrons, lilacs, cinerarias, azaleas, daisies, Primula malacoides, genistas, daffodils, spiras and quantities of other plants in full flower were bewildering in their color effect. This display was awarded the blue ribbon. The second prize was captured by F. E. Lewis, Ridgefield, Conn. (J. W. Smith, Gr.). This exhibit contained many large plants. A tall, green lattice with climbing roses and geraniums in pots attached to the back of the frame, together with Azalea mollis, Rhododendron Pink Pearl, quantities of bulbs, spiras, anemones, ixias and Easter and calla lilies all combined to make this display a riot of color. Two well-flowered laburnums were also a noteworthy feature. The exhibit of W. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y. (R. M. Johnston, Gr.) took third honors. The feature here was a succession of rose arches magnificently covered with Dorothy Perkins and Lady Gay. Moss covered steps carried these arches one above the other, producing a very fine effect. Large acacias, cinerarias, and a pair of vexillarium, splendidly flowered, were prominent features.

Displays of bulbs covering 200 square feet staged by commercial growers were effective. John Scheepers & Co., New York, were awarded first prize for an elaborate exhibit in garden effect surrounded by a box bush edging. A circular border encircled a large star-shaped bed, edged with box and beds filled with daffodils, tulips, hyacinths and jonquils were arranged to produce the best color effect. A silver medal was also awarded this firm for a collection of special narcissi of new and rare sorts.

In the display of bulbs in flower exhibited by private growers, D. J. Reid, Irvington-on-Hudson, won first prize with a splendid assortment of hyacinths, tulips, daffodils, lily of the valley and Easter and rubrum lilies. Mrs. H. Darlington, Mamaroneck, N. Y. (P. W. Popp, Gr.), was second with a nicely arranged grouping of all popular spring varieties and Easter lilies.

The rhododendron section contained some splendidly flowered and very well shaped plants. In the class for commercial growers, Bobbink & Atkins' collection covering 150 square feet of space was first and also took first honors in both the six-plant and three-plant competitions. A. N. Pierson, Inc., being second in the two last named classes. The Julius Roehrs Co.'s group covering 150 square feet was second.

The azalea exhibits showed high class. The standard in this, and in fact in all other sections, is being raised very rapidly. The entries of A. N. Pierson, Inc., were all very fine and were awarded the first prize for group covering 150 square feet. This firm also took second honors in the classes for specimen, six plants and three plants. staged some magnificent specimens and was awarded blue ribbons for single specimen, and in the classes for six plants and three plants; also second in the competition for group of 150 square feet.

The amaryllis class never before brought forth such excellence; the flowers were huge and brilliant in coloring. Howard Gould, Port Washington, N. Y. (Wm. Vert, Gr.), won the first premium in both the 25 and 12 plant classes. Mrs. D. Willis James, Madison, N. J. (W. H. Duckham, Gr.), being second with 25 excellent plants. John Scheepers & Co. were awarded a silver medal for a special display of about 50 varieties of narcissi in pots.

In the section devoted to flowering plants and bulbs staged by private growers, Mrs. A. M. Booth, Great Neck, L. I. (E. Tarbel, Gr.), had a splendid collection, beautifully arranged—a white lattice fence built high in the rear was covered with rambler roses. There was a great variety of forcing bulbs, with grape hyacinths and snowdrops a feature in the foreground.

The orchid display was a great feature of the show; all the most beautiful and rare varieties that it was possible to have in flower at this time were to be seen—miltonias, laelias, oncidiums, cypripediums, phalaenopsis, dendrobiums and cattleyas, the latter in great profusion of magnificently flowered specimens. A number of the beautiful brassia-cattleyas were shown; one, a pure giant white, in the collection of Clement Moore, Hackensack, N. J. (J. P. Mossman, Gr.), was really wonderful, as was also a pink brassia staged by Geo. Schlegel, Brooklyn, N. Y. (Stephen G. Milosy, Gr.). These two plants were surrounded at all times by admiring throngs. The miltionias and the phalaenopsis and odontoglossums in the exhibit of Arthur N. Cooley, Pittsfield, Mass., (Oliver Lines, Gr.), were almost sensational in their variety and excellence.

NEW YORK SPRING SHOW.

Bulbous and Other Flowering Plants Exhibited by W. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y., R. M. Johnson, Gardener.

The department of parks, Borough of Manhattan, staged a splendid group of foliage and flowering plants. There were some very fine specimen hydrangeas in the white, pink and blue sorts. Frederick H. Dressel, Weehawken, N. J., carried off first prizes in all the classes. His plants were wonderfully well grown.

In the commercial class for climbing roses, A. N. Pierson, Inc., staged magnificent plants. His specimen Tausendschon, Hiawatha and White Dorothy Perkins being superbly flowered. Elizabeth Zeigler, a red sport of Dorothy Perkins, looks like a valuable addition, receiving first for best new rose not in commerce.

Julius Roehrs Co. won first with 25 pots Lilium giganteum.

There were majestic specimen palms all about the hall—arecas, caryotas, rhapis, kentias, Phoenix Roebelenii, cycas, dracenas and tree ferns. Goniophlebium subauriculatum, with its long 10-foot fronds, was a conspicuous feature.

In the blooming section of hard wooded plants there were several fine acacias. Magnificently flowered genistas were great features and wonderfully flowered specimens of the broom, Genista officinalis, attracted attention.

Marguerites, such as are seldom seen, came from the Bellevue Farm, New Brunswick, N. J. (Geo. H. Pen-son, Gr.), and in the commercial class from Madsen & Christensen, Wood Ridge, N. J. They were complete balls of white, five to six feet in diameter.

There were extraordinary specimens of Cineraria stellata. There have never been finer or better flowered plants staged at a show in this country.

W. B. Thompson, Yonkers, N. Y. (R. M. Johnson, Gr.), staged some splendidly colored crotons, his 12 receiving first prize. J. Hood Wright, New York, won second. Specimen ferns were also a noteworthy part of the Thompson exhibit. His group of ornamental foliage plants, 100 square feet, composed of crotons, dracenas, pandanuses, marantas, etc., was easily first. He was also first for the six best specimen foliage plants. F. R. Pierson Co. won first with 12 tree lilacs with great heads of bloom; also for best three thrysacanthus or bottle brush. The Pierson display of nephrolepis sorts was, as usual, a feature. It was great in its variety and culture. Primula malacoides, white, and light and dark pink, were seen in the greatest perfection.

Specimen plants of farleyense of the Roehrs Co. won first; they were grand plants.

Pimelea rosea, a new plant, was staged by A. N. Pierson, Inc. This looks like a splendid hardwood plant with pink flowers. Abutilon Seyboldi, a variegated dwarf growing variety, with orange flowers, was also exhibited by this firm. There was a magnificent plant of Farleyense gloriosa, staged by Gov. Beeckman, Newport, R. I. (J. D. Urquhart, Gr.). A plant of Asparagus Sprengeri, staged by Mrs. Oliver Hoyt, Stamford, Conn., received honorable mention; a truly beautiful specimen, as was a plant of A. cuneatum, four feet through, which won first prize.

In the commercial class for spireas, Bobbink & Atkins staged well flowered specimens that won first.

In the rambler rose class for private growers, F. E. Lewis, Ridgefield, Conn. (J. W. Smith, Gr.), won first with an assortment of well flowered plants.

Mrs. Henry Darlington, Mamaronck, N. Y. (P. W. Popp, Gr.), won a silver medal for an exhibit covering 300 square feet. A rock work of cork bark was a feature here, as were a number of laburnums, with their beautifully tasselled blossoms.

Knight & Struck Co. won a first prize for a collection of new Holland plants, which consisted of acacias, ehorizemas, sedums, ericas, etc.—a wonderful and varied exhibit.

In the balcony, the display of Primula obconicas was wonderful in its variety and coloring. Ralph Pulitzer, Manhasset, N. Y. (Fred Hitchworm, Gr.), won first for the best six, each plant having at least 25 large, geranium-like heads of bloom. There were at least 100 plants in competition in this and other classes, almost as good. The cyclamen were also remarkable. It has never been our pleasure to see the like before—such giant flowers, such brilliant colorings and quantity of bloom were a revelation of what careful selection of seed and attentive culture will do. A collection of nemesias in separate colors was interesting. The schizanthus specimens were enormous, like the giant chrysanthemum plants of old. First prize for six plants went to C. K. G. Billings, Oyster Bay, N. Y. (James Bell, Gr.). These plants covered a space of at least 300 square feet. Specimen hydrangeas in the private growers' class were also arranged along the balcony aisles. There were also groups of Easter lilies, splendidly flowered. Celosia cretica was an interesting plant with its spikes of mullein-like flowers.

NEW YORK SPRING SHOW.
View Across the F. R. Pierson Co.'s Rose Garden.

On the east balcony was placed the groups of commercial growers, covering 300 square feet. The Julius Roehrs Co. won first honors with a superb collection containing a great variety of rare and well-grown plants. These were arranged in mound form. A very striking plant of Medinilla magnifica superba heavily flowered was in the center and standard genistas, Acacia pubescens, dracenas, variegated pine-apples, marantas, crotons, anthuriums, with their brilliant flowers, flowering begonias, amaryllis and other flowering plants were combined to make a beautiful picture. The ground work was covered with tradescantias and panicum, looking as if it had grown there.

A. L. Miller, Jamaica, N. Y., won second. He staged a splendid lot of flowering plants and palms; everything to be found in the Easter collection was seen here. It made a great showing. Bobbink & Atkins also staged a collection of superbly grown plants, palms, dracenas, pandanus, azaleas, rhododendrons and other flowering stock, which made a splendid color effect. This firm's evergreens received special mention and a blue ribbon for collection of forced shrubbery; also a first premium for large group—25 plants of conifers.

Emil Savoy, Secaucus, N. J., won the blue for 100 square feet of bougainvilleas—plants in all sizes from 3-inch pots up to 10-inch tubs. They were trained as arches, baskets, globes and pyramids, and were a splendid commercial lot.

The center tables running the length of the south gallery contained the exhibits of bulbous stock and flowering herbaceous plants in pots. All the classes, hyacinths, tulips, daffodils, etc., were well filled, the Darwin tulip being especially fine. A bed of English primroses in many shades of color was a choice entry. They were from Mrs. H. Darlington, Mamaroneck, N. Y. A collection of 50 plants of gloxinias, splendidly flowered, which were awarded a silver medal, were staged by Geo. J. Gould, Lakewood, N. J.

There were several exhibits of cut pansies and pot plants in full bloom which made a good showing. Hybrid calceolarias, in a dozen different colors, were a beauty spot. Cineraria hybrids were well represented by some superbly flowered plants; the wealth of bloom, with size and coloring, put them into the highest class. Cut snapdragons were displayed here—splendid spikes of bloom. Guttman & Raynor, Inc., New York, staged a vase of 50 pink for the Florex Gardens, North Wales, Pa., that took first prize, while Paul T. Richwagen, Needham, Mass., was second. Some of the entries of private estates were superb, notably the vase of yellow and dark red by Governor Beeckman, Newport, R. I., which won first prize. Cut stock gillyflowers were also staged; at this time there were some splendid spikes seen.

Thursday was carnation day. Cottage Gardens Co., Queens, N. Y., won first in the class covering 150 square feet. Pink Ward and Matchless were the varieties, all huge flowers and extra long stems, gracefully arranged in floor vases on a green carpet. Strouts, Biddeford, Me., was second with seven splendid basket vases of choice flowers.

The commercial cut rose exhibit brought out some splendid stock. Cromwell Gardens (A. N. Pierson, Inc.) staged vases of splendid flowers; their Mrs. Shawyer, White Killarney, Ophelia, Francis Scott Key, Hoosier Beauty, Killarney Queen and Killarney Brilliant were all very high class blooms. F. R. Pierson Co. exhibited splendid American Beauties, Ophelia, Mrs. Ward, Hoosier Beauty, Killarney Queen, Richmond, Killarney Brilliant and Francis Scott Key. Robert Simpson, Clifton, N. J., won blues with his Ophelia, Mock and Mrs. Aaron Ward. A. S. Burns, Jr., had a sensational vase of Hadley, the most magnificent vase of roses in the show. L. B. Coddington, Murray Hill, N. J., was present with blue ribbon Sunburst and Crimson Queen.

French & Salm, Union Grove, Wis., captured first with their unbeatable Mrs. Russell—a truly superb vase.

Guttman & Raynor, Inc., staged for the Florex Gardens a vase of their sport of Killarney and 50 choice blooms of their Rose Prima Donna (Mrs. Paul Euler); also vases of Cecile Brunner and George Elgar. W. B. Thompson, in the private growers' class, staged a number of vases of well-grown cut roses. Daniel Guggenheim, Elberon, N. J., exhibited Radiance with stems six feet in length. A. M. Booth, Great Neck, L. I., had a vase in the class for 25 blooms that was very fine. Howard Gould, Mrs. F. A. Constable, Mrs. John Crosby Brown and Hamilton Farms were also exhibitors in the private growers' class.

Retailers' Exhibits.

Of great interest to the retail florists were the booths and displays of the members of their craft. There were not many represented, when one considers the extent of this branch of the trade in New York, but the quality was very high, particularly that of G. E. M. Stumpp, Max Schling and Alfred Kottmiller. All went to considerable expense, some paying as much as $300 for the bare floor space and erecting elaborate booths and platforms on which to decorate and display their wares. As the show progressed, however, all were satisfied and report business in almost every case greater than their expectation.

G. E. M. Stumpp had a very large space, handsomely fitted up with a vine covered pergola. This covered 600 square feet, divided in three sections, one devoted to a varied assortment of the latest in terra cotta vases, bird baths, jardinières and other ornaments for the garden. In the central section, elegantly tinted bowls in all the newest shapes, from very wide and shallow flowered dishes to the deeper bowls, with or without feet or stands were arranged. The rapidity with which these various forms and styles of vases are being introduced shows how the taste and demand is increasing for flowers. A new glass vase has a number of tubes extending from a globe-like base, thus permitting a better display of the flowers. All kinds of holders and bowls with flowers arranged to show their purpose and capabilities, filled the third section. Taken altogether, it was the most complete and practical display ever made by a retail florist. From a business standpoint Mr. Stumpp says it was a great success.

The Nippon, or Japanese Garden Co., Inc., made a very unique display. A life sized wax figure of a lady, clothed in a growing ivy and Evonymus radicans trimmed dress, dotted with yellow daisies was very realistic. Japanese gardens, dwarf trees and a model of a Japanese home, were also features.

Alfred Kottmiller, of Madison avenue, made a very up-to-date display with the latest novelties in block glass bowls, all artistically filled with choice flowers. Bird cages, birds and butterflies for decorating flower bowls were specialties. A latticed vine-covered roof extended over the space which was enclosed at three sides with cobwebs of fine cord on which were immense spiders. Mr. Shaeffer and Mr. Duffy were in charge.

The Julius Roehrs Co. fitted up an elegant latticed booth for their retail department. The front and facade were of heavy columns, making a very imposing appearance. Sample evergreens, hawthorns, palms and rhododendrons, Japanese maples, etc., and a box along the center filled with Begonia Mrs. J. A. Peterson, gave a good color effect.

F. R. Pierson Co.'s retail space was a beauty spot at all times with splendid ferns and rambler roses. The roses, brought from the competitive exhibit to make room for the carnations and renewed from time to time, helped to make this one of the most attractive retail displays. Bobbink & Atkins' corner was decorated with an immense picture of their place at Rutherford, N. J. Flowered rhododendrons, trimmed box trees and fruit trees were features.

Max Schling's 20x30 feet of space was a raised platform, six inches high, carpeted with green velvet, on which, with plenty of space between, was placed the various articles of his exhibit. There were cork and birch-bark boxes, elegantly filled with flowering plants. A number of large egg-shaped receptacles, with the figure of a Dutch boy or girl perched on the side, are ideas of Mr. Schling, for which he has applied for a patent. The material is plaster and cement composition, colored, the egg white, and the clothing of the children any desired colors. Zinc linings are used as in ordinary baskets. These are from 24 to 30 inches in length and of proportionate size in other respects. Baskets and small egg-shaped flower holders with bisque figures were filled with flowers. There was a table decoration of Sunrise roses and pansies; also, a mound of a polyantha, pink, rose-like baby Tausendschon, called Gretna Kluis, for which he receive a certificate of merit. The space was enclosed with a series of white posts connected with pink cord. On top of each post were boxes filled with his new rose and two larger ones of pink hydrangeas. At the rear were two tall columns 10 feet in height, surmounted by Tausendschon roses, while between was a large panel with a life size plaster figure of a winged female ringing a bell, with an inscription over the arch at the top. This read: "Ad Gloriam Dei-Et Pagem in Mundo." "In God We Trust; peace to all men." It was a very striking exhibit.

Cromwell gardens (A. N. Pierson, Inc.), made a gorgeous display with their climbing roses. A rustic summer house in the center contained their catalogues and literature and there orders were taken and four attendants were kept busy all the time. It looked like a splendid business proposition. Vases of cut roses were also a feature.

The Knight & Struck Co.'s space contained samples of their specialties. A light blue background partially enclosed the exhibit and was in keeping with their great catalogue, a blue covered book of plants and flowers that is as ambitious as anything in the catalogue line ever offered by the trade. They report a splendid business. Mr. Knight was in attendance.

Chas. H. Totty's booth contained a great variety of his specialties, among them Georgeous and Cleveland roses, the latter being awarded a silver medal. It is a coppery pink in color. Vases of Hoosier Beauty, Baby Doll, chrysanthemums in flower, delphinium seedlings and the new Buddleia Asiatica were also displayed. John Scheepers & Co.'s bulbs, specialists' literature and chromoscope showing flowers in colors, made an interesting exhibit.

The Carnation Display.

There was a very good showing in the carnation section, although not much of a variety, due no doubt to the superiority of the newer sorts which appear to outclass the old favorites. The display was made on the west balcony, taking the place occupied by the roses the previous day, these being given places of prominence on the main floor, and though they were placed a trifle low, ample space was allowed for their inspection. In the carnation competition, there was keen rivalry among the private growers. There were 13 vases of white, 12 of light pink and the same of red. Of the dark pink, striped, yellow and crimson there were but 12 vases. There was but one vase of 150 blooms, but it was of very high class and was staged by D. G. Reid, Irvington, N. Y. In the commercial classes the varieties staged were Cottage Maid, Pink Delight, Pink Sensation and Laura Weber, pink; Peace, Crystal White and Matchless, white; Beacon and Red Wing, red; Pocahontas, crimson; Benora and sport of same, striped.

Commercial Cut Roses.

In the commercial displays of cut roses occupying 200 square feet, quantity up to 1,000 flowers, and foliage, vases and other accessories permitted, artistic arrangement, as well as quality of flowers, to be considered, there were two entries, the competitors being F. R. Pierson Co., and A. N. Pierson, Inc., who appear to be always in the race. Both exhibits were truly remarkable—superb flowers were selected, as well as the choicest cibotiums, farleyense and other ferns and greens, to add further embellishment.

A. N. Pierson, Inc., used elegant vases—the two largest, of Rookwood pottery, were worth three and four thousand dollars each, total value of all the vases used was estimated to be over $10,000. The roses displayed were three vases of Ophelia, three of Killarney Queen, and one each of Hadley, Mrs. Geo. Shawyer, White Killarney, Lady Alice Stanley, Mrs. Aaron Ward, and Killarney Brilliant. The arrangement of the various vases was carefully studied to get the best color effect and at the same time show the beautiful outlines of the vases.

The F. R. Pierson Co.'s entry was arranged across the middle section, opposite its garden. There were eight vases and baskets, superbly arranged and staged to show every flower to the best advantage, with farleyense, cibotium and nephrolepis as a background. A vase of American Beauties standing 10 feet in height, reaching within four feet of the floor, was the feature of one side. In the center was a vase of Ophelia with a basket of superb Killarney Queen at the other end. White Killarney, Francis Scott Key and Richmond were the other roses.

Both of these displays were truly magnificent, and it was only after the greatest deliberation that the committee decided in favor of A. N. Pierson, Inc.

The Sweet Peas.

Saturday was "Sweet Pea" day. The display, both in quality and variety, was all the most ardent admirer of this lovely flower could wish for. There were three entries in the exhibits to cover 100 square feet. That of Wm. Sim, the noted Boston grower, contained 24 vases of from 50 to 100 sprays. Zvolaneck's collection comprised 27 vases of 19 varieties, many of them new and as yet unnamed.

The classes containing 100 sprays each had a number of entries, the flowers in nearly all being exceptionally fine. The principal varieties noted were Orange Orchid, Belgian Hero, Venus, Mrs. Skaach, Yarrowa, Rose Queen, American Beauty, Lavender Orchid, Blue Bird, Mrs. Spanolin, Pink and White Orchid, White Orchid, Orchid Beauty, Red Orchid, Pink Sensation, Morning Star, Nubian, Lady Eyre, and Mrs. E. Burke.

There were 12 decorated tables in the private growers' class. Only sweet peas were allowed with additional other foliage. There was no originality displayed in the decorations. One exhibitor used as a center, a tripod holding a bowl for the flowers, while the other eleven arranged pink peas in tall slender center vases of silver, with from four to five small silver vases at equal distances around the table. Corsages and boutonnieres were a part of each display. All the tables contained silver, glass and china, being well furnished in this respect. The winning table used Mrs. Skaach, which were very tastefully arranged.

New York Florists' Club "Din Dan."

The "Din Dan" or dinner dance of the New York Florists' Club, which has grown to be an annual social event, and to which the members take their wives and sweethearts, was held in the grand ball room of the Biltmore hotel, Saturday evening, April 8. To say that the affair was a success is putting it mildly—it was a triumph, and T. B. DeForest and Walter F. Sheridan of the dinner committee are to be congratulated for their very satisfactory arrangements. The feature, aside from the good menu, was the "lucky number" dance. The dinner tables, accommodating from 10 to 12 persons each, were arranged under the balcony, leaving the center of the floor space for dancing, which was indulged in between each of the courses. At the end of the dinner there was a grand march, in which everybody joined, and were handed numbered tickets as they passed the committee. The band then played several bars of a two-step, after which some six or eight numbers of the hundred couples on the floor were called and these had to drop out. This was continued until but two couples were left, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sullivan and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. W. Schenck. Mr. and Mrs. Schenck proved to be the lucky couple and were presented by President Weston with two beautiful silver cups, which had been donated for the purpose by the Lord & Burnham Co. Mr. Schenck said his wife and he would cherish them as souvenirs of a very happy occasion.

Patrick O'Mara, in his usual clever style, presented Harry Bunyard, ex-president of the club, with a gold watch. He spoke of the good and loyal interest that Mr. Bunyard had always taken in the club's affairs for the past 25 years, to which Mr. Bunyard, after thanking the club for the gift, said he hoped to do so for 25 years more. Robert Craig made a good address. He stated that the present exhibition was the greatest achievement in the history of floriculture in New York City. Prominent horticulturists were now being considered as leaders on a par with other men of science; doctors by their hygienic work in the Canal Zone had made it a health resort, and it remained for the florists or nurserymen to make it one of the beauty spots of the earth. Many useful subtropical plants could be grown in the West Indies that would be a great help to the craft here. Richard Halleman, president of the International Co., showered praises on Messrs. Pierson, Young, Herrington, Totty and others, who by their planning for the past six months had made the show the great success that it is. He said he felt sure that with such good management, the future exhibitions would show even greater results.

From the success of this well planned affair, the "Din Dan" will be an annual event in the club's festivities.

Interesting Items.

An event of interest on Friday was the visit of Theodore Roosevelt. Crowds gathered on the steps inside the entrance to such an extent that he could scarcely get through. He was received with handclapping and cheers. F. R. Pierson, chairman of the show committee, escorted the distinguished visitor, who was much interested and congratulated Mr. Pierson on the excellence of the various exhibits. He was delighted with his rose garden, saying he would like to have it at Oyster Bay, to which Mr. Pierson said nothing would please him better than to send it there.

An exhibit that attracted the visitors was the glass case containing orchid plants, showing the evolution of an orchid from fertilization to a plant in bloom. There was a plant with a seed pod, the fine seed, the seed sown and young plants from their first appearance in various stages to maturity. Clement Moore (J. P. Mossman, gardener) was the exhibitor.

The orchid men, whose displays are always a strong feature of the show, do not see why they should not be entitled to as much money in premiums as the rose gardens, which, while admittedly great attractions, are not to be compared in value to the orchids. They will make a strong claim for such recognition in the next schedule.

In the sweet pea exhibit, the great similarity of many of the flowers entered under different names was a lively topic among the specialists. It appears as if the nomenclature committee of the American Sweet Pea Society will have their hands full to straighten out this condition.

Max Schling's exhibit was kept attractive throughout the show, new basket and floral arrangements being added daily. A shower bouquet made entirely of the separate plants of white Dutch hyacinths was a feature. It was effective and much admired.

Window boxes for outside and indoor decorations were placed at intervals on the railing of the balcony; they were in great variety. One, a yellow box, with blue raised panelling and trellis, was filled with calendulas and yellow climbing roses in full flower, making a unique color effect.

The F. R. Pierson Co.'s rose garden was awarded the sweepstakes prize for the finest exhibit in the show. This was a large silver cup of handsome design. It is said this garden cost nearly $3,000. The first prize is $500.

The tradesmen, particularly those whose exhibits and stock offered, interested the general public, were to a man delighted with the results, very good sales and future prospects being reported.

The Secaucus Exotic Nursery, Secaucus, N. J., added much to the embellishment of the hall with its large specimen palms, ferns and boxwood.

The attendance and interest shown by the public was very gratifying to the management, all box office records of previous shows being broken.

A collection of Ponderosa lemons, heavy with fruit, and oranges in flower from A. L. Miller, Jamaica, N. Y., was interesting.

A great many representatives of the trade came on from Philadelphia, but unfortunately there was no visitors' register here.

The Alphano Humus Co.'s grassy banks adorning their display were very luxuriant and life like.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago, was a delighted visitor.

MISS CHICAGO'S NEW EASTER OUTFIT

EASTER AND PRIMARY—A WINDY MEDLEY IN CHICAGO.

(From the Chicago Daily Tribune.)

Condensed Comment.

Seedsmen and plantsmen in and about New York did not fail to take advantage of the daily press publicity and set along side of such their advertising cards in liberal numbers and of good size. The planting season opened opportunely.

Express deliveries of plants were notably slow. The American took 48 hours from Philadelphia to the Grand Central Palace. Chairman Pierson considers only local auto trucks effective for this work.

Privelege sales can be overdone. The public comfort end compared poorly with western shows. Not a free pure water fountain could be located where a dozen were actually needed.

Calla Elliotiana, exhibited by the Julius Roehrs Co., Rutherford, N. J., attracted considerable attention. The bulbs were potted January 1.

Commercial houses reported here, as in Philadelphia, a very good booking business, private gardeners being on hand in large numbers.

With three inches of dirty snow along the sidewalk gutters and snowing all day, the Saturday afternoon attendance was good.

The daily papers of Saturday, April 8, and Sunday, April 9, gave very liberal space to the show and to all garden matters.

Fakirs barked odds and ends freely in the gallery, contrary to rules in well ordered flower shows.

Gretna Kluis.

Max Schling telegraphs as follows as we go to press, April 12: "Certificate of merit for Rose Gretna Kluis was awarded to Kluis & Smith and not to Max Schling."

Scranton Flower Show.

The third annual flower show of the Scranton Florists' Club was held in the Town hall, April 6-8 and was a splendid exhibition both in quality of the displays, which were of uniform excellence, and in the artistic manner in which they were arranged. At the entrance the display of T. B. McClintock of Cineraria stellata and Boston ferns was very attractive, while the exhibit in the southeast corner of the hall was one of the most noticeable in the building. This was a border effect with a background extending from the ceiling to the floor with a gradual slope, Azalea mollis, spruce trees, arborescences, retinosporas, boxwood and cinerarias being used. The New York Floral Co.'s display was devoted almost entirely to cut flowers. Here were seen splendid baskets of lupines, American Beauties, Russell and Hadley roses; also baskets of snapdragons arranged with yellow iris and a basket of anemone, a flower rarely seen in this city, was also exhibited by this firm. This display also included the only bride's bouquet in the show, the arrangement being of white roses and lily of the valley.

Schultheis, the Florist, had the largest exhibit in the hall, the effect being that of an interior decoration. A charming dinner table arrangement, with a centerpiece of Ward roses and orchids attracted much attention. In this exhibit were also huge azaleas and rhododendrons; also Hadley roses, basket effects, Japanese gardens and a large display of bowls, birds and butterflies. A hand-painted basket arranged with yellow hyacinths and primroses and another of Scotch heather tied with Scotch plaid ribbon are deserving of special mention. The rhododendrons seen here were the finest displayed in this city for some time, the blooms being of rare size and beauty.

The exhibit of Baldwin, the Florist, was arranged in a very artistic manner with an arch in the background. Here were staged large and rare hydrangeas, the entire effect being one of distinctiveness. Other pleasing features were lilies, tulips, primroses and hyacinths, while a special exhibition of tulips, pink snapdragons and Rosette carnations were exceptionally high class.

The most artistic exhibit was that of A. L. Besancon & Co. This was in the form of a woodland garden with a background of spruce, pine, hemlock, and birch, with flowering shrubs and a border of tulips, broken into to allow the placing of a rustic summer house. In the foreground was a lawn through which was a cinder path bordered with crocuses, tulips, daffodils and pussy-willows. This firm also showed cut flowers and handsomely arranged baskets. A picture that was an art study was arranged with Sweet Marie roses and farleyense. John Beagle exhibited a large group of bedding plants and bulbous stock. D. W. Evans had a fine showing of azaleas, hyacinths, primroses and cinerarias, and T. W. Mackey made an excellent showing of Boston ferns, tulips, hyacinths and daffodils. Bulbs, seeds and garden and farm implements were displayed by B. E. and J. T. Cokely. In the center of the hall was a mound of Crimson Ramblers staged by Wm. MacDonald of Moosic.

The commercial growers made numerous fine displays, A. N. Pierson, Inc., Cromwell, Conn., exhibiting a vase of 25 of their Hadley roses that were prize winners at the national flower show at Philadelphia; also 50 prize-winning Killarney Brilliant. S. S. Pen-nock-Meehan Co., Philadelphia, staged vases of 50 blooms each of Francis Scott Key, Ophelia and Killarney roses; also vases of White Wonder, Pink Enchantress and Ward carnations. A vase of 100 lilies attracted much attention. The exhibit of baskets by this firm was also very complete. The Leo. Niessen Co., also of Philadelphia, staged a splendid display, vases of roses, among which were a fine showing of Russell, Fireflame and Sweet Marie. Cornflowers and stock were also features. J. L. Dillon, Bloomsburg, Pa., staged fine Sunburst, Richmond, White Killarney, Enchantress and Richmond roses.

The Edwards Folding Box Co., Philadelphia, had an attractive display of florists' boxes in large variety. This was in charge of W. P. Snyder. The M. Rice Co., also of Philadelphia, received many compliments for its display of baskets and florists' supplies.

An innovation this year was the tea room conducted under the auspices of the Home of the Friendless. This was located at one end of the hall and was decorated with evergreens, hardy plants, azaleas, rambler roses and a variety of other plants and shrubs in many shades, making a very pleasing effect. This arrangement was made by Wm. McDonald, Moosic, Pa.

There were many exhibits staged by private growers and many of these were of very high order. One of the most conspicuous groups was that of Mrs. S. C. Weston, Waverly, Pa. This was a splendid group of calceolarias. These were attractively arranged with ferns, begonias, lilies, coleus, daffodils, marguerites and crotons. Another excellent exhibit was that of Mrs. J. B. Dimmick, which was very unique in its arrangement, consisting of a bank approached by steps, the planting consisting of many varieties of flowering plants. The orchid display of Mrs. H. M. Boies was also an attractive feature.

G. R. Clarke arranged a garden with lawn seats and flower beds of tulips and hyacinths which produced a good effect. Bird houses occupied one section of this display and a basket of Hadley and Sunburst roses showed class. Mrs. C. E. Welles had a fine vase of 50 Princess Dagmar carnations, large of flower and long of stem.

The exhibition was a splendid success in every way and the members of the various committees in charge of the details deserve much credit for their painstaking efforts.

New Orleans Horticultural Society.

The spring flower show of the New Orleans Horticultural Society which was staged at the Athenaeum in that city April 6-9, was the largest and most artistic display of flowers ever seen in the South. The main hall was laid out in the form of a garden in the arrangement of which all the art of a number of the city's most expert florists and landscape artists had been expended to insure distinctiveness and charm and thousands of visitors who attended the exhibition spent hours following the border lined paths with elaborate displays at every turn. In the center of the hall was a mound of large proportions and surrounding this in widening circles were beds of rich mother earth in which plants were growing in all their natural beauty. At the sides of the hall were displays of cut flowers and plants and wedding and house decorations. The large stage was always a center of attraction. Here a huge American flag had been most cleverly done in plants and flowers, the work of Henry Kraak, and was commented upon by all who attended the show. The full value of garden products as contributing to the home was emphasized in a lavish display. Despite the fact that the weather on the opening day was inclement, the attendance was good, the second and final days of the show saw the hall thronged and the Louisiana Anti-Tuberculosis League, to whom the net proceeds of the show will be donated, was materially aided. Friday evening was "Society night" and in response to special invitation of the show committee many persons prominent in social circles attended the show and by their sponsorship added much to the general interest of the public in the show.

In the plant exhibits, Henry Kraak was awarded first premium for his excellent showing, the display arranged by E. H. Farley, also of very high order, was second, and other splendid exhibits staged by P. A. Chopin, Charles Eble, Abele Bros.,

Max Scheinuk, A. Verlinde, B. M. Wischer, Claude Ory, F. Dormay and A. Dummerau were all well to the front and were awarded cups and other trophies.

C. W. Eichling of the Avenue Floral Co. was awarded first prize for a clever wedding decoration, including the table arrangement. The second prize in this section went to P. A. Chopin, whose display covered a large section, life-sized figures being used in the wedding arrangement. A trellis effect with natural flowers was very pleasing. The Reyes Co. also had a novel exhibit and one of great beauty, which was in keeping with the object of the show. This consisted of a hospital in miniature, constructed of plants and cut flowers with the name "Tuberculosis hospital" over the door. The displays of the Flower Shop and Charles Eble were also excellent and were awarded prizes.

The Maison Blanche was awarded first prize for a fine exhibit of garden and lawn furniture arranged under and around a vine-covered pergola. The Steckler Seed Co. also made an excellent showing and was among the successful contestants, winning several prizes. The Dognibene Pottery Co. displayed a number of handsome urns, which were filled with plants by various exhibitors. A blue ribbon was awarded this exhibit.

Band concerts were given each afternoon and evening and special features such as colored lantern slides of gardens, flowers and plants proved interesting to the visitors. The elaborateness of the exhibition exceeded all plans first made, the displays were all of uniform excellence, and there seemed to be nothing lacking to contribute to perfect arrangement. Henry Schuermann, president, C. R. Panter, secretary, and the various committees of the New Orleans Horticultural Society, together with the members of the local craft, are to be congratulated upon their splendid success.

State Florists' Association of Indiana.

The April meeting of the State Florists' Association of Indiana was held at Terre Haute, Tuesday, April 11, and was attended by one of the largest delegations that ever assembled at any single session of the organization, every section of the state being well represented. As the visiting members arrived they were met at the trains by auto and escorted to the Hotel Deming, and from there a general inspection of the downtown district was made. At 11 o'clock the party assembled at the store of John G. Heintz & Son, and from this point were escorted direct to the Davis Gardens where a general inspection of this establishment was made, and the visitors found it to be one of the most interesting and gigantic institutions of its character in the United States. Three additional houses, mammoth in size, are rapidly being pushed to completion. The luncheon was served by the ladies of the Central Christian church, the table decorations consisting of cucumber vines loaded with cucumbers and vases of carnations and other flowers. The walls were hung with flags and bunting and large palms were seen at every turn. Thousands of dozens of cucumbers were on display and added much to the general decorative effect. The Davis Gardens are now picking 500 dozen cucumbers daily.

After the luncheon, Fred G. Heintz, president of the Terre Haute Florists' Club, called the business meeting to order and introduced Spencer F. Ball, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who welcomed the visitors. He was followed by W. J. Vesey, Jr., of Ft. Wayne. Short addresses were also made by W. W. Coles, Kokomo; Robert Newcomb, representing Vaughan's Seed Store, Chicago, and J. B. Davis, Terre Haute. Plans for the two days' outing of the association, which will be held at Winona lake, July 18-19, were left in the hands of Judge Conner of Wabash and Wm. Terrell and Fred King of Winona. Committees were also appointed to arrange plans for the next annual meeting of the American Carnation Society which will be held at Indianapolis in January, 1917. The members of these committees are as follows:

Entertainment—O. E. Steinkamp, Geo. Wiegand and Irwin Bertermann, Indianapolis; Joseph Hill, Richmond.

Reception—John Bertermann, Herman Junge and John Hartje, Indianapolis; G. R. Gause, Richmond.

Decoration—Homer Wiegand, H. Pahud, C. Schwomeyer and A. B. Reynolds, Indianapolis.

Membership—Fred G. Heintz, Terre Haute; E. G. Hill, Richmond; F. Dornier, Lafayette; Fred Heine, Indianapolis; W. W. Coles, Kokomo.

Display—Fred Lemon, Richmond; C. Pahud, C. H. Bokedis and John Rieman, Indianapolis.

Seventeen new members were added to the roll of the association, among them being the following: Fred Wunker, N. B. Stover, Edward Cowan, James Cowan, Wm. Dinkle and C. A. Huson, Terre Haute; A. L. Dinkle, Brazil, and Harry Richmond, Sullivan.

The trade visitors included the following:

Wm. Barnaby, Columbus.
 M. A. Barrick, Seymour.
 A. F. J. Baur, Indianapolis.
 Wm. R. Beyer, South Bend.
 J. A. Bitler, Kokomo.

Chicago Florists' Club.

The regular meeting of the Chicago Florists' Club was held at the Hotel Morrison, April 6, President Henderson in the chair. The attendance was light, many members being absent at the Eastern flower shows, including Secretary Guy W. French, for whom James Morton officiated.

The principal business of the meeting was the drawing for the massive silver punch bowl, won by A. Benson, Downers Grove, ticket No. 63. The drawing resulted in adding approximately $410 to the club treasury.

Anton Then's fine new red carnation No. 701 was exhibited in good form and scored as follows: Color 18, size 18, stem 12, calyx 8, fragrance 14, substance 18, total 88 points, which entitles this variety to the club certificate. A. T. Pyfer, Ed. Meuret and H. C. Blewitt constituted the scoring committee.

New members elected were Peter Kohl, Morton Grove, and Edward E. Schmeitekopf, Park Ridge.

Boston.

TRADE CONTINUES QUIET.

Business has remained rather quiet during the past week, there seeming to be a lack of activity in the buying. There is not a large quantity of flowers coming in; in fact, many of the carnation growers are off crop and cutting but a few flowers. Roses remained about the same in price, $12 per 100 being the best, and obtainable only on extra good Hadley and Ophelia. Carnations move at $2.50 per 100, but the demand is small. Sweet peas are popular, and sell fairly well. There is not a large quantity of good flowers, consequently the price is good, $1.50 per 100 being received. The largest percentage of flowers, however, are short stemmed and inclined to be off color and sell at from 50 cents to 75 cents per 100. Violets are scarce now, but do not sell very fast, as they seem to be growing less popular as the season closes. Snapdragons have dropped in price and only the best spikes bring good figures. The marguerite market also has fallen off, as there are large quantities being sent in. The plant trade is good and orders are coming in well for Easter trade and there promises to be an extra brisk demand for that day.

NOTES.

The Gardeners' and Florists' Club enjoyed a field day at the establishment of the W. W. Edgar Co. at Waverley, Saturday, April 8. A very pleasant day was spent looking about the place, which was in very fine condition. The club presented Mrs. Edgar with a beautiful mahogany sewing table in appreciation of the many thoughtful kindnesses which she has bestowed upon the members.

F. W. Fletcher, of Auburndale, will take 700,000 bulbets of his Freesia Purity to Florida to grow to increase the vigor of his strain. He has a yellow marguerite of dwarf growth which is very suitable for pot plant use, which will be disseminated this year. His snapdragons look very fine and the new Enchantress colored seedling seems to be very promising.

E. D. Kaulback, of Malden, has one of the largest lots of pot lilies for easter in this vicinity. Altogether, he has 36,000 pots. His salesman, J. M. Cohan, at the Boston Co-operative Flower Market, has already booked some very good orders and reports the sale of lilies this year as being out of the ordinary.

McAlpine & McDonald will open a new place of business at the corner of Devonshire street and Winthrop square within a short time. The new location is a very desirable one and in the very heart of the wholesale flower section of the city. They will retain their present location as a storeroom.

Carl Richwagen, of Needham, has very fine spikes of Buxton's Pink snapdragon. His whole place looks good this year, his carnations and geranium plants, of which he has an extra large lot, being especially fine in quality.

Wm. Sim, of Cliftondale, is contemplating changing his place over to roses and carnations, discarding violets and sweet peas completely.

George Hart, of Rochester, N. Y., was visiting friends and growers in the vicinity of Boston, April 8-9 F. L. W.

Nashville, Tenn.

PREPARED FOR BIG EASTER TRADE.

Business has been brisk this week and the supply of flowers of all kinds is plentiful. Roses are coming in bountifully now and will be on in full flower for the Easter trade. The approaching season will find the florists well prepared to meet any and all demands. American Beauty will be in sufficient supply to meet all calls, and Killarney, both white and pink, Aaron Ward, Richmond and all the other varieties will be plentiful. There will be a full supply of Easter lilies. Carnations, lily of the valley and bulbous stock of all kinds will also be abundant. In pot plants the dealers will be equally fortunate and there will be hyacinths, tulips, cinerarias, cyclamens, azaleas; also fine rhododendrons, baby ramblers and all kinds of ferns to complete a most satisfactory collection.

NOTES.

The McIntyre Floral Company have one of the prettiest show windows in the city and it is always very attractive. They will have a fine Easter collection of both cut flowers and pot plants. All the bulbous stock is plentiful and they will have azaleas, rhododendrons, baby ramblers and everything else desirable, orchids, sweet peas and lily of the valley, among other things.

The last half of the past week has been very raw and inclement, and the out-of-door stock has suffered in consequence. Peonies are well advanced, and in some localities lilac is in bloom, but the blizzard will give them all a backset. The jonquils are all gone and violets have seen their best days.

Geny Bros. never had a finer stock and will be well prepared for the season's trade. They will have some American Beauties, plenty of roses and a wonderful stock of lilies; in fact, they have never been without lilies—and a very great variety of pot plants.

The Joy Floral Company will be abundantly prepared to meet any and all Easter demands. Besides having all the usual varieties of flowers, a fine supply of orchids and plenty of sweet peas, lily of the valley and other flowers are assured. M. C. D.

Oklahoma City.

The weather is cold and rainy, the spring season is very backward, but florists report business very satisfactory. Furrow & Co. and the Stiles Co. both maintain a steady advertising campaign in the daily press and thus keep business up to the mark, irrespective of weather conditions.

It is the hope of some of our local florists that delegates to the S. A. F. convention to be held in Houston, Tex., this year or at least, those going from the north and west, will make a stop-over in this city. Our city may not be very big floriculturally, but it is worth a once-over to any one, and particularly so to the wholesaler in any branch of the trade. S. S. B.

Buffalo.

FAIR BUSINESS AT LOW PRICES.

Retail trade during the past week has only been fair. There is plenty of stock on hand, but Saturday sales at low prices have helped to some extent. Among the roses, Russell, Ophelia, Killarney and Hadley are coming fine. Ward and White Killarney are also good and American Beauties were never better than now with only a limited demand, however. Carnations are good in quality and sweet peas are splendid. There is no surplus of the good varieties.

NOTES.

April 8 was an eventful day at S. A. Anderson's greenhouses. Foreman Carl Butz was presented with an eight pound boy. When you hear a person say "one boots" there is a grammatical slip, but Carl says "one Butz is enough" (and perfect grammar, too). From now on there will be no need of an alarm clock for the night man. There will be a "real one" for night use. Congratulations to all the Butz.

The Philadelphia and New York delegations have all returned and everything now is activity, preparing for the Easter trade. Stock in nearly all of the greenhouses looks fine and there seems little reason to worry about there not being enough, and of good quality, to supply the trade in this vicinity.

Who says "What's in a name?"—a rose by any other name would smell as sweet. But if you want to run for office in this city as a florist and be elected the name must begin with "A". The political bee "buzzed" and the florist, as usual, was successful.

The past week saw the advent of the "Elks' Flower and Fashion Show," which was handsomely staged. All the exhibits were fine and it only awaits the final day to see whether the labor was warranted.

Joe Streit was a welcome visitor on his return from Philadelphia and bowled a game with Ludwig and Charlie. Michael Bloy, also of Detroit, and George Geraghty of J. H. Dunlop's, Toronto, Ont., were also visitors. BISON.

The Late Mrs. Delia T. Sperwin.

Mrs. Delia T. Sperwin, aged 55 years, died at her home, 127 Sixth avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., April 4. It has been written that "the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world," and she was a fine illustration of that saying. Left a widow 23 years ago, with two young children, she bravely faced the world and continued the retail business with honor and respect from all branches of the trade. Physically, a little woman, she had incomparable energy, honesty and attractiveness. We shall seldom see her like again. She is survived by two children, Francis A. Sperwin, who continues the business, and Mrs. O. W. Holmes; also two sisters, Miss May A. Carroll, who has been associated with her in business, and Mrs. F. E. Fishel. A. F. F.

OTTAWA, ONT.—Wm. Mepstead, who has been on the sick list for several weeks, is able to be at his range again and is fully prepared for the Easter rush.

BERLIN, ONT.—C. H. Janzen has taken over the wholesale business which was established here in 1878 by his father, H. L. Janzen. It is among the largest ranges in Canada, comprising 13 large houses

ACCORDING to the United States census the United States has over 1,000 women florists.

WE are in receipt of year-book of the department of agriculture for 1915 containing a large amount of matter pertaining to the work of the department, 616 pages freely illustrated.

Personal.

O. J. Olson, of Holm & Olson, St. Paul, Minn., who was recently operated upon at St. Luke's hospital, that city, is reported progressing favorably and expects to be on hand for the Easter business.

GENIUS is only the power of making continuous efforts. There is no failure except in no longer trying. There is no defeat except from within, no really insurmountable barrier save our own inherent weakness of purpose.

Sphagnum Substitute for Cotton.

Consul Ingram, at Bradford, says in a report to the department of commerce, that sphagnum moss is being generally used in England. This moss before the war was exported to Germany for use in place of absorbent cotton, and among the country people the gathering of it has for many years been a profitable industry as they can sell any quantity of it to the nearest drug stores. It bleaches in a few days and becomes very soft.

Landscape Gardening Prize.

Mrs. Edwin H. Blashfield, wife of the artist, has offered a prize of $100 for the finest landscape garden in the Seventh Regiment armory, New York, during the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, May 23-June 2. Landscape gardens are to be features of the decoration of the armory and will be put in by different landscape gardeners. Mrs. Blashfield offered the prize in memory of her mother, Mrs. Charlotte B. Wilbour, who was one of the founders of what is known as "The Mother of Clubs", Sorosis.

Has the Carnation Reached its Zenith?

ED. AMERICAN FLORIST:

WE have read with some surprise the statement regarding the keeping qualities of carnations in an article under the above caption by G. E. M. Stumpp, which appeared in your issue of April 8, page 598.

Our experience is entirely at variance to that described by Mr. Stumpp regarding the present keeping qualities of carnations, when he says "today we are lucky if they keep over night." During the cooler season of the year we have no trouble keeping our carnations a week if necessary and still have them in good condition for immediate use in funeral work, although it is seldom necessary to use such. April 9, after reading the article referred to above, we discovered a vase of Enchantress and White Enchantress carnations in our flower box that were labeled as having been cut March 24, or 16 days previous. While we would not use these for any purpose, yet they were still solid enough "to keep over night" and then some.

Our trade uses 10 dozen or more carnations to one dozen roses, and while this may be in a measure the result of our pushing carnations harder as we always have a more plentiful supply, yet a customer will frequently say: "I believe I'll take carnations; they keep so much longer."

We have never fed our carnations very heavy, and have often wondered just how heavy and what the carnation specialists feed.

This season to April 1 we have cut 71,000 carnations from 7,000 plants and they are planted closer than some other plants, making our returns per square foot very fair. Our carnations are of fair quality; at least, they please our customers here, and when we have a surplus sell at a fair price in our nearest wholesale markets.

G. A. KAUPP.

New York Summer Show.

A meeting of officials and members of the International Garden Club, including Mrs. Chas. F. Hoffman, Mrs. James L. Breese, Mrs. Chas. D. Dick-ey, Mrs. Amory Carhart, Mrs. J. J. Wysong, Mrs. H. de Berkeley Parsons and others who are interested in the forthcoming show to be held in the club's grounds at Pelham Bay Park, Pelham Bay, N. Y., June 1-4, met at the Hotel Biltmore, New York, April 7, there being between 60 and 70 present. Dr. Geo. Norton Miller presided.

The meeting was to consider the premium list already prepared by the schedule committee, to appoint a secretary-manager to carry out the arrangements for the show, and to make other provisions in that connection.

J. Harrison Dick, as secretary of the schedule committee, read a letter that he had sent to Mrs. Chas. F. Hoffman, president of the International Garden Club, on March 11, naming the gentlemen who had accepted invitations to serve on this committee, and incorporating in the letter the principal suggestions made by the committee. Appended was the preliminary schedule. Mrs. Hoffman thought that the sum of $3,000 previously suggested would be all that the club could guarantee for prizes, and asked that the preliminary schedule be made to conform to this amount.

Short speeches were made in favor of the proposed show by Richard Vincent, Jr., president of the American Dahlia Society; Wm. Carter, secretary of the Bernardsville Horticultural & Agricultural Society; John Featherstone, president Tarrytown Horticultural Society; David McIntosh, secretary Tuxedo Horticultural Society; T. A. Havemeyer and B. Hammond Tracy, representing the American Gladiolus Society; P. W. Popp, corresponding secretary of the Westchester & Fairfield Horticultural Society; Anton Bauer, Deal (N. J.) Horticultural Society; Bertrand Farr, president of the American Peony Society, and W. A. Manda, speaking as an exhibitor.

It was generally agreed that a charge of $5 should be made for entrance on the first day, $1 the second day, 50 cents the third day, with one free day. This matter, however, together with the appointment of the various committees, was left in the hands of the executive committee of the International Garden Club.

Harry A. Bunyard proposed, and John Canning seconded, the appointment of Arthur Herrington as secretary-manager, which was unanimously agreed to. The date June 1-4 was definitely adopted.

It is hoped that the new preliminary schedule will be published within the next few days, but other cups, donations or prizes from societies or individuals are expected, and may be added to the final schedule.

Very considerable interest was shown throughout the proceedings, the general verdict being that a summer show properly organized and carried through, was what was wanted, and that it would be desirable for the smaller organizations to combine and make one thoroughly representative show.

Promise of support was received from various members of other garden clubs, including those of New Rochelle, New Canaan, Ridgefield and Cheltenham.

For Sale—On account of age and death in family, I offer for sale my greenhouse property and business which I started 35 years ago. It is located in a prosperous city in Indiana; present population 75,000 and growing rapidly. All the surrounding territory is thickly populated, with several nearby towns of from 5,000 to 15,000, connected by interurban, in which I have a great number of customers. The business is well established, the real estate very desirable, and all improvements in first class conditions. The property consists of real estate with a frontage of 158 feet on a modern paved street with street car line. It extends back 275 feet and also has a frontage of 146 feet on a fine residence street at the back. The improvements consist of a new modern cottage with gas, electric lights, bath and sewerage connections; three greenhouses, each 23x100 feet, heated by hot water; office, barn, large packing shed and warehouse, and a modern, new well equipped boiler-room. The greenhouses are well stocked with carnations and bedding plants. This is a fine opportunity and must be seen to be appreciated. Write me for full particulars. Address

SATISFACTORY TRADE CONDITIONS.

Considering that the supply of cut flowers, especially roses, the past week, was really abundant and nothing to speak of was left after the job lots were disposed of, one can truthfully be satisfied with trade conditions. And, all in all, the stock, owing to the continued cold nights and bright days, is in prime condition. As before mentioned roses were very plentiful with sweet peas and carnations a close second. While there are enough cut Easter lilies for all needs, they are not too plentiful. Violets are on the down grade and their exit is a matter of a short time. Prospects for the 1916 Easter, as far as the supply of cut flowers and potted blooming plants are concerned, are in A 1 shape at this time, and if all goes well there will be enough good stock for rich and poor alike. Lilies are in fine shape ("just right," as the grower says) and pot plants never were better. With a brisk demand, the 1916 Easter will be one long to be remembered.

CLUB MEETING.

The club meeting held April 6 was well attended, but nothing of importance seemed to be doing until nearly time for adjournment, when somebody started something. It all centered on the idea of co-operative advertising, and before we left for home the chairman appointed a committee of six to formulate plans and raise a substantial fund to be used for co-operative advertising for twelve months, from May 1, 1916. Details will be announced in due time.

NOTES.

Since its inception 20 years ago, the M. A. McKenney Co. (then Miss McKenney) has conducted its business at 417 Milwaukee street, being the pioneer retailer on that thoroughfare. By giving its patrons first class service in every respect, this firm has worked up a business which today demands more and better space. This has induced them to lease a store at 113 Wisconsin street for a period of 10 years, the time to begin about June 1. The most beneficial factor of the new store, which will increase their present floor space by 100 per cent, is the more daylight problem; being located next to an alley, it will get direct light from two sides.

Now that he has his arm out of the cast, C. C. Pollworth is again able to write with more ease. The Holton & Hunkle Co.'s stock of roses, carnations, lilies and other blooming plants are in A-1 shape. This firm also reports a good batch of advance orders for the Easter trade at this writing.

Business must have increased wonderfully with Wm. Zimmermann, for he has moved into more spacious quarters, just across the street from his former stand at Grand avenue and Fifth street. Being an L shaped store, he now has one entrance on Grand avenue and one on Fifth street.

Gust. Rusch, of Gust. Rusch & Co., claims from personal observations of late years, that the volume of business done in palms is not on the increase due to the fact that some churches now conduct their confirmation exercises in the month of June.

Kamp & Spinti, of North Milwaukee, have several benches planted to Easter lilies, which will come in just on time for the Easter business.

H. L. Von Trott, recently with A. F. Kellner Co., will leave for Chicago in a short time to make that city his home.

FUNERAL WORK BULK OF TRADE.

Business was better in all lines this week than for several weeks past, the bulk of it being funeral work. The death of a pioneer merchant furnished orders for everybody. It now appears that there will be a plentiful stock of plants for Easter. Rhododendrons are especially fine. All are looking for a big business. Roses are in excellent condition now, of course, and the supply is ample. Cecile Brunner is arriving in plentiful supply. Ranunculus and tulips lead among the bulbous flowers.

NOTES.

Wright's Flower Shop had one of the finest window displays in the city recently. It was made up of baskets. There were ranunculus in every shade and color, anemones, tulips, roses, lily of the valley, and many novelties, each variety banked in baskets. The entire force were busy; in fact, they are always busy.

The Broadway Florists, 416 South Broadway, are putting up lath at Hawthorne, where they will grow their own greenery and many plants and flowers. They have doubled their force at the store and are certainly getting their share of business.

J. W. Wolter's force was found busy working funeral designs. This store is always showing stock to good advantage. That will help sales. A recent feature of the store's display was a schizanthus, a plant not very common here.

O. C. Saakes reports a good business during the past week. He intends having a large stock of all seasonable plants for Easter and is looking forward to an exceptionally good trade.

Wolfskill Bros. and Morris Golden-son arranged some fine wreaths and lots of them. They have been rushed with funeral work.

GOOD EASTER SUPPLY IN SIGHT.

The demand for stock has been good and the supply adequate. Carnations, although plentiful, clean up nicely, particularly in the better grades. Roses of all grades and varieties are plentiful, the demand good, and the quality excellent for this time of the season. As Easter approaches, the supply of Easter and calla lilies is increasing, and good stock will be plentiful, but early ordering is advisable. Tulips, daffodils and other bulbous stock bids fair to be equal to the demand, as a good supply of Bi-color, Golden Spur, and Von Sion daffodils, Murillo, Yellow Prince, La Reine, Kaiserskroon, Crown O'Dor and red tulips, besides a goodly array of hyacinths, are coming along nicely and will be in fine shape for the great flower day. The cool weather has kept violets in better shape than they usually are at such a late date, and the Easter crop promises to be of exceptionally good quality. Sweet peas, too, are going to be in good supply, also Ward roses and lily of the valley for corsage work. Short Easter lilies for funeral work are arriving daily. Snapdragon is good stock and orchids have a good call. Asparagus plumosus and Sprengerii are scarce.

NOTES.

Another "flower stand" will open in the Euclid Arcade this week. Mr. Guempf, who is perhaps better known through his "Palm Protectors", and who lately worked for F. Witthuhn, will manage the business. He has had experience, both in growing and selling, and no doubt will make a success of the venture.

Timothy Smith, for many years connected with the Smith & Fettes Co., 735 Euclid avenue, is going into the seed business for himself in the market building at East Forty-sixth and Euclid avenue. He has the best wishes of the trade and his many friends in his new venture.

J. Keck has opened a flower shop at 8700 Cedar avenue, and will do a general cut flower business, handling plants, doing landscape work and funeral designs.

All day Saturday, April 8, it snowed here, and it looked like winter, but business was good, nevertheless.

Minneapolis.

The market is brightening up under the favorable weather conditions and everything is cleaning up well. Carnations are selling at three and four cents, roses vary from three to twelve cents, tulips and daffodils bring three cents and lilies sell at 10 cents.

NOTES.

At the April meeting of the florists' club, Max Kaiser read a very interesting paper on "Bulbs", which brought forth many compliments from the growers present. He gave them much valuable information. At this meeting the florists decided to stimulate Mothers' day business with co-operative advertising. Hugh Will is chairman of the committee having the arrangements in charge. A communication was received from the Minneapolis Retailers' Association in which the action of the florists in improving conditions of streets and alleys through enforcement of the city statutes prohibiting obstructions was endorsed by the retailers' association.

Wm. Vasatka at Donaldson's greenhouses has two fine houses of lilies that are going to be in good shape at Easter. A house of French hydrangeas and another of rambler roses are also noteworthy.

W. D. Desmond returned from Philadelphia after stopping at several of the eastern cities, full of enthusiasm for the Philadelphia show and the hospitality accorded him.

It is rumored that there will be several big changes in the local trade after Easter, with several additions to ranges already in operation as well as new ones in the field.

Will Bros. have the violet trade all to themselves as all of the other growers have thrown them out. Their stock is high in quality and sells easily at top prices.

The Minneapolis Floral Co. is cutting some very fine Ward and Hadley roses. Easter stock at this establishment is coming on in fine shape.

T. C. Rogers has been suffering during the past two weeks, both of his hands being poisoned.

Max Kaiser is wearing his Easter smile—3,000 lilies are just right for the big flower day.

Theodore Wirth, superintendent of parks, is getting things in shape after a hard winter.

O. E. Amundson has added a private office to his store which is quite an improvement.

The lady florists of Minneapolis met at the home of Mrs. John Monson April 11.

A. S. Rice, of Rice Bros., is captain of the Minneapolis florists' base ball team.

C. W. Crum has resigned his position at R. M. Chapman's.

A. Lauritzen is cutting some excellent Spencer sweet peas.

Hans Rosacker is in full crop with roses and carnations. T. C. R.

GOOD DEMAND WITH AMPLE SUPPLY.

Last week this city experienced a return to winter, snow covering the ground on several days and the temperature falling below the freezing mark. Business, however, has been good, there being numerous funeral orders, decorations and a call for flowers for various social functions using up much stock. Pot plants are becoming more popular every day and some very fine stock in numerous varieties is seen. Cut roses are more plentiful and all the popular varieties are now obtainable. Killarneys, both pink and white, leading in numbers. Carnations are still plentiful, but the quality is good and prices remain firm, while sweet peas are abundant and cheap in price. Some fine Spencers are to be seen. Easter lilies are in good supply and are fine in quality.

NOTES.

The Geo. M. Kellogg Flower & Plant Co. had the order for a large wedding during the past week that called for quantities of ferns, palms and smilax and an arch of carnations. The bride's and bridesmaids' bouquets also used much fine stock in roses and lily of the valley.

The Wm. L. Rock Flower Co. reports trade conditions A-1. Carnations are slowing up somewhat but sweet peas and roses are arriving in better supply. The lily supply at this establishment promises to be plentiful for Easter.

Patrick Larkin is rushed with orders for funerals and social events. The outlook for Easter trade is good and several nice orders have already been booked for the occasion.

H. Kusik & Co. are prepared to handle a big Easter demand but are still behind in the wire work department.

Lilies, roses, carnations and sweet peas are seen here in quantity.

Mrs. J. A. Mosely, of Kansas City, Kan., is busy stocking up with Easter plants and anticipates a "bumper" demand. She has been very busy of late with funeral orders.

Chas. Biederman & Son have several large orders for decorations and trade in general is booming with them. A Ford delivery car has been added to their service.

A. Newell still features pot plants and sales continue very good. He is booking many advance orders for Easter. Funeral work is on the increase.

The trade extends its sympathy to Mr. Atkins, head designer of the Alpha Floral Co., whose mother was called by death, April 6.

W. J. Barnes reports that his Easter stock is coming along in splendid shape. Funeral work has been very heavy here.

T. J. Noll & Co. are receiving stock in good supply and report good business in all departments.

Ed. Humfeld reports business very satisfactory. His Easter stock is coming along in fine shape.

Local nurseries all report planting at its height and the biggest year ever is looked for. E. J. B.

Holyoke and Northampton Club.

The regular meeting of the Holyoke and Northampton Gardeners' and Florists' Club was held April 4, with F. D. Keyes and Son, Florence. In spite of disagreeable weather, a good representation of members assembled. The topic of the evening was "Easter Plants", which was handled by Harold Keyes in a comprehensive manner. A good discussion ensued. A. S. Thurston and G. H. Sinclair entertained the less fortunate members with descriptions of the national flower show. Exhibits were made by Keyes & Son, who staged some extra good callas, a pink sport of Carnation Enchantress, and Primula obconica gigantea. Butler & Ullman showed Hydrangea Radiant and Sweet Pea Yarrow. G. H. Sinclair showed Buxton's Silver Pink snapdragon in good form. Good plants of Nemesis strumosa Suttoni were shown by H. E. Downer. This is a charming annual which flowers in a few weeks from date of sowing and should prove a useful pot plant for the florist. H. E. D.

GOOD SUPPLY AND FAIR PRICES.

Plenteousness abounds in the local flower market at the present time, and typical spring crops are evident among all the growers. Prices remain fair, but are expected to steadily advance with the coming of Easter. The quality of everything offered is exceptionally good, especially of sweet peas. A new departure this spring has been the handling of gladioli from Florida. It has proved to be an impractical undertaking, however, as two out of every three shipments are sure to arrive in worthless condition, due to the long journey. Sweet peas have also been tried in the same manner before, but met the same conditions. The retail stores are displaying some beautiful Easter plants of surpassing size and quality, touched off here and there with a neat bow or some new idea in effective pot covering.

Calm spring weather has been the rule for the past while back, with the exception of a belated snowstorm on April 8 making the outlying districts, in some places, a sea of mud.

NOTES.

Wm. J. Ferguson, formerly of G. P. Weaklen & Co., is making preparations to open a flower shop in the East Liberty district on Penn avenue. Mr. Ferguson's long experience in the retail business is an assurance that his new venture will meet with success.

The A. W. Smith Co. is staging a massive exhibit of attractive plant arrangements in their Liberty avenue and Seventh street windows, which is attracting a great lot of attention from the passers-by.

The floral department of Kauffmann's reports a record breaking week just passed. A special Saturday "dollar box" of flowers features the weekend.

The Victoria Flower Shop has moved from 411 Seventh avenue to its new quarters in Wm. Penn place, opposite the new Wm. Penn hotel.

Visitors: Chas. H. Netsch, Buffalo, N. Y.; J. Ramsfelder, New York; Howard Potter, Cleveland, O., and A. Lange, Chicago.

BUSINESS BELOW NORMAL.

Last week's market was hardly as good as it might have been. The demand for stock was fair and steady, but receipts were so heavy that it was impossible to realize any substantial returns for the single flower. Shipping business is fairly good. Rose offerings include some very fine Killarney, Ophelia, Hoosier Beauty and American Beauties. Carnations are in a heavy supply and the stock is generally of good quality. Some very fine Easter lilies are coming into the market. They are plentiful. Sweet peas, generally, are excellent, and are in a very heavy supply. Bulbous stock is offered in fair quantities. It has a fair market. Other offerings include callas, lily of the valley, orchids, violets, lilac, calendulas and snapdragons.

NOTES.

The regular meeting of the florists' society was held Monday evening at Hotel Gibson. R. Witterstaetter presided in the absence of President C. E. Critchell and Vice-President Henry Schwarz. He gave a detailed and an interesting talk on the wonders of the Philadelphia flower show.

Henry Schwarz has been suffering from what appears to be a nervous breakdown from the severe strain of the winter's work.

Ed Schumann injured his foot last week, when, in order to save time, he jumped down into the boiler room.

E. G. Gillett has been having an excellent lot of Easter lilies from Maryland.

P. J. Olinger has been cutting some very fine Killarney and White Killarney.

Hoffmeister Floral Co. has purchased an auto delivery truck.

C. E. Critchell has been having an excellent lot of lilac.

Chicago Bowling.

The Florists upset all the dope in the North Chicago Bowling League last Thursday evening, April 6, by beating the leading Birk Brothers and hanging up a new team average record for that circuit. The new figures which the florists established are 1,049 flat, and were made with counts of 996, 1,055 and 1,096. Fred Price was the leading pin getter for the team with a rating of 235 1-3, while three other members of the squad had better than 200 for an average. The Birk Brothers traveled at their usual gait with a mark better than 900, but their opponents had the pins falling for them and the leaders never had a look in. Jack Byers was the official score keeper and the scores for the evening were as follows:

BUSINESS IS BETTER.

Trade the past week has shown some improvement and at times the market cleaned up pretty well in certain kinds of stock but at that there was always plenty of everything to go around. Roses especially are plentiful and some exceptionally fine Mrs. Chas. Russell are obtainable and are showing wonderful color. Killarney and Killarney Brilliant are also showing good color and are in good demand. White Killarney and Double White Killarney are seen in large numbers and are moving well. Richmond are in good supply and the same holds good for Hadley, Milady, Rhea Reid, Hoosier Beauty, Richmond, Sunburst, Ophelia, Mrs. Aaron Ward, Lady Hillingdon, My Maryland, Mrs. Moorfield Storey, Prince de Bulgaria, Cecile Brunner, George Elgar and Fireflame. American Beauty roses are plentiful and fancy stock in the longer stemmed grades are bringing good prices. Lilies are in extra large supply with very little fancy long-stemmed stock being offered. Some fine callas are seen and are bringing fairly good prices. Carnations are in large supply and at times appear to clean up well, but are not bringing the price that they should. Sweet peas are arriving in large quantities and very fancy stock is to be had at very reasonable prices. At times they accumulate to such an extent that they are sold in large lots at greatly reduced figures. Lily of the valley, gardenias and orchids appear to clean up well each day and there is hardly ever any surplus to speak of. Violets, both single and double, are to be had in quantity and were offered in the streets during the warm days last week at 15 and 25 cents per bunch. Snapdragons and straw flowers of unusually fine quality are attracting the attention of the buyers and are seen featured in the window displays of the leading florists. Stocks, daisies, calendulas, forget-me-nots, lupines, candy-tuft, pansies, mignonette, tulips, hyacinths, gladioli, daffodils, jonquils, Spanish iris, freesias, lilac and anemones are included in the offerings and the buyer now has a splendid variety to select from. Ferns are none too good and the percentages of loss on stock now being taken from storage is very heavy and nearly every case has to be gone over carefully and the stock rebunched, so it would not be at all surprising if the prices advanced soon. Carnations will be in short supply for Easter and more so than the growers at first thought they would be, but it appears as if there will be plenty of Killarney, White Killarney roses and lilies for the big day. There will be more bulbous stock than anyone expected, owing to the late date of Easter, but taken all in all it is advisable for everyone to place their orders right away if they have not already done so, for it would not be at all surprising if the market cleaned up early Easter week. Plants of all kinds are in good demand and it looks like another big cleanup in this line again this year.

NOTES.

Poehlmann Bros. Co. is having a brisk demand for Easter plants and expects to clean up in all lines long before the rush is over. They are featuring some particularly fine hydrangeas, lilies, rhododendrons, azaleas, spireas, begonias, cyclamens, etc. They will have a large cut of roses for Easter in all the leading varieties and while they will have large cuts of carnations there will not be any too many to go around before the big rush is over. In the supply department T. E. Waters and his assistants are very busy getting out the shipping orders, and from present indications it looks as if this concern will have one of the best Easter trades in years. The home of M. A. Griffith, head bookkeeper, was completely destroyed by fire last Friday, April 7. John Enders has been down to the store several times last week and will give the store force a lift during the Easter rush.

Zech & Mann's store force will bowl W. H. Amling's greenhouse force at Maywood, Thursday evening,

CHICAGO, ILL.

There has been a steady stream of trade visitors here returning from the Philadelphia and New York shows. President MacRorie of the Society of American Florists reached the city April 8, accompanied by Angelo J. Rossi, of San Francisco, Calif., and James Forbes, of Portland Ore. This party, with Samuel Murray, of Kansas City Mo., visited the Poehlmann establishment at Morton Grove, April 9, and were shown through the great plant and cut flower ranges there by August and Adolph Poehlmann. W. L. Rock, of Kansas City, Mo., was here Monday discussing telegraph delivery problems with August Lange, George Asmus and others interested in that subject.

J. A. Budlong is in good crop with roses in all the leading varieties, but Manager Schupp does not look for any surplus in any line for Easter. His firm is handling some fine lilies in addition to a complete line of other stock.

Erne & Klingel look forward to a brisk Easter trade and will have a fine line of stock to supply their customers with. Charles Erne is feeling fit as a fiddle and is on the job again regularly at the store.

Arthur Leidiger, one of the live-wire retail florists of Milwaukee, Wis., was a visitor in the market this week.

Vaughan's Seed Store kept up a good display of Canna Firebird at both the big eastern shows.

Henry Wittbold, of Evanston, is busy as a bee with store decorations.

FLOWERS OF QUALITY

Wietor Bros. will have a nice large cut of roses for Easter, especially Killarney, White Killarney, Richmond and American Beauty, which are in good crop now. Their cut of carnations will be fairly good, but not as large as in former years, and bears out the statement that N. J. Wietor made several weeks ago that they would be scarce for Easter. The stock in all the houses looks fine and could not be any better, and is in just the right condition for the big day. The planting is well under way, and 10,000 Ophelia rose plants are now being benched, and so is a good number of the new miniature rose, Baby Doll. American Beauty roses will be grown on as large a scale as ever, and Sunburst will be given considerably more bench space. They will continue to grow Mrs. Chas. Russell and Killarney Brilliant, and about as many Richmonds as before. They will discontinue growing White Perfection carnations next season, but will give considerably more bench space to Matchless and White Wonder. Nancy and Alice will be grown heavily next season, and some of the other varieties that will be grown on a large scale are Bonfire, Washington, Enchantress, Rosette and Philadelphia. The young rose, carnation and chrysanthemum stocks are in grand condition, and as soon as the Easter business is over the planting will be on in earnest. This firm has been growing cut flowers for the local wholesale market for over 22 years and have one of the three large commercial establishments devoted exclusively to cut flowers in this country.

A. L. Vaughan & Co. report business as good, with the sales so far during April running considerably ahead of last year. The outlook for a banner Easter trade never was better and their growers report that they are particularly long on fancy lilies, roses and other miscellaneous stock for this occasion. Out-of-town orders are starting to come in and every mail brings in more. Mr. Vaughan had a pleasant visit from his old friend, Martin Forbes, of Portland, Ore., this week, and it is needless to add that the meeting was a most delightful one.

C. L. Washburn and wife are back from a short but delightful visit in California, and the genial wholesaler is again attending to his duties at Bassett & Washburn's store. Mr.

SINNER BROTHERS

158 North Wabash Avenue,

CHICAGO

Washburn reports a brisk demand for lily plants for Easter, but says that so far there has been no great call for cut blooms. Over 75,000 cuttings of their new carnation, Belle Washburn, have been sold so far this season, and it is expected that over 100,000 will be delivered before the rush is over.

Weiland & Risch had several vases of their new rose, Champ Weiland, on exhibition at their store this week, and every visitor was attracted by its wonderfully rich color and beautiful foliage. The more one sees of this variety the better he likes it, and there is no doubt but what it will be a big factor in this market next season.

O. A. & L. A. Tonner are prepared for a brisk Easter trade and will have a large supply of both cut flowers and supplies to fill their orders with. In the cut flower department Spanish iris and single and double stocks are seen in large quantities and are attracting the attention of the buyers.

The John Kruchten Co. is showing a fine line of cut lilies, and will have the usual large supply to offer for Easter. This firm is handling a nice line of green goods in addition to their complete line of cut flowers and are in a splendid position to fill all orders.

At the Chicago Flower Growers' Association's store roses are arriving in large supply and everything points to a splendid Easter trade. The directors of the company held a meeting at the store last Tuesday, April 11, when the usual business was transacted.

Peter Reinberg was elected delegate to the national democratic convention in the tenth congressional district Tuesday, April 11, and his right hand lieutenant, Henry Zender, was elected committeeman in the Twenty-sixth ward on the same ticket.

Geo. P. Gerasimos is doing nicely at the new store that he opened recently at 3944 Sheridan Road under the name of Sheridan "L" Florist. He is doing considerable advertising in the moving picture theatres in that neighborhood for Easter.

W. W. Fuller, 4526 Ravenswood avenue, is a regular visitor in the wholesale market again, having just recovered from a severe attack of the gripe.

Sinner Bros. have a nice crop of stocks and candytuft for Easter and will no doubt experience a cleanup in both lines before the rush is over.

At the Peter Reinberg range Superintendent Emil Reichling and his force of assistants are busy planting roses, and have already got a large number of plants set out. Only seven houses of American Beauty roses will be grown next season, which is considerably less than last year. Eleven houses, 29x285 feet, will be devoted to Mrs. Chas. Russell roses this year, which includes seven houses of own root Russell which will be carried over. Seven houses will be planted to Milady, which is a great deal more than last year, and the new rose, Champ Weiland, will be grown on a large scale. Mr. Reichling is confident that this rose is all that the introducers claim it to be, and is particularly impressed with its splendid color, form and foliage. Killarney Brilliant will be grown more heavily and the same holds good for Sunburst, of which 27,000 plants will be benched. White Killarney will also be grown on a large scale and six houses will be devoted to the old standby, My Maryland. Richmond will not be grown as extensively as in the past, but at that they will have at least 13 houses to cut from next season. Killarney will be given about its usual amount of space, and Ophelia will be grown more heavily than ever. The demand for young stock was unusually good this season, and Ophelia so far has proved to be the best seller, with Sunburst a close second. This firm will grow the new carnations, Belle Washburn and Good Cheer, on a large scale next season, and will also give considerable bench space to Rosette. Everything is in tip-top shape at this range, and there will be a large supply of roses for Easter, particularly Killarney, White Killarney, Mrs. Chas. Russell, My Maryland and Richmond. who manages the wholesale store, visited the carnation range Sunday, April 9, and says that while they will have a good cut of stock the receipts will be just about large enough to take care of their regular customers. Emil Reichling took in the recent Philadelphia and New York flower shows, returning last week, and says that one must hand it to the eastern growers for being able to produce roses, for the stock in the ranges that he visited was in good condition and would be difficult to improve upon.

A. T. Pyfer & Co. will have a large supply of stock of all kinds for Easter, especially roses, and everything points to a splendid holiday business. The shipping trade is exceptionally good at this house, and Manager Pyfer has no complaint whatever to make regarding dull times.

A. E. Hunt & Co. are cutting a fancy grade of Chicago White and Etoile d'Or daisies, which are in good demand and are considered two of the best sellers in this market. They have a nice lot of young stock to offer in these two varieties in two-and-one-half and two-inch pots.

Hoerber Bros. are in full crop as usual with roses for Easter, and will also have a nice supply of fancy long stemmed snapdragons for this occasion. The snapdragons that they are cutting are of unsurpassed quality and are always in brisk demand.

The Geo. Wittbold Co. reports business as very brisk, with the outlook for Easter very bright. The special kentia advertisements they have been carrying in the daily papers the past week have brought a tremendous lot of orders from all sections of the city and country. The new flats that Wittbolds are building are well under way and the whole structure and store will be completed all at once, for the building has progressed so rapidly that Louis Wittbold thought it advisable to rush the whole thing through instead of building one section at a time, as they first intended to do.

The John C. Moninger Co. is building a curved eave conservatory for R. D. Forgan, treasurer of the First Trust and Savings Bank, which will be erected at his home in Highland Park. E. F. Kurowski, president of the Moninger Company, has returned from Philadelphia and New York, where he attended the two big flower shows and booked several nice orders for greenhouse materials.

Percy Jones is offering some of the finest ferns of the season, which are selling like hot cakes and are more than worth the price that Manager Van Gelder is asking for them. Carnations are seen in good supply here and will be one of the principal offerings for Easter, although a grand cleanup in this line is expected long before the rush is over.

N. P. Miller, of Miller & Musser, had the job to lay out the grounds for a private home in Blue Island last week, which was completed on time and to the owner's satisfaction. D. S. Musser received a shipment of dandelions from his father at Anderson, Ind., April 7, and it is needless to add that they were most welcome, being the first of the season.

Middle west members of the Women's National Agricultural and Horticultural Association will hold a conference at the Art Institute, April 13-17. Achievements of women in agricultural and horticultural pursuits will be discussed. A program of six half-day sessions and one evening session has been arranged for the meeting.

J. H. McNeilly, 1155 East Sixty-third street, is making preparations for a big Easter trade and reports an unusually good call for violets the past month, which were a leader with him. He is ably assisted by E. J. Reynolds, who has been with him ever since Christmas.

W. H. Schultz, Jr., of Auburndale, Fla., wholesale grower of Asparagus plumosus nanus, called on his many satisfied customers here this week on his way home from the Philadelphia flower show, which was the finest exhibition that he ever attended.

Kyle & Foerster will have a good supply of Khlem's fancy novelty tulips for Easter, which have been in good demand all season. W. P. Kyle was on the sick list a few days last week, but is on the job again and is feeling as good as ever.

The Halsted Street Business Men's Association, of which Frank Kral is president, held a spring festival last week, during which time all the merchants dolled up their stores in honor of the occasion.

Ed Siebrecht has returned from a pleasant visit from his brother, Charles, at Winona, Minn., and will help out at the Fleischman Floral Co.'s store during the Easter rush.

John A. Michal reports business as good at his new branch store at 1108 East Sixty-third street, which was opened about three weeks ago with Mrs. Wickliffe in charge.

H. E. Philpott, of Winnipeg, Can., is here on business and will give the boys at Pyfer & Olsem's Wilmette store a lift during the Easter rush.

M. C. Gunterberg will have a large supply of lilies to offer for Easter in addition to her regular line of stock.

George Kaspar, 4005 West Twenty-sixth street, is the proud possessor of a new Chandler Six.

Max Ringier, with Kennicott Bros. Co., has returned from a brief visit in the bluegrass state.

V. Bezdek, of Gross Point, has invested in a new Skinner irrigating system.

Philadelphia.

MARKET IS OVERSTOCKED.

An overstocked market is the report for the past week. Sweet peas and roses are hanging fire and only the cream of the stock gets anything like a fair price. It is a question of moving them at anything like a fair figure rather than how much they will bring. It is a buyer's market and will remain so until the activity of the Easter trade stirs things up. American Beauty roses are now to be had in quantity, and they move off fairly well. Bulbous stock, with the exception of the Emperor daffodils, is plentiful. The Emperors are in demand. Southern daffodils are now in and will last for from two to three weeks. They are carrying very well during the cool weather. Sweet peas, excellent stock, is much too plentiful; large buyers are stocked up at their own price, while the lower grades are sold to the street men for very little. There are still a few violets which move slowly. Gardenias go in large quantities to the fakirs. Cattleyas are seen in abundance, much above the market's requirements. Lily of the valley is scarce; it will go to $6 and possibly $8 at Easter. Very fair gladioli are coming from Florida. Thirty cents per 100 spikes is the average of express charges.

NOTES.

The flower show is still a topic when officials meet. It appears that our "official" figures of paid admissions were not correct, as there were over 102,000 paid admissions. Quite a number of the local craft went over to the New York show on Friday and Saturday. They were delighted with what they saw, particularly the rose gardens.

A movement is on foot to get committees from all prominent business associations in this city to join in securing a practical exhibition and convention hall, second to none in this country. $1,500,000 has been appropriated for this purpose and is ready in hand to begin the work.

The Philadelphia Wholesale Florists' Exchange has taken a lease on the premises at 1615 Ranstead street, a few doors below their present location, to which they will move when alterations are completed. They will have in their new location about twice the capacity of their old store.

Ludwig P. Vollers, trading under the name "Vollers House of Flowers," has made an assignment. The liabilities are $12,000, half to banks and half to the trade. Assets are given as $6,000. The business is to be continued under the management of S. S. Pennock, trustee.

Henry A. Dreer, Inc., are experiencing an almost record-breaking spring business. Immense as are their facilities, they are being taxed to the utmost to get their orders out on time.

Mock, Mrs. Sawyer and Sunburst roses are leaders with Edward Reid. "It keeps us very busy to move the stock these days, but we manage to get there," is his comment.

The Leo Niessen Co. is featuring American Beauties. The stock is very high grade. Gardenias and snapdragons are also prominent.

The M. Rice Co. is still working on orders received at the flower show. "Never had so much spring business," reports Mr. Eschner.

Easter lilies in quantity are the leaders with the Berger Bros. Orchid sweet peas and carnations are also features.

MONTREAL, QUE. — McKenna's Limited, reports a very satisfactory trade throughout the winter and are well prepared for a heavy Easter demand.

WINNIPEG, CAN. — C. C. Phillips, who has been connected with the trade here during the past four years, has entered the employ of the McCallum Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

Providence, R. I.

Stock during the past week has been very plentiful and prices have been low, especially in the wholesale markets. Daffodils are very good and prices on them hold up better than in other stocks. Tulips are of excellent quality but prices are down and carnations, which are arriving faster than they can be handled, go begging for a buyer in some instances. Sweet peas, poeticus, Easter lilies and hyacinths are among the best sellers. The Easter stock this year has every indication of being fine and ready for sale Easter Saturday. Pot plants of all kinds are in just the right shape to be handled without bruising as has been the case in former years. Most of the growers have their lilies in the green bud yet and from all indications stock will be "some stock."

J. A. Cushing of Quidnick has sold his range to a company, one of the three members of which is Mr. Lamont, who has been the rose grower at the Cushing establishment for some time.

John Marshall of Fruit Hill is cutting large quantities of sweet peas. He ships these to the Boston markets but cannot cut enough to fill all orders.

Olney Williams will have his usual fine supply of bulbous stock, both cut and in pans.

John Macrea has a fine lot of Easter lilies and azaleas for Easter.

BIG SUPPLY AND LIGHT DEMAND.

The business of the past week in the wholesale district was very quiet. There was an increasing supply of stock, and if anything, a diminishing demand. Special American Beauty roses sold at the rate of $30 to $35 per 100. Six dollars and eight dollars was about the best for special tea roses, $2 for No. 1, and No. 2 were quoted at from 50 cents to $1. Carnations ranged from $1 to $2 per 100; special orchids, $35 to $40, while inferior grades sold at from $10 to $20. Although there are very fine orchid flowered sweet peas on the market, the best are hard to move at $1 per 100. It is almost useless to quote gardenias and violets, for the street peddlers seem to have the most of them. Bulbous stock is moving, but slowly. As a matter of course the flower show has been the absorbing feature of the week. So far as we can observe and learn, the wholesalers and a number of the retailers have taken an active interest in the show and have contributed liberally, both in time and money. However, some of the florists, in various lines, are beginning to think like the country editor, who wrote that "his line was the biggest trust on earth, because it trusted everybody; got cussed for trusting; mistrusted for cussing and if it busted by trusting, got cussed for busting." A detailed report of the show, in addition to what appeared in our issue of April 8, will be found elsewhere. Up to April 8, the weather was good, but that day was a record breaker. What left the clouds as snow, landed on New York as slush, and it kept up all day. Considering the state of the weather, the attendance at the show was remarkably good, but it was a bad Saturday for the wholesalers. It was also a bad night for the florists' club dinner at the Biltmore hotel, but we believe it was quite a successful affair. We did not attend, as five-dollar dinners nearly always give us indigestion. In this connection a prominent wholesaler advises us that he did not attend because he eats with his knife. He says that when a boy, he had great ambition to get into the circus as a sword-swallower. He failed as a circus man, but has been eating with his knife ever since.

CLUB MEETING.

Some exhibits of roses, carnations and pot plants, brought to the April meeting of the florists' club, stimulated the attendance remarkably. When the club got down to business 32 members were present and two others came in before the close. William C. Gloeckner, of this city, and F. Hotaling, of Amsterdam, were elected members. On motion of Fred A. Danker, the secretary was instructed to write to Prof. E. A. White, department of floriculture, Cornell university, Ithaca, with a view to have him come to Albany to deliver his illustrated lecture on orchids. Edward P. Tracey gave an interesting account of his impressions of the national flower show at Philadelphia and made special mention of the rose classes. Earl Shaw described his visit to the New York flower show and said that attendance at such exhibitions is profitable. Fred A. Danker read a short paper on, "How to Elevate the Retail Business." He advised retailers to begin with themselves by cultivating the "Golden Rule", to keep posted and, as means allow, to adopt new systems of merit in the conduct of the business. "Work up means to attract trade", he urged. "The florist business is an elevating one, and to encourage the giving of flowers is a noble thing". He advised against the solicitation of funeral orders as not ethical, and in contrast to it, suggested that florists encourage the sending of flowers to the living. "Create the impression that you are anxious to give good service; try to remember the flowers your customers like", were two more admonitions given by the speaker. In conclusion he advised occasional visits to flower shows and trade exhibits, as valuable sources of information. Louis H. Schaefer was assigned by the chairman to bring in a paper at the May meeting on seeds and bulbs. As Mr. Schaefer deals in these articles the paper is sure to be instructive.

James Snyder expressed his thanks for the condolences of the club received on the occasion of the death of his daughter, March 26. The club sent a floral piece to the funeral on March 29 at Rhinebeck, Dutchess county. Messrs. Eberhard and Lally, two visitors from the recently organized florists' club of Schenectady, said that their organization has made a good start and a membership campaign is under way. In commenting upon his exhibit of carnations, Frederick Henkes, of Newtonville, said that some of the specimens, one a very dark red seedling, were grown on solid beds built up from the ground in his large greenhouse and that the soil had not been removed in seven years. The bed was spaded over every summer, enriched with well rotted manure, and given a top dressing of sheep manure, raked in.

NOTES.

Lectures on trees, shrubs, and the beautification of home grounds are popular this spring. On April 6, John Davey, a tree expert of Cleveland, O., delivered a lecture in the State Education building on, "The Salvation of Our Trees and Birds". On the following day William E. Fitzsimmons, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee on City Beautiful, spoke before the members of the Rotary club at their weekly luncheon on beautifying the city by planting flowers and shrubs. A third lecture delivered the same week was by William H. Stoneman of the Chamber of Commerce before an improvement association in the northern section of the city. He also urged his hearers to plant trees, shrubs, and flowers.

Fred A. Danker has added an Overland delivery car to his service.

Fort Wayne, Ind.

A severe snow storm and freezing temperatures affected trade last week, but under these adverse conditions business has been fairly good. The local trade are making active preparations for Easter and while roses and carnations promise to be plentiful there will not be an overabundance of bulbous stock.

The landscape department at the greenhouses of W. J. & M. S. Vesey are busy booking orders for spring shrubbery. They have been advertising this branch of the business quite extensively and are meeting with good success. This firm also had a fine sale of cinerarias last week, featuring these plants at a special sale and re-tailing them at 35 cents per dozen.

Mrs. Josephine Nesbit, of Convoys, O., has been engaged by the Chamber of Commerce to supervise the planting to be done in the city parks during the present month.

Funeral orders and a special sale of spring flowers at 50 cents per dozen, kept the Flick Floral Co.'s force busy last week.

TRADE CONDITIONS IMPROVE.

We are glad to report trade conditions improving once more after an unusually cold winter that practically killed the florist business. Promptly with the beginning of the new year, the cold and heavy snow arrived, but bright days are with us once again, and it brings people out, seeking all kinds of hardier stock. Roses are being planted liberally and our people are so enthusiastic that they call for everything new that is heard of—they want them and generally the price does not cut much figure. We never had a larger supply of all kinds of cut flowers, generally of high quality, with colors rich and bright. Carnations were split badly for a few weeks, but those coming in now are not bad at all. Roses have arrived liberally from local sources and they have been of high grade. Ophelia has proven its merit equal to expectations—probably better. Sunburst has come to stay. Lady Hillingdon may be classed a practical failure as a winter cut flower, but for planting outside is called for more than any other rose. It is hard to judge between the popularity of Lady Hillingdon and Mme. Caroline Testout as a bedding rose, for they both do unusually well. Many times within the last week we have had inquiry for "something new" and the parties all tell of having dozens of varieties. Two of one seedling were taken at $10 each, after being described, one of them being Kaiserin crossed to Gen. Jacqueminot, a pure pink, very good, with a wonderfully sweet perfume; the other, Dorothy Perkins, crossed to Teplitz, rose color, also sweet. Bulbous stock has been of high quality and plenty of it. At present writing, outdoor grown narcissi are in plentiful supply—very fine flowers, too. The promise for Easter stock never was better, and no doubt lilies will be fine and abundant.

NOTES.

S. L. Harper is trading his place away for an irrigated fruit and dairy ranch at Kennewick, Wash. He has taken out the rose plants and is disposing of them. Plans are made for extending manufacture and distribution of his spraying solution that has become the leader on the market here. It has proven to be especially good for orchard spraying.

The Tacoma Dahlia Society has elected the following officers for the ensuing year: W. J. Love, president; Mrs. E. L. Hockaday, first vice-president; Mrs. A. L. Jackson, second vice-president; James Curley, secretary; Geo. M. Lee, treasurer.

Much interest is already being evinced in the annual rose show and plans are being formulated to make this year's exhibition the best in the history of this city.

We learn of one new greenhouse to be built at Parkland—probably to be devoted to tomatoes and carnations.

The Northwestern Floral Co. are getting quite busy after unusually poor business for a couple of months.

Louis Tschunko has about finished planting in tomatoes, and carnations will be gradually taken out.

"California Florists" have been enlarging their store room and have enjoyed very good business.

The Seed Trade

American Seed Trade Association.

J. M. Lupton, Mattituck, L. I., N. Y., President; Kirby B. White, Detroit, Mich., First Vice-President; F. W. Boigiano, Washington, D. C., Second Vice-President; C. E. Kendel, Cleveland, O., Secretary and Treasurer. Thirty-fourth annual convention, Chicago, June 20-22, 1916.

J. C. VAUGHAN left New York for Chicago April 12.

VISITED Chicago: A. T. Ferrell, Saginaw, Mich., returning from California with his family.

BETTER weather in the middle west has given the retail trade greatly improved business during the past seven days.

COUNTER trade at New York is slowly recovering from the severe setback received in the snowstorm of April 8-9.

CHICAGO—Prices for grass seed on the Board of Trade, April 12, were as follows: Timothy, $5.50 to $8.00 per 100 pounds.

GOLDEN BANTAM sweet-corn is racing right up to fame, one favorite at the Hot Springs track last week being named in its honor.

OTTAWA, ONT.—Graham Bros. report that the late spring has held back orders but the indications are that farmers and market gardeners will increase their plantings.

FLORAL PARK, N. Y.—John Lewis Childs reports catalogue mail trade only slightly better than last year to March 31. Since April 1 business has been about one-third better than last year's.

TORONTO, ONT.—The Steele, Briggs Seed Co. says business has been backward to the close of March but that it is now coming along nicely. This firm expects good trade during the remainder of the season.

NEW YORK.—Typical of "butting in" to horticulture was the front page advertisement of John Wannamaker in the New York Herald of April 8, using the well established slogan, "everything for the garden," stolen from Peter Henderson & Co.

NEW YORK.—The only local seedsmen who made exhibits at the flower show were A. T. Boddington Co., Stumpp & Walter Co., J. M. Thorburn & Co., and Vaughan's Seed Store.—Both David and Atlee Burpee, of Philadelphia, were flower show visitors this week.

THE New York Sunday papers of April 9 carried an unusually large number of seed and plant advertisements, the advertisers doubtless intending to take advantage of the public interest in the show and the large amount of space given generally to illustrate horticultural matter in the big Sunday editions.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Local houses report a sharp increase in mail orders after the middle of March, some days bringing double the business of the corresponding dates in 1915, while the season's business up to that time was behind the preceding year's.—Nine thousand pieces of mail were received by W. Atlee Burpee & Co. on one March day.—A good delegation will probably attend the American Seed Trade convention at Chicago in June.

THE Stokes Seed Farms Co., Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., reports the present season highly satisfactory in all departments. Since the last week of March business at the city store has been opening up very well.

Ocean Freights.

War insurance rates on shipments to Holland have been advanced from one and one half to five per cent. The Dutch government has taken over 80 per cent of the Holland-American line for military purposes.

Three Japanese Pacific liners have raised freight rates 20 per cent on unsubsidized lines.

French Seed Grower Sentenced.

Jacques Hasslach, another of the French seedsmen involved in supplying the enemy with seeds, according to advices just received, was sentenced March 16, receiving three years' imprisonment with a fine of 20,000 francs and loss of civil and civic rights for 10 years. Charges on which he was convicted included shipping, April 4, 200 kilos of seeds to Frederic Haubensack, of Bale, Switzerland, knowing that the consignee would reship the seeds to different German purchasers and for supplying during the months of June and July, 1915, 29 kilos of cabbage seed to M. Herb, of Naples, Italy, the latter being a German subject.

Free Seeds Sent Back.

Attorney Fred E. Carpenter got a package of seeds from the department of agriculture at Washington the other day, which he promptly returned with the following letter:

"I return herewith a package said to contain flower seeds sent to me by your department with the name of B. M. Chipfield, M. C., endorsed on the package. Mr. Chipfield is an honorable citizen of this state, but the free distribution of flower seeds is of no earthly use to agriculture and is regarded by many as a petty graft, and your department should be in better business than sending such packages to the constituents of our representatives in Washington.

"The seeds you send out are not as good as can be obtained from legitimate seedsmen and your department ought to be run by some one who would have the nerve to refuse to stand for this petty pilfering of public funds any longer. That man would make a name for himself."—Rockford (Ill.) Register-Gazette.

Red Clover Seed Records.

The United States department of agriculture estimates that about one-third of the red clover seed available for use in this country during 1916 will be imported. New records for importation will be created, for more of the seed had been received from abroad in the eight months prior to March 1, 1916, than in any one year previously. The short crop in 1915 was largely responsible.

Italian and French stocks have been the principal ones available for import, about one-third as much Italian as French seed being received. South European seed, the department states, is neither as hardy nor as productive as American or north European seed, and it is regarded as unfortunate that it has been necessary to import such large amounts of seed not well adapted to the conditions in the red clover growing districts of the United States.

Lentil Prices Advanced.

Lentils come high these days and unless the lovers of the bean want to pay the price for them they must go without this most nutritious of foods. There are now not more than 5,000 to 6,000 bags of 220 pounds each in the New York market and the price asked wholesale is 11¼ to 11½ cents per pound, as against 2½ to 4 cents per pound before the war began.

Most of the supply of lentils had previously come from Russia, which annually exported through a German port from 100,000 to 150,000 bags of 110 pounds each. The war and the number of men called to the front has materially cut off production and the small supplies now here were sent to Chile and from there to the United States.

There are some lentils produced in California and according to members of the New York trade in dried beans they do not show keeping qualities, especially in warm weather. The asking price is also too high, being 12 to 12½ cents per pound f. o. b. coast. The price asked for No. 2 cans of lentils is $1.05 per dozen, and most of these goods are from stocks received before the war.

Turnip Rape Seed.

Two hundred thousand pounds of turnip rape seed, or enough to sow approximately 50,000 acres, have been imported from Argentina and Japan and are being sold as winter rape. The seed specialists of the United States department of agriculture therefore are again cautioning farmers to avoid the purchase and seeding of turnip rape, which is not winter rape and is not suitable for the forage purposes for which winter rape is grown.

The seeds of turnip rape are smaller and have a more deeply pitted surface than those of winter rape. The young plants are easily distinguished by the difference in habit of growth and the character and color of the leaves. Winter rape produces a definite stem with the leaves occurring along it at intervals. Turnip rape does not produce a definite stem, the leaves all growing in an apparent whorl at the surface of the ground. The leaves of winter rape are thick and succulent, free from hairs, and covered with a greyish bloom. The leaves of turnip rape are thin, hairy and bright green like those of the garden turnip.

Persons purchasing rape seed may submit samples to the seed laboratory, United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., for determination as to whether the seed is that of the turnip rape or winter rape. Samples of both turnip rape and winter rape seed, for comparison, will be sent on application to the seed laboratory.

Holland Notes.

The following interesting items have been noted in a private letter received from a Holland bulb grower February 7:

"We have had a tremendous lot of rain and no frost up till now, which means a poor crop of bulbs. This, combined with the fact that many growers had to give up the growing, will make bulbs, especially the early varieties, scarcer and higher in price the coming season.

"The way exchange is at the present time we are losing about 33 per cent on the German mark, 50 per cent on the Russian ruble, about 50 per cent on the Austrian crown and 15 per cent on the English pound. This means that the Holland bulb growers are losing about 20 per cent in their receipts."

Bean and Pea Market.

Receipts April 7 were 5,105 bags beans, 666 bags peas. Marrow beans are still in sellers' favor but the demand this week has been purely of a selective character, and mostly in lots required by jobbers to keep up assortments. Medium are steady, also pea, the latter advancing. Export demand for red kidneys has not been active since the middle of the week. Red Marrow are quiet. Lima beans are in low hands and steady as quoted. Yellow eye are dull. White kidneys are quiet. Black turtle soup sell slowly. Small white coast beans are firmer and 5c higher.

THE heaviest shipment of fresh asparagus sent out of Sacramento this season was sent East on March 30 via the Southern Pacific Railroad. There were 14 cars in the shipment. Nine were from Walnut Grove and four from Sacramento.

Prices of Indoor Fruits and Vegetables.

Chicago, April 11.—Mushrooms, home grown, No. 1, 25 to 30 cents per carton; lettuce, cases, 22½ to 25 cents; radishes, 20 cents to 50 cents per crate; celery, $1.75 to $2.00 per crate; tomatoes, six baskets, $1.75 to $2.25; cucumbers, per doz., 75 cents to $1.50.

New York, April 11.—Celery, per 12-inch crate, $1.25 to $2.00; cucumbers, 90 cents to $1.25 per dozen; mushrooms, 50 cents to $1.75 per 4 pound basket; tomatoes, prime, 20 cents per pound; radishes, per 100 bunches, $2.00 to $4.00; lettuce, per package, $1.00 to $4.00; rhubarb, per dozen bunches, 40 cents to 60 cents.

Texas Onion Crop Condition.

The Texas onion crop of 1916 is estimated to cover 10,057 acres, as compared with 8,943 acres in 1915, an increase of about 12 per cent. The condition of the crop on April 1 is estimated as 55 per cent of normal, as against 65.6 per cent on March 1, which forecasts a yield of about 192.5 bushels per acre, or a total production of 1,935,972 bushels, the equivalent of 4,200 cars of 460 bushels each. In 1915 the shipments amounted to about 4,607 cars. This revision is based on replies to telegrams sent into all sections of the Texas onion district and upon returns received by schedules.

From reports received, it appears that the damage from thrip was not arrested, as it was thought to have been by well-posted men, but has continued to reduce the very low condition of the crop as given for March 1, effecting a total reduction in condition of 10.6 points.

Cyanide of Potassium.

Since the wide distribution of white fly, greenhouse men have been compelled to look for a more powerful fumigant than tobacco smoke or nicotine preparations. They have found it in cyanide of potassium. While its use is coupled with considerable danger, it is on the other hand a sure remedy for all insect life, hence it will pay any greenhouse man to become acquainted with the material. Our various state experiment stations have published valuable bulletins on this subject which should be in the hands of all growers. We have made use of the cyanide process chiefly against white fly, which pest cannot very well be contested with tobacco. The general formula is to use one ounce of cyanide of potassium to two ounces of sulphuric acid to four ounces of water. To illustrate the wide range of conditions we wish to state that our first application was reduced to 1/5 of an ounce of cyanide, resulting in a complete destruction of all white fly and much damage to tomato foliage. The plants recovered, however, and after 10 days we reduced the second application to 1/10 of one ounce of cyanide, with perfect safety to all greenhouse plants and complete killing of all flies.

All these proportions relate to 1,000 cubic feet of air space. It is of the utmost importance to determine the exact air space to accurately weigh out the cyanide, acid and water, to close the house tight and repair all cracks; to reduce the heat to 55° or less and to see that the heating is uniform, as hot corners will surely cause damage. Further the plants and house should be dry as moisture is dangerous. Anyone attempting the cyanide process must know that this chemical is a powerful poison, and that the gas generated by the above formula is instant death to the operator should he linger in the house or re-enter. Also after the desired exposure, the house must be ventilated for at least one-half hour before entering.

The proper receptacle for the cyanide mixture is an earthenware vessel deep enough to prevent boiling over of contents; it is also best to use more than one for long houses. The method of procedure is to first place the required amount of water into the vessel, then add the acid, and place the cyanide alongside each jar in a paper bag. After all is in readiness, lock the further end of the house and, retreating, drop the cyanide into the vessels, losing no time in getting away. When leaving, the house should be securely locked to prevent an accident.

MARKETMAN.

Mushroom Growers Warned.

As the result of a serious case of mushroom poisoning in a mushroom grower's family recently, the mushroom specialists of the United States department of agriculture have issued a warning to commercial and other growers of mushrooms to regard with suspicion any abnormal mushrooms which appear in their beds. It seems that occasionally sporadic forms appear in mushroom beds, persist for a day or two, and then disappear. These are generally manure-inhabiting species and may be observed shortly after the beds have been cased. In the instance cited, however, these fungi appeared in considerable numbers at the time the edible Agaricus campestris should have been ready for the market, and the dealer supposed it was probably a new brown variety and tried it in his own family. As a result, five persons were rendered absolutely helpless and were saved after several hours only through the assistance of a second physician who had had experience with this type of poisoning.

In the opinion of the department, this case is peculiarly significant and demonstrates that the grower must be able to distinguish Agaricus campestris from any of the wild forms of mushrooms that may appear in the beds. Under the circumstances, the department strongly urges every grower to make himself thoroughly familiar with the cultivated species. Complete descriptions, with pictures of poisonous and cultivated species, are contained in Department Bulletin 175, "Mushrooms and Other Common Fungi", which can be purchased for 30 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. (The department of agriculture has no copies of this bulletin for free distribution.)

ALGONA, IA.—August Huenhold will build a range of houses and dispose of his stock to the local trade.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Berman & Co. have opened a flower shop at 327 West Lexington street in the heart of the market district. They report splendid business from the start.

The Nursery Trade

American Association of Nurserymen.

E. S. Welch, Shenandoah, Ia., President;
John Watson, Newark, N. Y., Vice-President;
John Hall, 204 Granite bldg., Rochester, N. Y., Secretary.
Forty-first annual convention will be held at Milwaukee, Wis., June, 1916

RIVERSIDE, CALIF.—H. C. Livingston, formerly manager of the Wood Nurseries, has purchased same.

MEDFORD, ORE.—The fourteenth annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Association of Nurserymen will be held in this city June 20-22.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—E. D. and L. R. Moore and M. M. Pritchard have incorporated the Square Deal Nursery Co., with a capital stock of $10,000.

FARIBAULT, MINN.—S. G. Kinney, a member of the Brand Nursery Co., of this city, and formerly in the nursery business at Owatonna, Minn., has purchased The Faribault Flower Store.

It is stated a great many Manetti and other stocks were lost on the Steamship Maroni when she was submerged, a number of dealers losing their entire importations for the season.

French Nursery Stock.

E. Turbat, of Orleans, France, representing the Federation of French Nurserymen and Horticulturists, says all French exporters of nursery stock are strongly opposed to the forced sale of their specialties by the exportation of stocks not ordered in the regular way. Mr. Turbat further states on his own responsibility that there is likely to be a shortage in many lines of French nursery stocks with advanced prices, owing to the scarcity of labor.

Horticultural Extension Work in So. Dak.

Demonstrations in horticulture under the direction of Frank E. McCall is the latest venture of the South Dakota State College extension department, Brookings, according to recent announcement of director G. W. Randlett. Professor McCall is a graduate of Iowa State College, 1911, and a man of experience. The object of his work is state-wide propaganda for better farm orchards, including small fruits and vegetable gardens as a means of food supply, more trees for windbreak and shade, and a higher degree of farmstead ornamentation. Professor McCall's method of procedure as stated in the project agreement will be as follows:

"The extension specialist will hold meetings: (1) In co-operation with county agents. (2) In co-operation with women's organizations, and (3) Wherever a group of country people can be assembled for the purpose of explaining this work. Demonstrations will be secured in different localities to carry on work in vegetable gardening, fruit culture, tree culture, lawn making, ornamental planting, etc. The results thus obtained as well as results of similar work previously done will be used as demonstrations.

"Plans and drawings will be furnished to interested parties on all the foregoing subjects as desired. The specialist will put the farmer and his wife into communication with growers of the most approved and hardy varieties and will also point out where many native species may be secured for home ground ornamentation. He will make farm visitations whenever his services are requested for the purpose of advising with and demonstrating to the farmer and his wife on any matter pertaining to this project."

Breeding Chestnuts for Disease Control.

How to checkmate the new chestnut blight or bark disease that is causing such vast destruction is a problem of no small importance. From its obscure beginnings in eastern New York about 12 years ago, it has swept into 19 states, and now affects about all of the northern half of our native chestnut stands, doing damage estimated at close upon $50,000,000, according to the United States department of agriculture. It attacks the trees in twig, branch and trunk, causing death in a year or two, and soon recurs in the sprouts or suckers sent up from the still living roots. No native chestnut appears to be spared in the long run, but the little eastern bush chinquapin, with its smoother bark and comparative freedom from insect enemies, appears less readily attacked. The European chestnut in its favorite varieties, is also subject to the disease, but when we come to the chestnuts of Japan and China we find very great resistance, amounting in some varieties to almost practical immunity.

The most obvious means of replacing the great losses of chestnut timber and nuts would seem to lie in the substitution for our native forms the Asiatic species that best resist the disease, having evidently for ages been accustomed to its presence, and also to breed the chestnut as a valuable genus of forest trees, by hybridization and selection for the avowed production of varieties better adapted for our purposes. Some chestnut breeding has already been accomplished in various parts of our country, and generally with good results. A promising experiment of this character has been under the direction of the office of forest pathology of the department of agriculture for several years.

Hybrids between the highly resistant Japan chestnut and our native chinquapin have been raised in considerable numbers, quickly forming handsome dwarf trees, bearing at an early age profuse crops of nuts of excellent quality, five or six times the size of those of the wild chinquapin parent, and ripening weeks before any other chestnuts. So far these trees show a very high degree of disease resistance. Another line of breeding lies in the inter-crossing of disease-resisting Japanese and Chinese varieties that are rapidly being imported into this country by the office of foreign seed and plant introduction, and selection of the best resulting forms. Some of the Chinese chestnuts are said to grow nearly 100 feet high in their home forests, and it may be possible by their use to replace in some measure our vanishing native chestnut stands, and perhaps develop very superior varieties during the process of acclimatization.

DREER'S NEW WHITE CANNA, EUREKA

NEW CANNAS

TWO STRIKING NOVELTIES OF OUR OWN RAISING

EUREKA

We unhesitatingly declare this to be the best white flowering Canna that has been brought to our notice. Nearly all other white varieties have proven of weak constitution and growth.

Eureka grows as vigorously and blooms as freely as any Canna of any color. Its foliage is clean and healthy of a beautiful green color. It grows quickly into sturdy shapely plants about four feet high, which produce a profusion of large trusses of good sized florets. These open a creamy white, and quickly becomes pure white in the full sun.

Its superior merits have been commented on by all who have seen it, and we confidently proclaim it the best white Canna yet introduced.

Strong 2-eye divisions, 30c each, $3.00 per dozen, $20.00 per 100.

ORANGE BEDDER

A particularly attractive vigorous growing variety, of a bright scarlet orange, of peculiar dazzling intensity. The flowers are produced very freely, creating a great mass of color. A bedding variety of extraordinary merit.

Strong 2-eye divisions, 30c each, $3.00 per dozen, $20.00 per 100

Standard Varieties of Cannas at Special Prices

We have completed the cleaning of our Cannas, and the inventory shows, that we have a number of excellent sorts: some of them recent introductions, in particularly large quantities.

The list is an excellent one, comprising sorts of practically every shade, and all distinctly different from each other.

We offer these 20 varieties at $2.00 per 100; $15.00 per 1000, for immediate delivery and subject to being unsold on receipt of order.

No order accepted for less than 100, at this special price.
